LONDON (By Cable).—It had been learned that the peace reports which have been in circulation were founded on the fact that President Kruger had appealed to Lord Salisbury for a cessation of hostilities, offering, at length, by cable, the terms which he is willing to accept.

Official circles here regard the proposition as merely a ruse of the Boers to gain time and do not consider that President Kruger is yet ready to consider the sweeping demands which Great Britain will make as reimbursement for the loss of life and great expenditure.

It is understood that President Kruger's advances met with an emphatic rejection at the hands of Lord Salisbury, who, it is believed, said that no such attempt to maintain the independence of the Transvaal could be considered for a moment by the British Government.

FOUR KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Blasting Powder Works at Pompton, N. J., Blown to Pieces.

POMPTON, N. J. (Special).—Four persons were killed, one was badly injured, and four buildings were blown to pieces by an explosion in the fuse-testing room of the H. Julius Smith Blasting Explosive Works in Wanaque avenue. The dead are: John Rhoda, William Cadmus, William H. Talmage and John Merritt, a boy.

The shock of the explosion was felt six miles away. In the village it broke many windows and otherwise damaged property.

EDWARD J. PHELPS DEAD.

Eminent Lawyer and Scholar Expires at His Home in New Haven.

His Many Public Services—He Was Minister to Great Britain and Served on Important Commissions.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (Special).—The Hon. Edward J. Phelps, former Minister to Great Britain, died at his home on Humphrey street after an illness of about two months. The end was peaceful, and for several hours before he passed away he was unconscious. There were present at the bedside his wife, his son Charles, of Boston; his daughter, Mrs. Horatio Loomis, of New York, and his physician.

PROFESSOR EDWARD J. PHELPS.

The remains were taken to Burlington, Vt., for interment.

Edward John Phelps came of ancestors famous for their legal learning and prominence in American political life. Edward Phelps, a representative to the General Court of Connecticut in 1744, was his great-grandfather; John Phelps, a Revolutionary soldier, his grandfather, and Samuel S. Phelps, United States Senator from Vermont, his father.

Professor Phelps was born on July 11, 1822, at Middlebury, Vt., was graduated at Middlebury College in the Class of 1840; studied law at Yale and afterward with Horatio Seymour was admitted to the bar in Middlebury in 1843, and at the age of twenty-one began his professional career in his native town. He left Middlebury two years later for Bennington, Vt., and in 1851 entered upon his first public office, that of Second Controller of the Treasury, which he held to the close of President Fillmore's administration.

In 1870 he was a delegate to the Vermont Constitutional Convention, and received the degree of Doctor of Laws from his Alma Mater. In 1877 he presided over the centennial ceremonies of the battle of Bennington. Three years later he was nominated by the Democrats for Governor of Vermont, and defeated. He was then President of the American Bar Association, before which he delivered an address on "Justice Marshall and the Constitutional Law of His Time."

In 1881 he became Kent Professor of Law at Yale, and in succeeding years reaped fresh laurels by his scholarship. In 1882 he lectured before the Boston University law students on Constitutional law. He also wrote extensively on Constitutional and international law. In 1885 he was appointed by President Cleveland Minister Plenipotentiary to Great Britain. Professor Phelps held his post four years. He not only made warm friends of many distinguished British publicists, but succeeded in creditably safeguarding American interests.

Mr. Phelps reached home in February, 1889, and went to Vermont to rest. In October, 1890, he was defeated for the United States Senate by Senator Morrill. Next year he made a stirring speech at the unveiling of the Bennington Battle Monument. In 1893 rumor selected him for Mr. Cleveland's second Cabinet. Instead he served as senior counsel for the United States Government in the Court of Arbitration over the Bering Sea controversy. Overwork caused him to break down and he was forced to rest again.

In March, 1896, before the Brooklyn Institute, Mr. Phelps condemned President Cleveland's famous message on the Venezuelan case. Later, when the Venezuelan Arbitration Commission was named, he was appointed one of its members.

ACCUSED OF GOEBEL'S MURDER.

One Kentuckian in Custody and Warrants Issued For Others.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (Special).—W. H. Coulton, a clerk in the office of State Auditor Sweeney, was arrested and placed in jail charged with complicity in the murder of William Goebel. The arrest was made by Chief of Police Williams.

Warrants were also issued for the arrest of Secretary of State Caleb Powers and Captain John W. Davis, policeman of the State Capitol Square. The warrants charge them also with being accessories to the Goebel assassination, and warrants against ex-Secretary of State Charles Finley and John T. Powers, brother of Secretary of State Powers, were sworn out and sent to Whitley County for service.

Several witnesses who testified at the trial of Harlan Whittaker Tuesday swore that the shots at the time of the Goebel assassination were fired from the direction of Powers's office, and he and all of the parties for whom the warrants were issued have been under the strictest surveillance ever since the assassination.

A FORTUNE FOR A HORSE.

M. Blanc Pays $196,875 For Flying Fox, a Thoroughbred Racer.

LONDON (By Cable).—Flying Fox, son of Orme-Vampire, and the peer of England's thoroughbred racers, was sold at public auction for $196,875, the largest price ever paid for a race horse. Monsieur E. Blanc, millionaire Frenchman, and son of the founder of Monte Carlo, was the successful bidder.

Flying Fox was entered in the sale of the late Duke of Westminster's string of race horses. The sale was in many respects the most notable of its kind in the annals of the turf. Long before the time announced for the beginning of the sale the stables at Kingsclere was a scene of the greatest animation.

Flying Fox was the winner of the 1899 Derby, the Two Thousand Guineas, the Eclipse Stakes and the Doncaster St. Leger. He is a four-year-old. Ormonde, his grandsire, was sold six years ago to Mr. McDonough, of San Francisco, for $150,000.

Killed in His Own Death Trap.

William Pierce, a farmer, of De Soto, Mo., set a death trap with a shotgun for thieves who had been robbing his corn crib a few days ago. He forgot about the trap and opening the door of the crib received the full contents of the gun in the abdomen. He died soon after.

Five Thousand Persons Saw Him Hanged.

Anthony Hopkins was hanged at Beaumont, Tex., in the presence of 5000 persons, many of them women. He killed Paul Hurst in 1895 and was acquitted. Then he killed his wife, and for this crime was hanged.

INVISIBLE RIFLE PITS.

BOERS VERIFYING PREDICTIONS MADE AT THE PEACE CONGRESS.

M. Bloch Was Laughed at When He Said That the Next War Would Be Fought on Lines Like Those Used by the Dutch Farmers—An Astonishing Forecast.

All the correspondents present at the Modder, at Stromberg and at Magersfontein are agreed that the Boer intrenchments were invisible; and the absolute failure of the intelligence department in the last two battles is notorious. M. Bloch predicted this at the recent peace congress at the Hague and was laughed at as a theorist for his pains. He laid stress on what he calls "long ignorance of the enemy's position, and much search, resulting in serious loss, before the true position of affairs was ascertained." As authority for this, he quotes a French writer, the author of "La Poudre sans Fumee," a work which attracted great interest some years ago. A fortnight ago this passage might have excited derision. Today it reads as if cut out of a special correspondent's description of the defeats at Stromberg and Magersfontein. The passage is so astonishing a forecast that it is worth quoting in full:

"Having no means of precisely judging our position, the enemy will be constrained to advance toward us in marching columns in order to deploy immediately on the discovery of our lines. But where shall he gain information? He will be struck by artillery fire from a great distance, and the position of the enemy will be almost impossible to determine precisely. He will neither hear nor see enough for his purposes, and thus he may apply in a peculiar sense the words of the Scripture. 'Eyes they have and they see not, ears they have and they hear not.' Reconnaissances and other means may be employed to determine the position of the enemy, but after these have been made changes in their disposition may have taken place, and basing his operations on information thus obtained, an enemy may fire on unoccupied points and waste his ammunition, firing, as is said, 'at the sparrows.'"

This "firing at the sparrows" was exactly what took place at Stormberg, where, we are told, the British infantry was so totally unable to locate the Boer positions, even after the enemy had opened fire, that their "confused and ill-directed" fire was wasted upon the nearest hills.

It is no exaggeration to say that if the recent fighting be judged by the contention of the extreme foreign advocates of reformed tactics, it must appear that the reverses resulted from the very nature of things and not from the application of obsolete methods of battle.

It is interesting, in conclusion, to make some remarks upon the contentions of the most noted of foreign theorists in recent times. M. Bloch declares that the present war has justified his contentions in every possible respect, and that the opposite view which obtains here is based on imperfect knowledge. In view of the fact that the greater number of these conclusions have never been noticed in England, it is worth while giving a full summary, as far as they relate to tactics, from the original, unabridged edition:

1. That the moral superiority of attack would be more than counterbalanced by the tremendous accession of strength to the defenders, which results from improved smallarms.

2. That battles would seldom be decisive.

3. That the victors would not be in a position to pursue, and that the retreating force would fall back on new positions a few miles to the rear and intrench themselves.

4. That infantry will be prostrated after battle and not in a position to carry success home.

5. That frontal attacks would be impossible without great superiority of numbers.

6. That night marches and night attacks would have to be resorted to.

7. That intrenchments properly adapted to modern fire would be invisible.

8. That troops on the defensive would be more likely to surprise than to be surprised.

9. That the future war would be a war of sieges and intrenched positions.

10. That invisible sharpshooters would mow down hundreds.

11. That an abortive attack would lead to the attacker intrenching himself and the exchange of roles.

12. That ambulance work would be carried on under almost impossible conditions owing to long range fire which would lead to accusations of violations of the Red Cross.

13. That satisfactory reconnaisance would be much more difficult than formerly. M. Bloch declared that only infantry could reconnoitre successfully.

14. That the loss in officers would be disproportionate.

15. That troops could only advance along railway lines.

16. That with equal resolution war would last longer than in the past.

17. That turning movements with immense numerical superiority would be the only means of gaining victories.

Not one of these contentions has been refuted by the course of the fighting so far. The great majority have been more or less justified. Of these, the 3rd, 7th, 8th, 11th, 13th and 15th have been shown to be strikingly true. That they will be confirmed by future operations may be doubtful, but there can be no question of their applicability to the history of the last three weeks.

"DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP."

A Statement as to the Origin of One of the Famous Battle Sayings.

The office of the iconoclast is on the whole a rather undesirable one, and the question whether faith or truth is the more valuable possession to the human soul is still open for discussion. These thoughts occurred while reading an article in the Courant entitled "Famous Battle Sayings."

But the phrase "Don't give up the ship," therein attributed to the dying Lawrence, is now so firmly imbedded in our naval history that the props which support its truth can probably be knocked away without any fear of serious injury to the superstructure of faith. There is no doubt that the phrase was spoken and whether by Lawrence or another, whether on the deck of a ship or in the room of an editor, perhaps are not, when properly considered, matters of serious moment. I venture therefore on a reminiscence.

Somewhat more than fifty years ago it happened to me to meet, at the house of a mutual friend, a daughter of the late Major Benjamin Russell, for many years editor of the Boston Centinel. She was a bright interesting woman and a brilliant raconteur and she told me a number of anecdotes of her late father, who was a strongly individualized and notable character for many years. Among them was the following:

The battle between the Chesapeake and the Shannon took place just off the Massachusetts coast and a sailor in some way got ashore and hurried to Boston with the news. It was in the night and he went straight to the Centinel office, where he found Major Russell, to whom he told the story, including the death of Lawrence. "What were his last words?" said the major. "Don't know," said the man. "Didn't he say, 'Don't give up the ship?'" "Don't know," said the man. "Oh, he did," said the major; "I'll make him say it"—and so he did—so much for history.—Hartford (Conn.) Courant.

QUAINT AND CURIOUS.

Just when the day became divided into hours is not known, nor is the process explained. The Greeks and Romans measured time by the water glass and the sun dials. The hour-glass, filled with sand, was the outgrowth of these vessels, from which the water dripped through tiny openings.

A mastiff was trained to assist thieves in Paris. It was in the habit of bounding against old gentlemen and knocking them over in the street. A "lady" and "gentleman"—owners of the dog—would then step forward to assist the unfortunate pedestrian to rise, and while doing so would ease him of his watch and purse.

Why are dignitaries deafened by a salute when they visit a foreign port? It seems a curious sort of welcome, this firing off of guns, but it seems the custom arose in a very reasonable way. Originally, a town or a warship fired off their guns on the approach of important and friendly strangers to show that they had such faith in the visitors' peaceful intentions they didn't think it necessary to keep their guns loaded.

Jerry S. Rogers, a cowboy, who has recently been in New Mexico, brought back with him to Waco, Texas, a mummified bat, much larger than the species commonly seen flitting around buildings or occupying dark recesses in Texas. The bat, although very much withered by time, measured 15 inches from tip to tip of the wings, and is almost the same length from the tip of his nose to the end of his hind feet. He has very long ears, in proportion to the body, and toes that would enable him to grasp a stick an inch in diameter. Mr. Rogers was exploring among the old ruins of the dwellings of Pueblo Indians, and, entering a shallow grotto, he found the bat on a ledge.

The captain of the bark Silicon, which recently arrived at New York City from the Arctic regions, reports finding a deserted Russian ship of old-fashioned pattern. He and some of the members of the crew of the Silicon boarded the ship, and found the hatches battened down and the doors fastened. They forced an entry and discovered that the vessel had a cargo of furs in fine condition, while the log and letters on board stated that the vessel had been abandoned in 1848. The supposition is that the vessel had reached high latitudes, and having been frozen in by icebergs ever since, had only just thawed out. The captain possesses many interesting relics brought from the vessel.

A curious condition of affairs exists in the English town of Dalton-le-Dale, near Sunderland, the discovery having been made by the authorities that all of the marriages performed in the ancient parish church since 1877 are of questionable legality. In that year a new church was built in the town and all the rights and privileges were transferred to it, thus leaving no license for the solemnization of marriage to the older church. No one seems to have thought anything of the matter until recently, when the registrar-general called the vicar's attention to it. It is thought probable that Parliament will be called upon to pass a special act to legalize the 300 marriages performed since 1877.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MARCH 18.

Subject: Jesus at Matthew's House, Mark ii., 13-22—Golden Text: Luke v., The Memory Verses, 15-17—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

13. It is supposed that the call of Matthew followed soon after the healing of the paralytic. See last lesson. "By the seaside." He may have gone there for room, as He could clearly see that no house was of sufficient size to accommodate the great crowds that desired to see and hear Him. This must have been near Capernaum, "where there was probably a suburb of fisher's huts and custom-houses." "He taught them." Jesus was always busily engaged.

14. "Levi." The same as Matthew. He was a Jew, and he calls himself a publican (Matt. 10:3), or tax-gatherer, an office which was very odious to the Jewish people. The son of Alpheus. Henry thinks Levi, James and Lebbeus, Jude and Simon, the Canaanite, were brothers, but Lange and others think differently. The receipt of custom. Toll-house, or custom-house. It was a busy center of merchandise—the landing-place of many ships and a natural place for the collection of tribute and taxes. There were two classes of publicans, the common tax gatherer and the custom-house official. Levi was of the latter class, but was no less odious to the Jews because of that. "Follow me." It is supposed that Matthew had been influenced by John's preaching, and had heard Jesus on other occasions, but as he was a publican, he dared not hope for personal recognition—far less for a call to discipleship, and when it came he waited not for a second call, but immediately left his custom-house, "arose and followed Him." Our Lord calls men from all classes and conditions of life.

15. "Sat at meat in his house." This was soon after the call. The feast (Luke 5:29) was made to show his thankfulness to God for his remarkable deliverance from the old custom-house. "He also wished to introduce his friends and old companions to Christ." "Many publicans." Those, probably, who belonged to his custom-house. According to Jewish traditionalism the publican was, 1. An excommunicated person. 2. An apostate. 3. An instrument of oppression. 4. A stumbling-block and a by-word. The Jews who were employed by the Romans to collect taxes were notoriously corrupt and belonged to the lowest classes, for no others would accept the position. "And sinners." The openly wicked. Perhaps, as Dr. Clarke thinks, the word here may mean the Gentile heathen. "They followed Him." That is, Jesus. "They had not for conscience sake left all to follow Him," but they had come to the feast and through the influence of Levi were being won over to Him.

16. "When the scribes and Pharisees." They would not believe in Christ themselves, and were always trying to hinder others. The self-righteous Pharisee considered it equal to legal defilement to sit in company with tax-gatherers and heathens. It shows the spirit of independence on the part of our Lord to thus violate their traditions. "Jesus desired to save men and He knew He must mingle with them. But this should not be carried too far. Dr. Clarke well says "It is certain that those who fear God should not associate, through choice, with the workers of iniquity, and should only be found with them when business requires it, or when there is a prospect of doing good to their souls." "How is it." They were evidently endeavoring to influence the disciples against Jesus.

17. "When Jesus heard it." Jesus is ready for them; He can answer their cavilling. "They that are whole." You scribes and Pharisees consider yourselves whole! You are, in your own estimation, righteous persons; you do not need a physician; you do not need My counsel and advice, and the salvation I bring; but these publicans and sinners—these outcasts—know they are sick, they know they are the worst of sinners, and I came to call and save them. So Jesus meets and silences them. Notice that Christ represents Himself as the Physician for soul and body. "To repentance." These words are omitted in the Revised Version. It is true, however, that all who come to Christ must repent. There must be such heartfelt contrition for sins committed that the soul will loathe and forsake them. True repentance is wrought in the heart by the Holy Spirit.

18. "Used to fast." In the law we find only one fast-day enjoined, namely, the tenth of the seventh month, on which the national, annual atonement was made. But the Jews, of their own accord, observed many other days of fasting (see Isa. 58:3), and in our Lord's time the Pharisees fasted twice a week. They were surprised to find Him overlooking this duty. The Pharisees fasted in order to have lucky dreams and to obtain things they greatly desired. It seems very probable that this very day, when Jesus and His disciples were feasting, was one of their fast days, and this fact seemed to aggravate the offense. "But Thy disciples fast not." Jesus not only offended them by eating with publicans and sinners, but by eating at all.

19. "Jesus said unto them." He proceeds now with three familiar illustrations, by means of which He justifies His disciples in the course they were taking, and at the same time brings out some very important truths. "While the Bridegroom is with them." This was not a proper time to fast. His disciples were then in the first flush of enjoyment in their new-found Lord, and while He was with them there was no occasion for fasting. "Marriage feasts were times of extraordinary festivity," and Jesus tells them that His disciples now are enjoying, and rightly too, just such a feast.

20. "The days will come." It is impossible to formulate rules to meet each individual case. The days would come when His disciples would fast, but not now. "Away from them." He would leave them after a time. "In those days." Of calamity and darkness that are coming, then it will be proper to fast. Fasting is good, but to make a merit of it or even to burden the conscience with it, is opposed to spiritual freedom. It is spiritual pride when, in matters which God has left to our freedom, people desire that others should regulate their piety by their rules.

21. "On an old garment." Instead of closing the rent the new patch would only make the rent larger. He had given them one reason why His disciples did not fast and now He proceeds to give another. They are not prepared for it. It is not proper to lay such rigorous commands upon them. To impose such duties as are not absolutely necessary to salvation upon the weak and newly converted, before God has properly prepared the heart by His grace for those duties, is as ruinous as putting a piece of new cloth on an old garment.

22. "New wine into old bottles." Bottles made of leather. See R. V. If new wine were put into old wine-skins, the violence of the fermentation would burst them and all would be destroyed. The point of the figure is that the Jewish system was now becoming old and ready to vanish away (Heb. 8:13), and Christ was about to replace it by something new.

Centralia (Mo.) has a flourishing organization known as the "Backbone Club." It has neither sign, grip nor password, a local paper says, but every member must sign a pledge that he will not use tobacco during 1900. The rules provide that if any member shall break his pledge he must wear on the lapel of his coat a badge bearing in large letters the words: "I Have No Backbone."

ELECTION to-day and we hope that every Populist will turn out and vote for the man he thinks will best fill the office. There is good material to select from, and it is the plain duty of every man to cast a vote for one candidate or the other. Turn out and vote!

HON. John D Roquemore, candidate for the U. S. Senate, died at his home in Montgomery on Monday morning after a short illness. He had a fine reputation as a gentleman and lawyer, but his candidacy for the senate was overshadowed by Johnston and Morgan.

HON. W. F. Aldrich has commenced his new legislative career by introducing a bill to punish offenses against the elective franchise. He has also introduced a bill to require contestees in contested election cases to give bond to the United States in the sum of $10,000. It is further provided that whenever a contest shall have been decided against a member he shall pay back whatever sum he has received for his services as a member.

The Mississippi legislature has passed a primary election bill, which provides that there shall be a uniform system of primary elections to be held throughout the state on the same day and for all officers from governor down to constable, the expenses of such primary to be borne equally by the candidates participating and the suffrage qualifications as for general elections to prevail.

THE war in South Africa seems to be nearing the end. While it is quite possible that there may yet be some more severe fighting the prospect at present is that the Boers, having lost their original strong positions, will not rally again in such force except perhaps for one final effort, and this the British force under Lord Roberts' command is certainly able to squash. The British troops are now occupying Bloomfontein, the capital of the Orange Free State, and Presidents Kruger and Steyn have made a proposition, through the mediation of the United States government, for peace, but the proposition was of such a nature the British government could not accept it.

Those who are acquainted with the whole of the South African business know that this present war was made possible by the mistaken magnanimity of Gladstone, and it is not to be expected that the same mistake of allowing the Transvaal and the Orange Free State a perfectly free hand to carry on their preparations for another bloody war a few years hence will be foolishly indulged by the present British government. The peace of the world has been jeopardised by the arrogant pretensions of the Boers, and although the final outcome of the struggle was never doubted by well posted persons, the magnificent consolidation of the British Empire could not better have been exploited. Since the world began there has been no such expression of patriotism displayed as that shown by the component parts of the British Empire.

LEE HAYES.

The announcement of Mr. Lee Hayes for the Sheriff's office is not a surprise to his friends as it has been well known for some time past that he intended to enter the race Mr. Hayes made a fine record as sheriff during the term he served from 1888 to 1892 and the experience he then gained makes him a pre-eminently valuable candidate. He is so well known in Chilton county that it is almost superfluous to say he has a large number of friends who anticipate seeing him elected, and who declare that if he is elected he will make the county a valuable and efficient officer. In submitting himself to the Democratic primary Mr. Hayes has the assurance of a goodly following.

J. H. JOHNSON.

A strong and healthy, energetic young man is Mr. J. H. Johnson of Beat 8, whose announcement for the sheriff's office will be found in another column. For twelve years he has been a resident of Chilton county, and for four years of that time he has been constable of Beat 8, the duties of which office are along the line of those of the sheriff's office. Mr. Johnson is a member of the Baptist church, a man of fine moral character and good habits, alert and resourceful, and these qualities render him eminently qualified to fill the office to which he aspires if elected, with credit to himself and the county. He has always supported the Democratic ticket, and now submits his claims to the Democratic primary.

J. E. McCULLOUGH.

This gentleman announces his candidacy for the office of Tax Assessor. He is a well known man in Beat 8, not to mention other parts of this county, in which he has made his home for fifteen years. In 1892 he was elected Justice of the Peace in his beat and has given much satisfaction in that office which he still holds. Mr. McCullough has been a member of the Baptist church for twenty years. He has good business qualifications which will be dilligently applied to the work of the Assessor's office if he is elected. The duties of the assessor are arduous and exacting and require much time and careful consideration and this Mr. McCullough proposes to give to the utmost of his power.

G. L. SPEER.

Prof. G. L. Speer, of Kincheon, announces his candidacy for the important position of County Superintendent of Education. In the course of a conversation with the Professor he remarked that he was not urged to enter the race by his friends, he was a candidate because he knew what the duties of the office were, and he felt fully capable of carrying them out in an efficient manner. This was due to the Professor's modesty. He has many friends who will be glad to learn he has decided to offer his services to the people. As an educator of many years experience he has earned a high reputation, and all who know him are confident that if he is elected he will make a popular and valuable superintendent.

Senator Marion Butler, chairman of the People's Party National Executive Committee, writing in the Form, attempts in an answer to the assertion now frequently made that the People's party is disentegrating. Senator Butler declairs, on the other hand, that the national convention of the party will be held as early as April or May next and will nominate candidates for President and Vice-President. As an explanation of the fact that the party has not grown rapidly as an organization, Senator Butler directs attention to the history of the Democratic party since 1892, showing that the principles of the People's party were forced upon the Democrats at Chicago in 1896, and that the adoption of the Democratic platform of that year and the candidacy of Mr. Bryan could have no other effect than to check temporarily the growth of the People's party as an organization. Senator Butler holds that the People's party platform contains the only sure remedy for the trust evil. "Should the Democratic party fail to advance and to keep pace with the demands of commerce and civilization, should it again become simply a party of negation, as it has too often been the past, the People's party in the next election would poll over 6,000,000 votes."

Rev. W. E. Sitzer, W. Caton, N. Y., writes. "I had dyspepsia over twenty years, and tried doctors and medicine without benefit. Editor BANNER:—Allow me space to say a few words about Brother T. J. Hubbard. Why not elect him again for tax collector? Ain't he been in the office for four long years? An't he settled up with the county to the very last cent? What more can Mr. Hubbard do? And what we do and say is vote for Mr. Hubbard. There is no use for a man to say vote for a better man, for there is no better man. He is a straight Pop.

I am sorry to see so many candidates running for office. Shoot your votes and elect this man I am speaking about, and for the others I have nothing to say, only for sheriff, Mr. Harris is my man. He is a good, free hearted man and an honest one. I hope you all will vote for the right man and make a good aim and hit the spot.

Yours truly

Clanton, March 5, 1900

Editor BANNER—I want to say a few words in behalf of my friend and brother, M. A. Kilgore, as he is a candidate for Sheriff. I know of a truth that the party can't get a better man for the office. I have known him for the last twenty years, lived a neighbor for a long time. I find him alright in everything. He is a devoted christian gentlemen, a deacon of the Baptist church. I think it is the duty of the people to elect Bro Kilgore for more than one reason; first, because they can't beat it; 2d, because he was defeated before and acted the man clear through.

I am sorry some one has circulated the news that he has come down. Surely someone is uneasy. I assure all that if Bro. Kilgore is elected he will endeavor to discharge every duty. Brothers and friends, stick to the one that has staid in the middle of the road all the time. Bro. Kilgore is a devoted husband and father, and an industrious man.

I hope all will go to the polls the 15th and give the brother your support. A friend to justice and success to the Banner. Your Bro and friend W. S. COX.

Help Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES of LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

THE JAIL KILLING.

We have received the following communications which explain themselves and we are glad to publish them.

Most assuredly there was no intention to cast the least reflection upon Justice Strock or any of the good people of Verbena. It was currently reported on the streets of Clanton that the negro was innocent, although none seemed to be acquainted with the particulars of his arrest, and the mistake probably arose from the fact that it was first stated his name was Don Jenkins, and this was the name given him in all the daily newspaper reports of the killing.

Verbena, March 10, 1900

Editor Banner. In refering to the negro, Bill Thomas, who was killed by Campbell in jail, in this weeks Banner—your comment "Thomas, who it is generally said is innocent of the burglary with which he was charged," seems to me might cast some reflection on our Justice of the Peace, W. H. Strock, as well as other citizens of Verbena.

The facts are the negro confessed to the crime (the evidence was positive even had he not confessed) we know he had an accomplice—he acknowledged to this, yet he shielded the other rascal and he is yet unknown.

Yours truly,
H. B. OLIVER,

Verbena, March 10, 1900

Editor Banner. I see in your paper of the 8th that you say, "A coffin was procured for the body of the unfortunate negro, Thomas, who it is generally said is innocent of the burglary with which he was charged," etc.

What does that imply? Who did you hear say that he was innocent of the burglary with which he was charged? What do they know of the testimony?

There seems to be an insinuation that the negro was committed without evidence or that some one testified falsely against him.

The negro was arrested publicly, near the stores in Verbena. No threat of violence was made against him. The witnesses were present and he seeing that he had been trapped, voluntarily confessed that he stood outside and watched while another negro went into the house and got the money.

Respectfully,
W. H. STROCK.

Clanton, Ala., March 14, 1900

Editor Banner. As there was a mistake published in the last issue of the Banner, I desire to correct the same by the following facts:

When John B. Campbell was brought to Clanton, he was brought for the purpose of making application for his admission into the Insane Hospital, and as there was no where to safely keep him, except in the county jail, his uncle, James Dubose, and his father-in-law, S. L. Arledge, who brought him to Clanton, insisted that he be lodged in the county jail until he could be sent to the Insane Hospital, but he was refused to be received into the jail without a criminal charge being prefered against him, whereupon his brother, J. B. Campbell, made affidavit, before the Judge of the County Court, against him, charging him with an assault with an axe. The Sheriff being absent, the warrant for Campbell's arrest was placed in my hands, as special Deputy, for execution, and he was committed to jail by me.

Campbell's said uncle, James Dubose, requested that a fire be made for Campbell, as he seemed to be cold. I made a fire in the stove which is in the north east corner of the jail, and then locked the jail and started out, when said Dubose remarked that he (Campbell) might burn himself with the stove, and asked that he be placed where he could not get to the stove. I then returned and put Campbell in the cell next to the stove, but the door to the cell could not be fastened, for the reason that the lock to the said door was hanging to the staple, locked, and thus preventing the hasp on the door from passing over the staple.

After repeated efforts were made by myself, A. C. Smith, and Miss Sallie Cooley, to unlock the said lock had failed, I, seeing no other way to fasten the door, stepped outside the jail and found a front hound of a wagon, with which I securely propped the door of the cell, by placing one end of the piece of timber against the wall of the jail and the other end against the door of the cell, and which remained thus fastened, so I am informed by Miss Sallie Cooley, until said prop was removed by those who carried said Campbell his dinner on that day. J. W. FOSTER.

ELECTION to-day and we hope that every Populist will turn out and vote for the man he thinks will best fill the office. There is good material to select from, and it is the plain duty of every man to cast a vote for one candidate or the other. Turn out and vote!

HON. John D. Roquemore, candidate for the U. S. Senate, died at his home in Montgomery on Monday morning after a short illness. He had a fine reputation as a gentleman and lawyer, but his candidacy for the senate was overshadowed by Johnston and Morgan.

HON. W. F. Aldrich has commenced his new legislative career by introducing a bill to punish offenses against the elective franchise. He has also introduced a bill to require contestees in contested election cases to give bond to the United States in the sum of $10,000. It is further provided that whenever a contest shall have been decided against a member he shall pay back whatever sum he has received for his services as a member.

The Mississippi legislature has passed a primary election bill, which provides that there shall be a uniform system of primary elections to be held throughout the state on the same day and for all officers from governor down to constable, the expenses of such primary to be borne equally by the candidates participating and the suffrage qualifications as for general elections to prevail.

THE war in South Africa seems to be nearing the end. While it is quite possible that there may yet be some more severe fighting the prospect at present is that the Boers, having lost their original strong positions, will not rally again in such force except perhaps for one final effort, and this the British force under Lord Roberts' command is certainly able to squash. The British troops are now occupying Bloomfontein, the capital of the Orange Free State, and Presidents Kruger and Steyn have made a proposition, through the mediation of the United States government, for peace, but the proposition was of such a nature the British government could not accept it.

Those who are acquainted with the whole of the South African business know that this present war was made possible by the mistaken magnanimity of Gladstone, and it is not to be expected that the same mistake of allowing the Transvaal and the Orange Free State a perfectly free hand to carry on their preparations for another bloody war a few years hence will be foolishly indulged by the present British government. The peace of the world has been jeopardised by the arrogant pretensions of the Boers, and although the final outcome of the struggle was never doubted by well posted persons, the magnificent consolidation of the British Empire could not better have been exploited. Since the world began there has been no such expression of patriotism displayed as that shown by the component parts of the British Empire.

LEE HAYES.

The announcement of Mr. Lee Hayes for the Sheriff's office is not a surprise to his friends as it has been well known for some time past that he intended to enter the race. Mr. Hayes made a fine record as sheriff during the term he served from 1888 to 1892 and the expetience he then gained makes him a pre-eminently valuable candidate. He is so well known in Chilton county that it is almost superfluous to say he has a large number of friends who anticipate seeing him elected, and who declare that if he is elected he will make the county a valuable and efficient officer. In submitting himself to the Democratic primary Mr. Hayes has the assurance of a goodly following.

J. H. JOHNSON.

A strong and healthy, energetic young man is Mr. J. H. Johnson of Beat 8, whose announcement for the sheriff's office will be found in another column. For twelve years he has been a resident of Chilton county, and for four years of that time he has been constable of Beat 8, the duties of which office are along the line of those of the sheriff's office. Mr. Johnson is a member of the Baptist church, a man of fine moral character and good habits, alert and resourceful, and these qualities render him eminently qualified to fill the office to which he aspires if elected, with credit to himself and the county. He has always supported the Democratic ticket, and now submits his claims to the Democratic primary.

J. E. McCULLOUGH.

This gentleman announces his candidacy for the office of Tax Assessor. He is a well known man in Beat 8, not to mention other parts of this county, in which he has made his home for fifteen years. In 1892 he was elected Justice of the Peace in his beat and has given much satisfaction in that office which he still holds. Mr. McCullough has been a member of the Baptist church for twenty years. He has good business qualifications which will be dilligently applied to the work of the Assessor's office if he is elected. The duties of the assessor are arduous and exacting and require much time and careful consideration and this Mr. McCullough proposes to give to the utmost of his power.

G. L. SPEER.

Prof. G. L. Speer, of Kincheon, announces his candidacy for the important position of County Superintendent of Education. In the course of a conversation with the Professor he remarked that he was not urged to enter the race by his friends, he was a candidate because he knew what the duties of the office were, and he felt fully capable of carrying them out in an efficient manner. This was due to the Professor's modesty. He has many friends who will be glad to learn he has decided to offer his services to the people. As an educator of many years experience he has earned a high reputation, and all who know him are confident that if he is elected he will make a popular and valuable superintendent,

Senator Marion Butler, chairman of the People's Party National Executive Committee, writing in the Form, attempts in an answer to the assertion now frequently made that the Pepple's party is disentegrating. Senator Butler declairs, on the other hand, that the national convention of the party will be held as early as April or May next and will nominate candidates for President and Vice-President. As an explanation of the fact that the party has not grown rapidly as an organization, Senator Butler directs attention to the history of the Democratic party since 1852, showing that the principles of the People's party were forced upon the Democrats at Chicago in 1896, and that the adoption of the Democratic platform of that year and the candidacy of Mr. Bryan could have no other effect than to check temporarily the growth of the People's party as an organization. Senator Butler holds that the People's party platform contains the only sure remedy for the trust evil. "Should the Democratic party fail to advance and to keep pace with the demands of commerce and civilization, should it again become simply a party of negation, as it has too often been the past, the People's party in the next election would poll over 6,000,000 votes."

Rev. W. E. Sitzer, W. Caton, N. Y., writes. "I had dyspepsia over twenty years, and tried doctors and medicine without benefit. I was persuaded to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it helped me from the start. I believe it to be a panacea for all forms of indigestion." It digests what you eat. J. B. Downs.

Active, March 8, 1900.

Editor BANNER—Allow me space to say a few words about Brother T. J. Hubbard. Why not elect him again for tax collector? Ain't he been in the office for four long years? Ain't he settled up with the county to the very last cent? What more can Mr. Hubbard do? And what we do and say is vote for Mr. Hubbard. There is no use for a man to say vote for a better man, for there is no better man. He is a straight Pop.

I am sorry to see so many candidates running for office. Shoot your votes and elect this man I am speaking about, and for the others I have nothing to say, only for sheriff, Mr. Harris is my man. He a good, free hearted man and an honest one. I hope you all will vote for the right man and make a good run and hit the spot.

Yours truly.
W. E. JOSIS.

Clanton, March 5, 1900

Editor BANNER—I want to say a few words in behalf of my friend and brother, M. A. Kilgore, as he is a candidate for Sheriff. I know of a truth that the party can't get a better man for the office. I have known him for the last twenty years, lived a neighbor for a long time. I find him alright in everything. He is a devoted christian gentlemen, a deacon of the Baptist church. I think it is the duty of the people to elect Bro Killgore for more than one reason; first, because they can't beat it; 2d, because he was defeated before and acted the man clear through.

I am sorry some one has circulated the news that he has come down. Surely someone is uneasy. I assure all that if Bro. Killgore is elected he will endeavor to discharge every duty. Brothers and friends, stick to the one that has staid in the middle of the road all the time. Bro. Killgore is a devoted husband and father, and an industrious man.

I hope all will go to the polls the 15th and give the brother your support. A friend to justice and success to the Banner. Your Bro and friend W. S. Cox.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

THE JAIL KILLING.

We have received the following communications which explain themselves and we are glad to publish them.

Most assuredly there was no intention to cast the least reflection upon Justice Strock or any of the good people of Verbena. It was currently reported on the streets of Clanton that the negro was innocent, although none seemed to be acquainted with the particulars of his arrest, and their mistake probably arose from the fact that it was first stated his name was Dan Jenkins, and this was the name given him in all the daily newspaper reports of the killing.

Editor Banner. In refering to the negro, Bill Thomas, who was killed by Campbell in jail, in this weeks Banner—your comment: "Thomas, who it is generally said is innocent of the burglary with which he was charged," seems to me might cast some reflection on our Justice of the Peace, W. H. Strock, as well as other citizens of Verbena.

The facts are the negro confessed to the crime (the evidence was positive even had he not confessed) we know he had an accomplice—he acknowledged to this, yet he shielded the other rascal and he is yet unknown.

Yours truly,
H. B. OLIVER,

Verbena, March 10, 1900

Editor Banner. I see in your paper of the 8th that you say. "A coffin was procured for the body of the unfortunate negro, Thomas, who it is generally said is innocent of the burglary with which he was charged," etc.

What does that imply? Who did you hear say that he was innocent of the burglary with which he was charged? What do they know of the testimony?

There seems to be an insinuation that the negro was committed without evidence or that some one testified falsely against him.

The negro was arrested publicly, near the stores in Verbena. No threat of violence was made against him. The witnesses were present and he seeing that he had been trapped, voluntarily confessed that he stood outside and watched while another negro went into the house and got the money

Respectfully,
W. H. STROCK.

Clanton, Ala., March 14, 1900

Editor Banner. As there was a mistake published in the last issue of the Banner, I desire to correct the same by the following facts:

When John B. Campbell was brought to Clanton, he was brought for the purpose of making application for his admission into the Insane Hospital, and as there was no where to safely keep him, except in the county jail, his uncle, James Dubose, and his father-in-law, S. L. Arledge, who brought him to Clanton, insisted that he be lodged in the county jail until he could be sent to the Insane Hospital, but he was refused to be received into the jail without a criminal charge being preferred against him, whereupon his brother, J. B. Campbell, made affidavid, before the Judge of the County Court, against Jim, charging him with an assault with an axe. The Sheriff being absent, the warrant for Campbell's arrest was placed in my hands, as special Deputy, for execution, and he was committed to jail by me.

Campbell's said uncle, James Dubose, requested that a fire be made for Campbell, as he seemed to be cold. I made a fire in the stove which is in the north east corner of the jail, and then locked the jail and started out, when said Dubose remarked that he (Campbell) might burn himself with the stove, and asked that he be placed where he could not get to the stove. I then returned and put Campbell in the cell next to the stove, but the door to the cell could not be fastened, for the reason that the lock to the said door was hanging to the staple, locked, and thus preventing the hasp on the door from passing over the staple.

After repeated efforts were made by myself, A. C. Smith, and Miss Sallie Cooley, to unlock the said lock had failed, I, seeing no other way to fasten the door, stepped outside the jail and found a front hound of a wagon, with which I securely propped the door of the cell, by placing one end of the piece of timber against the wall of the jail and the other end against the door of the cell, and which remained thus fastened, so I am informed by Miss Sallie Cooley, until said prop was removed by those who carried said Campbell his dinner on that day. J. W. FOSTER.

POPULIST EXEC. COMMITTEE

The Populist Executive Committee held a called meeting on Thursday, March 8, and endorsed the action of the previous meeting in regard to the qualification of voters in the primary election.

Chairman W. H. Conway tendered his resignation which was accepted, and A. A. Ayers was elected to fill the vacancy.

J. W. Sorrell's resignation as committeeman from Beat 1 was presented and accepted, and J. N. Glasscock elected in his place.

W. H. Shaw tendered his resignation as committeeman from Beat 2, and Ira Campbell elected to fill the vacancy.

J. R. Vinson's resignation was presented as committeeman from Beat 6, and accepted, and A. T. Hathcock elected in his place.

Ben H. Wells tendered his resignation as committeeman from Beat 5, which was accepted, and G. W. Wilson elected in his place.

The Committee then adjourned until Saturday, March 17, 1900, when it will meet to canvass the returns from the primary election and announce the nominees.

Although Free Silver and Bryan went down in defeat, good times came when cotton went up to 7¼ cents; and if they will give us 10 cents for it I will promise better times still.

If you want any evidence of it, come and examine the large stock of all kinds of merchandise, from a baby nursing ring to a 4 horse Florence wagon, that I carry in stock.

For the next 30 days I am going to sell some of it—at my price if I can, at your price if I can't.

I won't say too much for fear I might lie, so invite you all, with your aunts, your uncles, your mother-in-law, and your cousins to come and see. The Imperial Gas Lamp
Covered by U. S. Patents.
Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

THE NATIVES OF GUAM.

BY ENSIGN C. L. POOR, U. S. N.

WHEN, under the most amusingly opera-bouffe conditions ever experienced in modern warfare, the United States steamship Charleston, on June 20, 1898, captured the beautiful but isolated and sleepy old Spanish island colony of Guam, in the western Pacific, the place was governed by a Lieutenant-colonel of the Spanish army, Don Juan Marina, supported by a staff of four army and one naval officers, and a garrison of fifty-four Spanish soldiers, with a native militia of fifty-four men, these latter being armed with old Remington rifles, and organized as artillery crews for four old brass field-guns.

Upon the departure of the Charleston the Spanish officers and soldiers were removed, and the island was left nominally in charge of its leading citizens and the native soldiery.

During all this time the native troops have maintained their organization and discipline, keeping their clothes and equipments clean and in order, posting their sentries, and carrying out their routine—all in a most praiseworthy manner. They are a soldierly, intelligent body of men, and will undoubtedly be a valuable auxiliary to the new marine garrison that has arrived on the United States steamship Yosemite. Their best sphere of usefulness would be as a police force and as rural guards in the outlying villages, thus relieving the marines of this isolated and monotonous duty. The natives of Guam are in pleasing contrast to the Filipinos. Though originally, in great part, from the same stock, they have inherited all of the virtues and few of the vices of these people. There is in the blood of these people a considerable proportion of Spanish, South American, and American stock, the last being due to the whaling-vessels that used to frequent the island in large numbers to obtain fresh water and to recuperate their crews. It is not at all unusual to hear English spoken, even in the interior of the island, and, in fact, it is quite as common as Spanish. In personal appearance the natives resemble the Filipinos, though of a greater stature and more robust, while the hair is not so bristling and porcupine-like, and brown or even blond hair is occasional evidence of the mixture of races. The intelligence, as indicated by their faces, is much more marked than in the natives of the Philippines.

THE CHURCH AND BELFRY AT AGANA.

The women, when young, have well-rounded figures and an excellent carriage, which redeems to a great extent their shortness of stature and consequent tendency to dumpiness. In my long walks about Agana I have noticed many that were very comely and some that were decidedly pretty. As they age they do not become unduly fat, or later on repulsively haggard, as is the case with so many tropical natives.

Their dress is neat and clean, and in their personal habits they are modest and tidy. For the women the costume is a short chemise, or jacket, with low neck and short sleeves. This is made of white material of varying degrees of fineness. For more ceremonial occasions it is embroidered around the neck and upon the sleeves, and is sometimes bordered with lace. It fits closely to the stayless figure. Upon occasions of the greatest importance an elaborate jacket of the beautiful and expensive juna cloth, with flowing sleeves and wide collar, is worn over the chemise. With this is worn a skirt of vari-colored calico or cotton stuff, generally of some bright hue. The feet are usually bare, small heelless slippers of colored leather being occasionally seen. The hair is drawn back from the forehead in a knot, and hats are never worn. In church a white cloth is worn as a veil over the head.

The men dress simply and comfortably, generally in suits of white drilling, such as are common all through the East. The Filipino custom of wearing a white shirt with long and flowing tails is in favor among the poorer natives.

GOVERNOR'S HOUSE, AGANA.

One of the first things evident to us is the decided antipathy of the natives for the Filipinos. There are few of them upon the island, and these are not at all regarded with favor. In truth, they seem to be quite as unruly here as they are in their home, and their qualities make them about the only disturbing element in this peaceful, well-disposed people. The only prisoner in the jail of the place was an ugly-looking Filipino, who had murdered a German trader about a year ago, and was sentenced to a long term of confinement.

The population of Guam is about 7000, mostly of the Malay type. The principal town is Agana, with 5475 inhabitants. There are several Spanish families worth from $20,000 to $50,000.

As to the mental and moral characteristics of our new citizens, all that we know so far is of a favorable nature. They are cleanly, intelligent and peaceable. The great majority of them can read and write, and every village has its school for instruction in the elementary branches. They are modest and very courteous in their deportment, and invariably touch their hats to us when we pass them, and are most generous to visitors.

The worst trait, however, of the citizen of Guam is indolence. Nature is so provident, and so warm and smiling here, that little effort is required to support life and provide sustenance for the family. To pay a native by the day or in advance is a fatal error indeed, for he will work until he has accumulated a few dollars, then buy his wife a new skirt, lay in a supply of canned goods at the store, some tobacco and tuba (cocoanut rum), and then retire to a life of affluent ease for as many months as the money and supplies hold out.

Intoxication is very rare. Men and women alike smoke cigars and pipes, and nearly every one has the unsightly habit of chewing the betel-nut. The native cigar is an object of wonder to the new-comer. It is made from the whole leaf of the native tobacco, which is of most excellent flavor, but very strong and green, rolled into a cylinder about eight inches long, and wound about with threads of fibre to keep it from unwrapping.

With the example of American energy and industry; with advanced education, and with the influences of progress; with a strong and just government and purified religious example and instruction—there opens before the inhabitant of Guam a most promising future; and before us, whose duty it is to plant here a model colony, there lies a most interesting experience and labor, of the ultimate success of which there can be no possible doubt.

Captain Richard P. Leary, of the United States Navy, the naval Governor of the island, is a Baltimorean and a brother of Captain Peter Leary, Jr., of the Fourth United States Artillery, now at Fort McHenry. Captain Leary has had a long and honorable service in the navy. Several years ago the Legislature of Maryland presented him with a gold medal for his courageous service to the Government during the Samoan dispute. At that time he was in command of the American man-of-war Adams. Capt. Leary convoyed the New Orleans, purchased from Brazil, to this country. This ship was used during the war with Spain as a patrol for the New England coast. Although he did not do much damage to the Spaniards, Captain Leary's vessel had the distinction of being the last American boat to be fired upon.

A FAMILY GROUP AT AGANA, GUAM.

Newsboys in New York City.

There are now a number of New York newsboys who, instead of walking from point to point, station themselves at some spot, and instead of walking about, hold that spot. A good illustration of this is seen in the City Hall park in the selling of afternoon papers to people going home to Brooklyn over the bridge, or uptown in Manhattan or the Bronx by way of the elevated railroad from the City Hall station. Many of these boys have regular customers who buy from them regularly.

Perhaps the latest development of specialization in selling newspapers in the street is at the doors of big wholesale houses down town. This is not new, but is done more than before. The boy takes his station outside the door, and if he succeeds he comes to have regular customers, who buy as they leave on their way home. The boy knows their paper and whips it out as they come along, and he may do better concentrating his attention on this stream, so to speak, than he would fishing for a chance fish to be taken between corners pre-empted by venders making it their business to stand day after day on the same spot.

The Worst of All.

Willie—"Just see my new hobby-automobile."

Jack—"That's nothing! Look at this bladeless knife and triggerless rifle."

Alice—"But you should see my pointless story-book. What have you got, papa?"

Papa—"A penniless purse."—Life.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Sweden has ordered forty-seven batteries of the latest artillery. These little countries are learning that they can put up a stiff fight.

With the men all at the front fighting on the kopjes, the Boer women may be forced to harvest the cropjes, and, if the worst comes, to defend their homes with their mopjes.

Connecticut figures from its recent State school census show that it has twenty per cent. more inhabitants than it had in 1890. The population of the country on this basis is 75,150,000.

The metric system of weights and measures is now permitted in Russia, and while it does not supplant the national system already in use, it may be used side by side with it.

A letter carrier in Chicago who, as alleged, incited two small boys to engage in a fight in which one of them seven years old, was so badly injured that he had to be taken to a hospital for treatment, has been sued by the small boy's mother for $10,000 damages.

Through the fear that the fragile and delicate Italian greyhound will become extinct a movement is now on foot in England to establish a club for the improvement of this breed of dog and making them more popular as household pets.

Some of the worst famines of modern times were the famine in Ireland in 1846-7, in which 1,000,000 people perished; the Indian famine of 1866, which claimed 1,450,000 victims; the Indian famine of 1877, in which 500,000 people perished, and the great famine in China in 1878, in which 9,500,000 are said to have died.

Mason City, Iowa, is progressive. The Official Board of the Methodist Church of that city has "resolved" that ladies "be encouraged" to remove their hats during service. Evidently the preachers want to be seen as well as heard. Or is it that the male worshippers are addicted to naps behind the big hats?

The gondola of Venice will soon be a thing of the past. A steam transportation company has established a system of shrieking little steamboats which make their noisy way all through the city, despite the protests from the inhabitants, and the picturesque gondola will soon be no more.

It is announced that the division of forestry of the Department of Agriculture has decided to investigate this summer the extreme eastern distribution of the Rocky Mountain trees. This will be done for the benefit of tree planters on the Western plains, since the success of planting in those regions must depend upon the introduction of trees which are adapted to them.

It is on record that Mr. Rhodes was as ignorant of Boer military resources as Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Lord Rosebery, Lord Wolseley or Lord Lansdowne, for only last summer he declared: "The armed strength of the Boers is the greatest unpricked bubble in the world." This utterance is worthy of rank with the leader of the opposition's famous aphorism: "There is no need for military preparations."

Gold seekers naturally constitute a very mobile population, and movements of this kind are among the things to be expected, though a little while ago few imagined that such a change as that indicated in the press dispatches would take place so soon. A striking incident of the exodus, and one which throws a strong light upon the character of the population, is the contemplated movement of the largest playhouse in Dawson to the Cape Nome region, a distance of 2,000 miles.

California is falling into line in calling for the adoption of the metric system. The San Francisco Call concludes a carefully written exposition of the subject with the statement: "Neither the United States nor Great Britain, nor both combined, can force their clumsy medieval method of weighing and measuring upon the world in the face of the excellent decimal system which the French have introduced and made popular throughout Europe. Sooner or later we must come to it, and it would appear that the sooner we do it the better."

Last year there passed through the Sault Ste. Marie canals 25,255,810 tons of freight—the wheat, corn, oats flour, iron ore, copper and lumber of the great Northwest, and the coal, manufactures and miscellaneous merchandise of the East. This enormous traffic, amounting to nearly one-half of the annual freightage of all the railroads in the Lake Superior region is increasing annually by leaps and bounds—doubling, in fact, in every five years. It is a fair and significant indication of the material prosperity of the Northwest, and a continual object lesson in the supreme advantages of cheap water transportation.

The great danger of contagion which lies in books from circulating libraries has often been spoken of. It is a common thing for these books to find their way into the rooms of invalids, especially into those occupied by chronic patients. The state board of health of Michigan reports the death from consumption of twenty department clerks whose work had been in certain volumes of records. The books were found by examining bacteriologists to be full of tubercle bacilli, and it is believed that they became thus infected from a clerk who had consumption, and who was known to have habitually moistened his thumb with saliva when he turned a page.

An interesting exhibit at the Paris Exposition will be an industry of Minnesota not yet two years old, which is converting into many useful and ornamental articles the familiar wire grass of the American swamps, theretofore considered wholly worthless. In this exhibit will be furniture the grass taking the place of reed, rattan or willow; screens, baby carriages, baskets, jardiniere bowls and mattings. The material is described as light, beautiful, elastic and enduring. More than five hundred persons are now employed steadily in the industry, which number is to be tripled in a few months, the demands for the goods warranting the erection of two more plants. In the summer, when the raw material is being gathered, more than three thousand persons are engaged.

The town of McAlester, in the Indian Territory, has a population of more than seven thousand, all of them squatters, who hope that eventually the Federal Government will ratify their title to the property of which they have taken possession. They have no mayor, no town marshal, no aldermen, no police. There never was a survey of the ground made for town purposes. Yet they have built up fine residences, for a frontier settlement; the houses are built in rows that leave wide and fairly regular streets; the people lead moral lives and are law-abiding in spirit, though there are no particular laws for them to abide by. A stranger in the city would never suspect that the place was not fully organized and furnished with all the modern municipal machinery.

It is a strange anomaly to find Great Britain, the home of the emigrant, threatened by the immigrant, yet such is the case. Industrial activity and the increase in wages in the United Kingdom have attracted hordes of Continental labor. One month alone about four thousand immigrants arrived, a large increase on the average. The Globe of London plaintively remarks: When the present wave of industrial prosperity is succeeded by a wave of adversity we shall have on our hands a multitude of foreigners, eagerly competing for the bread which ought by right to nourish the native born. We have no legislative machinery for sifting out pauper aliens and returning them to their own countries, as they have in the United States.

Courtesy to fellow passengers has been commended and encouraged by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals (Eighth Circuit) in the case of Trumbull Erickson. John Erickson, a passenger on a Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf Railway Company train, gave his seat to two old and infirm women, and then stood in the aisle. The car was crowded, and Erickson found himself pushed out on the platform. Going around a curve he was jolted off. He sued and got judgment. The Appellate Court, in affirming the judgment, said: "The defendant, in effect, asked the court to declare as a matter of law that, when an able-bodied passenger in a crowded car surrenders his seat to an infirm old person, he is guilty of an act of negligence. It is a matter of everyday occurrence for passengers on crowded street-cars to surrender their seats to women, and to men as well, who are old, crippled, and infirm; and this practice obtains under like circumstances on passenger-cars on railroads, also. While the law does not make it obligatory upon passengers to do this, the consensus of opinion in the country does; and one failing to extend this courtesy, under the circumstances that existed in this case, would justly subject himself to public scorn and censure. It is an act of courtesy which is practised and approved by all men of ordinary social instincts, and only a corporation, which is a creation of man, and therefore has neither soul nor conscience, nor social instincts, nor any principles outside of its coffers, would seek to have such a polite and gracious act declared one of culpable negligence."

Glass Cooking Utensils.

Some women have to be queens, some pot-wrestlers. Pot-wrestling is in higher favor than washing the dishes and scouring the knives. But our pots (using the word as a generic term covering the whole field of cooking utensils) have not kept pace with our civilization. They still bend and rust, crack, wear out and scale off. I suggest to our glass manufacturers annealed kettles, boilers, stew-pans, coffee-pots, etc., of indestructible vitreous substances. I have no doubt that such utensils would quickly supersede those metal ones which we have been wrestling with these many years. No acid would affect them, no fruits, vegetables, meats or beverages would taint them. Nothing would stick to them. They would require no polishing, no shining up once a week. Their cleanliness would bring godliness to the home, which is next to the kitchen. He who introduces glass cooking utensils will reap a fortune.—Victor Smith in New York Press.

There are sixty turquoise mines in New Mexico, producing last year $225,000.

GOD'S MESSAGE TO MAN.

PREGNANT THOUGHTS FROM THE WORLD'S GREATEST PROPHETS.

Not Dead—Thirst for Righteousness—"Pray, Jacobs, I Can't"—"To Love and Serve Thee"—The Real Rudder of Life—Beginning at the Bottom.

O you that walk in memory-haunted ways
A little bright face missing,
Guarding a tress of hair through weary days,
And a fair picture kissing;
She is not dead, deep, pure-hearted being
She is not dead, but living
In that sweet land over which the [illegible] bend.
Their life flows ever giving
She lives where life is sweet with love and praise,
And time is measured not by [illegible] days.

You linger by her grave in [illegible]
Sad thoughts your soul [illegible]
Though lilies there with morning [illegible] twine,
And upward look with [illegible]
O mother learn [illegible] sweet,
And crooning winds that ever
Speak of a land where little children
Stray not And sorrow never
Casts its dim shadow o'er the [illegible]
Where God's own glory lights each [illegible] face.

—Mrs. M. A. Hoit, in [illegible]

Thirst for Righteousness.

"We hope, we aspire, we [illegible]
When the morning calls [illegible] light;
But our hearts grow weary, and [illegible] night
Our lives are trailing the sordid dust."

The chief difficulty with Christianity is not with that portion which comes under the observation of the world. There are only a few hours of the twenty-four each day in the most of us are under the scrutiny of the world. A much larger segment is under the observation of our families; but every hour, every moment, is under God's observation. After one fixes his eyes on Jesus, he finds little satisfaction in himself. He sees in Him such a wealth of goodness, that he best attainments seem poor enough. Whether he actually succeed for a single day in doing his best God must judge. "I judge not mine own self." But one does know something of the joy there is in aiming at the best, in striving to do the best, in living and serving the highest and best. The poet sings, "Who does his best, does well, does nobly; angels could do no more." Is not this a more consoling thought that he who attempts the best his circumstances allow, does well, acts nobly? Whether angels do better one knows not, but this one knows—apostles did no better, for Paul modestly affirmed of himself: "Not as though I had attained, either were already perfect, but I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling."—Rev. Joseph [illegible] Secord, D. D.

"Pray, Jacobs, I Can't."

The mother of the late Dwight L. Moody for many years never sanctioned her son's choice of the pulpit as his life work. She was a Unitarian and her conversion was accomplished through her son. The mother never even heard her son preach until [illegible] years after he was world renowned. In [illegible] he returned to Northfield to preach [illegible] after coming back to America from one of his great London successes. The [illegible] still lived on the old farm and drove to town to Sunday meetings [illegible] as they used to do years before. Most of the family were going to drive to town that morning to hear Dwight. But mother startled the daughter [illegible] don't suppose there would be room in the wagon for me this morning.' No one had thought of the mother unbending and going to hear Dwight. 'Of course there is room, mother,' said the daughter, and the mother was taken down to church with the rest. Mr. Moody preached from the fifty-first Psalm and preached with a fervor that was probably mostly inspired by the presence of his mother. When those who were to prayer were asked to arise old Mrs. Moody stood up. The son was completely overcome, and turning to B. F. Jacobs, now of Chicago, said with emotion, 'You pray, Jacobs, I can't.'"

"To Love and Serve Thee."

We trust our Heavenly Father to provide for us, not merely in things material, but most of all in the guiding of our lives, in the shaping of our aspirations, in the fulfilling of our hopes, in the return of our sympathy and love, because, however imperfect, our acquaintance with him may be, we know that he can be trusted to do just these things for us. It is the testimony of common sense that God's providence is over us and can be depended upon. It is that of duty that we trust it. It is a source of blessing to look forward into the future with the serenity which is based upon companionship with the Almighty and upon the sense of His over-ruling care. Nothing can divide us from Him, nothing can cool His love for us, nothing can veil the freshness of the inspiration between us which the past has developed. Whether it be in the details of our outward life, our comings and goings, our buyings and sellings, or in our nobler and higher aspirations and hopes, over one and all and in one and all the providence of God superintends and controls. (In the beautiful words of George Herbert.

Lord, it belongs not to my care
Whether I die or live.
To love and serve thee is my share,
And that thy grace must give.

The Real Rudder of Life.

What is the reason that one does not discern the full glory of the present life? Not precisely, as God said to Moses, that because a man cannot look straight into God's face and live. Sometimes one wishes that a boy could see life as an older person sees it. But in reality that would be no blessing to the boy. It would simply make him morbid, anxious, timid, prematurely old instead of fearless, natural, healthy-minded as he ought to be. It is natural and right for youth to be thoughtless and careless and God's hand is before the face of the child, not a young man, not because God grudges him the vision, but because he is not ready for it. And that brings us to the real problem of human life. It is not—as so many people seem to think—an explanation of experience; it is, on the contrary, an education through experience. God does not expect people never to make mistakes, never stumble in the dark. He expects them only to be taught by their mistakes and stumble on through the dark until in His own time He shows them His glory.

Beginning at the Bottom.

No one can be a drunkard without knowing that he is doing wrong. But the [illegible] love of money, of power, of [illegible] praise, often fail to impress us with [illegible] guilt, and the need of penitence and [illegible] is much more difficult to be real. It costs a sharp twinge of one's whole [illegible] to acknowledge that one has been wrong in one's life, and that, however fair and [illegible] ful the structure of character, it needs [illegible] rebuilt from the foundation. Repentance involves no intellectual [illegible] or complication. It is perfectly simple. It means the surrender of every other [illegible] the determination, firm and [illegible] love God and do His will no matter [illegible] circumstances. It is the substitution of this dominant purpose in place of every other, no matter what.

What a good God we have that [illegible] us in our low estate, thinks upon us [illegible] we are poor and needy and is pleased when we seek Him most!—Bunyan.

Mrs. M. A. Hutton, in Boston Herald.

Thirst for Righteousness.

"With joy we aspire, we resolve, we trust,
When the morning calls us to life and light
But our hearts grow weary, and ere the night
Our lives are trailing the sordid dust."

The chief difficulty with Christian life is not with that portion which comes under the observation of the world. There are only a few hours of the twenty-four each day that the most of us are under the scrutiny of the world. As to that larger segment is under the observation of our families but every hour, every moment, is under God's observation. After one closes his eyes on Jesus, he finds little satisfaction in himself. He sees in Him such a wealth of goodness, that his best attainments seem poor enough. Whether he actually succeed for a single day in doing his best God must judge. "I judge not mine own self." But one does know something of the joy there is in aiming at the best, in striving to do the best, "in loving and serving the highest and best." The poet sings, "Who does his best, acts well, does nobly, angels could do no more." Is not this a more consoling thought that he who attempts the best in his circumstances allows God well, acts nobly. Whether angels do better one knows not, but this one knows, and it is better for Paul modestly affirmed of himself. Not as though I had attained either were already perfect, but I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling." Rev. Joseph Lucock, D. D.

"Pray, Jacobs, I Can't."

The mother of the late Dwight L. Moody for many years never sanctioned her son's call of the pulpit as his life work. She was a Unitarian and her conversion was accomplished through her son. The mother never heard her son preach until long years after he was world-renowned. In 1873 he returned to Northfield to preach shortly after coming back to America from one of his great London successes. The family then lived on the old farm and drove to town for Sunday meetings. Just as they used to do years before. Most of the family were going to drive to town that morning to hear Dwight. The mother startled the daughter by saying, 'I don't suppose there would be room in the wagon for me this morning.' No one had the thought of the mother unbending and going to hear Dwight. Of course there'll be room, mother,' said the daughter, and the mother was taken down to church with the rest. Mr. Moody preached from the fifty-first Psalm and preached with a fervor that was probably mostly inspired by the presence of his mother. When those who wished prayer were asked to arise old Mrs. Moody stood up. The son was completely overcome, and turning to B. F. Jacobs, now of Chicago, said with emotion, 'You pray, Jacobs, I can't.'

"To Love and Serve Thee."

We trust our Heavenly Father to provide for us, not merely in things material, but most of all in the guiding of our lives, in the shaping of our aspirations, in the fulfillment of our hopes, in the return of our sympathy and love. He is unique, however imperfect our acquaintance with him may be, we know that he can be trusted to do just these things for us. It is the testimony of common sense that God's providence is over us and can be depended upon. It is that of duty that we trust it. It is a source of blessing to look forward into the future with the serenity which is based upon companionship with the Almighty and upon the sense of nothing can divide us from Him, nothing can cool His love for us, nothing can veil the freshness of the revelation between us which the past has developed. Whether it be in the details of outward life, our comings and goings, our buyings and sellings, or in our nobler and higher aspirations and hopes, over our waking hours of the twenty-four each day that we most of us are under the scrutiny of the world. And in that larger segment is under the observation of our families but every hour, every moment, is under God's observation. After one closes his eyes on Jesus, he finds little satisfaction in himself. He sees in Him such a wealth of goodness, that his best attainments seem poor enough. Whether he actually succeed for a single day in doing his best God must judge. "I judge not mine own self." But one does know something of the joy there is in aiming at the best, in striving to do the best, "in loving and serving the highest and best." The poet sings, "Who does his best, acts well, does nobly, angels could do no more." Is not this a more consoling thought that he who attempts the best in his circumstances allows God well, acts nobly. Whether angels do better one knows not, but this one knows, and it is better for Paul modestly affirmed of himself. Not as though I had attained either were already perfect, but I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling." Rev. Joseph Lucock, D. D.

The Real Rudder of Life.

What is the reason that one does not discern the full glory of the present life? precisely, as God said to Moses that because a man cannot look straight in God's face and live. Sometimes one who sees it. But in reality that would be no ing to the boy. It would simply make morbid, anxious, timid, prematurely old stead of fearless, natural, healthy-minded he ought to be. It is natural right for youth to be thoughtless and and God's hand is before the face of a young man, not because God grudges the vision, but because he is not ready

And that brings us to the real tem of human life. It is not—as so people seem to think—an explanation experience; it is, on the contrary, an tion through experience. God does not pect people never to make mistakes never stumble in the dark; He expects only to be taught by their mistakes and stumbling through the dark until own time He shows them His glory.

Beginning at the Bottom.

No one can be a drunkard without feeling that he is doing wrong. But the massive love of money, of power, of praise, often fail to impress us with guilt, and the need of penitence and is much more difficult to be real costs a sharp twinge of one's whole to acknowledge that one has been wrong one's life, and that, however fair and ful the structure of character, it must rebuilt from the foundation. Repentance version involves no intellectual process or complication. It is perfectly simple means the surrender of every other to the determination, firm and habitual love God and do his will no matter what circumstances. It is the subordination this dominant purpose in place of every other, no matter what.

What a good God we have that reaches us in our low estate, thinks upon us when we are poor and needy and is near us when we need Him most!—Sunday.

As to how the candidates ...d so far I am not going to ...phecy, and I think the committee did the very best thing possible ...ppointing another day for the ... boxes where no election had ... held, and not breaking open ... of the returns until after these ...s had held their election. So ... the 31st inst. we will all have ...ait before we know who are ...nominees.

It is evident that the Democrats ...Chilton county think they have ...etter chance to elect their men ... year than they have had in the ... ten years. I really don't know ...at they base their culculations ..., nor how they are figuring. ...the corner we are much divided ...opinions, some claim the Pops. ...ll come up in August with their ... time overwhelming majority, ... some say it ain't no such thing ... Dems. will this year carry all ...fore them. Mark Twain says: ...Never prophecy, unless you ...ave'—and as I don't know I ...on't prophecy.

I suppose after the nominees of ...th parties—the Dems and the ...ops—have been announced they ...ill stump the county to convert ...e another, and incidentally the ...ters, so as to bring all in to the ...lls in August. But especially ... I think the nominees for the ...gislature should make a tour of ...e county and explain their views ...the people. They should come ...raight out and declare their con...ction on the leading questions of ...e hour, and amongst other things ...ho they will vote for for U. S. ...nator.

I have been going to crack up ...at lamp in the Banner offices for ...me time past, but have not had ...opportunity before. GEN. WHEELER'S REPORT.

Finds People of Guam Docile and Satisfied With American Rule.

General Joseph Wheeler called at the navy department Saturday to consult with Secretary Long and Assistant Secretary Allen, who is more directly in charge of the affairs of the islands under naval government, respecting the report he was charged to make upon the conditions of the island of Guam and the administration of Commander Leary, the naval governor.

The report itself is not yet quite complete, but the general read extracts to indicate its character. In substance he found that the island was well favored climatically, and that it was of strategic importance to the United States; was especially valuable as a midway coaling place in the long run from Honolulu to Manila, and that the people were well satisfied with the change in their condition. They were of docile, pleasing disposition, and those of the inhabitants who preserved the traits of the original owners of the soil were of fine physique. Considering the extensive reforms Captain Leary had been obliged to inaugurate, he had succeeded very well in holding the regard of the majority of the people of the island.

Governor Leary has issued a proclamation prohibiting slavery and peonage in the island.

REGULATORS CAUSING TROUBLE.

People of South Carolina Ask for Protection.

A special from Columbia, S. C., says: The station agent and other citizens of Neeces, Orangeburg county, telegraphed the government begging for troops to protect them from white regulators, who had twice visited the town, beat people, white and black, and promised to return and kill them. Work on the surrounding farms has been suspended and people driven from their business. The governor telegraphed the sheriff to ride across the county with a posse and give protection till troops could be sent if needed. The cause of the lawlessness is unknown.

SETTLEMENT OF DESERT LANDS.

House Committee Proposes to Abolish $1.25 Per Acre Payments.

The house committee on public lands Saturday favorably reported a bill abolishing the payment of $1.25 an acre on lands taken up by settlers under the desert land act. The committee also reported favorably a bill to refund $1.25 per acre to persons who have located under the pre-emption or homestead laws and who have commuted their entries by cash payments at $2.50 per acre, where the lands located were within a railroad grant and the railroad was never built.

Elections on American Plan.

The commission that was appointed to decide upon a plan for municipal elections in Cuba as yet has been unable to agree upon any plan. Governor General Wood, therefore, has decided to have the first election take place after the manner of American elections, feeling that it is necessary to have no delay, owing to the fact that the elections must occur on May 1. As yet no one has been absolutely announced as a candidate for mayor of Havana.

Warship to China.

Secretary Long has cabled instructions to Admiral Watson at Cavite to send a warship to Taku, China, at the mouth of Tieho river to look after American missionary interests, that are threatened. He has left instructions for the ship to be sent to Admiral Watson.

Dewey Coming South.

Admiral and Mrs. Dewey left Washington Sunday for a trip south. They expect to visit Savannah, Macon, St. Augustine, Jacksonville and Palm Beach, taking in the larger Tennessee cities on their return trip.

Judge Miller Dead.

Wants $50,000 Damages.

A case of more than ordinary importance has been filed in the United States Circuit court of Birmingham, in which the city of Atlanta seeks to recover of the Anniston Pipe and Foundry company, of Anniston, and the Howard-Harrison Pipe company, of Bessemer, damages in the sum of $50,000 for money alleged to have been extorted through the medium of a trust of which defendant companies are alleged to have been members.

Remains of a Man Found.

Near Halesburg on a turpentine farm the remains of a man were found one day last week in an advanced stage of decomposition. The skull was crushed and the clothing had been removed and an effort made to burn them. A small camp fire was found near the body, and evidence of the body having been dragged from the fire were visible. The shoes, clothing and some other articles were found, but there was nothing whereby the body could be identified. The murder was evidently committed some two weeks ago.

Work to Resume on Warrior Locks

Capt. R. C. McCalla, United States Engineer in charge of the Warrior river improvements, has received a communication from Secretary Root, of the War Department, stating that the specifications of Christie, Lowe & Heyworth, contractors, of Chicago, the successful bidders on Locks 4, 5 and 6 of the lower Warrior river, had been passed upon and everything came up to the requirements, and that the work must begin within thirty days from March 12.

Railroad Sold.

Col. F. M. Abbott, of West Point, Miss., has purchased for New York parties the Birmingham, Selma & New Orleans road, twenty-one miles long, from Selma to Martin Station.

Colonel Abbott says that the road, at the solicitation of the people of Marengo county, will be extended to the Tombigbee river, provided the proper subscriptions are made by the citizens.

Some think the deal is for the Mobile & Ohio, and others that it is the hand of the Louisville & Nashville, and still others that the Seaboard interests are in it. The road is worth about $100,000.

Gin Combine Effected.

The deeds conveying to the Continental Gin company the plants and real property of the Smith Sons Gin and Machine company, at Avondale, and the Northington-Munger-Pratt company, of East Birmingham, were filed for record in the probate office a few days ago, which practically completes the formation of the Continental company, which absorbed the principal gin manufacturers of the south. The nominal consideration is given at $1 in each deed, and "other valuable considerations."

The Morgan Primary.

The Morgan county democratic executive committee has completed arrangements for the primary election to be held April 14. The names of the candidates for United States senator and those for governor will appear on the ticket and be voted for direct and the one receiving the plurality will get the vote of Morgan county. There will be no instructions given for other state officers.

New Officer Appointed.

State Superintendent of Education J. W. Abercrombie has appointed Mr. H. G. Almon superintendent of education of Lawrence county to succeed C. B. Robertson, deceased.

Boiler Explosion.

The boiler of engine No. 129, of the southern railway, exploded at Brownsboro Saturday night, blowing fireman, George T. Heinman, off the engine, and seriously if not fatally scalding him with steam and boiling water.

Wire Mill Ready to Start.

The immense plant of the Alabama Wire and Steel company at Ensley will probably be running at its full capacity by the end of this month. The rod mill has been in operation for the past ten days, and the wire mill will be ready to start up in a few days.

Cotton Factory for Montevallo.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the probate judge for a cotton factory and knitting mill at Montevallo. The incorporators are H. C. Reynolds, Burgess Little, E. Burkstresser and W. B. Reynolds. It is understood some Pennsylvania parties are also interested.

Coal Discovered Near Eufaula.

Further news from the recent discovery of coal twelve miles south of Eufaula is interesting Captain S. H. Dent on whose plantation it was found. While a fair test of the quality can not be made from the depth so far been explored, Captain Dent feels confident that it is fair and exists in large quantities.

Killed in Runaway.

While Henry Imms and his son Henry were returning home to Whistler from Mobile, driving in a buggy, the horse became frightened and ran away. Father and son were thrown out, and the son had his arm broken. The father's foot caught in the harness and he was dragged several hundred yards and killed.

Deputy Kills a Negro.

At Johns, in the Blue Creek mining regions, William McKinney, colored, was shot and killed by Deputy Sheriff Carroll. McKinney, it appears, was wanted in Anniston, and and Policeman Cooper, of that city, had gone to Blue Creek for the purpose of arresting McKinney and his brother. Carroll joined him to make the arrest. McKinney resisted, whereupon the officer opened fire, with the result that a bullet from Carroll's pistol killed McKinney.

Charge Against Deputy Marshal.

A. C. Sorrell, marshal of Brookside, has been placed under $2,500 bond on the charge of conspiracy, resulting in murder, the arrest having been made under an indictment returned by the United States grand jury. The charge of conspiracy grew out of the killing of former United States Deputy Marshal D. R. Burgess near Edwardville May 11 last. The indictment charges that Sorrell intimidated Burgess in the free exercise and enjoyment of the rights and privileges secured by the constitution and laws of the United States.

Idle Furnaces Blown In.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway company today blew in No. 2 furnace at Oxmoor. The plant has been idle for some time and has been undergoing repairs. It has a capacity of 175 tons of iron ore per day. Preparations have been made for the blowing in of the Williamson furnace in Birmingham within the next few days. Repair work on the Mary Pratt furnace, owned by the Alabama Consolidated Coal and Iron company, is progressing rapidly, and will be finished within the next sixty days.

STATE BREVITIES.

Ton Shamblin was run over by a car at Russellville and had his leg crushed.

Contractor North is about ready to begin work on the new Independent Telephone Exchange at Huntsville, which is to cost $25,000.

The Central of Georgia railroad will erect a $100,000 cotton compress at Dothan and will have it ready for work on the crop of the coming season. The cotton will be received direct from the farmers, weighed free and stored without cost.

The directors of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company Saturday declared a 2 per cent dividend on the common stock and a 54 per cent dividend on the preferred stock, both payable May 1.

Contractor Arthur Marshall has ceased work on the new court house at Florence and, it is said, has thrown up his contract. The court house is about one-third completed.

REBELS GROWING ACTIVE

The Most Troublesome Center Seems to be Manila.

INSURGENT JUNTA IS BECOMING BOLD

Reports Are Current of Reorganization of the Rebels—Brigands Committing Atrocities—Expedition to Garrison Mindianeo.

A Sunday's cable message from Manila says: General Otis considers Manila the most troublesome center in the situation today. The insurgent junta here, in conjunction with that in Hong Kong is growing active. The military authorities have been forced to put a stop to Mabini's intercourse with the public. The local and foreign press considers his recent utterances calculated to incite the Filipinos to a continued revolt and prejudicial to American control.

Flores, who has just arrived here, says he comes trusting to American leniency, and that he would not have dared come to Manila if Spain were yet in control. He cherishes the hopes and aspirations which actuated him when in the field, and desires to watch congressional action upon the question of the Philippines. The insurgents, he says, do not expect to vanquish the Americans, but are maintaining a resistance with the idea of forcing congress to accord them the best possible terms.

A number of representative insurgent leaders from different parts of Luzon have recently been in conference in Manila. Some have been placed under arrest, but the others, thus far, have not been interfered with.

It is asserted upon good authority that three loads of arms and ammunition have recently been landed on the east coast of Luzon. Captain Taylor, of the Thirty-ninth regiment, recently captured twelve new Mausers near Calamba.

Reports are current of active rebel reorganization in the province of Moronga, where the insurgent leaders are said to be assisted by prominent Spanish residents. Inhabitants of this province who are now in Manila have been advised not to return to their homes, but to remain under the protection of the Americans.

It is also reported that the rebels are reorganizing in the province of Zambales, under Mascardo. Brigands are committing atrocities in the province of Nueva Ecija where they have murdered twenty natives and Chinamen. Eight other murders have been committed near Tarlac. The Nueva Ecija insurgents are heavily taxing local traders and farmers with the result that business is paralyzed and there is a general scarcity of food.

The funds for maintaining this guerilla warfare are collected from the various towns of the island, whether occupied by the Americans or not, even including Manila.

The expedition to garrison the ports of Northern Mindianio has sailed. It was accompanied by the gunboats Manila and Yorktown. The expedition took the Fortieth Volunteer regiment from the Camarines. If more troops are needed the Thirty-first regiment in southern Mindianio and the Twenty-third regiment now in Jolo are available.

A military commission at Bayambong, Philippine Islands, has sentenced to be hanged on March 30, two natives who have been found guilty of murdering their countrymen.

PROPOSED RAILROAD.

Charter Issued for the Oklahoma Territory Link.

The territorial secretary of Oklahoma granted a charter to the Kansas City, Oklahoma and Mexican Railroad company, with a capital stock of $3,000,000. It is proposed to build a line 200 miles long from Augusta, Wood county, Oklahoma, southwest across the territory to the Red river with several branches in the western counties. This will be a link in the proposed through line from the Missouri river to the western coast of Mexico.

Cattleman's Skeleton Found.

The body of William Brown, a rich cattleman of Hood county, Tex., was found reduced to a skeleton on a high mountain near Granberry, known as Comanche Peak. Brown mysteriously disappeared a year ago and had been searched for all over the county. His bank books and other effects and a bottle of laudanum were found near the body.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the more important of the new industries reported by the Tradesman during the week ended March 17, include a basket factory in North Carolina; a $300,000 bleachery and cotton mill in North Carolina; brick works and a broom factory in North Carolina; cement works in South Carolina; coal mines and coke works in West Virginia; two cotton mills in Alabama, one in Arkansas, two in Georgia—capitalized at $300,000 and $1,000,000 respectively—two in North Carolina, three in South Carolina and two in Texas; a cotton and woolen mill in North Carolina; cotton seed oil mills in South Carolina and Texas; electric light and power plants in Georgia and West Virginia; a fertilizer factory in South Carolina; flouring mills in Kentucky and the Carolinas; a foundry and machine shop in Arkansas; gold mine in Georgia; a guano factory in North Carolina; ice factories in North Carolina and Texas; a knitting mill in Alabama, three in North Carolina and one in Virginia; lumber mills in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky and Texas; phosphate mines in Tennessee; rice mills in Louisiana; a rope mill in Georgia; a soap factory in Texas; a $400,000 textile machinery works and a wadding and batting mill in Georgia.

EFFECT OF THE FREEZE.

General Belief is That the Fruit Crop Was Not Damaged.

Few reports have been received at the agricultural department of Georgia in the last few days regarding the effect of the cold weather on the fruit crop of the state, but it is not believed that any considerable damage has been done. While the cold in some localities has been severe, it is not thought that the crop was far enough advanced to materially injure the early buds. Regarding the plum and pear crops more apprehension is felt than for peaches. The former are at the period of budding and blossoming, when they can easily be affected by the temperature.

TEXAS POPULISTS.

Not Probable That State Ticket Will Be Nominated.

State Chairman G. B. Harris, of the populist party of Texas, has issued a call for the executive committee to meet in Waco March 24 for the purpose of electing delegates to the national convention, and also to elect a chairman for the ensuing four years. It is not probable that a state ticket will be put in the field at the coming election.

FIVE PEOPLE KILLED.

One Fatally and One Seriously Injured by Gasoline Explosion.

Five dead, one fatally and one seriously injured is the result of an attempt to start a fire with gasoline at Columbus, Ohio. George White used the dangerous fluid at James Weaver's residence and an explosion followed, the building being set on fire and the inmates covered with the burning stuff.

Startling Dispatches Exaggerated.

Saturday Gov. McSweeney, received starting dispatches from Neeces, in Orangeburg county, S. C., stating that whitecaps had threatened parties there and the community was terrorized. He was requested to send militia. The governor hurried the sheriff to the place and received a dispatch from him saying that everything is quiet and that the people were unduly alarmed.

THE ISLAND OF TUTUILA.

OUR SHARE OF THE SAMOAN GROUP.

BY HUGH H. LUSK.

Under the new Samoan treaty the United States becomes the possessor of a small island in the South Pacific ocean, situated about 930 miles south of the equator. For some fifteen years past we have had a more or less sentimental regard for this island, because it was here that our Government had acquired from a native chief the use of part of the shore of a harbor which to establish a coaling station. The harbor was the only one in the Samoan group in which vessels could safely during a hurricane, such as periodically visits the group, and its only drawback was that it was almost entirely inaccessible on the landward side. Now and then but at long intervals, an American man-of-war would call at this harbor but it may be doubted whether any of the crews ever attempted to climb the almost precipitous hills that wall in the land-locked water which is known as Pago-Pago. The island is by far the least known of the three main islands that form the group of Samoa. It lies about forty miles south of the other two, on which alone Europeans or Americans have settled, either as planters or traders, and excepting the harbor of Pago-Pago on the southeast, and a small bay known as Leone, near the northwest corner, it possesses no place of anchorage or shelter even for the smallest trading vessels.

The general appearance of Tutuila, like that of the other volcanic islands of the South Pacific, is very beautiful. As we entered the passage, from which the mountains rise miles broad, between the two headlands, every eye scanned the shore in search of the impression that the schooner would be found lying at some point in the lee of the land. But no sign of a sail was visible, and the land rose high and steep, clothed from shore to summit in the luxuriant vegetation of the tropical islands. We had a fair wind, and succeeded in making half speed through the passage it became more and more evident that some reason our tender had not arrived. We had reached the eastern end and cleared both islands before the solution of the difficulty presented itself, but then a very small cutter was discovered lying close inshore, at the point where a native village could be seen among the palm trees that formed a background to the silver-white coral beach.

The cutter turned out to be a trader engaged in collecting a cargo of copra (sun-dried cocoanut) to be taken to Apia to the German company's stores. We were told we could stay on board if we liked, but the cutter must go to Pago-Pago Bay, at the western end of the island, before it would return to Apia. The prospect of staying on board was not very agreeable that several of the party determined to try the alternative plan of walking overland to Leone and there awaiting the arrival of the latter. Leaving all our luggage on board, we were landed on the beach within a hundred yards of the village, which now showed among the trees like a group of overgrown beehives of the old straw material and conical shape. The natives were most friendly. They invited us into the largest hut, on the floor of which we were accommodated with mats of woven grass, while two girls prepared a bowl of kava juice for our special entertainment. Personally, I had heard enough about this famous liquor of the islands to decline it, and though my companions tasted it, they were wise enough to leave it to our hosts to paralyze themseves with the strange narcotic. In the meantime we had contrived to make it understood that we wanted a guide to show us the native path over the hills to Leone Bay, where the missionary lived, and the offer of a dollar readily secured a guide, in the person of a young man of magnificent build and appearance.

The bargain once made, we lost no time in starting. Our guide, who was dressed in full native costume, which consisted of a very large and finely powdered head of hair, and a very small cincture of some kind of native cloth round his loins, led us along the beach for a short distance, and then faced the hill which rose abrupt and very steep behind the little village. The climb was so steep that but for the profusion of saplings, shrubs, and climbing plants that hedged in the narrow path we should hardly have managed it. When at last we reached the top we found ourselves at a height of perhaps eight or nine hundred feet above the sea, on the top of a long ridge that seemed to run the whole length of the island.

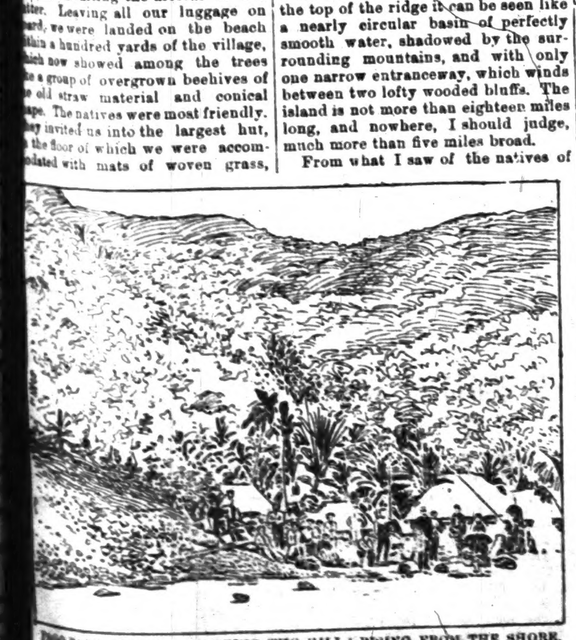
THE BELLE OF TUTUILA.

The land slopes downward from the central ridge on the northern side in a succession of spurs, with deep glens and watercourses between; but on the southern coast, especially near the eastern end of the island, the slopes end abruptly in cliffs and precipitous banks that descend to the ocean. It is here that Pago-Pago lies, and from the top of the ridge it can be seen like a nearly circular basin of perfectly smooth water, shadowed by the surrounding mountains, and with only one narrow entranceway, which winds between two lofty wooded bluffs. The island is not more than eighteen miles long, and nowhere, I should judge, much more than five miles broad.

From what I saw of the natives of the Island of Tutuila recently in connection with the work of building the wharf and establishing a coaling station in the harbor of Pago-Pago state that there are at present about 1500 people on the Island of Tutuila, owing allegiance to about three chiefs. The principal chief is named Mangum. The people are different from the inhabitants of the other Samoan Islands, being particularly peaceful in disposition.

The population is unique in the fact that every soul is reputed to be a devout Christian. They are so orthodox that not one person could be induced to come aboard one of the American ships on Sunday, while all of them go to church. This condition is ascribable largely to the influence of French missionaries.

Nothing has been positively settled as yet as to the government of the islands beyond the fact that the principal official will be a naval officer. The general purpose is to have him interfere as little as possible with the natives so long as they continue in their present peaceful manner to govern themselves without friction.



PAGO-PAGO, TUTUILA, SHOWING THE HILLS RISING FROM THE SHORE.

There is certainly no wealth to be extracted from Tutuila. Even the primitive agriculture of the island could hardly be much extended, as there is scarcely an acre of level land to be found there. Cocoanuts, indeed, grow along the shore everywhere, and even to some extent inland; orange-trees grow to the dimensions of forest trees; there are nutmeg-trees in the forest that clothes the slopes; and arrowroot, ginger and pineapples abound everywhere. All these things go to make America's South Sea island a delightful fairy spot, but they are, and must always be, on too minute a scale to hold out any temptation to the planter and the trader. Perhaps, for the sake of the natives at least, it is well.

The Navy Department has decided to assign Commander B. F. Tilley, of the collier Abarenda, as the commandant of the Pago-Pago coaling station, which will place him in charge of the administrative affairs of the Samoan territory of the United States. Commander Tilley is now at Pago-Pago. The naval officers who have been on Steyn's Cyrano Courtship.

President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, took for a wife Miss Fraser, who was the belle of Bloemfontein. This was many years ago, when the great Africander was a poor, struggling law student and clerk. Miss Fraser's parents were very proud and well-to-do and did not favor the match. Steyn made love and wrote love letters by proxy, choosing a prominent young farmer as the go-between. Every day, sometimes twice a day, Miss Fraser and the farmer would take long walks and rides together. Bloemfontein made up its mind that Steyn had been cut out, when the law student returned from Europe, where he had taken his degree. Gossip rose to fever heat when the news came that Steyn had called upon the farmer. Everybody was certain that a duel was about to come off. A short time passed in which everyone was on the qui vive. Disappointment was nothing to the feeling which was created when, instead of a duel, there was the wedding of Steyn and Miss Fraser, with the farmer as the first groomsman.—Philadelphia Post.

Effective Entrenchments.

With regard to the Boer entrenchments, it may be noted that, according to the reports of Boer prisoners, the comparatively small effect produced by the English artillery fire is largely owing to the trenches being made in the form of the letter S instead of in the straight lines adopted by European armies. This pattern, which has been borrowed by the Boers from old Basuto methods, affords, it is said, both freer movement and greater protection. Many of our present ideas with regard to entrenchments have been learnt from the Turks.—London Mail.

Good Coffee in Boerdom.

The coffee is always good in the Transvaal, but usually over-sweetened. When any guest is in a Dutch housewife's good books she shows her appreciation of him by loading his cup of coffee with sugar, which he must drink, unless he desires to upset her easily-aroused susceptibilities.

PRATTVILLE SWEPT BY FIRE.

Every Store Building in the Town Save One Burned.

There was a big and destructive fire in Prattville Monday at 3 o'clock. Every store in the town was swept away except that of the Prattville Mercantile company. The Telephone Exchange was also burned.

The fire broke out on Main street and spread rapidly. All buildings on both sides of the street were constructed of wood and this fact, together with poor fire facilities caused the great destruction.

The only fire facilities in town are the Cotton Gin Factory company's, and this did very effective work, saving their property, but could not be utilized to much advantage in other respects.

The citizens did very heroic work in trying to save property, but their efforts were apparently useless. No one was hurt. The insurance will not cover one-third of the loss, which will aggregate $50,000.

Combine of Lime Men Organizes.

The principal lime manufacturers of the southern states have formed a combination, and those who have plants in this state are interested in it.

A prospectus has been issued by the new concern, which controls the greater part of the production of lime in the southern states. Texas is the only state of any importance in the industry that is not in the new combination. It is stated that the production of the concern will be something like 900,000 barrels a year and the net profits will be no less than $250,000.

The new company will be known as the Consolidated Lime company and its capital stock $3,000,000. There are thirty companies in the amalgamation, of which thirteen are from this state. The big manufacturing concerns at Calera and the Longview Lime company are in the deal.

State Fair Property Sold.

The buildings, grand stand, stables, fence and other property of the Alabama State Fair Association were sold by Sheriff O'Brien Monday to satisfy a mortgage held by Max Gamberts, of Evansville, Ind. The price bid by Mr. Gamberts was $5,464.04. He held a mortgage for $6,000 for money advanced to the association last year with which to pay for the construction of the different buildings.

T. H. Molton, representing the owner of the land on which the buildings are located, notified the purchaser that he held a landlord's lien on the buildings for the period of seven years, the term covered by the lease, secured on the grounds by the Alabama Fair Association. The improvements are valued at $20,000.

Captain Jacob Greil Is Dead.

Captain Jacob Greil, one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens of Montgomery, died Monday. The deceased was president of the People's Cotton Factory, vice-president of the Farley National Bank, vice-president of the Montgomery Building and Loan Association, ex-president of the Commercial and Industrial Association, a director in the Capital City Insurance company and the Bank of Montgomery, and a stockholder in many other large and wealth enterprises.

Body Floating in a Mill Pond.

Mrs. Ella Hodges, a white woman, living about twelve miles south of Opolika, was found dead, floating in Tripling's mill pond Monday morning. Her brother-in-law, Frank Littleton, and a negro named Henry Thomas are now in jail accused of the crime of murdering the woman.

PROPOSED RAILROAD.

Charter Issued for the Oklahoma Territory Link.

The territorial secretary of Oklahoma granted a charter to the Kansas City, Oklahoma and Mexican Railroad company, with a capital stock of $3,000,000. It is proposed to build a line 200 miles long from Augusta, Wood county, Oklahoma, southwest across the territory to the Red river with several branches in the western counties. This will be a link in the proposed through line from the Missouri river to the western coast of Mexico.

May Be Given a Command.

A Washington special says: General Wheeler may be assigned by the president to command a department with headquarters at Chicago. The president is at present very much disposed to assign him to that duty, but is waiting the return of Secretary Root from Cuba.

WRECK ON ALABAMA MIDLAND.

Two Persons Fatally Injured and Many Others Wounded.

The fast mail on the plant system, which left Montgomery on Monday morning pulled by two engines, was wrecked at Ozark. While running at a rapid rate the rear wheels of the tender of the second engine jumped the track just before reaching a trestle. This trestle was 250 feet long and 50 feet high. Both engines passed over, but the rest of the train, except the last sleeper, fell through the trestle. Almost every person on the train was injured, and at least two will die.

The following is a list of the injured, some of them being badly bruised and others only slightly hurt:

T. P. Kellar, Savannah, Ga., head; thought to be dying.

C. L. Mizzle, Ozark, internally; may die.

Others injured were: C. J. Read, R. L. Todd, Jack Conostzer, M. L. Joiner, L. S. Berry, J. G. Gilchrist, J. A. Stanley, Frederick Newman, all of Montgomery; J. E. Massey, Monticello, Fla.; C. T. Ansley, Thomasville, Ga.; J. C. Brazzell, Brundige, Ala.; J. A. Williams, Pinckard, Ala.; Wm. Lawson, Troy, Ala.; O. E. Williams, Quitman, Ga.; Will Jones, Brundige; J. L. Acree, Dothan; W. W. Jones, Jacksonville, Fla.; H. G. Forrester, Cowarts, Ala.; Chester Seall, Richmond, Va.; G. Harrison, baggage master; G. S. Cornon, postal clerk; J. E. Eason, Ozark.

REAFFIRMED CHICAGO PLATFORM

Mr. Bryan Endorses the Action of the Nebraska Democracy.

In effect William J. Bryan announced Monday night, at Lincoln, Neb., to the democratic party and to the nation at large the platform upon which he desires to stand if nominated at the Kansas City convention. The platform which was adopted by the Nebraska democracy, with the greatest enthusiasm, reaffirms the Chicago platform, declares for "16 to 1," opposes a large standing army, denounces the action of the republican party on the Porto Rican tariff bill, declares against trusts and "imperialism" and favors the choice of United States senators by popular vote.

The platform is practically the creation of Mr. Bryan. He did not write it personally, but he was consulted concerning it and before it was read to the convention he had approved of it throughout.

The platform adopted by the populist convention was substantially the same as that adopted by the democrats. It differs somewhat in form, but conflicts in no essential point.

Both conventions today were enthusiastic for Bryan to the last degree, and every mention of his name was greeted with cheers of delight and approval. Instructions were given to both delegations to stand for Mr. Bryan in the Kansas City and Sioux Falls conventions.

Refused to Concur in Senate Amendment.

The house Monday refused to concur in the senate amendment to the Porto Rican relief bill. The democrats supported a motion to concur on the ground that it would avoid further delay in extending relief to the inhabitants of the island, but the republicans stood firmly behind Chairman Cannon in his demand that the house should insist upon its original provisions.

J. A. Bingham Dead.

Hon. J. A. Bingham, ex-minister to Japan, ex-congressman from Ohio, and who prosecuted the slayers of President Lincoln, died at Cadis Monday morning.

Killing in Mississippi.

A tragedy occurred near Toomsuba, Miss., Saturday night. Howard Culpepper, a member of one of the most prominent families of the eastern part of the county, being shot and killed by a negro. The negro who did the shooting had caused some trouble at Toomsuba Saturday, and young Culpepper, accompanied by two other men, went out to the negro's house during the night to arrest him, when he used his gun with deadly effect. The negro made his escape.

Spanish Prisoners Sent Home.

A cable message from General Otis at Manila, received at the War department, says that he has shipped for Barcelona, Spain, 533 Spaniards, including 84 officers and 427 enlisted men of the Spanish army, who had been rescued from the Filipino insurgents; also the wives of eight officers and fourteen children of the families of officers.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

The tonic qualities of sea air are attributed by a French chemist to a third of a grain of salt per cubic yard and a trace of iodine that he has found by analysis to be present.

The calamander tree of Ceylon, allied to the ebony family, and represented by only ninety specimens, is credited with the very rarest wood. The tree is carefully protected.

By a novel combination of a telephone with the usual electric alarm the cause of any disturbance in a bank vault or similar place can be made out before the police are summoned. A sensitive transmitter is placed in the vault, and at the sound of the alarm the person at the receiving end has only to turn a switch, sending a current through the coil of the transmitter, when the slightest sound in or near the vault can be distinguished.

Dr. F. A. Cook, describing the effects of the long Antartic night on the human body and mind, says that on the exploring ship Belgica, as the cold night lengthened, all became pale "with a kind of greenish hue." The heart grew feeble in its action. The men were incapable of concentrated attention, or of prolonged thought. One sailor was driven to the verge of insanity, but when the returning sun began to appear above the horizon he recovered.

Men able to treat plant diseases is a need discovered by an English botanist, who predicts that the time will come when every agricultural district will have its plant doctor, and when specialists in animal parasites, cryptogamic botany and bacteriology will be consulted in difficult and obscure cases. The practice of plant medicine is in its infancy. With increased competition in crop raising, however, the farmer cannot afford to neglect the aid he can get in keeping his plants in the highest degree of health.

The phenomenon called "frost flowers" was discussed before the Biological Society in Washington recently by Dr. L. H. Dewey. The so-called flowers are composed of ice which forms on frosty mornings in autumn and early winter on certain plants. The peculiar thing to be explained is that frost flowers do not form on all plants, but only on about twenty-six species, as far as yet know. Among these are frost-weed, dittany, marsh fleabanes and cultivated heliotrope. The phenomenon is apparently due to capillary movement of water in the plant, but a wholly satisfactory explanation is lacking.

One of the most beautiful objects overhead in winter evenings is the bright white star Capella, in the constellation Auriga. Professor Campbell, of the Lick Observatory, announces that he has found decisive evidence that Capella is a binary star, whose components are too close to be separated by any telescope, although the spectroscope reveals their existence through their revolution about their common centre. He even suspects that Capella may consist of three stars, all very close together. The principal pair revolve around one another in about one hour less than four days. The wonder increases when it is recollected that these are suns, each more brilliant than our sun.

Bottle Drifts 2000 Miles.

A remarkable case of drift was reported to Lieutenant Herbert O. Dunn at the Baltimore Hydrographic Office in a letter from United States officials in Baracoa, Cuba. It was the return to the office of a letter placed in a bottle and thrown overboard by Captain Mitchell of the Neptune steamer Ohio on October 23, 1895, while the ship was bound from Carthagena for Baltimore with a cargo of iron ore.

Captain Mitchell inclosed a note stating that the bottle and its contents were thrown overboard on that date in latitude 35.37 and longitude 36.30. He requested, if the bottle was picked up, that it be sent to the Baltimore branch hydrographic office. Remarks were appended to the paper received that it was picked up January 16, 1000, in latitude 20.21.40 and longitude 74.45, which is in the vicinity of Baracoa.

If the bottle had drifted in a straight line from where thrown into the water to where found it would have traveled 2000 miles. In its four years and three months of drift it is possible that it covered several times that distance.

The Meaning of the Thistle.

Do you know why the thistle is the national flower in Scotland? The story is a pretty one, and very characteristic of the Scotch. It is said that centuries ago the Danes were making an inroad into Scotland. They were advancing cautiously at night. But, unfortunately, they were barefooted. They had got close to the Scotch camp, when one of the men at the head of their column stepped on a thistle. Did you ever put down your foot squarely upon a real Scotch thistle? If you have, you will not be surprised to hear that that man gave a scream of pain. His scream awakened the Scotch. They sprang up, perceiving their enemies, fell upon them and defeated them. And the brave little thistle was made the Scotch flower.

The Motor on the Ranch.

Several prominent ranchmen of Victoria, Tex., have jointly purchased a motor vehicle for use in inspecting their large ranches. If the machine meets their expectation each of them will purchase one for his own use. The "lay of the land" in that locality is such as to permit the use of automobiles regardless of roads.—Philadelphia Record.

IN Bibb county the Populists and Democrats will hold a general white primary.

HERMAN E. Taubeneck, former chairman of the national committee of the people's party, died in Seattle, Wash., Monday.

GEN. W. C. Oates has retired from the senatorial race in favor of John T. Morgan. This leaves it a straight fight between the last named gentleman and Governor Johnston.

THE Executive Committee of the People's Party of Chilton county met in adjournrd session last Saturday at Clanton to canvass the returns from the primary election held on the 15th inst., but when it was found that at three different boxes no election had been held it was decided to give those three boxes another show and March 30 was the day designated. The resolutions will be found in another column. Under all the circumstances this was wise action on the part of the committee, and we hope the Populist voters in Beats 3, 7 and 8 will show their appreciation by turning out in full force on the 30th inst. The returns from the boxes where the election was duly held on the 15th inst., were unbroken and were placed away in the custody of Judge Adams until March 31, when the complete returns will be in and the party's nominees declared. After the committee had concluded its labors there was a regular love feast held, and the candidates present (seventeen in number) made short addresses cordially approving the action of the committee.

C. J. STEWART.

There is a large number of people who will be glad to learn that Mr. C. J. Stewart has decided to become a candidate for the office of sheriff. His friends have been trying to persuade him to do so for some time and he has finally consented. Nineteen years of his life has been passed in Chilton county and by his strict probity and uprightness he has made many friends. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity and a Knight of Honor. Four years ago when he was a candidate for sheriff, he led the Democratic ticket at the August election. He is a man of good business ability and even temper, and if elected will doubtless make the county an officer of whom all may feel proud.

H. I. HONEYCUTT.

Everyone in Chilton knows Henry Honeycutt, and a good many have been expecting to see his announcement for Representative in the General Assembly. They are now gratified as the announcement will be found in another column. Henry is a thorough Chiltonian, born and raised in the county. He is a Knight of Pythias and for a long time was secretary of the Farmers' Alliance. During his father's term of office as Judge of Probate, Henry was his chief clerk and thus became thoroughly acquainted with the public affairs of the county, and this knowledge will stand him in good stead if he is elected to the position he now seeks. In point of education and address Mr. Honeycutt is well qualified to fill the office, and his political views he will doubtless make known in due time.

Secretary Wilson has awarded the contract for supplying the United States department of agriculture with garden, field and flower seed for the year of 1901 to the New York Market Gardeners' Association of New York, at their bid of $68'874. The total number of packets of seed required is 15,086,668. Of this number 13,936,000 are vegetable seeds, 150,400 field and lawn grass seeds and 1,000,568 flower seeds.

SUDDEN DEATH OF Mr. EHRMAN

The news of the sudden death of Mr. Rudolph Ehrman, early on Tuesday morning, came as a great shock to the people of Clanton, and each felt a sense of personal loss when it was really understood that Mr. Ehrman had passed to the great beyond.

For twenty years Mr. Ehrman has been so intimately associated with Clanton that whatever affected him personally seemed to also affect the whole community. He had been complaining, more or less, for some little time past of not being in the best of health, and probably his buoyant spirit made his ailment appear less than it really was. But none dreamed that the end was so near.

On Monday he was out and about attending to business at the mill, making arrangements for the conduct of business during his absence at Birmingham, where his medical adviser, Dr. W. E Stewart, had recommended him to go for awhile and recuperate.

About a week or ten days ago he returned from a visit to Florida, where he had left Mrs. Ehrman; he had a bad attack of grippe, but insisted upon attending to business. On Saturday last Mrs. Ehrman came home to nurse him back to health and strength, and with the exception of his little son Leon and daughter Margaret she was the only member of the family present at the last moment, his three eldest children, Misses Helen, Alvis and Gertrude, being at the present time in Europe.

Mr. Ehrman was only 47 years old and came to Clanton in 1880 and went into the mercantile business which he conducted very successfully for some years; he then went into the lumber trade and became a member of the well-known firm of Duke, Ehrman & Merritt, and after some time bought out Messrs. Duke and Merritt's interest and conducted the entire business himself in a highly successful manner.

Some twenty-five years ago he was married to Miss Alvis of Bibb county, who during her sojourn in Chilton county greatly endeared herself to all who came in contact with her. She died in 1897, and two years after he married Miss Hardeman, of Birmingham.

Capt. Hardeman and Miss Porter Hardeman came down from Birmingham Tuesday evening, and Mr. Morriss, of Saginaw, to assist Mrs. Ehrman in her bereavement.

The body of Mr. Ehrman was carried to Birmingham on Tuesday night, where it was embalmed, and the funeral will take place on the arrival of the bereaved children from Europe.

"In the midst of life we are in death" and all will pray that the bereaved family will find consolation in this thought.

J. R. JOHNSON.

It is a worthy ambition that prompts a man to aspire to office, and when a man has passed his whole life amongst the people whom he desires to represent in an official capacity, it is a certainty that he stands well with them. This is the case with Mr. J. R. Johnson, of Beat 2, whose announcement for Tax Collector will be found in another column. He is a member of the M. E. Church and bears a good character for honesty and integrity. He has always been a consistent Democrat, and appeals to all his Democratic friends to support him in the coming primary. We are assured that Mr. Johnson is well qualified to fill the office and if he is elected he will serve the best interests of all the people to the utmost of his power.

C. N. PARNELL.

Dr. C. N. Parnell, of Stanton, announces his candidacy for Representative in the General Assembly, subject to the action of the Democratic primary. The doctor was born and raised in Clilton county, and for the last ten years has been practicing medicine at Stanton. He is a man of education and private means, and belongs to one of the oldest families in the county. He has always stood by the Democratic party, and voted the Democratic ticket, but we have no information at hand as to whether he favors the "gold-bug" democracy or the "16 to 1" democracy. He will doubtless enlighten the constituency upon this point 'ere long. If elected he proposes to give his time and talent to the best interests of the people.

Cane Creek, March 19, 1900

Editor BANNER—I want to say a few words through the columns of your paper to the voters in the parts where they are to hold the primary election on the 30th inst. Gentlemen, if I don't get to see you, you can rest assured that I would appreciate anything you see fit to do for me. I hope there will be a good turnout, and what ever is done I am more than willing to be governed by it. Gentlemen, stand by, stand by, stand by the result thereof.

Respectfully,
MOSES A. KILLGORE.

Pletchers, March 18, 1900

Editor Banner. Mr. I. H. Johnson, who is now a candidate for Sheriff of Chilton county, is an intelligent man of good, moral habits, sober-minded, calm temper and brave, these qualities making him well qualified to fill the office. Mr. Johnson has been a resident of Chilton for about 12 years; he has always supported the democratic ticket. I hope the good people of Chilton will use every exertion in his favor, for I am sure that he is well qualified to discharge his duty and I am certain he will do so if he is elected.

Mr. J. E. McCullough, who is now a candidate for Tax Assessor, is a good nice man of good reputation; he has been a resident of Chilton county for about 15 years, 8 years of which he has held the office of Justice of the Peace in Beat 8. Mr. McCullough is a man well qualified for the office and will discharge his duty if he is elected.

Danger Signals!

Do you take cold with every change in the weather? Does your throat feel raw? And do sharp pains dart through your chest?

Don't you know these are danger signals which point to pneumonia, bronchitis, or consumption itself?

If you are ailing and have lost flesh lately, they are certainly danger signals. The question for you to decide is, "Have I the vitality to throw off these diseases?"

Don't wait to try SCOTT'S EMULSION "as a last resort." There is no remedy equal to it for fortifying the system. Prevention is easy.

Scott's Emulsion

prevents consumption and hosts of other diseases which attack the weak and those with poor blood.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is the one standard remedy for inflamed throats and lungs, for colds, bronchitis and consumption. It is a food medicine of remarkable power. A food, because it nourishes the body; and a medicine, because it corrects diseased conditions.

Editor Banner—

A few evenings ago I went out into the country to visit a school—a Friday afternoon exercise. When I entered I found a pleasant looking set of boys and girls; all were working harmoniously, and seemed to be full of life and enthusiasm. The teacher had exercises in grammar, arithmetic and history. It showed that some splendid work had been done, especially in grammar and arithmetic. I was surprised at their proficiency in the analysis of sentences, and also their insight into some difficult example in arithmetic. But the interest showed that they were willing to put some good effort in their work. Upon the whole, it showed that there were great possibilities for some of them—boys and girls, with healthy physique, laughing eyes, and bouyant spirits—the hope of our country.

Parent, neighbor, fellow citizen, should we not give such boys and girls more that a three or four months' school? Are they not worthy of anything better, than that?

THE COTTON BELT.

The cotton belt covers twenty-four degrees of longitude and ten degrees of latitude. Excluding from count the greatest part of Virginia, more than 100,000 square miles of western Texas, and the whole of Kentucky, Kansas, Missouri, Utah, California, Arizona, and New Mexico, in all of which cotton has been cultivated, and where a larger demand might cause its culture to be extended, the cotton growing region measures nearly 600,000 square miles, almost one-third of the total area of settlement in 1890 of the United States. The 20,000,000 acres planted in cotton occupy barely five acres in every 10 of this extensive region. Scarcely 50 per cent of the territory is in farms, and not more than one third has at any time been tilled. This section contained in 1890 a population of over 8,000,000 whites, and some times over 5,000,000 negroes, in all 13,651,000, every 100 of them producing fifty three bales of cotton, an average of 254 pounds of lint per capita.

In 1801 South Carolina led the other states in the production of cotton. In 1850 Alabama stood

TALES OF PLUCK AND ADVENTURE.

Rousing With a Bear.

LIVONIA is a part of our globe where fondness for pets coexists with love of sport. A Russian subject from that province tells me of the strange consideration evinced by one of her neighbors for the feelings of a bear, writes a correspondent of the London News. The animal had an odd fancy for sleeping indoors and in a bed. To humor him a room in a tower was always left open for the animal. Some nights he came and availed himself of the hospitality, but often he stayed out in the woods. If he arrived at his tower, and mounted the long flight of steps which led from outside to his own door, and found that anything prevented his entrance, the bear made a horrible noise, growling and battering the door.

In Livonia, during the brief Northern summer, the local magnates visit each other without prior arrangement, and they arrive prepared to stop the night. It not infrequently occurs that many carriages converge at the same time on one country house, with the result that as many as forty beds may be required. A large influx of visitors arrived one night at the house where the bear had his room. The last comer was a timid youth, a cousin of the house. The host met him, radiant:

"What a pleasure, Ivan. You'll find half the relations here. But, alas, you'll not have a good room. Every other corner is full. There's only the tower left. As you know, the bear comes there. But never mind. He does not put in an appearance every night."

The young man would fain have gone further, but the nearest country house was ten miles off, his horse tired, and the hospitable relations very pressing in their invitation to him to remain. He was greatly afraid of the bear, but still more afraid of offending host, hostess and all the other cousins and neighbors. He decided to stay, and at last retired to rest in a large, square room, with two beds in it. He inquired if he might not bar our the bear (the door had but a latch), but he was told that no fastenings might be used; the bear was too noisy if shut out. He "would not let a soul in the place have a wink of sleep." Besides, "he wasn't coming very likely." And further, "there wasn't any means of altogether fastening the door." "It was left on the latch on purpose." The last words of a rather sleepy cousin to the new comer were: "Better take the bed in the far corner, Ivan."

The guest can hardly be said to have slept there. The terror of Bruin kept him awake at first, and then Bruin himself. For in the small hours a shambling step and a sound of claws on the steps and balustrade froze the blood in the unhappy youth's veins. The noise came nearer. There was a fumbling at the latch. With great growling and grumbling, Bruin entered and put himself to bed in the couch near the door. Then the beast grumbled, grunted, and seemed to sniff. That sniffing alarmed the other occupant of the room most of all, for he thought it meant that the bear scented him, and might resent his presence. The wretch dared scarcely breathe. Dawn was breaking, but that was only another danger; the bear might see him. Bruin, a great, curled lump above the blankets, became in due time visible to his fellow lodger. Then the bear snored! There was comfort in that sound. But soon he rolled about, and growled and groaned discontentedly. The heart of the watcher beat painfully loud. He dared not rise. He had not nerve enough to pass the sleeping animal and rush down the steps. Terror paralyzed the youth, and prudence whispered that "inactivity" can be sometimes "masterly."

The slow hours dragged on. All the company had assembled downstairs at breakfast, but Bruin still slept, and the timid cousin watched him with eyes that burned and throbbed. At last the host said: "Where's Ivan? Where's the bear, too?" and a messenger was dispatched to the tower, there to find a pallid guest and his uninvited companion. The messenger routed out the bear, who had been kept as a pet when a cub, and who was really only half a wild beast—and helped the nerve-shattered youth to dress and join the breakfast party.

Pocket Knife His Only Weapon.

A wolf skin, badly cut about the left side and slashed across the neck and back, has been received by W. R. McFadden & Sons, taxidermists, of Denver, for full mounting.

There is a story in these slashes and cuts and the order that the skin be full mounted as a trophy. It is full of desperate courage and goes to prove that a lone wolf is not the cowardly creature that he has been represented. It shows, too, that a man, armed with only a pocket knife, is a terrible power among beasts when it comes to a hand-to-hand conflict. The hide was sent in by William H. Bouldin.

Bouldin encountered the wolf in a hand-to-hand fight. The hide and the gaping slashes around the heart tell how the battle waged and was won, and Bouldin's mangled arm and several long, gaping parallel cuts in his left side near the flank tell how desperately the bandit of the plains endeavored to maintain his right of sovereignty.

Bouldin is a sheep herder and grazes his flock near Deer Trail, Col. One day last week he was out as usual with the herd and about evening, as he was grazing back to the ranch, he saw a huge gray wolf galloping towards the head of the flock.

Bouldon was armed with only a pocket knife. He had barely time to jerk the small-bladed weapon out and open it before the wolf was upon him. Bouldin held the knife in his right hand and guarded his throat and abdomen with his left arm. The wolf's first spring was at the man's throat. He was warded off but his teeth snapped together on Bouldin's arm with a grip like a steel trap. Bouldin dug the brute in the left side with his knife time and again before he would release his hold.

The next spring the gray wolf made was for the herder's flank, just above the hip. He missed his hold but cut two long gashes in the flesh. He got a terrible rip from Bouldin's knife as he came. Then the man and beast fought furiously. The wolf would alternately snap at Bouldin's side and then mangle the protecting arm.

Bouldin kept digging at the wolf's heart, cutting him once down the mane on his neck and once between the shoulders. Finally the man got in a hard dig that weakened the animal. At the next lunge he got his knife into the brute's heart.

They had been fighting for over a quarter of an hour. Bouldin was covered with blood and very weak, but managed to reach the ranch, where his wounds were dressed. The wolf was brought in by the ranch hands. He was a huge one and evidently an old marander. The carcass weighed something over 100 pounds and was in fine condition. His skin was stripped off, the skull taken and both sent to Denver for mounting.

The animal's canine teeth, both upper and lower, measure considerably over an inch in length, and the grinding teeth were sharply cusped and terrible weapons in tearing.

Coolness Saves Him.

George Landford, one of the greatest oarsmen ever graduated by Yale, has lost his left arm in an accident in the Joliet (Ill.) mills of the McKenna Steel Working Company, of which he is superintendent. While inspecting some of the faulty machinery, in a position so perilous that he had hesitated to order any mechanic to perform the task, Langford was blinded by steam, and, groping, caught his hand in a pair of cog-wheels.

The cogs wound in his hand and arm to the shoulder, and then Langford managed to free himself. Amputation was performed forty-five minutes after the accident. The patient's life was despaired of during the evening, but later he rallied, and now, on account of his magnificent physique, he is said to be out of danger.

At the time of the accident the white-hot steel bars were rolling through the presses, and in between them Langford crept. A misstep would have burned him to death.

Just before the bars enter the rolls streams of water are turned upon them. When the water was turned on a dense cloud of steam rose and completely enveloped Langford.

Langford retained not only his consciousness when his arm was caught, but presence of mind, and, throwing his weight to one side, gradually worked the arm to the wheel and extricated it. Then creeping out he rose and walked quietly away, with the arm hanging limp at his side. He fell exhausted at the threshold of the factory, but did not lose consciousness. When relief came he directed the method of binding up the arm to stop the bleeding.

Langford refused to take an anæsthetic, and for the success of the operation the physicians were obliged to administer chloroform by strategy.

Langford rowed in the Harvard-Yale-Cornell race of 1897, and in the Henley regatta of 1896.

Brave Nettie McWilliams.

Miss Nettie McWilliams, daughter of Captain James McWilliams, one of the richest ranchers and cattlemen in Texas, has won for herself a reputation of being the bravest girl in the State. When she was in her nineteenth year a band of twenty Apaches made a descent on her father's ranch one day when but three men were at home, her father being away with the rest of his employes.

As the Indians approached the house with yells and fired guns at the doors and windows, the young girl and her three men fired back and killed three of the savages without themselves receiving a scratch. The Indians fell back and concealed themselves behind the stockade of the corral. In the meantime it was necessary that the little band in the house should have reinforcements, and Nettie, assuming command, insisted that it should be she who should risk her life and go for help.

Giving three sharp notes on a little silver whistle, her pet horse came to the back door and was let into the house. The girl saddled and bridled him, and, riding him out of a door opposite to the hiding place of the Indians, was half a mile away before they discovered her. She fortunately met a force of eight cowboys, who gladly agreed to return with her. Nettie acted as guide and leader. As they neared her home shots were falling hot and heavy. Night had fallen in the meantime, and under cover of the darkness they came within a hundred yards of the marauders unseen. Then they fired into them, and but five Indians escaped. Nettie herself shot the leader, Black Wolf, who was said to be the worst Indian on the border.

FARM AND GARDEN.

Cranberry Season Shortening.

Twenty years ago cranberries were practically the only spring fruit and they sold way into April and May. The increased shipments of Southern vegetables have cut the selling period back two months. When strawberries become seasonable cranberry sales fall right off.

Wintering Celery.

The large celery growers of Kalamazoo, Mich., winter the celery in houses or frames constructed for the purpose. Selecting a piece of upland dry ground, the soil is excavated two feet deep. A frame is then set up which is six feet high at the ridge pole. The roof is covered with boards twelve feet in length running from the peak of the roof to the ground surface. Enough windows are put in to give needed light. The sides of the house are banked up all around, and coarse litter or straw or hay is covered over the roof to keep out frost. These storage houses or cellars are built twenty-four feet wide and from fifty to 100 feet in length. A building fifty feet long will hold 50,000 heads of celery. The plants are dug while green, the roots left on, and they are set upright in the cellars, as closely together as they can be packed, and in a few weeks in these quarters they are well blanched, and ready for marketing as desired.

Care of Farm Stock.

The care of animals at the barns and sheds will form no small part of the work during the winter, and while a boy may assist at this, and should do so to learn the business, a man should always have an oversight of it, that he may know that they are properly fed and that they are in good health and thrifty. If one fails to eat its rations or is ailing in any way, early notice of the fact may reveal the cause and suggest a remedy, while a few days' neglect might cause the loss of the animals. We believe that from January until April two feeds a day, giving enough morning and night, is better than three feeds for anything excepting working animals, and even for them, if the work is not severe and the days too long, and we would not have any feeding done after they had lain down at night, if one would furnish feed and do the work for nothing. But whatever system is adopted, it should be strictly carried out. Regular hours for feeding, Sunday mornings as well as other days, is of the greatest importance, and regular hours of milking. We were never able to see advantage enough in cooking food of any kind to repay the cost of labor and fuel. We know that corse, rough fodder is eaten up cleaner when cut and steamed, but we doubt if the gain is sufficient even then to repay the cost. —Farm, Field and Fireside.

Good Gate Latches.

The form of the gate latch or fastening is an important portion of a fence and care should be exercised in making. The form shown in Fig. 1 is very simple and effective. The latch, a, is of hard, tough wood, eighteen inches in length, three-quarter inch thick, and 1½ inches wide. Through the inner end a wooden pin holds it in position. When the gate is closed the outer projecting end rests in a notch cut in the post, as at s. All the plans shown admit of the gate opening either way if desired. In Fig. 2, a swinging latch is used, which should be about the size of that in Fig. 1. It is suspended by a wire at c. Two wooden pins prevent it from being moved too far in either direction. The plan in Fig. 3 is quite similar to the others, and is clearly shown. The latch, c, is shown in an enlarged form. A notch is cut in the lower side, which rests on a pin when the gate is closed, the weight of the latch keeping it in position. Next in importance to the hinges of a gate are the fastenings, which should invariably be made of the very best material.—Farm and Home.

EFFECTIVE GATE LATCH.

Corn For Laying Hens.

It sometimes looks as if certain hobbies were selected solely for the purpose of provoking an argument, and the old threadbare cry of "too much corn" seems to be the one among all others that, like Banquo's ghost, keeps constantly bobbing up. Now, why in the name of all goodness is all this hue and cry raised over the feeding of corn to laying hens?

Our grandmothers went to the corn bin every day with the dishpan, which they generously filled and distributed without stint to the hens, and who will deny that at the end of each month the balance of accounts at the wayside store was not in their favor?

The hens layed during the coldest days of winter, even though in many cases not the warmest houses were provided.

You never then heard the cry of overfeeding; on the contrary, every effort was made to keep the hens fat. They hustled and worked all day, never failing in that most important task of laying. But now every time our hens cease to lay or get dumpy, we are promptly told that we are overfeeding.

There most certainly is reason in everything, and if our hens are confined in yards we must as near as possible conform to nature's wants. Still, there are more failures from lack of feed than there are from an oversupply.

Corn should be one of the principal feeds for laying hens—just enough of other grains to furnish an agreeable change being given, and you can rest assured that if the hens do not lay the fault lies elsewhere.

Of course during the warm months a less heating diet should take its place, oats being perhaps the cheapest and best of the other grains.—Home and Farm.

The Plan of a Farm Granary.

I have found the granary, the ground plan of which is illustrated herewith, most satisfactory for my own use, says H. B. Moore, in New England Homestead. It is 28 by 32 feet. The cornerib, 8 by 32 feet, occupies one side of the granary. This bin will hold about 1000 bushels of ear corn. Next to this is a driveway 10 by 32 feet. Three small bins are provided for meal feeds or grain if so desired. An oat bin 10 by 12 feet will hold enough for the ordinary farmer. The cleaning alley, 6 by 10 feet, is very essential in cleaning seed for spring use. The corner posts are 10 feet high. The attic or upper floor is used for a storage way for farm tools, sacks, etc. These are hoisted by means of a trap door, rope and pulley.

The small grain portion is sided first with shiplap and over this is placed No. 2 house siding. This adds to the strength of the building, keeps out beating rains and makes it almost impossible for mice to get into the granary. The small grain side will hold about 2500 bushels. The alleyway can be used for storing buggies or when needed can be utilized for ear corn. If desired, farm scales can be put in the alleyway and there will be no freezing down or rotting, as they are always under shelter. A stairway leads to the second story out of the cleaning alley.

Routine Dairy Work.

Routine care of dairy stock in winter is essential to success. A stated hour for feeding, another for milking, a third for cleaning the stable should be observed punctually. No other dairy system can be made to pay. Cows soon adjust themselves to conditions; if the conditions are wrong, they go wrong, too.

It will pay to get started right. If the cows are milk at 7 o'clock on week days and 9 o'clock on Sundays, fed and watered irregularly, the stable cleaned whenever time permits, dairy luck will fly out of the window. Where other farm products are cheap, there isn't a farmer who does not need to keep his dairy luck at home. On winter mornings cows need attention early. Their natural inclination is to go to feeding soon after daybreak. Set the milking time so that it will divide the twenty-four-hour day equally, as six in the morning, six at night or 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. respectively. By not varying from this plan, the lacteal economy of the cow will be educated to regularity in milk secretion and accumulation, and the cow will yield more milk when milked regularly.

As cleaning the stable befouls to some extent the atmosphere, it had better be done after milking rather than before. If done immediately before, a deodorant can be used on the floor prior to beginning milking. Milk flavor is so delicate and fragile a thing that in winter especially the greatest care is necessary to preserve it. The odor from cows and their surroundings in summer time is not offensive to even the most fastidious, but in winter it takes a routine system of care to preserve this cleanliness.

Feed regularly. I urge this not solely because the cows appreciate it, but because they demand it. When a cow's stomach is empty, her milk bag becomes empty, too. While I believe in heavy feeding, yet a small quantity of food given regularly will produce more milk than heavy rations of the same character fed irregularly. While digestion and rumination are going on there should be plenty of water in the cow's stomach. The animal's own desire will decide how large a quantity. It is necessary both for the assimilation of food and to make up the 87½ per cent. of water contained in the milk. It must be remembered that cows are dumb, and that, confined in stanchions, they cannot manifest their thirst by any sign. Their need in this direction must be anticipated, not spasmodically, but as routine practice. If several hours elapse without gratification, the present need has passed. They may drink, but the milk flow has been shrunken. Dairymen, this winter of all others you cannot afford this. You cannot afford to neglect any little detail the observance of which would add to your dairy income.—George E. Newell, in American Agriculturist.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

After three months' work by an American superintendent, 100,000 children are attending school in Cuba. Even the native agitators are compelled to admit that American educational methods are surprisingly effective in bringing about prompt results.

An index of German prosperity has been found in the increasing number of Germans who visit Italy. In 1890 the number of German tourists who travelled on the Gotthard Railway was 28,000; in 1896 it was 40,000. Of Swiss cities Lucerne benefits most by this annual migration.

It is estimated that not twenty per cent. of the population of Russia has acquired even the rudiments of a common school education. In 50,000 villages of the empire there is not a school. In point of illiteracy Russia outranks all other nations.

On top of the Hague peace conference is the demand of the British government for an appropriation of $150,000,000 for the building of new warships, in excess of those to be built by France and Russia. "To command peace, be ready for war," is a theory which Great Britain has steadily maintained.

A Beaver City (Neb.) man, convicted of crime five years ago, and missing since then, recently returned and surrendered. He protested his innocence, but said that he was tired of being a fugitive, and wished to serve his sentence and be a free man in order that he might care for his mother in her declining years.

The all-ideas of "early morning exercise," "walks before breakfast" and "up with the lark" are now denounced by the majority of hygienic teachers. The theory, as now exploited, is that at that time vitality is at its lowest ebb and needs the stimulation of food. Mid-afternoon is said to be the best time for outdoor exercise.

The mischievous activity of the small boy has found another vent in starting automobiles left standing in the street and causing runaways, says the New York Herald. Owners of such vehicles should either not leave them unguarded or else remove enough of the mechanism to make it impossible to operate it in their absence.

The discarding of orange blossoms at weddings by some ultra-fashionable seems to be a senseless bit of iconoclasm. Older than the Anglo-Saxon race was the use of orange blossoms. In Arabia was its first symbolism in bridal wreaths. (The orange branch bears fruit and flowers at the same time, and nothing could be a fairer emblem of sweet prosperity.

Captain Leary, the energetic Governor of Guam, requests a library and a set of musical instruments for use in that lonely island station. Art of the right sort is a civilizer. And literature (if not of the dime novel and kindred sorts) is a humanizing influence. But we hope these books if they go will be well selected, and that the musical instruments will at least be in tune.

Italy is complaining of famine prices for coal. Ambassador Draper transmits an Italian newspaper article predicting presently prices of $9.65 in Genoa and $11.58 in Milan. What chance has the continent of Europe to continue its manufacturing competition with the United States for another fifty years when it is dependent upon British coal for motive power on its railroads and to turn the wheels of its factories.

It is pretty hard to catch the proverbial Yankee napping. Already American bridge building firms are sending out engineers to make the measurements of structures destroyed in South Africa, so as to be ready to bid on their reconstruction at the close of the war. It is such enterprise that has put the Americans in the forefront of all nations with reference to quick and efficient work of all kinds.

President Hadley of Yale set forth his notion of the university's duty in a recent address in Brooklyn. He holds that our universities are now suffering from the presence of too many specialists in their teaching force. The crying need is for men who are at once broad and deep. All college graduates ought to be leaders in public sentiment. The public school system was established primarily to make them capable of self-government. Similarly the modern university must aim to train men who can govern themselves and, when need arises, their fellows.

The opportunity for the coming soldier to secure commissioned rank has been greater in the last twelve months than at any previous time in the history of the army, and more from this fifteen years remarks the Washington Times. It is proposed to still further recognize men from the ranks in making appointments to vacancies which now exist, so it can no longer be claimed the man who now enrolls in the ranks has not a fair chance of being a commissioned officer if he is bright enough to meet the examination requirements.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: The Needle's Havoc—An Appeal For Mercy For Oppressed Womanhood—Let Her Have an Equal Chance With Man in the Struggle of Life.

(Copyright, 1900.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This discourse of Dr. Talmage is an appeal for mercy in behalf of oppressed womanhood and offers encouragement to those struggling for a livelihood; text, Ecclesiastes, iv., 1, "Behold the tears of such as were oppressed, and they had no comforter."

Very long ago the needle was busy. It was considered honorable for women to toil in olden times. Alexander the Great stood in his palace showing garments made by his own mother. The finest tapestries at Bayeux was made by the queen of William the Conqueror. Augustus, the emperor, would not wear any garments except those that were fashioned by some member of his royal family. So let the toiler everywhere be respected.

The needle has slain more than the sword. When the sewing machine was invented, some thought that invention would alleviate woman's toil and put an end to the despotism of the needle. But no. While the sewing machine has been a great blessing to well-to-do families, to many it has added to the stab of the needle the rush of the wheel, and multitudes of women, notwithstanding the re-enforcement of the sewing machine, can only make, work hard as they will, between $2 and $3 a week.

The greatest blessing that could have happened to our first parents was being turned out of Eden after they had done wrong. Adam and Eve, in their perfect state might have got along without work or only such slight employment as a perfect garden with no weeds in it demanded. But as soon as they had sinned the best thing for them was to be turned out where they would have to work. We know what a withering curse it is for a man to have nothing to do. Of the thousand prosperous and honorable men that you know 999 had to work vigorously at the beginning. But I am now to tell you that industry is just as important for a woman's safety and happiness. The most unhappy women in our communities to-day are those who have no engagements to call them up in the morning; who, once having risen and breakfasted, lounge through the dull forenoon in slippers down at the heel and with dishevelled hair, reading the last novel, and who, having dragged through a wretched forenoon and taken their afternoon sleep and having passed an hour and a half at their toilet, pick up their card-case and go out to make calls, and who pass their evenings waiting for somebody to come in and break up the monotony. Arabella Stuart never was imprisoned in so dark a dungeon as that.

There is no happiness in an idle woman. It may be with hand, it may be with brain, it may be with foot, but work she must or be wretched forever. The little girls of our families must be started with that idea. The curse of American society is that our young women are taught that the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, tenth, fiftieth, thousandth thing in their life is to get somebody to take care of them. Instead of that the first lesson should be how under God they may take care of themselves. The simple fact is that a majority of them do have to take care of themselves, and that, too, after having through the false notions of their parents wasted the years in which they ought to have learned how successfully to maintain themselves. We now and here declare the inhumanity, cruelty and outrage of that father and mother who pass their daughters into womanhood, having given them no faculty for earning their livelihood.

Mme. de Staël said, "It is not these writings that I am proud of, but the fact that I have facility in ten occupations, in any one of which I could make a livelihood." You say you have a fortune to leave them. Oh, man and woman, have you not learned that, like vultures, like hawks, like eagles, riches have wings and fly away? Though you should be successful in leaving a competency behind you, the trickery of executors may swamp it in a night or some official in our churches may get up a mining company and induce your orphans to put their money into a hole in Colorado and if by the most skillful machinery the sunken money cannot be brought up again prove to them that it was eternally decreed that that was the way they were to lose it and that it went in the most orthodox and heavenly style. Oh, the damnable schemes that professed Christians will engage in until God puts His fingers into the collar of the hypocrite's robe and strips it clear down to the bottom! You have no right, because you are well off, to conclude that your children are going to be well off. A man died leaving a large fortune. His son fell dead in a Philadelphia grogshop. His old comrades came in and said as they bent over his corpse, "What is the matter with you, Foggsy?" The surgeon standing over him said: "Hush ye! He is dead!" "Oh, he is dead!" they said. "Come, boys; let us go and take a drink in memory of poor Foggsy!" Have you nothing better than money to leave your children? If you have not, but send your daughters into the world with empty brain and unskilled hand, you are guilty of assassination, homicide, infanticide.

There are women toiling in our cities for $2 or $3 a week who were the daughters of merchant princes. These suffering ones now would be glad to have the crumbs that once fell from their father's table. That worn out broken shoe that she wears is the lineal descendant of the $12 gaiter in which her mother walked and that torn and faded calico had ancestory of magnificent brocade that swept Pennsylvania avenue and Broadway clean without any expense to the street commissioners. Though you live in an elegant residence and fare sumptuously every day, let your daughters feel it is a disgrace for them not to know how to work. I denounce the idea prevalent in society that, though our young women may embroider slippers and crochet and make mats for lamps to stand on without disgrace, the idea of doing anything for a livelihood is dishonorable. It is a shame for a young woman belonging to a large family to be inefficient when her father toils at his life away for her support. It is a shame for a daughter to be idle while her mother toils at the washtub. It is as honorable to sweep house, make beds or trim hats as it is to twist a watch chain.

So far as I can understand the line of respectability lies between that which is useful and that which is useless. If women do that which is of no value, their work is honorable. If they do practical work, it is dishonorable. That our young women may escape the censure of doing dishonorable work I shall particularize. You may knit a tidy for the back of an arm-chair, but by no means make the money wherewith to buy the chair. You may with a delicate brush beautify a mantel ornament, but die rather than earn enough to buy a marble mantel. You may learn artistic music until you can squall Italian, but never sing "Ortonville" or "Old Hundredth." Do nothing practical if you would in the eyes of refined society preserve your respectability. I scout these foolish notions. I tell you a woman, no more than a man, has a right to occupy a place in this world unless she pays a rent for it.

In the course of a lifetime you consume whole harvests and droves of cattle and every day you live breathe forty hecheads of good, pure air. You must by some kind of usefulness pay for all this. Our race was the last thing created—the birds and fishes on the fourth day the cattle and lizards on the fifth day and man on the sixth day. If geologists are right, the earth was a million of years in the possession of the insects, beasts and birds before our race came upon it. In one sense we were invaders. The cattle, the lizards and the hawks had preemption right. The question is not what we are to do with the lizards and summer insects, but what the lizards and summer insects are to do with us. If we want a place in this world, we must earn it. The partridge makes its own nest before it occupies it. The lark by its morning song earns its breakfast before it eats it, and the Bible gives an intimation that the first duty of an idler is to starve when it says, "If he will not work, neither shall he eat." Idleness ruins the health, and very soon nature says: "This man has refused to pay his rent. Out with him!" Society is to be reconstructed on the subject of woman's toil. A vast majority of those who would have woman industrious shut her up to a few kinds of work. My judgment in this matter is that a woman has a right to do anything she can do well. There should be no department of merchandise, mechanism, art or science barred against her. If Miss Hosmer has genius for sculpture, give her a chisel. If Rosa Bonheur has a fondness for delineating animals let her make "The Horse Fair." If Miss Mitchell will study astronomy, let her mount the starry ladder. If Lydia will be a merchant, let her sell purple. If Lucretia Mott will preach the gospel, let her thrill with her womanly eloquence the Quaker meeting house.

It is said if woman is given such opportunities she will occupy places that might be taken by men. I say, if she have more skill and adaptedness for any position than a man has, let her have it. She has as much right to her bread, to her apparel and to her home as man has. But it is said that her nature is so delicate that she is unfitted for exhausting toil. I ask in the name of all past history what toil on earth is more severe, exhausting and tremendous than that toil of the needle to which for ages she has been subjected? The battering ram, the sword, the carbine, the battlefield, have made no such havoc as the needle. I would that these living sepulchres in which women have for ages been buried might be opened and that some resurrection trumpet might bring up these living corpses in the fresh air and sunlight.

Go with me, and I will show you a woman who by hardest toil supports her children, her drunken husband, her old father and mother, pays her house rent, always has wholesome food on her table and when she can get some neighbor on the Sabbath to come in and take care of her family appears in church with hat and cloak that are far from indicating the toil to which she is subjected. Such a woman as that has body and soul enough to fit her for any position. She could stand beside the majority of your salesmen and dispose of more goods. She could go into your wheelwright shops and beat one-half of your workmen at making carriages. We talk about woman as though we had resigned to her all the light work and ourselves had shouldered the heavier. But the day of judgment, which will reveal the sufferings of the stake and inquisition, will marshal before the throne of God and the hierarchs of heaven the martyrs of washtub and needle. Now, I say if there be any preference in occupation let woman have it. God knows her trials are the severest. By her acuter sensitiveness to misfortune, by her hour of anguish, I demand that no one hedge up her pathway to a livelihood. Oh, the meanness, the despicability of men who begrudge a woman the right to work anywhere in any honorable calling!

I go still further and say that woman should have equal compensation with men. By what principle of justice is it that women in many of our cities get only two-thirds as much pay as men and in many cases only half? Here is the gigantic injustice—that for work equally well if not better done woman receives far less compensation than man. Start with the National Government. Women clerks in Washington get $900 for doing that for which men receive $1800. The wheel of oppression is rolling over the necks of thousands of women who are at this moment in despair about what they are to do. Many of the largest mercantile establishments of our cities are accessory to these abominations, and from their large establishments there are scores of souls being pitched off into death, and their employers know it. Is there a God? Will there be a judgment? I tell you if God rises up to redress woman's wrongs many of our large establishments will be swallowed up quicker than a South American earthquake ever took down a city. God will catch these oppressors between the two millstones of His wrath and grind them so powder.

Why is it that a female principal in a school gets only $825 for doing work for which a male principal gets $1650? I hear from all this land the wail of womanhood. Man has nothing to answer to that wail but flatteries. He says she is an angel. She is not. She knows she is not. She is a human being who gets hungry when she has no food and cold when she has no fire. Give her no more flatteries; give her justice! Oh, the thousand cases of sewing girls! Across the sunlight comes their death groan. It is not such a cry as comes from those who are suddenly hurled out of life, but a slow, grinding, horrible wasting away. Gather them before you and look into their faces, pinched, ghastly, hunger struck! Look at their fingers, needle-pricked and blood-tipped! See that premature stoop in the shoulders! Hear that dry, hacking, merciless cough! At a large meeting of these women held in Philadelphia grand speeches were delivered, but a needlewoman took the stand, threw aside her faded shawl, and with her shriveled arm hurled a very thunderbolt of eloquence, speaking out the horrors of her own experience.

Stand at the corner of a street in some great city at 6 or 7 o'clock in the morning as the women go to work. Many of them had no breakfast except the crumbs that were left over from the night before or the crumbs they chew on their way through the street. Here they come! The working girls of the cities. These engaged in bead-work, those in flower making, in millinery, in paper box making, but, most overwork of all and least compensated, the sewing women. Why do they not take the city cars on their way up? They cannot afford the five cents. If, concluding to deny herself something else, she gets into the car, give her a seat. You want to see how Latimer and Ridley appeared in the fire. Look at that woman and behold a more horrible martyrdom, a hotter fire, a more agonizing death. Ask that woman how much she gets for her work, and she will tell you six cents for making coarse shirts and finds her own thread.

Years ago one Sabbath night in the vestibule of our church after service a woman fell in convulsions. The doctor said she needed medicine not so much as something to eat. As she began to revive in her delirium she said gaspingly: "Eight cents! Eight cents! I wish I could get it done. I am so tired. I wish I could get some sleep, but I must get it done. Eight cents! Eight cents!" We found afterward that she was making garments for eight cents apiece and that she could make but three of them in a day. Hear it! Three times eight are twenty-four. Hear it, men and women, who have comfortable homes! Some of the worst villians of our cities are the employers of these women. They beat them down to their last penny and try to cheat them out of that. The woman must deposit a dollars or two before she gets the garments to work on. When the work is done, it is sharply inspected, the most insignificant flaws picked out and the wages refused and sometimes the dollar deposited not given back. The Women's Protective Union reports a case where one of the poor souls, finding a place where she could get more wages, resolved to change employers and went to get her pay for work done. The employer said, "I hear you are going to leave me?" "Yes," she said, "and I have come to get what you owe me." He made no answer. She said, "Are you not going to pay me?" "Yes," he said; "I will pay you." And he kicked her downstairs.

THE MERRY SIDE OF LIFE.

STORIES THAT ARE TOLD BY THE FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS

One of Life's Amenities—A Great Art in Little—At Greatly Reduced Prices—A Martyr—How Baby Got His Teeth—Willing to Oblige, Etc., Etc.

Here and there, along life's journey,
Facts arise which gloom appease:
For the pump can't help the milkman
When it comes to making cheese.
—Chicago Record.

A Great Art in Little.

"Is there really any art in conversing?"

"Of course; always say small things in a big way and big things in a small way."—Indianapolis Journal.

At Greatly Reduced Prices.

"A dozen porcelain plates are held at $10,000 by a New York dealer."

"They wouldn't be held at that price long if our hired girl had the holding of them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Martyr.

"Yes, she is a woman who has suffered a great deal because of her belief."

"Indeed! And what is her belief?"

"That she can wear a No. 3 shoe on a No. 6 foot."

How Baby Got His Teeth.

Mrs. Nettleson—"The dentist's baby seems to be very young to have teeth."

The Nurse (confidentially)—"Don't say anything, but the child's father made him the set."

Willing to Oblige.

Beggar—"Could yer spare me a quarter, sir?"

Citizen—"I have nothing smaller than a fifty-dollar bill."

Beggar—"Well, slide 'er out. If it's good I'll change it fer you."—Judge.

A Differentiation.

"Your spelling is something terrible, Johnny," said a mother to her young hopeful, as she glanced over a letter he had written.

"Huh!" said Johnny, "that ain't spellin'—that's writin'."—Chicago Record.

A Critical Moment.

She—"You hesitated when I asked you if I were the only girl you had ever loved."

He—"Yes. I couldn't tell from your expression whether you wanted me to say 'yes' or 'no.'"—Indianapolis Journal.

Facing the Enemy.

Mrs. Bullitt—"Tell me it again, darling, the story of your facing death fearlessly before Santiago."

Major Bullitt—"But you must be tired hearing it."

"Oh, no! It will nerve me to go down and face the cook."—Brooklyn Life.

Changed Conditions.

Father—"That man should be an example to you, my son. He entered a store as office-boy and worked himself up until in a few years he owned the business."

Son—"He could never do that in these days, pa, when they have cash-registers."—Judge.

A Better Phrase.

"Why not be up to date?"

"In what way?"

"You just referred to a man as apparently having as many lives as a cat."

"Well, what should I say?"

"As many lives as the Emperor of China."—Chicago Post.

From Bad to Worse.

She—"I would like to call you by your Christian name, love, but Tom is so hateful and common, you know. Haven't you some pet name?"

He—"N—no, I—er haven't."

She—"Are you always known as Tom among your friends?"

He (brightening up)—No, the boys call me 'Shorty.'"—Harlem Life.

Willing to Have It Stolen.

"Say," called the victim from beneath the bed coverings.

"Well?" asked one of the burglars, gruffly.

"Would you fellows mind carrying off that ornamental watch-dog of mine in the front yard along with the rest of your swag?"—Philadelphia North American.

Sudden Taking Off.

Morrell—"This life is getting to be a constant rush. Even death seems to come quicker than it used to."

Wytte—"True. There's the interesting case of a man I knew; buried one day and died the next."

Morrell—"Got that twisted, haven't you?"

Wytte—"No. This man was an undertaker."—Philadelphia Press.

A Sure Thing.

Sparkle—"Your sister is wearing one of Miss Pinkie's rings; I wish you'd get it for me. I want to take the measure. Going to buy an engagement ring, you know."

Barkle—"Eh? Has Miss Pinkie accepted you?"

Sparkle—"She will, when I propose. Last night she asked me how I liked her mother."—New York Weekly.

Easy.

All this time the great railway magnate had sat silent, listening.

At last he spoke.

"Young man," he said, "I am not sure I understand you. Please be a little more explicit."

"I am asking you, sir," said the young man, reddening, "for the hand of your daughter."

"Oh, is that all?" rejoined the magnate. "Why certainly. If she has no objections I haven't. I thought you were striking me for a pass."—Chicago Tribune.

Danger in the Lily.

From the New York Times.—"If you knew as much about the lily of the valley as I do you would not put that stem in your mouth," politely remarked the florist to one of his customers as he placed a spray of the fragrant and graceful blossoms between his teeth. "It's not a very elegant habit, I confess," responded the customer, a bit testily, "but it's an old one, and I can't readily break myself of it." "Pardon me, but it is not the habit of which I was speaking, but of the flower itself. The lily is a dangerous flower to chew, differing from most of those one buys at the stores, for while this one stem may do you no harm, it is a fact that the lily is poisonous to man and beast alike, and as very few people know it, I always like to let my customers know the fact. Then they can wine on them if they like."

To My Friends in Georgia,

Many of whom have known of my long suffering from that dreadful affliction, Eczema: "I am proud to testify to the wonderful merits of Tetterine, which has cured me as sound as a gold dollar, after spending more than $400.00 for other remedies without the slightest relief. Wm. M. Tumlin, Manager Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association." 50c. box at druggists or by mail from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

The Worst Way.

Stranger—The cars don't run very regularly on this line, do they? Native—Not very. Are you in a hurry? Stranger—Yes, I am. I want to get down to the ferry the worst way. Native—O! you do? Well, this is the way you want to go.—Philadelphia Press.

His Dream.

Mr. Murray Hill—I dreamt of you last night. Miss Bunker Hill (coldly)—Ah, how good of you. Mr. Murray Hill—Yes; then I woke up and shut down the windows and put an extra blanket on the bed.—Patent Record.

Nature's MOST Natural Remedy

Improved by Science to a PLEASANT, PERMANENT, POSITIVE CURE

For Coughs, Colds, and all Inflamed Surfaces of the Lungs and Bronchial Tubes.

Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

The sore, weary cough-worn lungs are exhilarated, the microbe bearing mucus is cut out, the cause of that tickling is removed, and the inflamed membranes are healed and soothed so that there is no inclination to cough.

A COLD! A COUGH! CONSUMPTION!

My little daughter has been subject to severe colds and croup, and often taken with violent coughing spells at night. Dr Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is the only preparation I have found that will relieve her. I think it is necessary in the household.—B. L. Jeans, Louisville, Ky.

I have been seriously affected for twenty-five years with a cough and pains in my side and breast that were causing me a miserable life. I spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and for medicine, but everything failed until I used Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It beats the world, and has saved my life. I recommend Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey to everybody with weak lungs. It is a great success.—J. B. Rossell, Grantsburg, Ill.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

If not sold in your town write us for catalogue.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It is the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists. Guaranteed.

Wm. Orr, Newark, O., says, "We never feel safe without One Minute Cough Cure in the house. It saved my little boy's life when he had the pneumonia. We think it is the best medicine made. It cures coughs and all lung diseases. Pleasant to take, harmless and gives immediate results. J. B. Downs.

Randolph.

Waldrups school-house — the school at this place taught by Miss Celestia Dunlap has closed.

Mrs. John Armstrong, who has been sick, we are pleased to learn is better.

Mrs. Atchison is on the sick list, but we learn is improving.

Mr. Waldrup's family was recently called to Providence to attend the burial of our esteemed friend Mr. Henry Houlditch.

Farm work is making hast slowly, so much rain.

A series of meetings were recently conducted here by Evangelist Frank Draper, of Pensylvania, representing the church of the "Living God." Two of his parlor talks, the "narrow way to life," and the "Two natives," previous to and after convertion, were doubtless the finest the people here ever heard.

Mr. W. A. Mims, of Thorsby, was in the community recently.

Misses Edwards and DeShazo, of Lily, attended the meeting here.

Politics have been quite lively here, and doubtless will continue for some time yet.

We wonder what made the Populist executive committee give us such a snowy day for the primary?

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs Geo. F. Parsons & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this remedy to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." For sale by Clanton drug company, and D. I persmus, Verbena.

THE BOER INTENTION.

Leaders Will Hold Out for Several Months, Hoping for Intervention.

A Durban dispatch says: It is learned from an authentic source that the Boer leaders are aware that they are beaten, but think they can hold out from four to six months, within which time they firmly believe foreign intervention will force Great Britain to grant favorable terms, including independence. The mission of Messrs. Wolmerans, Fisher and Wessels to Europe is to hasten this, so far as Germany is concerned.

The Boer plans include a stand at Kroonstadt, the Vaal river and other points, culminating in the defense of Pretoria, which has been prepared for a siege. The ranges for the guns have been tested, mines have been laid, and the forces in the field have not allowed themselves to be cut off with their heavy guns, which are needed in the forts at Pretoria.

The majority of the Transvaalers are ignorant of the gravity of the situation, and though tired of remaining so long from their farms, will fight hard, believing that their liberty and property are at stake, and are confident of ultimate success.

CHATTANOOGA SOUTHERN.

Revival of Rumor That This Line Will Be Extended to Birmingham.

It is currently rumored in Chattanooga that the Chattanooga Southern road will be extended to Birmingham in the immediate future. Whether the road will be extended this year is more or less conjecture, but Chattanooga people who claim to be informed on the matter, assert that it is a certainty. In reference to the subject the Chattanooga Times says that it has been ascertained there that within a relatively short time the management of that road will actively take up the matter of extending their road into Birmingham, thence to Montgomery. The matter of an extension to lock 3, Alabama, a distance of twelve miles below Gadsden, will enable the Chattanooga Southern to reach Birmingham over the East and West.

Conference Report Agreed to.

After a brief and spirited debate the house Saturday took the last congressional step in completing the Puerto Rico tariff bill, agreeing to the conference report by a vote of 185 to 87. The bill turns over to the President for the use of Puerto Rico about $2,000,000 of custom receipts collected on Puerto Rican goods up to January 1 last, and such amounts as may hereafter accrue until otherwise provided by law.

Wheeler on Waiting List.

After several conferences Saturday between General Wheeler and officers of the administration it was announced that the war department had temporarily disposed of his case by placing him on waiting orders. This action retains General Wheeler in the service of the United States until opportunity is had to determine whether he shall be given active command, made the subject of a special retirement act, or mustered out of the military service.

Gurley and Paint Rock Road.

The Gurley and Paint Rock Valley railroad now seems to be a certainty. An option on 100,000 acres of land has been secured and the money is being paid over and acklowledgements taken. As soon as the preliminaries are completed, the transfer will be made and work will begin at once. Captain Frank B. Gurley is promoting the interests of the proposed railway.

The Baltimore Sun, enumerating the advantages of automobiles over horse wagons, says: "The wear and tear on pavements will be reduced, while at the same time the noise of the crowded streets will be lessened by the use of rubber tires. The danger of accidents from runaways will, of course, be eliminated when there are no horses on the streets to get frightened."

Successful authors' advice to young aspirants is bewildering. "Don't take to literature," said Grant Allen, "if you have capital enough to buy a good broom and energy enough to annex a vacant street crossing." Now we see Grant Allen, Jr., going into the publishing business. Very few men take their own advice, and possibly still fewer expect their children to.

STATE NEWS CHRONICLINGS

STATE COMMITTEE SETTLES QUESTIONS

Attempted Assassination at Blount Springs—Another Cotton Yarn Factory—Big Libel Suit Filed. Moonshiners Surprised.

The democratic state committee met in Montgomery Friday, and some important actions were taken. Briefly summed up, the work of the committee may be stated as follows:

The Autauga county committee was directed to order a county convention for the selection of officers and delegates. The Geneva county contest was referred back to the old county committee for settlement. A change of date for the holding of the primary in Mobile, Montgomery in Jefferson at the request of retail liquor dealers was refused.

A resolution was adopted declaring it the sense of the committee that only white voters should participate in the April primaries. The committee was in session about ten hours and the meeting was harmonious, no bitterness having entered into the discussions.

Attempted Assassination.

At Blount Springs, Friday night, when Joe Mason, bookkeeper for the Blount Improvement company, entered his bed-room, over the store, he was attacked by an unknown man and shot, the ball taking effect in the left thigh. When Mason went into the room he put his pistol under the pillow, as is his custom, and walked over to the dresser to make preparations for retiring. He had hardly reached the dresser when he was shot. Quickly turning, he saw a white man, not more than three or four feet from him, with a smoking pistol in his hand. He rushed upon the man and they grappled, but the man finally released himself and ran down the steps and escaped in the dark.

Raided the Moonshiners.

Deputy Revenue Collector Pope Long reports an exciting experience with moonshiners at the head of Sipsey river, in Lawrence county, last week. Deputy Long, assisted by J. McNelson, started out on a raid, and after scouring the mountains, suddenly came upon a party of men who were pulling the fire from a pot still. Jeff Brian was captured, and the still, which was a rudely constructed affair, was destroyed.

To Encourage Cultivation of Rice.

C. Henderson has a rice mill at Greenville which has proved a profitable investment. It is the first erected in the state, but those who know of the business say others are bound to follow. Mr. Henderson is endeavoring to encourage the cultivation of rice in Butler and surrounding counties. His stock now is obtained from Crenshaw, Covington and Wilcox counties, but he is sure it will soon be raised nearer home.

An Editor Files Big Libel Suit.

W. T. Wear, editor of the Industrial News, has filed suit in the circuit court at Opelika against George E. Driver, T. D. Poer, H. F. Lowe, H. C. Jernigan, Wiley Ross, R. W. Greene, Jr., C. P. D. Taylor and J. W. Williams, Jr., members of the city council, for $50,000 damages for publishing him as a liar, on account of charges made in his paper against them.

Suicide at Huntsville.

L. G. Daughty, of Atlanta, agent for the Leslie Magazine syndicate of New York, committed suicide at the McGee hotel in Huntsville Saturday by taking a large dose of morphine. Despondency, caused by a protracted spree, is responsible for the rash deed.

Got a Fancy Price.

Ed. and F. T. Butler, who do a general mercantile business at New Hope and Paint Rock, one day last week sold 1,000 bales of cotton at 9¼ cents. This is the largest sale of cotton ever made in north Alabama.

Tillman Has No Engagement in Alabama.

A Washington special says: "Birmingham papers have booked Senator Tillman for a speech on the dispensary system at Birmingham, March 30. Senator Tillman says he has no engagement to speak there; that he had a verbal invitation to do so, but said he must have a formal invitation before considering the question. He has received no such invitation."

WRECK NEAR DEMOPOLIS.

Fireman Will Russell Instantly Killed in Jumping From the Engine.

Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock as a westbound special freight train on the Southern railway, running as the second section of No. 73, was entering Demopolis, the engine struck a mule, severing his head completely from his body and throwing the engine off the track down an embankment, upsetting the tender and derailing four flats loaded with coal.

Engineer Will Pearce was at the throttle, and Will Russell, white, of Selma, was firing. When the engine left the track and plunged down the embankment Fireman Russell jumped from the left side of the engine and was caught under the tender as it upset. He was killed instantly and without perceptible mutilation of the body. His remains were recovered within half an hour after the wreck. Engineer Pearce stuck to his post and escaped without injury, and the engine did not upset, but plunged straight down the slope.

Alabama Steel Invading Eastern Markets.

The first shipment of Southern-made steel of such size as to cut a figure in the commercial world was made last week from Ensley steel plant of the Alabama Steel & Shipbuilding Company to the American Steel & Wire Company's plant at Worcester, Mass. The shipment was made on an order for 3,000 tons booked several months ago, in fact before the plant went into operation, so certan it was that the output would come up to expectations and, freight cost added, would be profitable to handle at the Worcester end for conversion into finished street products. Since the steel mill started, the last of November, there have been regular shipments of steel from the Ensley plant, several shipments of five and ten cars at a time having gone forward.

Democrats and Populists Agree.

The terms of the agreement between the populists and democrats of Bibb county, by which a white primary will be held are that the two parties will hold a primary election on the 14th of April for all county offices, except representative and justice of the peace, and these candidates will be nominated by a primary election to be held on the 21st of April, at which time United States senator will also be voted for. For a candidate to be declared the nominee, he must receive a majority of all the the votes cast for that office, and if he does that in the first primary he is declared the nominee of the party, but if in the first primary no one receives a majority of all the votes cast for any office, the one who receives the highest votes, who has heretofore been a democrat, and the one who receives the highest number of votes, who has heretofore been a populist, will run the race over in the second primary on the 21st of April.

Rural Delivery in Madison County.

Madison county may have free rural mail delivery through the efforts of General Joseph Wheeler. A personal friend of General Wheeler received a letter from him in which he stated that he was working to that end. He said but little regarding the question of whether he would be allowed to take his seat, other than that there had been and was at the present time some delay about the matter. From the tone of the letter the belief that Gen. Wheeler thinks that he will soon be sworn in is easily brought up. While General Wheeler did not state that he thought he would be allowed to take his seat, the general tone of the letter has that trend.

STATE BREVITIES.

Dr. G. B. Crowe, chairman of the populist state executive committee, has called the state convention of that party to be held in Birmingham May 2.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company reports earnings for the month of February as follows: Net, $315,209, compared with $61,170 in February, 1899; fixed charges, $54,774, compared with $46,563 for the same month in 1899; surplus, $260,435, compared with $14,607 in February, 1899.

That the American hen produces $300,000,000 worth of poultry and eggs a year, is astounding, because it is an actual fact. When we consider that fact a little it becomes more and more astounding. Notwithstanding that she is the much-abused hen, the astounding fact remains, that she is making an income of $100,000 dollars a day, not counting Sundays and holidays.

GOLDEN TELLS OF A PLOT

Of Kentucky Officials to Murder Goebel and Others.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY TO CALEB POWERS

"John Powers Told Me They Had Two Negroes Ready to Kill Goebel," Golden Declars Under Oath.

"John Powers told me they had two niggers ready to kill Goebel. They were Hockersmith and Dick Combs."

This statement was made Saturday in Frankfort by Wharton Golden, a frail, consumptive Kentucky mountaineer, while on the witness stand in the preliminary examination of Secretary of State Caleb Powers, charged with conspiracy to kill Goebel. Golden told a story of the events leading up to the murder which, if substantiated, will, in the minds of those connected with the prosecution at least, probably go far toward proving the contentions of the commonwealth that the murder was the result of a plan in which several prominent men were involved. Whether the defence will seek to impeach Golden's testimony in this preliminary examination is not known, as the attorneys for the defense will not talk on the subject, but unless such attempt is made the commonwealth will rest its case, both County Attorney Polsgrove and Attorney Campbell being satisfied that enough evidence has been introduced to hold the defendant. Golden who claims to have been a friend of Caleb and John Powers for years, gave testimony that was damaging to John Powers, but he also brought in the names of many others, including former state Secretary Chas. Finley, W. H. Culton and Gov. Taylor in his story in the bringing of the mountaineers to Frankfort prior to the assassination.

Governor Taylor, however, was not directly implicated. Golden was not cross-examined and adjournment was taken at an early hour in the afternoon on account of his physical condition, the witness having a slight hemorrhage during the morning. He was quite nervous at times. Golden's testimony tended to show that a plan was made to bring several hundred "regular mountain feudists" to Frankfort who would, if necessary, as Golden expressed it, "go into the executive hall and kill off enough democrats to make it our way."

The testimony did not show that the alleged plot to kill Goebel was part of the original plan, nor did it contain the names of those who conceived that idea, except so far as Golden's remarks about John Powers gave the impression that the latter was one of the movers. But the commonwealth sought to show by Golden's conversations with various people that not only John and Caleb Powers, but others as well, had full knowledge of the alleged plan of assassination.

Democrats Recognized.

The Beckham-Taylor suit, involving title to the governorship of Kentucky, reached its final stage in the circuit court at Louisville Saturday. Judge Field entered judgment in accordance with his recent rulings and overruled a motion for a new trial.

The Ohio Telephone company and the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph company having consolidated, the new company Saturday recognized the democratic secretary of state, C. B. Hill, and filed new articles of incorporation, in which the capital stock is increased $3,000,000.

Brakeman Shot by a Tramp.

A special from Brookhaven, Miss., says John Perkins, a freight brakeman, was shot and killed near that place Sunday afternoon by Moses Angeline, a tramp who was stealing a ride. Angeline is under arrest.

Feeling runs high, and it is feared that a mob will be organized to lynch the prisoner. Sheriff Applewhite has requested Governor Longino to order out the local militia company, and the governor has instructed the captain of the company to call out his men if necessary.

Out of Politics.

The expression by Henry Walter of the middle-of-the-road populists, to the effect that Hon. Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, could have the nomination for president on that party's ticket, was sent to Mr. Watson at his home in Thomasson, Ga., Saturday by the Associated Press. Mr. Watson's reply was: "I am out of politics." Watson is devoting his time to the practice of law.

AN EDITOR IMPRISONED

For Publishing Articles Injurious to Philippine Military Government.

A Monday's cablegram from Manila says: La Patria and El Liberal, Spanish organs of the extreme Filipino party, have recently been publishing articles injurious to the military government. General Otis has suppressed the former journal for sedition and imprisoned the editor, at the same time issuing a warning to the members of the extreme party that they should observe greater moderation.

Senor Palerno, at one time president of the Filipino cabinet, having received permission from the authorities to come to Manila, is expected to present himself this week at San Fernando, province of Union.

The rebels in General Young's district are becoming aggressive. The American battalion garrisoning the town of Namagpacan was attacked on four consecutive nights recently. Reinforcements are now arriving there. General Young purposes to pursue the rebels aggressively before the rainy season sets in.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

In Many Places the Porto Ricans are Starving.

The situation at Ponce, Porto Rico, is now more serious than it has been at anytime before or since the terrible hurricane. In many places the poor are starving. The price of rice, beans and codfish has increased from 50 to 100 per cent.

Demonstrations against the delay of the United States government in settling open questions have recently been held at Mayagues, Yuace, Arecibo, Aguadilla, Fajardo, Juana, Diaz, Guayama and many other towns. The people are unable to understand the delay, and they condemn all Americans indiscriminately. Bitter feeling is arising, which it will take years to overcome. Even riots are threatened. Trouble is almost inevitable, unless the tension is relieved. Even wealthy land owners cannot command ready cash, and many Americans are penniless, being glad to work for their board.

INSURANCE COMPANY WINS.

In the Celebrated Stewart Case at Meridian.

The celebrated case of Miss Lillie A. Stewart and Guy Jack, of Scooba, Miss., vs. the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Insurance Association of New York, for the recovery of $10,000 on the life of Chas. Stewart, who was poisoned, and for which crime Dr. W. H. Lipscomb, his family physician, was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for life, and who died while serving his sentence, ended Saturday at Meridian in a verdict in favor of the insurance company. The evidence plainly showed that Jack was guilty of conspiracy against the company. Jack was indicted jointly with Lipscomb for the murder of Stewart, but was acquitted. He was the beneficiary by the death of Stewart.

CONSPIRATORS ARE SENTENCED.

The Ringleader Gets Five Years Sentence and a Big Fine.

The confessed conspirators who plead guilty to a scheme to defraud merchants throughout the country were sentenced at Savannah, Ga., Friday by Judge Speer. Daniel A. Tyson was given five years in the State prison at Nashville, Tenn., a fine of $1,000 and the costs of prosecution; F. Hutchinson, Morris W. Hutchinson and J. H. Hutchinson, eighteen months each in the state prison at Nashville and a fine of $100 each; J. S. Wheeler, Jr., twelve months in Chathan county jail and $100 fine; H. B. Watts and C. J. Phillips, four months in jail and $100 fine each.

A Farmer Found Dead.

Leon Jenkins, a well-known farmer at Midland, Ga., was found on the Southern railroad track near his home, his body horribly mangled. It is not known whether death was the result of an accident or was caused by foul play.

Fatal Results of Boiler Explosion.

The James Nickum saw mill, six miles southwest of Muncie, Ind., was destroyed by an explosion. Two men were dead, two more will die and three others were injured. The dead are: Marion Carey, a wealthy farmer, Thomas Sullivan, aged 46.

Joseph Adams Suicides.

Joseph Adams, an esteemed citizen and prosperous farmer near Shelbyville, Tenn., suicided Saturday by shooting himself through the head. No cause can be given save temporary insanity for his rash act.

McKinley Signs Bill.

The Porto Rican appropriation bill was signed by the president Saturday.

The Orange River State, to give it its full name, was a connecting link between Cape Colony, the Transvaal and Natal, and for ten years called the Buffer State. ...th rocky hills, which the Boers call "kopjes." In the northern part, however, one can travel hundreds of miles without seeing a break in the prairies. When the Natal Boers took possession of the country it was inhabited by different tribes. All except the powerful Basutos have disappeared.

The Free State is divided into the following districts: Bloemfontein, Ladybrand, Southfield, Harrismith and Wepener. The capital is Bloemfontein (of which we give several illustrations), situated on a tributary of the Modder River and about 800 miles from Cape Town. The Orange Free State was annexed by Great Britain in the forties, and continued a part of the empire until 1854, when it was granted independence. The inhabitants then established a government of their own and had progressed prosperously until their President, M. Steyn, was led by President Kruger into an offensive and defensive alliance against England.

simple, bucolic and sincere. An infusion of Huguenot blood makes them a slightly more active and progressive people than the Transvaalers. The republic has an area of about 50,000 square miles. Its present population is estimated to be 93,000 whites and some 140,000 blacks of the Basuto and Barolong tribes. The capital, Bloemfontein, is a curious, old world looking little city, with a railway leading from the south into the town and again starting north. Unlike Kimberley and Johannesburg, the visitor gets no impression of mushroom growth from Bloemfontein, for the city is rich in statuary and public monuments and possesses a national museum and a well-stocked public library. The Bloemfontein raadzaal, or council chamber of the legislature, is a handsome edifice, designed in the Greek style and costing almost a quarter of a million dollars. The buildings in the city are substantial and prepossessing, for near by are great beds of freestone, admirable for building purposes. The presidency, where President Steyn resides, is also a very palatial building.

The Orange Free State is not a forest country, for, like the Transvaal, it is very sparsely wooded. The only mountain ranges in the State are the Stall Mountains, which lie in the eastern portion of the republic. Practically all of the plains are well adapted for pastoral purposes. On the Basutoland border there is a golden strip of land, thirty miles broad and 100 miles long, which is considered to be the best bit of grain producing soil in the world.

struggle with the British has ...n demonstrated by the thor... of the preparations for war ... the Government of the crafty ... has been making for some ... The same might be said of ... sturdy burghers of the Orange Free State, for Bloemfontein, the capital of the little republic, was carefully fortified and garrisoned for many months before the actual outbreak of hostilities. The accompanying illustration will give a very good idea of the Boer fort at Bloemfontein, a spot which, in view of recent events, has an especial interest to all followers of the present struggle between the Boer and the British.

The Orange Free State is like and yet unlike the Transvaal. Its people, like those north of the Vaal River, are Government schools. One is the town school, another the ward school and the third the paripatetic school. At Bloemfontein there is a very fine college, known as Grey College, where higher education is carried on.

The vast majority of the Free Staters are members of the Reformed Dutch Church. In fact, this is the established church of the State. Even the tiniest village has its devout congregation, and the Government contributes each year $40,000 for the support of its Dutch religious institutions.

The climate of the Orange Free State is perhaps the most healthful in all South Africa. It is both drier and colder than that of the neighboring colonies, due to the fact that the veldt of the Free Staters is so high above the sea level.

The constitution of the Orange Free State is founded upon that of the United States. This constitution was adopted on April 10, 1854, and gave to everyone living in the country before the date of its adoption the right to vote for a president and members of the new legislature. The commando law is unique. This law, which was put into successful operation at the opening of the campaign for the raising of Orange Free State troops, regulates the calling out of burghers at all times of danger. Every male inhabitant of the State between sixteen and sixty years of age is, under this law, subject to the call of the field cornet. The number that were found available for the last call to arms is said to have been 23,000.

A Rhinoceros at Large.

A rhinoceros that can dance is not, like a dancing bear, a familiar sight. Naturally such a rhinoceros created a sensation when, while being unloaded from a railroad car at Philadelphia, it escaped into the street.

The beast was sent to the Zoological Garden and arrived in good health and spirits. Twenty employes of the express company stood about to prevent its getting away, but when the animal started they all fled down Seventeenth street.

The rhinoceros went to Market street, the men after it, thence to Sixteenth and back to Filbert. In the short journey it passed probably a hundred people, and put them all to flight. An Italian, grinding out a merry tune on his organ, got a shock that he will not soon forget.

The beast has been with a circus and can dance and do a cake-walk. At Sixteenth and Filbert streets it heard the sound of the music, and began to dance.

The Italian did not know what brought the crowd, but he kept on turning his crank until suddenly there was a roar of laughter, and he turned to find the beast standing still, solemnly looking at him. With a terrific yell, he dropped the crank and ran. The animal was caught and put back into the cage with little difficulty.

A Life on the Ocean Wave.

A Liverpool steam packet company many years ago wanted to extend its premises, and resolved to buy a piece of land belonging to a maiden lady of uncertain age. The spinster sold her land at a very low price, and as a set-off requested that a clause should be put in the agreement to the effect that during her whole life she and a companion should at any time travel free in the company's vessels. On the day after the agreement was signed, she sold her furniture, let her house, and went on board the first outward-bound vessel belonging to the company, without troubling herself about the destination. For many years the lady lived on one ship or another, accompanied by some lady traveler, for whom she advertised, and whose passage money she pocketed. She was reckoned at her death to have made over ten thousand dollars by the transaction.

A Squash That Lifted 5000 Pounds.

An interesting agricultural experiment is related in Success, from which this picture is taken. A harness or basket of strap iron was placed over the squash in such a manner that, in order to grow, it would be compelled to lift any weight that might be placed on it. Harnessed in this manner, on August 21 the squash lifted sixty pounds; August 31, 500 pounds; September 11, 1100; September 31, 2015; October 18, 3120, and October 31, 5000 pounds.

Twelve pounds only is the weight of the new automatic machine gun under experiment in the United States Army. It fires 450 shots a minute and can be carried by one man.

bushels of grain to the acre! Wheat, oats, maize, barley and Kaffir corn can all be grown, while herds of cattle, horses, Angora goats, ostriches and sheep can live and flourish on the veldt.

TALES OF PLUCK AND ADVENTURE.

A Fatal Hunt.

MANY sportsmen say that no other hunting can compare in interest and exhilaration with the stalking of the chamois or the ibex among the peaks of the snow covered mountains. The danger of the sport does not lie in the game, but in the nature of the hunting grounds, and many a hunter has sacrificed his life in the chase. Half a century ago a gallant young Irishman named Peyton met with a terrible experience among the mountains of India, which he thus describes:

"We arrived in Cashmere and lost no time in getting into the Wardwan Valley, famous for the large horned ibex. The country was all under snow, and as the snow continued to fall for several days we were obliged to remain indoors, and Surgeon Wray, who was a splendid musician, amused the villagers by playing his violin to them.

"At last the sun came out, and we heard several avalanches slipping down the mountain. Our men were much averse to going out, and I must say I thought they were right. However, poor Wray in a jocular tone said we 'funked.' This settled the matter, and out we went.

"We proceeded up the valley about seven miles along the banks of a small river, which divided the mountains on both sides of it. We saw a fine herd of male ibex, but in consequence of the heavy snow we were unable to creep round by a circuitous route and stalk the herd from above.

"So we four spread a blanket in a ravine next to where the ibex were and sat down close together upon it, keeping ourselves warm.

"Suddenly we heard a noise like distant thunder; then spray and stones followed. Our men called out, 'An avalanche is falling!' Although I had seen several falls, this seemed to me quite different, more like a landslip. It covered a breadth of at least one hundred yards, three or four hundred yards long and fifty or sixty feet in depth.

"This enormous mass, like a small mountain tearing with its rock and earth, moved toward us much too quickly for us to get out of its way by running down before it. The whole thing looked weird and supernatural.

"Death stared us in the face. On our right side there was a precipice, which cut off our escape in that direction. On our left was a very wide trench, which separated us from a shoulder of a mountain large enough to protect us from the approaching avalanche if we could jump the chasm and get shelter under it.

"I pointed out to my companions our only chance of escape; by this time the avalanche had approached within fifty or sixty paces of us.

"I led the way, made a spring for my life, landed safely on the side of the chasm and crouched under the shelter of the hill, which was only three or four paces from the side I jumped on.

"Looking around, to my horror I saw my poor friend Wray and the other two men dashed forward by the avalanche and buried under a mountain of snow. My dear old servant, Abel Khan, who had all the nerve and activity of an ibex, could have jumped the chasm, but the others were in his way and he had my heavy Lancaster rifle on his back.

"The thought haunts me to this day. Had he had a fair run he would have saved his life by clearing the chasm as I had done, although it was a big jump.

"By this time Putto Khan, brother of Abel Khan, who had been left to watch the ibex about a quarter of a mile to our left, came to the cave in which I had taken shelter. He had witnessed the whole occurrence and had seen his brother killed. He cried most piteously, lamenting over the loss of his brother and myself, who he thought was killed also.

"I called out: 'Putto, fate has been hard upon us! I am safe!'

"He seemed bewildered and cried out: 'No, you are only the spirit come back to tell me! My beloved brother and our young sahib are gone.'"

A Single-Hand Fight With Five Lions.

Occasionally a foolish and intermeddling spectator in a menagerie will endeavor to show his brilliancy by experimenting with the animals. More than once this tendency has well-nigh cost a performer his life. I recall one instance when a performer was doing an act in a cage containing five lions, the late W. C. Coup, the old circus man, was wont to relate. He had just begun his work, and the lions had taken their positions. In the middle of the cage, facing him, was one large lion, and at either end sat two others. Of course a big crowd had collected in front of the cage and was pressing heavily against the guard ropes. Suddenly a countryman of the smart kind was seized with a desire to distinguish himself and attract a little attention. Slipping inside the ropes he stooped down and took up the ragged little dog that was crouching at his heels. The instant he lifted the cur up to the level of the cage every lion gave out a roar and made a wild leap for the yellow mongrel.

For a few moments the performer was completely lost to view, buried underneath the writhing bodies of the infuriated lions. Of course the animal men outside made a rush for the cage door, but before they could reach it with their irons in hand the plucky performer was on his feet again and fighting his own battle. A tooth or a claw had split his nose and upper lip, and the tattered condition of his clothing indicated that he had suffered severely. Although his face was bathed in blood, he stood his ground and plied his rod on the heads and noses of the growling beasts until they were momentarily driven back. But they had tasted blood and were furious. Before he could reach the door they were at him again, and in the onslaught his right arm and hip were frightfully lacerated. His grit, however, was indomitable, and he struck and jabbed right and left like a gladiator. Finally the howls of pain from the lions revealed the fact that he was getting the upper hand of them, and at last they were driven howling and whining into the corners of the cage and he backed out of the door. No sooner was he safely outside the cage than he became unconscious.

It was a good thing for the countryman whose folly had stirred up the lions that he contrived to make his escape from the grounds before the circus men got hold of him. This incident is simply typical of hundreds of others perhaps more interesting and exciting. It will, however, serve to indicate the constant perils that surround the trainer or performer, many of which arise from sources over which he has no control.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Puff of Smoke That Saved Him.

William Albertson, of Spokane, in describing an early mining experience of his, said: "In the seventies I was in Arizona with a party prospecting the country. At that time the Apaches were making things lively in that region, and while nominally we were on good terms with the Wallapai Indians, they were so treacherous we could place little dependence on them. Our horses were turned out to graze at night, and each morning one or the other of us went out to round them up. One day when it came my turn for this duty I located the bunch on a mountain side and drove them toward the camp. I then started to do a little prospecting. I had a rifle along for protection from the Indians, as our agreement then was that on no account was a shot to be fired unless Indians were sighted. I found a 'float,' and on top of the mountain a better one, and this led me to descend the other side. I had got down the benches, when my eye lit on a hill, which I felt sure was a good prospect, and I started for it. In those days, like the Englishman, 'I 'ad a heye like an 'awk,' and in the distance I suddenly saw a little puff of smoke. It was gone in an instant, but I well knew its meaning. Indians were there, they had discovered me and had promptly smothered their fire. Without any haste I began a steady ascent of the hill again, pretending all the time to be prospecting, and keeping a wary eye out for the red devils. Before I reached the top they were getting in too close, and I had to make a run for it, but once reaching the crest I dropped behind a rock and began to return their fire. I knew the shots could be heard in camp, and sure enough in a short time some of the boys came to my relief. But if I hadn't seen that smoke and had gone on, it would have been all up with me. Later Charley Spence, the Government guide, myself and seven others prospected that hill, but the Indians made our occupation of it what General Buller would describe as untenable. However, we left sufficient record behind us to establish our claim, and when the famous McCracken mine was later located there they compromised with us, and I received $5000 as my share."

A Dangerous Moment.

One need not be a soldier to stand in need of courage. A clergyman may find himself confronted with as nerve-making an ordeal as those more generally expected by the man of war. In his retrospect of "The Lights and Shadows of a Long Episcopate," Bishop Wipple tells of a moment when he found it extremely necessary that his courage should not fail him.

The Bishop was about to preach in one of the cathedrals, when there entered a divinity student whose brain had become deranged by overmuch study. He went forward, as if to sit with the others.

"On reaching the chancel, however," says the Bishop, "he stopped, and taking a revolver from his pocket, pointed it at me. I felt what was coming before the revolver appeared, and knowing that the young man was short-sighted, and that he would probably wait until sure of his aim, I walked with quick, long strides through the chancel, which is very deep, grateful that I had been an athlete in younger days.

"At the chancel steps I made a leap, seized the young man by the collar, and turned him sharply round with my knee at his back, while I said to the congregation, 'Will some one take charge of this man? He is insane.'

"It all happened so quickly that no one moved till then. The poor fellow was led out and the service went on. It was found that the pistol had a hair trigger, and that all the chambers were loaded, making it a marvel that no tragedy had occurred."

Young George and the Rat.

George Fladiska, aged fifteen years, a store boy, coming down North Mechanic street in Cumberland, Md., the other evening was surprised by a rat darting up his trousers leg. The rat sank its teeth in his flesh and the harder he shook the tighter the rat held on, and at last he darted into Will's Creek to drown the rat, but the water was so deep that he was nearly drowned himself. He got rid of the rat, but was badly bitten.

The lighter all chocolate is in color the more free it is from impurities.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

The Sharp Carving Knife.

A carver likes to flourish his blade over the steel before he begins to slice a joint or fowl, but this flourish makes a man who knows smile, as it is of little or no value. "A flat file, not too fine, that may be had for ten cents, puts," says this expert, "a finer edge on a carving knife than the most expensive steel sold."

Novel Invention For the Housewife.

A new invention in the line of household utensils is a frying pan supplied with an asbestos lining which prevents the contents from burning while cooking. Accompanying this latest form of frying pan is a basket attachment in which food requiring special care in cooking is placed, and there are side pieces which permit the basket to be easily drained. The handle for the basket is adjustable and the danger of its becoming heated with the contents of the basket is thus avoided.

To Prevent Stoves From Rusting.

If a little kerosene is used to mix with the blacking used to polish stoves before putting them away for the summer, it will prevent rust. The isinglass should also be wiped clean with vinegar, then polished, the stove pipes carefully emptied, brushed free from all soot and the joints numbered, so that in putting them together again in the fall there need be no cause for profanity from the one appointed to "set up the stove." The stove shaker and poker should also be wrapped in paper and laid inside the stove, and then newspapers laid over the stove to protect it from dust.

Some Hints About Dyeing.

Some hints from a dyer are surprising. One of these is that as a rule the poorest silk dyes better than a richer quality; also that any silk takes light colors most successfully. The best satisfaction is given in all-wool fabrics, which dye beautifully. Silk plushes cannot be dyed, while woolen ones dye handsomely. Another bit of information on the same line is that the silk and chiffon lampshades can be cleaned. As some of these are very elaborate and expensive, their restoration is a desirable thing. A new department in some of the dyeing and cleaning houses is that of sulphur cleaning. This is intended for all kinds of household hangings that become soiled. As the process not only restores to the articles their freshness and purity, but also is guaranteed to destroy moths, it is useful for blankets, for rugs and other wool materials liable to be moth infested.

How to Lay a Fire.

In laying a fire much paper and wood are often wasted. Most housemaids cram a piece of paper tightly down, place a heavy layer of wood on top of it and cover this thickly with lumps of coal. Then they are surprised because the fire will not burn.

The wood for the morning fire ought to be placed on the rack the night before. The bundles become thoroughly dry and ignite quicker. To light a fire the paper should be loosely arranged and the sticks of wood placed leaning against it. Everything burns quicker when placed in an upright position. Small pieces of coal from yesterday's fire should be placed lightly about the wood and space between allowed for the air to circulate.

A fire thus made will use less paper and wood and burn much quicker than if kindled by the method mostly practised. If ash-trays were more generally placed below the grate the labor of cleaning the latter would be considerably reduced and the dust caused by sweeping up the ashes would be reduced to a minimum.

Recipes.

Milk Sherbet—To one quart of milk add one pound of sugar and the rind of half a lemon; scald and set away to cool, then add the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth with half a cupful of sugar. Pour into the freezer, add the strained juice of five lemons and freeze immediately.

Velvet Cream—Beat to a cream two tablespoonfuls of strawberry jelly, two tablespoonfuls of currant jelly, two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Fill small glasses one-half full of whipped cream and cover with the above mixture.

Oatmeal Wafers—Make a very thin batter of oatmeal and water. Turn into a baking pan and bake very slowly until quite dry. In taking out, it will likely break into bits, but they will be such savory bits that they will be carefully gathered up. These wafers are excellent food for invalids.

Sweet Potatoes a la Dixie—Six sweet potatoes, one egg, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half tablespoon butter. Steam until nearly done. Remove, cool and dip first in egg beaten with the salt, then in the sugar, coating each strip thickly. Place in pan with the butter and bake a pretty brown.

Veal Loaf—Have three pounds of veal and one-half pound of salt pork ground together at the butcher's; season to suit with salt and pepper and two eggs well beaten and one-half cup of cracker crumbs; bake one hour and take from oven and pour sauce over the top. If so desired, the loaf may be cut in half when cool and one portion put in vinegar for pickling.

Chocolate Cookies—One cup granulated sugar, one-half cup melted butter, one egg, one-half cup of milk, one-half teaspoonful soda, one and one-half cups flour, one cupful chopped raisins and nuts, three squares melted chocolate. Mix as for cake, adding chocolate last. Drop on large pans, about one-half tablespoonful being allowed for each cookie, and space enough allowed for it to spread. Frost with fudges.

THE Populist State Convention is called to meet at Birmingham on Wednesday, May 2, 1900.

THE National Convention of the People's Party will be held at Sioux Falls, S. D., on May 9, 1900.

A BOLTING convention, held by some of the middle-of-the-roaders, will be held at Cincinnati, O., on May 9.

Hon. W. J. Samford, of Lee, spoke at the court house last Friday. His speech was well received, and he made friends.

CHILTON Populists will on Saturday next elect delegates to the State convention and we have no doubt will instruct the delegation to see that a proper representation of the party is sent to the national convention at Sioux Falls.

HON. Tom Watson has positively declined to be led astray by the middle-of-the-roaders. A proposition has been made to him to nominate him for President of the United States. Tom is chock full of common sense, and appreciates the lack of it in the middle-of-the-roaders, and won't have anything to do with them. Good for Tom!

THE columns of The Banner are always open to our subscribers, and we are proud the people avail themselves of the opportunity. But we must again say to correspondents that communications received later than Tuesday night must of necessity be passed over until the next week.

ON Tuesday night there was a goodly gathering in the schoolhouse at Pletcher. Judge Adams made a fine speech explaining the political situation, and was followed by Gant Riggins with one of his humorous talks.

An important feature of the night's business was the formation of a People's Party club. Ten members were enrolled with R. P. Kendrick, president, and A. T. Anderson, secretary. Great interest is attached to this movement, and clubs will be formed in every community in the county. We wish good luck to the Pletcher club.

Unity Baptist Association

Clanton, March 22, 1900

The executive committee of the Unity Association met here on the 14th instant, with a full attendance, Rev. F. M. Woods chairman, present and presiding.

There was great interest manifested in the arrangement for the centennial meeting of the Association to convene here on Saturday before the 5th Sunday in July next. Executive committees were appointed in each church of this Association to arrange the work of the churches in said meeting.

A full and complete program will be handed you for publication later. E. B. DRASON, Caught a Dreadful Cold.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. U. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1638 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught A dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend to my work during the day. One fo my milliners was taking Chamberlain's cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits. For sale by Clanton drug company, and R. I. Abrams, Verbena.

THE CENSUS

To build up a great office like the Census Office in fifteen months from absolutely nothing to an efficient machine, employing about three thousand men in Washington and about fifty thousand elsewhere in the country, is a difficult task, and entire success is out of the question. The office naturally compares itself with the stage of preparation attained at the same period ten years ago and tried by this test, it has gained several months on its predecessor. One of the problems before it is how to put in the time thus secured in such a way as most to benefit the Census.

In the Agricultural Division the need of time for preliminary work is perhaps as great as anywhere in the census office. Farmers, as a class, do not keep their accounts as well as manufacturers, and the returns may occasionally include serious errors which a trained eye will at once detect. Hence the farm schedules must be examined and such errors corrected before the tables can be made up from them with safety. If a farmer reports that his land sown to wheat was ten acres and the yield four thousand bushels, it is clear that an average yield of four hundred bushels to the acre is incredible, and must be rejected or corrected in accordance with the probabilities. Sometimes the truth can be made out by an expert from comparison with entries in other parts of the schedule; sometimes correspondence must be opened to settle the doubt. All this ranks under the general head of verifying the schedule, and the Agricultural Division places to give all the time possible to the work of verrifying each of the millions of farm schedules.

If the farming public will continue to cooperate with the heartiness already displayed, this effort will result in a more trustworthy census of farms than has ever been taken. Farmers, as a class, are less able to cooperate than the representatives of any other great industry. Hence the census office can do more for them than it can for centralized lines of business, which can and do make their own investigations, and it will do its best to present a full and accurate photograph of this leading occupation. The Director of the census urges everyone interested to aid the work.

Clanton Amateur Theatrical Club.

At the Court House next Tuesday night will be witnessed the presentation of "The Match Box" and "The Old Maid's Wooing" two comedy triumphs fresh from the pen of Alice Gale Woodberry. The real merits of these costs is in the easygoing, catchy and funny situations rather than the plot, which serves merely as a slender cord to hold together a big bunble of fun and merry-making, under the kind instruction of Mrs. G. W. Anderson.

The young people of Clanton have labored arduously to make this a first-class entertainment in every particular, and those who attend will observe every conceivable form of stage entertainment from grand opera, including songs, melodrama and farce comedy. The advance sales of seats has been very large, and every indication points to an unusually large audience. We cordially invite our friends and acquaintances from Verbena, Jemison and the surrounding country to be present. Curtain rises at 8 o'clock.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Institute held at Mulberry Academy, was rained out Friday, although several teachers came into the neighborhood. The weather being unfavorable Saturday did not keep the teachers away. We had a good Institute, quite a number in attendance.

Prof. Strock opened Institute with prayer by A. J. Neugent.

Address of welcome by J. G. Dennis, after which all the subjects were taken up and discussed, that were assigned for Saturday, and also several that were assigned for Friday.

We will only make mention of one for the special benefit of teachers and patrons of Chilton county. "Advantages and disadvantages of a uniform system of text books," Opened by Prof. R. E. R. Hicks, discussed by Messrs. Neugent, Speer and others, after which a vote was taken for the uniform system' of which the whole Institute were in favor, but the subject was carried over until the next Institute, which will be held at Jasmine, on or near the M. & O. R. R. between Pletcher and Billingsley.

The following resolution was passed: Be it resolved that members of the Institute tender their thanks to the people of Isabella for their kind reception and for the hospitality towars the members of the Institute in session at this place.

Institute adjourned until the middle of May. E. C. JONES, Sec.

Lily, March 26, 1900

To my Friends:

I desire to say, in reference to a certain card in the last issue of the Banner from Beat 3, that the names signed to said card is half the unmber of votes the candidate therein mentioned will receive in said beat. In making this assertion I am backed by the following named people to-wit: A. S. Jones, S. K. Rasberry, E. C. Jones, J. L. Williams, W. M. Oden, E. J. Hayes, and Wm. M. Walker.

Now, if anyone should doubt my statement, I only ask them to come to my house and make a thorough canvass of my beat and see for themselves. It is not my intention to mislead anyone, but want every man to vote according to his own judgement. In conclusion I will say that Beat 3 is mine 5 to 1 the nomination for sheriff.

Respectfully,
W. P. WHITE.

Editor Banner. We see in the last issue of the Banner a goodly number of Beat 3, the home Beat of Mr. Lee Hayes, who said that they believed that he would get a goodly majority of the votes in beat 3. This speaks well for him in that beat, and we believe that is the sentiment of the people of beats 7 and 8. Why not elect him, as we know that he has once made as good a sheriff, if not the best, the county has ever had. So let us turn out, boys, on the 14th of April and give him a good send-off.

Voters of beats 7 and 8—S. B. McCary, Monroe Ramsey, W. H. Foshee, jr., R. M. Roebuck, T. J. Klines, Robt. Klinner, J. M. Walker.

Clanton, March 27, 1900

Editor BANNER—Please allow me room in your paper to express some of my thoughts. There is so many candidates out I really don't know who to vote for. Well, any way I must vote for some of them, and may lose my vote but I guess in voting for so many I will hit it right on some of them. We need good christian hearted men to fill our offices, men who are ready at all times to do what is good for the public. I see we have got in the field some good men who are well qualified for the office and who are good christians. We want men who will strive to build up our county and not until we get such men in office will our country prosper. I hope that every voter of Chilton county will think for himself before voting, think who is the best man out.

You look at any county where there is prosperity and you will find the leaders good christians. Friends it is a duty put upon you to go to the polls and vote; we see men all over our land when an election time comes they stay at home and won't even go the polls, they either care nothing for their country, are won't go because their man is not on the ticket. What will become of such people, and you can hear them muttering about bad officers, and if they were not allowed to vote they would still mutter. God pity such people, as the time is nearing now when we will know who is nominated.

I ask you again to come to the polls and vote and I am sure you will never regret it, so come men one and all, and let's pray over the matter and I am sure God will direct us right. B. F.

Clanton, March 27, 1900

Editor BANNER—I wish to ask that People's Party man who did not get his choice nominated in the primary election to be careful not to let his personal preference for one cause him to be indifferent in his support for the ticket. It may be that he will get his choice next time. We cannot hope to get our man every time, and it is not men we are fighting for, but it is measures and principles, and if the men who have been with the People's party will compare the state of things in Chilton county now, to the state of things previous to the time the Populist party took charge of the county, you can find many reasons for standing by the ticket nominated on the 31st of March.

The people of the county are satisfied; the county stands at the head of the list so far as its financial condition is concerned, and no man can gainsay that the county officers are not faithful, courteous and competent. As to how this state of things compares with previous years when the Democratic party was in power, I will let the people answer.

Suppose the Populists should become careless, stay at home and sul, because some of us failed to get our choice, and the Democrats should elect their men, and take possession of the offiecs of the county. What have you men gained? What interest did you have in the government of the county when the Democratic party was in power? Is it not an undisputed fact that the people had trouble in getting i to office men they elected? Do you want that state of things again in Chilton county? Do you want stock law in the county? In a word, do you want to return to this county the state that was once so unpleasant to all good people? If you do, why just sul and stay at home, take no interest in the election of the Populist ticket and you can have it to your heart's content. Let us be men and stand by the right, and the People's party.

A Life And Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Proper Adjustment.

Always be sure your wheel is adjusted to you in every particular. It adds to the pleasure of riding immeasurably. In adjusting the saddle, get it at a height which will allow your heel to just touch the pedals comfortably. Then when the ball of the foot is placed on the pedal the leg is bent sufficiently to give the necessary leverage. In riding centuries, raise or lower the saddle when the legs become tired. This allows a new set of muscles to come into action.

It's Easy To Take

Thin, pale, anæmic girls need a fatty food to enrich their blood, give color to their cheeks and restore their health and strength. It is safe to say that they nearly all reject fat with their food.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

is exactly what they require; it not only gives them the important element (cod-liver oil) in a palatable and easily digested form, but also the hypophosphites which are so valuable in nervous disorders that usually accompany anæmia.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is a fatty food that is more easily digested than any other form of fat. A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health. You can get it in this way.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

A South Carolina man left all his money to a girl who had rejected him. What a touching mark of gratitude!

Cecil Rhodes says the British flag is the richest asset in the world. Cecil can't get over the habit of reducing his patriotism to a commercial basis.

The neutrality of the great Powers of Europe can hardly be looked on as virtuous. They are holding their hands off in the South African business because they are afraid of each other.

Professor Atwater has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that alcohol is food. But what's the good of such a discovery as long as there is other stuff to eat.

The annual receipts of the New York Post Office a hundred and ten years ago were a little over $3,700, or about half those of the Philadelphia office, where Postmaster General Ben Franklin had his headquarters. The revenue last year was over $9,000,000.

An indication of some of the important industrial effects which may be expected to follow the opening up of China, is given in recent reports concerning the Chinese tree called the "tu chung." Both French and English botanists assert that this tree contains a valuable substance resembling rubber, or gutta-percha. Mr. Weiss, of Owens College, believes that the substance is a true caoutchouc, and that the tree will become of great economic importance.

Rural free delivery for postal matter is slowly winning its way, bringing the daily newspaper to many a farmhouse —a stimulus of fresher interest in the life of the world. The village and travelling libraries, rapidly increasing in number and size, extend, in turn, a broader outlook. The discussions of local clubs—often farmers' granges—and of the many women's clubs (as representative of the "new woman" at her best as the most pretentious of city clubs), give the most beneficent of social contacts, those where thought sharpens thought, observes the New York Post.

If any one thinks that the world doesn't grow, let him look at the price paid for Flying Fox, the animal sold a few days ago at auction by the Duke of Westminster. One hundred and ninety thousand dollars for a horse shows an advance in the price of horseflesh that should make the heads of conservative investors in such humdrum property as Government bonds and real estate swim. Flying Fox's grandsire, Ormonde, is said to have brought about $150,000. Ormonde's grandsire, Doncaster, was sold for something like $85,000. A dozen horses have been sold for sums between $50,000 and $100,000; but Flying Fox makes them all look like hacks for hire.

In the matter of telephone development Japan compares favorably with other countries. Several of its large cities have a number of subscribers. Tokio has about 5,000, with 4,000 on application at the last report, and a new exchange is being built with a capacity of 6,000. The subscribers last year in other cities are returned as follows: Osaka, 1,600; Yokohama, 1,002; Kobe, 848, and Kyoto, 520. The subscription rate in Tokio is $33 a year, and 15,000,000 messages were sent over 900 miles of wire in 1899. The government is spending $1,000,000 this year on new telephone work.

New Hampshire is often referred to as the Granite State, but the strike of granite cutters has brought out the fact that the stone is quarried for commercial purposes in every State east of the Hudson. One of the most important centres of the industry is Barre, Vt., a town that has grown remarkably in recent years because of its quarries. In this State the village of Niantic is becoming a granite centre. It has been a small manufacturing place for many years, but bids fair to develop rapidly in the next decade, thanks to the stone business.

Eight millions a year isn't enough for Emperor William. He wants ten millions. In his twenty-four palaces he keeps 1,500 lackeys and more than 2,000 maid servants, and there are his royal stables and kennels and covers and cotes and playhouses, etc., not to mention his family. His expenses would pay for three or four new battleships per annum. He comes high, does this swelling King of Prussia, but he feels that Germany must have him.

What a lesson of contentment for men of moderate means is taught by the story of George Smith, who, with a fortune of $100,000,000 behind him, supplied all the want of life on $3 a day! The late Cornelius Vanderbilt hardly spent more for his personal needs. Russell Sage probably spends less. Jay Gould lived chiefly on tea and toast. The Duke of Westminster was a man of frugal habits. No ordinary business man lives more simply than Rockefeller or Carnegie. This is an important lesson. It should be preached and explained and insisted on for the benefit of the scheming stragglers after wealth—the lesson that wealth has its limits, that it does not bring happiness, and that all the truest and highest pleasures of life are within the reach of men of moderate means, and that they are denied to the lords of millions.

"Step lively!" the cry of the street-car conductor, has been judicially approved, at least to a certain extent, by the Common Pleas Court, No. 1, in Philadelphia, in a decision that a passenger on a trolley car is not necessarily negligent in standing on the lower step as it is coming to a standstill. The plaintiff, a man, while standing on the lower step of a car that was slowing down at Chestnut street, was thrown by a sudden jerk. In upholding a verdict for the plaintiff the court ruled that although trolley-cars are more dangerous than former means of transportation, the rapidity of transportation demands that passengers be more alert and prompt in entering and alighting, and for that reason it is not negligence for a passenger to go upon the platform of the car or even upon the step before it comes to a full stop. Two of the judges dissented from this ruling.

A comparatively trifling incident in Paris is significant of the bitter feeling with which the French masses seem to regard everything British. Two or three weeks ago an American lady and her two daughters hailed a cab. It was raining, and the driver, with the customary arbitrariness of Paris coachmen, refused to be hired by the hour. The lady then, speaking in English, told her daughter to report the man to the authorities. Meanwhile, a woman belonging to the lower orders intervened and caused a crowd to assemble. She declared that an English woman wished to denounce a French cabdriver, and the crowd rapidly became menacing and vituperative. Fortunately police assistance came before mischief was done, and the cabman was arrested. The magistrate, who of course knew the nationality of the complainant, promptly sentenced the offender to eight days' imprisonment. This inability of the Paris populace to discriminate between Americans and English is worth remembering in this exposition year.

Greater New York can now claim to be the "city of parks." The area covered by them includes 7,564 acres. The two largest parks, situated in Bronx borough, are Pelham Bay Park of 1,756 acres, and Van Cortlandt Park of 1,132½ acres. Central Park, Manhattan, has nearly 840 acres; Bronx Park, Bronx Borough, 661 35 acres; Brooklyn Forest Park, town of Jamaica, within the city limits, 535 acres, and Prospect Park in Brooklyn 516 14 acres. The rest of a total of sixty-nine parks are considerably smaller, and 250 acres of Bronx Park are to be devoted to a botanical garden.

The New York Sun has been counting up the totals of European migration during the century, and finds that the movement is the greatest of the kind recorded in history. In the first twenty years of he century only 250,000 Europeans came to this country, but between 1820 and 1882 more than 17,000,000 came. In the last named year alone the United States received 800,000 immigrants. Since 1882 the European outpouring to various parts of the world has been over 12,000,000 souls. Trustworthy data indicate that during the century Europe has been drained of 30,000,000 persons seeking to better their fortunes in other lands. This number is equal to three-fifths of the total population of Europe at the time of Augustus Caesar. tI is greater than the total number of inhabitants of the United Kingdom in 1860, and only a little less than the total population of the United States in the same year. Probably this remarkable phase of history will never be repeated, for there remain no more such vast and fertile wildernesses in the temperate zone as the United States was at the beginning of the century.

The common idea of an automobile as a four-wheeled vehicle on heavy rubber tires will have to be modified. An inventor, doubtless a Yankee, has perfected a new automobile in the form of a sled for hauling logs, and it is being successfully used in the Minnesota pine forests. The motive power operates on two cylinders, whose surface is studded with pins similar to those in the cylinder of a music box. These take hold on the ice and packed snow of the roads, and loads of logs varying from twenty to thirty tons are hauled with ease. That is one of the new applications of the automobile idea for heavy winter work in the rural districts, and suggests an indefinite extension of it in other directions. It will not be long before autotrucks for heavy haulage in cities are widely used, and then will come some application of the same idea to the country. The British automobile wagon has already made a good beginning, being now used in rivalry to freight trains over short distances. Signs point to this as the next phase of development in this line.

The truly ambitious workman will work with good materials when he can, but with poor materials rather than with none. It has been said of a famous painter that he made a fine picture with a burnt stick on a barn door, and of another that he could produce noble artistic effects with a brush made of hair from his cat's tail. We read of mathematicians too who have worked out intricate problems on a piece of leather. Genius is always superior to circumstances, philosophizes the New York Observer. The ten talent man in mental or moral endowment can do wonders simply with a single talent of wealth, physical strength, or other sort of capital.

Perhaps no figures in the forthcoming census will prove fuller of interest or significance than those which will give the statistics of trolley extension. The census of 1890 showed that the gain in miles of street lines was 453 per cent. for cities and towns of a population over 50,000. This was due, of course, to the seizure of the new motive power as fast as its feasibility was understood by the smaller cities and towns, because of it perfect adaptation to their needs. But since 1890 the extension of trolley roads, from centre to suburbs and from town to town, has continued at an astonishing rate, one quite beyond popular comprehension or estimate. In short, we have seen, probably with but casual recognition of it, the passing of the distinguishing marks of the time in which we live. A formula of description long familiar is the age of "the railroad, the steamship, and the telegraph." But that formula "smacks of antiquity" when the present is more accurately the age of the trolley, the telephone, and the bicycle.

NEW USE OF EXHAUST.

How Waste Steam May Run An Auxiliary Engine.

For many years it has been known that the steam engine did not utilize all its energies. The ordinary high pressure engine which discharged its exhaust steam into the air used hardly more than 5 per cent. of the value of the fuel burned under its boiler. The compound engine, which condenses its steam and returned the warm water to the boilers, used only 12 to 13 per cent. of the fuel energy. Here ingenuity seemed to stop until a device was invented for using the heat of the exhaust steam to evaporate another liquid, which, having a lower boiling point than water, required less heat for the process than does water.

This process is the joint discovery of G. Behrend, a Hamburg engineer, and Dr. Zimmermann of Ludwigshafen, and it gains as high as 56 per cent. additional motive power without increasing the expenditure of fuel. The liquid they chose for evaporation is sulphurous acid, which is cheap, easily obtained, and is so oily that it lubricates the inner working surfaces of the machinery without corroding them. The steam passes into the surface condenser or vaporizer, in which the cooling medium, instead of being water, is liquid sulphurous acid, the boiling point of which is so low that the liquid is decomposed immediately by the heat of the exhaust steam, liberating sulphur dioxide gas. This gas passes over into the cylinder of an auxiliary engine, where its work is done as in an ordinary steam engine. Then the sulphurous vapor enters the surface condenser, is condensed to liquid by cold water tubes and is forced by a pump back into the vaporizer to do its work over again.

With a fairly economical compound engine, using 16½ pounds of steam for each indicated horse-power hour, half an indicated horse-power can be produced in the auxiliary machine for every indicated horse-power developed in the main engine.

A Sample of War Talk.

What is more diverting than a loud conversation on a street car or elevated train between utter strangers who are so full of a subject that they will burst if they cannot let off steam? Their voices generally are high pitched and loud, and the rest of of the passengers might as well lay down their papers or magazines and listen. I heard the other afternoon:

Emaciated Old Gent in Silk Hat and White Whiskers—Whutjer think of that? Took 50,000 Englishmen to capture 3,000 Boers!

Complacent Citizen—No. It took 28,000 Britishers to capture 4,000 Boers. The highest military authorities agree that in order to effect a capture the victorious force should outnumber the enemy about 7 to 1.

"Why, man, in Cuba the United States with 14,000 soldiers, captured nearly 300,000 Spaniards, and——"

"You don't call that war, do you?"

"War? War! That's just what war is!"

"Shuh! There wasn't more than an hour of war in Cuba. The rest of it was a picnic."

"Were you there?"

"No. Were you?"

"No, but—"

A shout from the passengers ended the threatened controversy.—New York Press.

An Alligator's Tough Hide.

The older an alligator gets the bigger it gets, and the bigger it gets the tougher its hide is, but there was never an alligator hide tough enough to turn one of the modern small calibre projectiles. Formerly it was the case that the saurian must be struck in the eye or just behind the forefoot to insure capture. The old muzzle-loading rifle, which shot a round bullet of soft lead, did not have the force to penetrate the scales. The Winchester, however, will go through if it strikes fairly and the new .30-30 will throw its nickel-jacketed projectile through scale, flesh and bone no matter at what angle it may happen to strike. The alligator hunters, however, have not yet risen to the dignity of owning the most modern weapons. The Winchester rifle, or carbine, is the best they have been able to do; and many of them are still armed with muskets left in Louisiana as a heritage from the Civil War. Even with weapons so crude, it is possible for a 'gatorman, as they are locally called, to go out and earn $5 three times a week. For one living down here that is a great deal of money. The age the animals will reach is not definitely known, but it is certain that if undisturbed they will go over a hundred.

HUMAN HIBERNATION IN RUSSIA.

The Poorer Peasants Sleep All Winter Like the Bears.

It has been recently brought to light that the Russian peasant, in certain districts, suffers from a chronic state of famine, which occurs annually and is more or less severe, according to circumstances. In the official report given by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Pskov, some interesting facts are brought out, which seem to show to what extent man adapts himself to diverse external conditions in the struggle for existence.

In those districts suffering from a lack of crops, which has become almost a chronic state, the inhabitants have elaborated a method for adapting themselves to the want of provisions which is perhaps unknown in other parts of the civilized world. This means is called in Russia "lejka," signifying lying down or state of repose. It is in fact a kind of hibernation, as will be seen from the description which has been given.

In those cases where the head of the family sees, toward the end of autumn, that by a normal consumption of his supply of wheat it will not last him until the end of the agricultural year, he makes arrangements to diminish the ration as much as possible; but knowing that in this case it will be difficult to preserve the functions at their normal height and to maintain the health and especially the physical force necessary for the work of the spring, he and his family plunge themselves into the "lejka," which means that everybody simply goes to bed, lying down upon the flat stove, according to the proverbial Russian custom, or in the warmest corners, during four or five months. He gets up only to replenish the stove, or to eat a piece of black bread dipped in water. The peasant tries to move as little as possible and sleep as much as he can. Stretched out upon the stove, he preserves the most complete immobility. His only care during the long winter is to expend as little as possible of his animal heat, and for that reason he tries to eat and drink less, move less, and to diminish in fact the vitality of the body. Each superfluous movement is translated into a corresponding diminution of energy, which in turn increases the appetite and obliges him to exceed the minimum of his rations; this minimum being regulated by the quantity of provision that will carry him over until the next harvest. Thus instinct commands him to sleep as much as possible. Obscurity and silence reign in the hut, where in the warmest places, either singly or crowded together, the members of the family pass the state of hibernation.

During the course of the famine of this year, the press has several times noted cases of this kind, but up to the present time it has been generally unknown that the lejka was not a temporary or accidental affair, but a regular system elaborated by a series of generations of peasants, who are accustomed to consider the half-ration as the rule, a sufficiency as an unattainable ideal, and hunger as an inconvenience to which he can "adapt" himself by the winter's sleep. It would be interesting to obtain further details as to this state of hibernation, as, aside from the moral question involved, it is of interest from a physiological and psychological point of view.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

A man's faith is true only as he obeys it.

Conscience tells us to do right, but it does not tell us what right is.

Our belief in the future is false in proportion as it is circumstantially exact.

Commercial morality and society's morality are each a compound of vice and cunning.

The church's business is not to accuse sinners nor to excuse sinners, but to save sinners.

A purely intellectual belief is immoral; the true belief is the assent of the moral instincts.

The function of faith is to purify the conscience and the function of the conscience is to purify faith.

No man gets good treatment from his wife unless he almost breaks her heart about once every three weeks.

The object of religion is not to regulate conduct, but to develop the conscience so that conscience can regulate conduct.

To see the truth, to believe in the truth, to obey the truth, these three hath God joined together, and let not man put asunder.

An honest conscience is the best orthodoxy: it clears away the nonessentials and will not believe simply for the merit of believing.

When a girl thinks a man looks like he wants to kiss her she covers up her eyes so she can't see whether he really is going to or not till it is too late.

It's a funny thing that a woman often knows a man who reminds her of her husband, but a man never meets a woman who reminds him of his wife.

The First Jewish Peer.

Lord Rothschild has just celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday. His lordship is the male heir of old Meyer Amschel Rothschild, the founder of the wealth of the family. The latter's son became an English subject, and the father of Lord Rothschild was the grandson of old Meyer. For twenty years Lord Rothschild sat in the House of Commons as member for Aylesbury, and in 1885 he was promoted to the peerage—the first Jew to receive the honor. It was Mr. Gladstone who created the innovation, but Lord Rothschild is now a follower of Lord Salisbury.

PECULIAR DEATH.

Man Broke His Neck Trying to Lift a Window.

Joseph Swope, aged 46 years, foreman of the truck department of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, was found dead at his home in Louisville, Ky., Monday. Death came suddenly and in a peculiar manner. Swope came home late at night and laid down on a lounge. In the morning when a servant went to call him to breakfast he was found dead with his neck broken. Investigation showed that Swope had evidently tried to raise a window while lying on the lounge in a half reclining position. In some manner he slipped, the heavy springs made him lose his balance and his entire weight was thrown upon the back of his neck.

Bryan Sticks to Nebraska.

The publication of a Washington dispatch to the effect that W. J. Bryan contemplated leaving Nebraska and taking up his residence in Texas causes considerable comment at Lincoln, Neb. Charles W. Bryan, brother of the presidential candidate and in an interview said regarding the report:

"It is true that my brother's children and his wife are now in Texas, but they will return to Nebraska the latter part of April. Mr. Bryan will accompany them and will rest a few weeks before making a tour of the country. Mr. Bryan has no intention of leaving Nebraska to take up his residence in any other state."

Populists to Meet in Birmingham

The populist state convention, which was called to meet in Montgomery on May 10, will probably be held in Birmingham during the latter part of April. At the special meeting of the Commercial Club at Birmingham, President Anderson stated that Dr. G. B. Crowe, chairman of the state populist committee, had informed him that he would call the convention of the party to meet in Birmingham if the Commercial Club would agree to furnish a hall in which to meet, or raise a fund sufficient to pay for one, and on motion of Joseph Beitman, the secretary was directed to secure the Auditorium for the purpose.

Aldrich Wants a Consular Appointment.

Representative Aldrich, of Alabama, Monday introduced a bill for the establishment of a "diplomatic, consular and civil service college of the United States" at or near Washington, D. C. The purpose of the college, as set forth, is to educate young men and women not over 21 years of age for the civil service, and men not over 25 for the diplomatic and consular service. Appointments to the college are to be made like appointments to West Point and Annapolis.

Railroad Wreck in Pennsylvania.

One of the large passenger cars of the Olean, Rock City & Bradford Electric railroad ran away down the mountain side beyond Red Rock, near Brrdford, Pa., and the derailment and the wreck of the car that followed resulted in the loss of several persons.

The largest land sale of the season was made at Greensboro a few days ago when C. C. Seed purchased the "Prairie Lodge" place on the Warrior river, ten miles from Greensboro, for $25,000. This tract embraces 2,700 acres and is one of the largest plantations in Hale county.

Since physical training aims at perfecting the body as an instrument, and at rendering it the willing, prompt and efficient servant of an intelligent mind and a sensitive and enlightened soul, it cannot be gainsaid that physical training lies at the foundation of mental or moral training, or that it enters and must enter as a more or less prominent and necessary factor into a great number of our educational pocedures. The full success or failure of physical training, therefore, does not relate to the size or strength of the red meat we call muscles, but is measured in part by our achievements in the domain of mind and the domain of conduct.

The trend of modern civilization is toward prolonging and safe-guarding the existence of the individual. It is also true that there is a growing moral uprising against the wickedness of slaughter in war. But all this may be freely admitted without the concession that society may never justly put the criminal to death. That is a question which the nineteenth century will pass on along with many others, to the twentieth, and it is sure to be discussed long and warmly before a general agreement shall be reached.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: Drama Discussed—It Cannot Be Suppressed—Christianity Should Control and Reform Public Amusements—The Church Should Go to the Theater.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—At a time when the whole country is in controversy as never before concerning the theater and some plays are being arrested by the police and others are being patronized by Christian people this sermon of Dr. Talmage is of much interest. The text is I Corinthians vii., 31, "They that use this world as not abusing it."

My reason for preaching this discourse is that I have been kindly invited by two of the leading newspapers of this country to inspect and report on two of the popular plays of the day—to go some week ago to Chicago and see the drama "Quo Vadis" and criticise it with respect to its moral effect and to go to New York and see the drama "Ben-Hur" and write my opinion of it for public use. Instead of doing that I propose in a sermon to discuss what we shall do with the dramatic element which God has implanted in many of our natures—not in ten or 100 or 1000, but in the vast majority of the human race. Some people speak of the drama as though it were something built up outside of ourselves by the Congreves and the Goldsmiths and the Shakespeares and the Sheridans of literature and that then we attune our tastes to correspond with human inventions. Not at all. The drama is an echo from the feeling which God has implanted in our immortal souls. It is seen first in the domestic circle among the children three or four years of age playing with their dolls and their cradles and their carts; seen ten years after in the pinyhouses of wood, ten years after in the parlor charades, after that in the elaborate impersonations in the academies of music. Thespis and Æschylus and Sophocles and Euripides merely dramatized what was in the Greek heart; Terence and Plautus and Seneca merely dramatized what was in the Roman heart; Congreve and Farquhar merely dramatized what was in the English heart; Racine, Corneille and Alfieri only dramatized what was in the French and Italian heart; Shakespeare only dramatized what was in the great world's heart. The dithyrambic and classic drama, the sentimental drama, the romantic drama, were merely echoes of the human soul.

I do not speak of the drama on the poetic shelf or of the drama in the playhouse, but I speak of the dramatic element in your soul and mine. We make men responsible for it. They are not responsible. They are responsible for the perversion of it, but not for the original implantation. God did that work, and I suppose He knew what He was about when He made us. We are nearly all moved by the spectacular. When on Thanksgiving Day we decorate our churches with the cotton and the rice and the apples and the wheat and the rye and the oats, our gratitude to God is stirred; when on Easter morning we see written in letters of flowers the inscription, "He is risen," our emotions are stirred. Every parent likes to go to the school exhibition, with its recitations and its dialogues and its droll costumes. The torchlight procession of the political campaign is merely the dramatization of principles involved. No intelligent man can look in any secular or religious direction without finding this dramatic element revealing, unrolling, demonstrating itself. What shall we do with it?

Shall we suppress it? You can as easily suppress its Creator. You may direct it, you may educate it, you may purify it, you may harness it to multi-potent usefulness, and that it is your duty to do, just as we cultivate taste for the beautiful and sublime.

Now, I have to tell you not only that God has implanted this dramatic element in our natures, but I have to tell you in the Scriptures He cultivates it, He appeals to it, He develops it. I do not care where you open the Bible, your eye will fall upon a drama. Here it is in the book of Judges, the fir tree, the vine, the olive tree, the bramble—they all make speeches. Then at the close of the scene there is a coronation, and the bramble is proclaimed king. That is a political drama. Here it is in the book of Job. Enter Eliphaz, Bildad, Zophar, Elihu and Job. The opening act of the drama, all darkness; the closing act of the drama, all sunshine. Magnificent drama is the book of Job.

Here it is in Solomon's Song—the region, an oriental region: Vineyards, pomegranates, mountain of myrrh, flock of sheep, garden of spices, a wooing, a bride, a bridegroom, dialogue after dialogue—intense, gorgeous, all suggestive drama is the book of Solomon's Song. Here it is in the book of Luke: Costly mansion in the night. All the windows bright with illumination. The floor a-quake with the dance. Returned son in costly garments which do not very well fit him perhaps, for they were not made for him, but he must swiftly leave off his old garb and prepare for this extemporized levee. Pouting son at the back door, too mad to go in, because they are making such a fuss. Tears of sympathy running down the old man's cheek at the story of his son's wandering and suffering and tears of joy at his return. When you heard Murdock recite "The Prodigal Son" in one of his readings, you did not know whether to sob or shout. Revivals of religion have started just under the reading of that soul revolutionizing drama of "The Prodigal Son."

Here it is in the book of Revelation—crystalline sea, pearly gate, opaline river, amethystine capstone, showering coronets, one vial poured out incardinating the waters, cavalrymen of heaven galloping on white horses, nations in doxology, hallelujahs to the right of them, hallelujahs to the left of them. As the Bible opens with the drama of the first paradise, so it closes with the drama of the second paradise.

Mind you, when I say drama I do not mean myth or fable, for my theology is of the oldest type—500 years old, thousands of years old, as old as the Bible. When I speak of the drama at the beginning and close of the Bible, I do not mean an allegory, but I mean the truth so stated that in grouping and in startling effect it is a God given, world resounding, heaven echoing drama. Now, if God implanted this dramatic element in our natures, and if He has cultivated and developed it in the Scriptures, I demand that you recognize it.

Because the drama has again and again been degraded and employed for destructive purposes is nothing against the drama any more than music ought to be accursed because it has been taken again and again into the saturnalian wassails of 4000 years. Will you refuse to enthrone music on the church organ because the art has been trampled again and again under the feet of the lascivious dance?

It is nothing against painting and sculpture that in Corinth and Herculaneum they were demonstrative of vulgarity and turpitude. The dreadful museum at Pompeii shall throw no discredit on Powers's "Greek Slave" or Church's "Heart of the Andes" or Rubens's "Descent From the Cross" or Angelo's "Last Judgment." The very fact that again and again the drama has been dragged through the sewers of iniquity is the reason why we should snatch it up and start it out on a grand and a holy and a magnificent mission. Let me say at this point in my sermon that the drama will never be lifted to its rightful sphere by those people who have not sense enough to distinguish between the drama and the playhouse. The drama is no more the theatre than a hymn-book is a church. I am not speaking in regard to the theatre at all. The drama is a literary expression of that feeling which God implanted in the human soul. Neither will the drama ever be lifted to its proper sphere by wholesale denunciation of all dramatists. If you have not known men and women connected with the drama who are pure in heart and pure in speech and pure in life, it is because you have not had very wide acquaintance.

Wholesale denunciation of all dramatists will never elevate the drama. Yonder stand a church and a theatre on opposite sides of the street. The church shouts over to the theatre, "You are all scoundrels!" The theatre shouts back, "You are all hypocrites!" And they both falsify. Dropping all indiscriminate broadside against dramatics and realizing that the drama is not necessarily connected with this institution or with that, I want to show you how the dramatic element in our natures may be impressed to the chariot of civilization and Christianity.

Fifty essays about the sorrows of the poor could not affect me as a little drama of accident and suffering I saw one slippery morning in the streets of Philadelphia. Just ahead of me was a lad, wretched in apparel, his limb amputated at the knee; from the pallor of the boy's cheek, the amputation not long before. He had a package of broken food under his arm—food he had begged, I suppose, at the doors. As he passed on over the slippery pavement, cautiously and carefully, I steadied him until his crutch slipped and he fell. I helped him up as well as I could, gathered up the fragments of the package as well as I could, put them under one arm and the crutch under the other arm, but when I saw the blood run down his pale cheek I burst into tears. Fifty essays about the sufferings of the poor could not touch one like that little drama of accident and suffering.

Oh, we want in all our different departments of usefulness more of the dramatic element and less of the didactic. The tendency in this day is to drone religion, to whine religion, to cant religion, to moan religion, to croak religion, to sepulchralize religion, when we ought to present it in animated and spectacular manner.

What we want, ministers and laymen, is to get our sermons and our exhortations and our prayers out of the old rut. The old hackneyed religious phrases that come snoring down through the centuries will never arrest the masses. What we want to-day, you in your sphere, and I in my sphere, is to freshen up. People do not want in their sermons the sham flowers bought at the millinery shop, but the japonicas wet with the morning dew, not the heavy bones of extinct megatherium of past ages, but the living reindeer caught last August at the edge of Schroon Lake. We want to drive out the drowsy and the prosaic and the tedious and the humdrum and introduce the brightness and the vivacity and the holy sarcasm and the sanctified wit and the epigrammatic power and the blood red earnestness and the fire of religious zeal, and I do not know of any way of doing it as well as through the dramatic.

But now let us turn to the drama as an amusement and entertainment.

Rev. Dr. Bellows, of New York, many years ago in a very brilliant but much criticised sermon took the position that the theater might be renovated and made auxiliary to the church. Many Christian people are of the same opinion. I do not agree with them. I have no idea that success is in that direction. What I have said heretofore on this subject, as far as I can remember, is my sentiment now. But today I take a step in advance of my former theory. Christianity is going to take full possession of this world and control its maxims, its laws, its literature, its science and its amusements. Shut out from the realm of Christianity anything and you give it up to sin and death.

If Christianity is mighty enough to manage everything but the amusements of the world, then it is a very defective Christianity. Is it capable of keeping account of the tears of the world and incompetent to make record of its smiles? Is it good to follow the funeral, but dumb at the world's play? Can it control all the other elements of our nature but the dramatic element? My idea of Christianity is that it can and will conquer everything.

Now, what we want is to hasten that time. How will it be done? By the church going over to the theater? It will not go. By the theater coming to the church? It will not come. What we want is a reformed amusement association in every city and town of the United States. Once announced and explained and illustrated, the Christian and philanthropic capitalist will come forward to establish it, and there will be public spirited men every where who will do this work for the dramatic element of our natures. We need a new institution to meet and recognize and develop and defend the dramatic element of our nature. It needs to be distinct from everything that is or has been.

I would have this reformed amusement association having in charge this new institution of the spectacular take possession of some hall or academy. It might take a smaller building at the start, but it would soon need the largest hall, and even that would not hold the people, for he who opens before the dramatic element in human nature an opportunity of gratification without compromise and without danger does the mightiest thing of this century, and the tides of such an institution would rise as the Atlantic rises at Liverpool docks.

There are tens of thousands of Christian homes where the sons and daughters are held back from dramatic entertainment for reasons which some of you would say are good reasons and others would say are poor reasons, but still held back. But on the establishment of such an institution they would feel the arrest of their anxieties and would say on the establishment of this new institution, which I have called the spectacular, "Thank, God, this is what we have all been waiting for."

Now, as I believe that I make suggestion of an institution which wiser men will develop, I want to give some characteristics of this new institution, this spectacular, if it is to be a grand social and moral success. In the first place, its entertainments must be compressed within an hour and three-quarters. What kills sermons, prayers and lectures and entertainments of all sorts is prolixity. At a reasonable hour every night every curtain of public entertainment ought to drop, every church service ought to cease, the instruments of orchestras ought to be unstrung.

On the platform of this new institution there will be a drama which before rendering has been read, expurgated, abbreviated and passed upon by a board of trustees connected with this reformed amusement association. If there be in a drama a sentence suggesting evil, it will be stricken out. If there be in a Shakespearean play a word with two meanings—a good meaning and a bad meaning—another word will be substituted, an honest word looking only way. The caterers to public taste will have to learn that Shakespearean nastiness is no better than Congrevean nastiness. You say, "Who will dare to change by expurgation or abbreviation a Shakespearean play?" I dare. The board of trustees of this reformed amusement association will dare. It is no depreciation of a drama, the abbreviation of it. I would like to hear thirty or forty pages of Milton's "Paradise Lost" read at one time, but I should be very sorry to hear the whole book read at one sitting. Abbreviation is not depreciation.

On the platform of this new institution this spectacular, under the care of the very best men and women in the community, there shall be nothing witnessed that would be unfit for a parlor. Any attitude, any look, any word that would offend you seated at your own fireside, in your family circels, will be prohibited from that platform. By what law of common sense or of morality does that which is not fit to be seen or heard by five people become fit to be seen or heard by 1500 people? On the platform of that spectacular all the scenes of the drama will be as chaste as was ever a lecture by Edward Everett or a sermon by F. W. Robertson. On that platform there shall be no carouser, no inebriate, no cyprian, no foe of good morals, masculine or feminine.

London's Crystal Palace is to have a new glass roof.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

Professor Beal, in a paper to the American Society for Promoting Agricultural Science, reports that seeds of a large number of important plants will germinate after being kept fifteen, but not after twenty, years.

An analysis has been made by M. Demoussy, of Paris, of the little shavings of clay that are baked on bricks and eaten by natives in some parts of Tokin. The material is like kaolin in appearance and composition, and contains no nutritious substance whatever.

A patent was issued to Walther Wolff, of Charlottenberg, Germany, on an apparatus for measuring the velocity of sound waves, and more especially the velocity of propagation of a single shock or concussion of air such as is caused by the report of a firearm or other explosions. The apparatus consists of a hollow box or receptacle closed on all sides and provided with a hole in its cover; this hole is closed by a rigid lid held down by a spring, which lid when suddenly raised by the action of the sound wave causes the interruption of electrical current.

A life-saving device which was tested recently on Lake Michigan is a gasoline engine propelled lifeboat. The self-righting properties of the boat were not affected by the addition of the engine, which is placed in the after air-tight compartment. The engine is geared to twin-screws, so that either screw may be started, stopped or reversed independent of the other, and it is possible to turn the boat in a very small space. Seventy-five gallons of gasoline, sufficient for a run of 280 miles at the maximum speed of seven and one-half miles per hour, can be carried in a reservoir located in a forward compartment.

The Medical Record says that excellent results are being had with surgical dressings of common wood pulp, such as is used as a base in the manufacture of paper. When macerated in water it swells up and absorbs four or five times its weight of liquid. It retains heat for a long time and makes a better poultice than flaxseed or bread and milk. It can be infused with emollient oils or with antiseptics for special purposes; and it is well adapted as a substitute for splint bandages for it dries hard and rigid. Ordinary clean paper, boiled and soaked in water till reduced to a perfect pulp, or paper mache, would doubtless answer the same purpose where crude wood pulp is not obtainable.

A marvel of ingenuity is the mechanical perpetual calendar constructed in leisure hours by M. Albert Jagot, of Mans. It consists of but five wheels—with a total of ninety-six teeth—and nine levers or catches, yet it is designed to indicate the day of the week, the date and the month, automatically, for centuries, and to show the 29th day of February in accordance with our calendars—that is, every fourth year except the three century years in every four centuries that are not leap years. The mechanism is operated by three weights, of which one requires winding every fifteen days, the second is to be wound once a year, while the third acts as a counterweight to bring the principal wheel to its starting point once a month.

The Bayonet in Modern Warfare.

The fire of the defense becomes more destructive every moment, while that of the assailants is shaken by their losses, but at last a sufficiently thick firing line of the latter get within point blank of the defenders, and the latter see many more soldiers crowding up behind. The defenders do not feel themselves beaten yet, but they know that their assailants' fire is again growing equal, and more than equal, to their own. Suddenly the enemy fixes bayonets and his bugles sound the charge; the defenders have stood still beneath his fire all day, they have seen their comrades scattered on all sides by the deadly but invisible tap of the rifle bullet, they have been strengthened by the merry riot of their own guns against the appalling blast of the shrapnel, but now the enemy has ceased his noise. He is a great bully; they were not afraid of his muskets and guns, they have not so far shrunk from him, but now he is coming to knife them where they stand. They are but stricken game awaiting the coup de grace. A few among the defenders will not flinch even now; they, too, fix their bayonets prepared with the bitter heroism of the lost to fight it out. But most men fear certain death worse than questionable dishonor, their nerves crack, and they fly. The fight is over, and the bayonet, if it has not drunk a drop of blood, has not the less directly ended it. — From "How Soldier Fight," by F. Norreys Connell.

Foreign Game in American Market.

A correspondent inquires as to the effect upon our domestic game supply of the sale of foreign game. The effect of the sale of game actually imported would, of course, not effect the domestic supply in any way whatever, unless it might be possibly if the imported stock were so plentiful and so cheap as to lessen the demand for native species. That is something which is not likely to happen. The actual conditions are these—that while there is in the market some actually imported foreign game, by far the greater proportion of the game labelled as foreign is American, and is sold illicitly under a foreign name. Brazil birds are American quail; French pheasants are American ruffed grouse.—Forest and Stream.

When to Stop Eggs and Milk.

"People over 50 would do well to give up milk and eggs as a diet," said Dr. Henry M. Dearborne. "These are the structure forming foods of animals which mature in a short time, and when taken in quantities by human beings whose structures have already formed they tend only to the hardening and aging of the tissues."

Dr. Dearborne said that he had seen people who were beginning to find stair climbing difficult and who were losing their elasticity much benefited by eliminating these articles from their diet. "There has been a great increase in the duration of life below the age of 50, statistics prove," he said, "but beyond that period there has been no improvement." In his opinion, the person over 50 should have as good a chance to preserve life as the young child just beginning its struggle with existence.—New York Times.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

Plantersville, April 2, 1900
Editor BANNER—We see in the last issue of the Banner a goodly number of the northern part of beats 8 and 7 giving Mr. Lee Hayes a good sendoff and giving him their support. This speaks well for Mr. Hayes. We wish to speak something in his behalf. He will get a large majority of the votes in beats 7 and 8 without a doubt. We all know that Mr. Hayes made us the best sheriff, while in office before that Chilton ever had. He went according to law, carried out the law, and abided by the law, regardless of man or money, and he is a high toned gentleman. Why not elect him again and let him serve us again? If we have a horse that we know is alright in every respect we should hold to him. We need a man for sheriff that will take and abide by the law for his counsel. Now, in concluding, I will say let us all turn out on the 14th and elect Mr. Hayes by voting. This is from West Chilton and beat 8 signed by S. R. Barnes, R. P. Barnes, M. H. Barnes, L. Latham, L. R. Barnes, J. L. O'Neale, D. A. Friday.

Clanton, April 2, 1900
Editor BANNER. A word of thanks to my friends who supported me in the primary election. Gentlemen, I haven't the tongue to express my thanks to you for giving me the nomination for the position of sheriff of the county. I want the people that never supported me to know that I don't think hard of them at all, but I commend a man for supporting the man of his choice and then yielding to a majority.

Now a word to the people of the county. Gentlemen, if I am elected, I promise you by the help of an all-wise God, to discharge my official duties to the best of my ability. Thanking my friends again for the honor they have conferred upon me, and the Editor for his kindness in the way of publications, I remain yours as ever.

To the Voters of Chilton county.

I have known J. H. Johnson for more than ten years. It was his energetic and intelligent management of the office of constable that first attracted my attention. His father died when he was a child, and left him a little orphan to battle with the world. He knows what it is to be poor and powerless. I see he has become a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county. I know him to be fully competent to perform the duties of the office. If the voters elect him they will elect a good and worthy man, and have a good theriff.

Respectfully,
L. PATTILLO.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism.

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parsons & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this remedy to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." For sale by Clanton drug company, and D. I. MILITARY EXECUTIONS.

Gen. Otis Inaugurates a New Policy in the Philippines.

The execution of Morales and Gonzales, the Philippine leaders, it is said at the war department, marks the inauguration of a new policy in the Philippines. This is the execution of the death sentence by order of the military officer in command in the cases of persons, natives or others convicted and sentenced by military commissions organized under the rules of war.

Morales and Gonzales were convicted by a military commission of the murder of Filipinos, and were sentenced to be hanged March 30, and the press dispatches from Manila show that the sentence was carried into effect. No official report of these cases has been received at the War department and it is stated General Otis has acted entirely on his own responsibility in the matter under the authority conferred by articles of war. There have been several other cases where the death penalty was imposed by the military tribunal, but up to the present instance no case where the death sentence was carried into effect.

All previous cases were submi to the president for final acti in every instance the sente commuted to imprisonmen

It is stated General Otis' is undoubtedly intended to suppress brigandage and outlawry in the Philippines.

REDUCTION OF ARMY

In Cuba Will Be Delayed Until After the Elections.

Secretary Root said Saturday that he had not changed his mind as to the possibility of safely reducing the number of American soldiers in Cuba. But the postponement of the Cuban elections for at least a month beyond the date originally fixed made it advisable to delay correspondingly the diminution of the garrisons so that it might be well into the summer before the contemplated reductions could be made. The existence of a quarantine in Florida at that time would not prevent the movement of the troops northward.

GOVERNMENT SUCCESS.

Venezuelan Troops Defeat the Revolutionists.

The Venezuelan government officials report that severe fighting occurred near the city of Bolivar on March 22.

Gen. Penalosa, commanding the government troops, it is announced, defeated Gen. Fernandez. His forces killed 223 of the revolutionists, took eighty prisoners and captured a large quantity of arms and ammunition. The government loss was small.

FRUIT CROP NOT DAMAGED.

The Trees Were Somewhat Injured in North Georgia, But Peaches are Safe.

Dispatches from different parts of Georgia do not indicate any serious damage by Saturday night's frost. The weather bureau predicted a frost for the northern part of the state, but telegrams show that it was felt as far south as Columbus. No damage was done to fruit in that section of the state, but at Adairsville, in North Georgia, 75 per cent. of the late fruit was killed. The peach crop, however, is reported safe.

Exports from Savannah.

The exports from Savannah for the period of five months, ending March 31, were $22,629,374, the largest of any previous similar period in the history of the port. The best previous record for a similar period was in 1892, when the total exports amounted to $17,387,759.

The Sherman Leaves Manila.

The United States transport Sherman sailed from Manila Sunday with a battalion of the Fourteenth infantry, Captains Richard T. Yeatman, Armand I. Lasseigne and William S. Biddle, Lieutenants Roberts, Field and Oliver, 175 military prisoners and twenty-five insane.

The new way of measuring the space occupied by a building is by the acre. A Duluth firm is planning to erect one to contain nine acres—not, however, all on the same level.

SUMMARY OF STATE NEWS

Topics of Interest Gathered From All Parts of Alabama.

OFFICER KIRKLEY'S MURDERERS CAUGHT

First Move of the Respondents in the University Land Sale—A New Railroad.—Nominations in Montgomery County—Killed His Sister.

Senator Tillman to Speak in Birmingham.

The dispensary advocates have arranged for Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, to speak at the auditorium in Birmingham on Monday night, April 9. Mr. Tillman will speak in advocacy of the dispensary and will not take any hand in the senatorship or governorship fight, so it is stated.

More Cotton Machinery.

A large cotton ginnery mill will be established and operated in connection with the Alabama Cotton Oil Plant at Huntsville. The new ginnery includes ten 70-saw gins, and a round-bale compress, as well as a double rotary square bale press of standard dimensions.

First Move of Respondents.

The first move of the Sloss-Sheffield Iron and Steel company, the respondents to the bill filed by the trustees of the State university for the setting aside of the lands recently sold to that company, has been made, a motion having been filed in the chancery court at Birmingham to dismiss the bill for want of equity. The motion will be taken up by Chancellor Carmichael Saturday, when arguments will be heard.

Kirkley's Murderer Captured.

The police of Chattanooga Friday arrested a gang of eight crooks with the assistance of detective W. A. Disheroon and G. H. Bodeker, of Birmingham, three of whom have been positively identified by the latter officers as three of the gang implicated in the recent robberies of Birmingham, and in the shooting of Policemen Kirkley and Adams. Their names are Frank Duncan, John D. West and Tom Fay, and the Birmingham detectives are certain that West is the slayer of Policeman Kirkley.

A New Railroad.

A petition for the incorporation of the Chattahoochee Valley railroad has been filed with the secretary of state. A number of Alabama and Massachusetts capitalists sighed the petition. The subscribers desire to construct a railroad under the name of the Chattahoochee Valley Railroad company, the terminals in Alabama to be at some point in or about Lanett, in Chambers county, and in or near Phenix, in Lee county. The amount of the capital stock will be $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each.

Montgomery County Democrats.

The work of the democratic committee of Montgomery county resulted in the following nominations: W. R. Waller, for sheriff; George W. Hails, for tax collector; A. H. Eubanks, for assessor; J. J. Cochran, for treasurer; J. A. Thompson, superintendent of education; W. H. Tice, coroner.

The convention ordered the county committee to rescind its action not to have a direct vote on all state officers.

This convention only acted on the county officers. The legislative candidates will be voted on April 14, when expression for United States senator will also be made.

Murderers Identified.

Rational of mind, and possessed of of the knowledge that death was perhaps only a few hours off, and of the statement that he might make, Officer J. H. Adams, of Birmingham, Sunday positively identified two of the crooks who have been arrested by the police as the assailants of himself and Officer Kirkley on last Tuesday night. The men who were identified by the dying officer are Frank Miller, alias John Manning, one of the gang arrested in Anniston, and Frank Duncan, one of the Chattanooga gang, who, with Tom Fay and John D. West, were brought in from Chattanooga Sunday.

Killed His Sister.

A son of Mr. Patten Morrow, living in Mantua beat, Greene county, shot and killed his sister, a girl about 16 years old. It seems that the young lady was out doors and tried to get in at a door. The young man thought it was a burglar and after hailing and receiving no answer, fired a shotgun through the door, the whole charge striking his sister in the neck and fatally wounding her.

BONES OF MASTODON FOUND

In a Cave Near Decatur, Together With a Lot of Prehistoric Curios.

Dr. J. Judson Barclay, late United States consul to Tangier, Morocco, who a few weeks ago discovered a cave up the river from New Decatur, near Talucah, which was supposed to have been the home of a gang of counterfeiters years ago, has just returned from another trip of investigation to the same cavern, and this time he reports one of the most remarkable finds in the way of prehistoric relics ever discovered in the United States. In the cavern, the doctor says, he found an antrance to a chamber which was not discovered at any of his previous visits. The entrance was almost completely blocked by stones and the accumulation of dust and rubbish of many centuries, and it was with the greatest difficulty and fatiguing exercise that he managed to work his way through the passage to a large unexplored chamber, measuring some 600 by 800 feet, and about 75 feet from the ground to the ceiling.

At the remotest extremity of this chamber were found all the bones of the largest mastodon which has ever been discovered in any part of the country of which there is any record.

The skeleton will be shipped in to the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C., where it will be placed on exhibition.

The bones are in a state of excellent preservation and the skeleton is said to be the finest specimen ever found. In life the animal must have been twenty-five feet in height.

In another part of the chamber a great quantity of coins, gold and bronze ornaments, pottery and prehistoric instruments of war were also found.

The full extent of this wonderful cavern is yet unknown, but the doctor intends to continue his exploration, with the hope of throwing more light on the dark ages of pre-historic days.

Dispensary Question to Be Voted Upon.

The democratic executive committee of Tuscaloosa county met Saturday to arrange the details of the election on April 14. The committee is nearly all composed of dispensary advocates. Instead of putting on the tickets "for or against dispensary, they voted with few exceptions to put on "dispensary or saloon." One of the exceptions is Henry A. Jones, who is chairman of the committee. He is a strong advocate of the dispensary, but he made a vigorous plea for fairness. "It would be just as fair to make the people vote for whiskey for dispensary or eternal damnation," said Mr. Jones. Many of the anti's are among Tuscaloosa's best citizens. Some of them are out and out prohibitionists, and the act of the committee has caused a war of indignation that has spread even to those favorable to dispensaries.

Murder and Robbery at Clinton.

Saturday night two negroes entered the store of J. T. Sterling at Clinton, knocked the clerk, Thomas Buntain, on the head with an axe, and left him insensible on the floor. They then robbed the store, and finished the job by cutting Buntain's throat. His dead body was found Sunday morning. Two negroes have been arrested for the crime and are in jail at Eutaw, eight miles south of Clinton. One of them has been partially identified.

Morgan's Land Bill Passed.

Senator Morgan Saturday secured the passage through the senate of a bill granting 25,000 acres of land to the Troy Normal school and the same amount to the negro school at Montgomery.

Fifty-three Candidates.

The number of candidates who have entered for the Democratic primaries in Jefferson county now numbers fifty-three, and the amount of money which they have put up to cover the election and registration expenses exceeds two thousands dollars. General Shelley and Colonel John W. Tomlinson are the only entries for Governor, which is taken to mean that Messrs. Stallings, Waller and Samford will not contest the county.

Brundidge will soon have a new bank. The president will be Mr. M. Lightfoot, a leading business man. Fletcher Bass will be vice-president and James F. Hightower, cashier.

Bates Released.

Jim Bates, a farmer near Brushy Creek community, was tried at Cullman for the murder of his wife, whose lifeless body was found hanging in an outhouse near the Bates home. At first it was thought she committed suicide, but later there was suspicion of foul play and Bates was arrested. There was no evidence against him and he was released.

WALKED INTO A TRAP.

Entire British Convoy Captured by the Boers.

THE LOSS OF LIFE WAS NOT LARGE

Convoy Arrived at a Deep Spruit Where Boers Were Concealed and Compelled to Surrender—Botha Succeeds Joubert.

A Sunday's cable message from South Africa says: The British force commanded by Colonel Broadwood, consisting of the Tenth Hussars, two horse batteries, and a force of mounted infantry, under Colonel Pilcher, which had been garrisoning Thaba Chu, was obliged, in consequence of the near approach of a large force of Boers, to leave last night.

Colonel Broadwood marched to the Bloemfontein water-works, south of of the Modder, where he encamped at 4 this morning.

At early dawn the camp was shelled by the enemy from a near point. Colonel Broadwood sent off a convoy with the batteries, while the rest of the force remained to act as a rear guard.

The convoy arrived at a deep spruit, where the Boers were concealed, and the entire body walked into ambush and was captured, together with six guns.

The loss of life was not great, since most of the British had walked into the trap before a shot was fired.

Botha Succeeds Joubert.

General Louis Botha has been appointed to succeed General Joubert as commander-in-chief of the Transvaal forces.

FOUND TO CANNON.

Man of War Wreck Being Taken From Savannah River.

The dredge Babcock, at work in the river for the terminal of the Georgia and Alabama railway at Savannah, Ga., picked up two old type English cannon, in a man-of-war wreck it is pulling out nearly opposite the foot of Bull street. One gun weighs about 1,000 pounds and the other 850 pounds. The vessel is supposed to have been sunk at the time of the British occupation of the city, when the French allies sailed up the river to attack them. A number of cannon balls and several silver coins of a date of more than 100 years ago have also been taken out.

Gruesome Tragedy in Texas.

Near Crockett, Tex., while W. N. Oliver and J. A. Castling, brothers-in-law, and their wives, were sitting up with the corpse of E. M. Morehead, father-in-law of the men, the latter quarreled and Oliver was stabbed to death. Castling is in jail. The men are among the most prominent planters in southeastern Texas.

Grand Jury Takes Up Goebel Case

The convening of the April term of the Franklin circuit court in Frankfort, Ky., Monday, with Judge Cantrill sitting, marks the beginning of the final proceedings against the alleged assassin of the late Governor Goebel, and on this account makes it the most important in the history of criminal trials in Kentucky.

Pana Surrenders.

The Chinese General, Pana, who has been terrorizing and devastating the province of Panay, has surrendered at Legaspi to Brigadier-General Kobbe, who is taking him to Manila.

Ladies Raising Goebel Fund.

Mrs. Gray Cromwell, Secretary of the Ladies' Goebel Monument Fund Committee, estimates that $10,000 has been raised by the ladies in the various counties for the monument fund so far. The subscription books will not be closed for two months, by which time the ladies' committee expects to have raised $50,000.

Ex-Senator Gibson Dead.

Ex-United States Senator Charles Gibson, of Maryland, died Saturday morning from heart disease, at the residence of his brother, Lieutenant Gibson, of the navy, in Washington.

Expert Agent Appointed.

The director of the census has appointed Alcee Boucherean of New Orleans special expert agent to collect statistics of the sugar industry in the southern states.

Delagoa Bay Award.

According to the D[illegible]agoa Bay railroad award the Por[illegible]uese government is condemned t[illegible]y 15,814,000 francs.

OHIO ELECTIONS.

Summary of the Result Shows Republican Gains.

A summary of the results of the municipal and township elections in Ohio Monday indicates more republican than democratic gains, but no special cause is assigned for it except that the republican faction, which have been fighting for years, have evidently been getting together. The result in Cincinnati, which on the average plurality more than reverses the result at the last general municipal election, is attributed to less factional fighting among the republicans and the indifference of the democrats. In Cleveland, where the factions have been most intense, the result is also decisive. A feature of the day has been the election of Dr Washington Gladden as a councilman at Columbus, where the question of municipal franchises was a special issue. The republicans elected their ticket at Toledo, where Mayor Samuel Jones has held sway as an independent factor for years. At some interior points the republicans elected officers where they have never before elected them, while there have been no phenomenal gains by the democrats.

DEMOCRACY GAINS IN MICHIGAN.

In Almost Every City Republicans Lost Votes.

The democrats made several striking gains in the municipal and township elections, and in all Michigan cities Monday, except Detroit and Port Huron. At Lansing J. F. Hammel was elected by 816 majority, the first democratic mayor in ten years. Mayor George R. Perry, democrat, was re-elected at Grand Rapids over ex-Mayor Stuart by 1,888 majority. His majority last year was only 728.

At Petoskey, which has hitherto been republican, the democrats elected a mayor.

Hudson and Ann Arbor both show democratic gains. At Big Rapids the democrats reduced the republican majorities of last year by half. A democratic mayor was re-elected at Saginaw.

Luddington, Lapeer, Alpena, Mt. Clements, Sturgis, Niles and Adrian also went democratic.

Jackson republicans elected a mayor. At Eaton Rapids the republican ticket was elected, and at Hancock the republicans were successful for first time in the city's history. St. Joseph and Grand Rapids also went republican.

SOUTH POLE DISCOVERED.

Survivors of the South Polar Expedition Arrive at Campbelltown.

The exploring steamer Southern Cross, bearing Mr. C. F. Brochgrevink and the survivors of the South Polar expedition, fitted out in 1898 by Sir George Newnes, of London, arrived Monday at Campbelltown, near Bluff Harbor, N. Z.

Mr. Brochgrevink's expedition left Hobart for the Antarctic region in December, 1898. During the latter part of February, 1899, the members landed from the Southern Cross near Cape Adair, Victoria, and it having been arranged that the steamer should leave them there with full equipment of every kind and should return for them early in 1900.

Webster Davis Has Resigned.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis' formal resignation was sent to the white house Monday through his private secretary. At the white house no statement was obtainable concerning the resignation other than the fact that it had been received, and the officials declined to say whether it would be accepted.

Increase in Sales of Fertilizer Tags.

The report of sales of fertilizer tags for the past season shows that up to April 1 there were 1,443,110 sold in Alabama. For the same time last season there were sold 911,700, a great increase for the present year of 581,380.

There was in the treasury at the close of business on Saturday, March 31, over a million and twenty thousand dollars. There was paid out for the quarter ending March 31 $220,000 to teachers of the public schools of the state.

Went to Girl's House and Shot Himself.

Bert Taylor, a young 18-year-old lad of Hoke's Bluff, attempted suicide Sunday. He was desperately in love with a young lady, and his love was not returned. He went to her residence, stepped on the porch, put the pistol to his heart and fired, the ball entering the left breast just above the heart. He will probably recover.

JURY WILL INVESTIGATE.

Cantrill Instructs Them to Be Impartial.

Franklin county, Kentucky, jury for the April term, which investigate the assassination of Goebel, was announced [illegible]. It is composed of the following:

Stegg, republican; George [illegible] democrat; William Graham, [illegible]t; Lewellyn Gaines, democ[illegible]; B. George, republican; F. [illegible]herstone, anti-Goebel democ[illegible]; Robbert Sutter, democrat; [illegible] Bridgeford, populist; George [illegible]k, democrat; John Reis, [illegible]t; Bird Carter, democrat; [illegible]in, democrat.

Cantrill, after the grand jury [illegible]ned, delivered a very short [illegible] in which he said:

"Gentlemen: There is one thing in [illegible]lar to which I desire to call [illegible] attention, and that is the pres[illegible]rible condition of affairs that [illegible]re just now. It is the desire [illegible]ourt that you make a thorough [illegible]gation. I hope and believe [illegible] grand jury will discharge its [illegible]duty clearly, fearlessly and im[illegible]ly. You will find this court [illegible] assist you at any and all [illegible] and the commonwealth's at[illegible] will be with you frequently to [illegible] you as to the law."

"Blow Dick" Combs (colored), [illegible]d with being an accomplice in [illegible]bel assassination, was placed [illegible] at Frankfort Monday.

[illegible]e nothing was said by Judge [illegible]ll in his charge concerning it, [illegible]derstood that Commonwealth's [illegible]ey Franklin will recommend [illegible]nging in of indictments against [illegible]lican Governor Taylor and all [illegible] other republican state officers [illegible]rge of usurpation of the [illegible] they are claiming to hold.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the more important of the new industries reported by the Tradesman during the week ended March 31 are a basket and crate factory in Georgia; bottling works in Arkansas; brick works in Tennessee and Texas; a canning factory in Virginia; a carriage factory in Alabama; coal mines in Texas; copper mines in North Carolina: a construction company in West Virginia; one cotton mill each in Alabama and Arkansas; three in Georgia; one in North Carolina; four in South Carolina, one in Tennessee, four in Texas; cotton seed oil mills in Mississippi and South Carolina; a creamery in Georgia; an electric light plant in Louisiana; an electrical supply company in West Virginia; a fertilizer factory in Florida; gas works in West Virginia; a hardware company in North Carolina; ice factories in Georgia and Texas; iron and manganese mines in Virginia; three knitting mills in North Carolina; lumber mills in Florida and Mississippi; a machine shop in Alabama; a naval stores company in Georgia; a pants factory in Kentucky; a phosphate company in Tennessee; a photographic dry plate manufactory in Texas; planing mills in Mississippi and Tennessee; a telephone company in Texas; a tobacco factory in North Carolina; a $50,000 towel factory in South Carolina; a water power company in East Tennessee; water works in Georgia.

THE KENTUCKY SITUATION.

Culton Says He Has Not Implicated Himself.

All detectives are out of Frankfort, Ky. Culton repeats his denial that he even implicated himself in his confession, and says he will explain everything on the witness stand. Thomas Campbell and Arthur Goebel have been active preparing cases for the grand jury. Judge Moore says several warrants are out that have not been served, but declines to give names. Governor Taylor's wife and daughter went to Louisville and their effects were shipped there. It is said they will not return until the pending cases are settled.

OFFICERS AFTER FINLEY.

Any Effort To Remove Him From Indiana Will Be Resisted.

It is believed that Kentucky officers are in Indianapolis, Indiana, awaiting a favorable opportunity to take Charles P. Finley, ex-secretary of state of Kentucky, and carry him to Kentucky to be tried for complicity in the assassination of Goebel. Finley is known to be in concealment in that city. He has been at the residence of the sheriff, a part of the county jail. The republicans say any such effort will be resisted.

Heavy Damage in Mississippi.

Heavy frosts the last two nights have done considerable damage to the fruit and vegetable crops in central and southern Mississippi, in some instances amounting to 85 per cent. The bean and tomato plants have suffered especial injury.

Firemen Killed By Falling Walls.

Two firemen were killed by falling walls in Owosso, Mich., Sunday, in a fire which destroyed the Central High school. Three other firemen were seriously injured, and two pupils of the school were badly hurt.

Ex-Senator Sawyer Buried.

Former Senator Philetus Sawyer was buried at Oshkosh, Wis., Sunday. The funeral was the most imposing ever held in the city.

The spread of the English language is commented upon by the Journal of Commerce. In 1800 only 22,000,000 people spoke English, as compared with 35,000,000 who spoke French, 38,000,000 who spoke German, and 32,000,000 who spoke Spanish. At the beginning of 1900 127,000,000 people use English as their mother tongue; an increase in the century of 477 per cent. and a greater number than those who speak German and French taken together. In this period the United States has grown from 5,000,000 to 70,000,000 inhabitants; the United Kingdom from 16,000,000 to 41,000,000, and the colonists of England have grown from a few thousand to about 12,000,000. In the same time the population of the European continent has increased from 170,000,000 to about 343,000,000. Thus while at the beginning of the last century the natives of Continental Europe outnumbered the English-speaking family 8 to 1 they now outnumber the English races only 2.7 to 1.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Cuba is the greatest sugar-producing country in the world, and its normal crop is about 1,000,000 tons.

A competent judge estimates that about three times as many books were sold in the United States in 1899 as in any year since 1863.

According to the Iowa State Register, that State has 200 more financial institutions than any other State in the Union. The banks are generally small, however.

Tennessee has become the leading phosphate producer of America. There are 248 valuable mines in the State and over 21,000 men are employed in the business. New mines are being opened daily.

The million-dollar estate which the late Dr. Keeley left was conclusive evidence of the fact that the gold cure was effective against any financial distress overtaking the inventor.

The patrol wagon in use in Akron, O., is an automobile possessing a maximum speed of twenty miles an hour. It costs $2,300, and it is estimated that it will pay for itself in four years in the saving of horse-shoeing and horse feed.

If Mexico's exports of India rubber are increasing at the same ratio with other nations, that they are with the United States, then that industry of our sister republic must soon become paramount. Just now the increase with this country is 100 per cent. per month.

Russia is ferreting out corruption in the military and naval administration. Recently a half dozen Cossack officers, including a Major-General, were sent to Siberia for peculation, and now forty-three officers and officials of the Navy have been brought to trial at Sebastopol, for frauds in the coal, oil Sebastopol, for frauds in the coal, oil and beef contracts for the Black Sea fleet.

The British Association for the Advancement of Science has just published a report, based on examinations of some ten million children in various countries of Europe, concerning the growth of European children. From this it appears that there is an average difference of five inches between the best and worst nurtured classes. There is a constant but uneven growth in height, weight and chest measurement, increasing annually up to seventeen and then diminishing rapidly.

The alarming increase of juvenile criminals in Germany is puzzling the legislators. In 1885 the juvenile offenders numbered 30,704, the total rising to 45,504 in 1894 and to 47,975 in 1898. The increase of all criminals in 1898 over the preceding year was 3 per cent., an increase disproportionate to the growth of population. The juvenile criminals, however, increased alarmingly, the number in 1898 being 6 per cent. over that of 1897.

The annual report of the superintendent of the New York institution for the blind calls attention to the steady decrease in the number of children who become blind in New York city after birth. This decrease he attributes to the rapidly increasing knowledge of sanitary science; the careful medical inspection of the public schools; the recognition by the ignorant poor of the danger of diseases of the eye, and their effort to cure, if not prevent, them; the increased knowledge of the medical profession about the eye and its treatment.

A movement is on foot to give Alaska cable communication with the United States. The sooner this is accomplished the greater the satisfaction felt by the people of all the States and as rich as reported, there will be, by next fall, possibly a quarter of a million people in that vicinity.

The Canadian Postoffice Department has authorized the opening of a postoffice in North Victoria County, Ontario, to be known as Buller, and the name of Upper Thorne Centre, near Coulogne, has been changed to Ladysmith, taking effect on the day of the relief of White's headquarters in South Africa.

The cattle business is to grow in the South like cotton milling. The Florida Times-Union says that in Osceola, where "the plain farmers take life insurance policies of from $5,000 to $20,000," there is a growing apreciation of the possibility of cattle raising. The "enormous demands of the Chicago market" have reached Florida at last. But soon rather than ship the animals to Chicago, and with them the cotton seed, so that the Northern feeder shall reap the double profit, they will feed and kill at home. Artesian wells will be dug; cultivated grass will be sown; bloodied bulls will be introduced, and the Florida stock industry will "go forward to a splendid future." Let her go!

Electric towage has been introduced on the Belgian canals. The engine is a tricycle, the rear wheels being the drivers. Power is transmitted to it by the trolley system from overhead wires strung along the tow path and fed from a central generating station. The towline is fixed laterally to the engine and the route covered is about thirty miles. It is intended, however, to apply the system to all of the Belgian canals and abolish horse towage entirely.

San Francisco stands in the front rank of cities wherein the profession of law is overcrowded. It contains one practicing lawyer to each 361 of its inhabitants. Denver, Col., has one for every 321; Kansas City, Mo., one for every 326; Atlanta, Ga., one for every 412; Albany, N. Y., one for every 404; Chicago, one for every 506; Omaha, Ohio, one for every 513; Cleveland, Ohio, one for every 522; Buffalo, N. Y., one for every 565; Rochester, N. Y., one for every 725, and St. Louis, Mo., one for every 770.

Dancing is part of the musical gymnastics employed in some Chicago schools, to relieve the tension and to teach grace of motion and politeness. "Rhythmic movement" the teachers call it, but the spectator can distinguish the Virginia reel, quadrilles, minuets, and other dances. In Syracuse also the school children dance, those in the eighth-year grades of the grammar schools being taught the follow-step and the two-step as a part of the physical culture exercises.

Two years ago a so-called universal accident insurance or compensation act was passed in England which provided that workmen in certain industries in considerable number, in fact should be compensated for any accident, no matter how caused, or through whose negligence, so long as it grew out of the employment. No amount of care on the part of the employer, no degree of negligence and stupidity on the part of the workman, was to relieve the former from paying compensation for disability, sickness, or death due to accident. It is now proposed to extend the principle to industries and trades not covered by the original statute.

The figures of the decline of American shipping are both pathetic and exasperating. Forty years ago, in the year before the beginning of the Civil War which enabled our chief rival, Great Britain, to supplant us on the seas, the proportion of American trade carried in American ships was 66 per cent., or two-thirds of the whole; and we were competing under favorable conditions with English ships for the foreign commerce of other nations. Thirty years ago, our share of the business of carrying our own commerce was 33.1 per cent.; it had dropped from two-thirds to one-third. The next ten years brought it down from one-third to less than one-quarter; namely from 33.1 per cent. to 23 per cent. in 1879. In 1889 it had diminished to 14.3 per cent. In 1899 it had dwindled to 8.9 per cent. Of the stupendous total last year of $1,806,876,037 of our exports and imports, more than nine-tenths, or $1,646,232,067 was borne across the seas in foreign vessels. Less than one tenth, only $160,644,006, travelled under the American flag. Such is the story of the nation's great loss.

"Syndicate farming" is the latest suggestion for trust organization. The suggestion comes from England, and, from what recently appeared in the London Telegraph, is a fate soon to be met with over there. The writer asserts boldly that under modern conditions, with farms no longer fertile without the addition of nitrogenous materials, with machinery taking the places of laborers, and that at heavy expense and with such heavy imports of cereals, the United Kingdom must either go out of the business of farming or turn the agricultural lands over to combined capital. Farming on a large scale has been essayed in this country in a number of States. Farms have come into the hands of big corporations by means of foreclosures of loans until the corporate owner has found itself a landowner of huge dimensions, but without skill in agriculture. Machinery is used to a wider extent in America than anywhere else on the globe. Fertilizing materials in the older States have become necessary to produce reasonable crops of wheat, corn, and oats. Will syndicate farming ever become a feature of American life?

The nucleus of a large development in rice culture is being laid in this country. It appears that the United States would have no difficulty in producing all the rice which it consumes. Last year over 136,000,000 pounds of domestic rice were marketed, and in addition 204,000,000 pounds were imported. This total represents a per capita consumption of about five pounds. Although in comparison with the consumption in Asiastic countries, where rice is a staple of life, this rate is very low, it gives great promise. The most successful cultivation of rice is seen in Louisiana, although several other of the Southern States are now contributing large quantities of this grain. It is estimated that there are about 10,000,000 acres of land in the five gulf States on which rice could be profitably grown. Irrigation is necessary in all these States which can be made available. Professor Knapp says that rice is the only grain in the dry state that can be prepared for consumption by the simple process of boiling. For this reason it is well adapted to be the food for the poor, besides possessing many other recommendations as a food for all classes.

PHILIPPINE IGORROTES.

DURING THE CHASE OF AGUINALDO THEY DID GOOD SERVICE.

How Major March and His Column of Travel-Worn American Soldiers Were Welcomed to Bagnan—Stolidity of the Natives—Utility of a Vigorous Kick.

THE Manila correspondent of the Chicago Tribune writes the following amusing account of the Igorrote natives who have been enlisted in our army and who accompanied Major March during his pursuit of Aguinaldo:

Major March and his column of 100 travel-worn men, accompanied by twice as many Igorrote "cazadores," or burden bearers, reached Bagnan at nightfall. The Major knew that Aguinaldo had left the town several hours before, but hoped to get some information there which would put him on the right track.

At Bagnan, which was merely a collection of huts on a steep, sloping mountain side, hundreds of Igorrotes were waiting to greet us.

As the column entered the town the Presidenta gave a signal with his cane and they burst into a loud shouting, "Viva Espanol! viva Espanol!" The Major looked discouraged. Before he did anything else he called up the Presidenta and a selected chorus of lusty lunged Igorrotes and taught them to repeat after him, "Viva Americanos! viva Americanos!" The Igorrotes were willing. "Viva Americanos" meant as much to them as Viva Espanol," or "viva Chicago," or anything else. They are much like the Chicago newsboys. They wanted something "to holler," and one thing was as good as another and meant about as much.

It was discouraging to the Major, after he had carefully drilled his chorus and informed them who we were and whence we came, to have one of them point at him as he walked away and say in a breathless tone to the other Igorrotes about him, "Aquinaldo." Major March explained that he was not Aquinaldo, but it did no good.

Only a few had any clear idea of who or what Aguinaldo was, and Major March came as near realizing their ideal as anybody, so they at once applied to him that name.

There was not much to eat in Bagnan. The chief, and, in fact, about the only, food of the people seemed to be a species of sweet potato, which was not sweet in spite of its name, but which the soldiers eagerly bought as a welcome change from the everlasting rice.

The men made camp fires and crowded about, for the evening was decidedly cool. The Igorrotes sat stolidly huddled up in their blankets in the middle of the road and everywhere else they could get that was directly in the road. It was impossible to step without walking over an Igorrote. The soldiers would scowl at them to move out of the way, but they merely looked stupidly ahead and continued to squat where they were.

Finally, the exasperated soldiery, having exhausted a vocabulary of expletives that would have made an old and hardened army mule fall to his knees in repentance and tears, spoke no more to the Igorrote brethren. If they wanted one to get out of the road they simply pushed him over and rolled him down the trial. If they wanted one to go to the spring after water they merely put a canteen in his hand, pulled him to his feet, turned his face toward the spring and gave him a kick. The momentum usually sufficed to carry the Igorrote to the water and the alluring glare of the camp fire brought him back. If he forgot the water, two soldiers would kick him at once, and the increased stock of energy was generally sufficient to carry him to the spring and enable him to fill the canteen before he ran down.

Major March and his officers took possession of a little building which the Spanish friars had erected and used as a mission and school house. There were great cracks on the floor, and the cold mountain wind swooped into the room with a roar. It was as cold as the lake winds in winter. We tried to sleep, but the floor was the hardest I had ever slept on. The wind howled and shrieked and it was so cold that we would wake up every now and then with our teeth chattering and our feet and hands fairly numb.

Added to the cold were some 350 distinct and separate smells peculiar to Igorrote towns. Each different wind as it whistled up through the holes in the floor was laden with a new and more appalling smell. We took the blankets from our shivering bodies and wrapped them about our heads to keep out the Igorrote odors, but those vigorous and perniciously active smells would have gone through a brick wall, and all we could do was to try to sleep.

Many of the soldiers, especially those who had no blankets, sat all night crowded around their camp fires, where the cherry blaze and the fresh smell of burning pine kept away both the cold and the smells.

Of course, they had their troubles, too. They would sent Igorrotes after fresh wood for the fire and the Igorrotes would never come back. They would simply move over and squat down by the side of another fire. When the soldiers in despair would go themselves after wood they would find, when they came back, a dozen Igorrotes, their blankets over their heads, sitting like wooden images about the cheerful blaze, and some of them fairly sitting on top of the glowing embers. The soldiers would sadly turn the simple natives on their sides and roll them down the hill, but soon they would be back again.

We slept as long as we could in the mission house and then, one by one during the night, we would steal out and sit for a while at a fire and then go back and try to sleep again.

Toward morning the soldiers began cooking breakfast. Sergeant-Major MacDougal was at work boiling potatoes on a fireplace in a native shack. The fireplace was like a big table covered with earth, on which three or four fires could be made. Never was a more pathetic figure seen than that same Sergeant-Major MacDougal as he tended the fires with one hand and belabored the Igorrotes, who were squatting on top of the table, with the other. They were not content to stand on the floor as the soldiers did. They mounted the table itself and sat almost in the fire. Not one stick of wood did they bring, nor did they even offer to help put fresh fuel on the fire. They only squatted and blinked like frogs, and whenever the Sergeant-Major would turn his back they would completely encircle the fires.

When the Sergeant-Major returned with a new supply of wood and a fresh lot of invectives they would merely blink at him reproachfully.

We waited in the morning for the return of the two Igorrote runners whom Major March had sent over to Bontoc the night before. They left at 8 o'clock at night and returned before 8 the next morning, having covered the fourteen miles of mountain trail to Bontoc and return in that time. Besides that they had discovered that Aguinaldo had left Bontoc and taken a trail to the south and that further pursuit by our column would be useless. To prove the truth of their statements they brought notes written in Spanish by Spanish prisoners in Bontoc and also by insurgent soldiers, who offered to surrender if our command would come to Bontoc.

These two runners proved that there was some good in the Igorrotes after all, and the Major paid them $2.50 Mexican apiece readily enough.

Besides the long journey the runners had made they had fairly carried their lives in their hands, as they were at the constant risk of being killed by Tagal sympathizers, even if they were not discovered by insurgent soldiers themselves. So the Major decided to return to Cervantes.

Bits of News For Both.

Two girls met in a dry goods store yesterday. They had evidently not seen each other for some time, as the trend of their conversation proved.

"What good times we used to have at the lake," said one.

"Yes, I like our own resorts," replied the other, "better than on the coast. Oh, say, where is my old flame, Perry? I think the world of that boy."

"Oh, he's married."

"You don't say! Who to?"

"Me."

"Well, of all things," replied her friend, flushing.

The conversation drifted, but a short time later reverted to its old channel.

"Say, Hetty," remarked Perry's wife, "did you meet Johnny —— out in San Francisco?" and then added, "he told me that summer he was there that he could not live without me."

"Yes, I met him in Los Angeles."

"Poor fellow! I feel sorry for him. He is a bachelor, yet, I suppose."

"No, he's married."

"You don't say! Who to?"

Hawthorne's Sofa at Brook Farm.

There was a comfortable sofa under the stairs in the hall, says Mrs. Ora Gannett Sedgwick, in the Atlantic, on which Nathaniel Hawthorne, who then occupied the front room at the right, used to sit for hours at a time, with a book in his hand, not turning a leaf, but listening with sharp ears to the young people's talk, which he seemed to enjoy immensely, perhaps with the satisfaction of Burns's "Chiel amang ye takin' notes." It is, however, but just to Mr. Hawthorne to say that, whatever use he made in Blithedale Romance of the scenery and "romantic atmosphere" of Brook Farm, he cannot be accused of violating the sanctities of the home and holding up to public observation exaggerated likenesses of his associates there. I spent some delightful hours with him the winter before he died, when he assured me that Zenobia represented no one person there.

SOUTHERN PROGRESS.

The New Industries Reported in the South in a Week.

Among the more important of the new industries reported by the Tradesman during the week ended March 31 are a basket and crate factory in Georgia; bottling works in Arkansas; brick works in Tennessee and Texas; a canning factory in Virginia; a carriage factory in Alabama; coal mines in Texas; copper mines in North Carolina; a construction company in West Virginia; one cotton mill each in Alabama and Arkansas; three in Georgia; one in North Carolina; four in South Carolina, one in Tennessee, four in Texas; cotton seed oil mills in Mississippi and South Carolina; a creamery in Georgia; an electric light plant in Louisiana; an electrical supply company in West Virginia; a fertilizer factory in Florida; gas works in West Virginia; a hardware company in North Carolina; ice factories in Georgia and Texas; iron and manganese mines in Virginia; three knitting mills in North Carolina; lumber mills in Florida and Mississippi; a machine shop in Alabama; a naval stores company in Georgia; a pants factory in Kentucky; a phosphate company in Tennessee; a photographic dry plate manufactory in Texas; planing mills in Mississippi and Tennessee; a telephone company in Texas; a tobacco factory in North Carolina; a $50,000 towel factory in South Carolina; a water power company in East Tennesseee; water works in Georgia.

THE KENTUCKY SITUATION.

Culton Says He Has Not Implicated Himself.

All detectives are out of Frankfort, Ky. Culton repeats his denial that he even implicated himself in his confession, and says he will explain everything on the witness stand. Thomas Campbell and Arthur Goebel have been active preparing cases for the grand jury. Judge Moore says several warrants are out that have not been served, but declines to give names. Governor Taylor's wife and daughter went to Louisville and their effects were shipped there. It is said they will not return until the pending cases are settled.

OFFICERS AFTER FINLEY.

Any Effort To Remove Him From Indiana Will Be Resisted.

It is believed that Kentucky officers are in Indianapolis, Indiana, awaiting a favorable opportunity to take Charles P. Finley, ex-secretary of state of Kentucky, and carry him to Kentucky to be tried for complicity in the assassination of Goebel. Finley is known to be in concealment in that city. He has been at the residence of the sheriff, a part of the county jail. The republicans say any such effort will be resisted.

Ex-Senator Sawyer Buried.

Former Senator Philetus Sawyer was buried at Oshkosh, Wis., Sunday. The funeral was the most imposing ever held in the city.

The spread of the English language is commented upon by the Journal of Commerce. In 1800 only 22,000,000 people spoke English, as compared with 35,000,000 who spoke French, 38,000,000 who spoke German, and 32,000,000 who spoke Spanish. At the beginning of 1900 127,000,000 people use English as their mother tongue; an increase in the century of 477 per cent, and a greater number than those who speak German and French taken together. In this period the United States has grown from 5,000,000 to 70,000,000 inhabitants; the United Kingdom from 16,000,000 to 41,000,000, and the colonists of England have grown from a few thousand to about 12,000,000. In the same time the population of the European continent has increased from 170,000,000 to about 343,000,000. Thus while at the beginning of the last century the natives of Continental Europe outnumbered the English-speaking family 8 to 1 they now outnumber the English races only 2.7 to 1.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Cuba is the greatest sugar-producing country in the world, and its normal crop is about 1,000,000 tons.

A competent judge estimates that about three times as many books were sold in the United States in 1899 as in any year since 1893.

According to the Iowa State Register, that State has 200 more financial institutions than any other State in the Union. The banks are generally small, however.

Tennessee has become the leading phosphate producer of America. There are 248 valuable mines in the State and over 21,000 men are employed in the business. New mines are being opened daily.

The million-dollar estate which the late Dr. Keeley left was conclusive evidence of the fact that the gold cure was effective against any financial distress overtaking the inventor.

A newsboys in North London, Ind., was sentenced to a week in jail for crying false news on the streets. What would become of the newsboys of Chicago and New York should such a rule prevail in those cities.

The patrol wagon in use in Akron, O., is an automobile possessing a maximum speed of twenty miles an hour. It costs $2,300, and it is estimated that it will pay for itself in four years in the saving of horse-shoeing and horse feed.

If Mexico's exports of India rubber are increasing at the same ratio with other nations, that they are with the United States, then that industry of our sister republic must soon become paramount. Just now the increase with this country is 100 per cent. per month.

Russia is ferreting out corruption in the military and naval administration. Recently a half dozen Cossack officers, including a Major-General, were sent to Siberia for peculation, and now forty-three officers and officials of the Navy have been brought to trial at Sebastopol, for frauds in the coal, oil and beef contracts for the Black Sea fleet.

The British Association for the Advancement of Science has just published a report, based on examinations of some ten million children in various countries of Europe, concerning the growth of European children. From this it appears that there is an average difference of five inches between the best and worst nurtured classes. There is a constant but uneven growth in height, weight and chest measurement, increasing annually up to seventeen and then diminishing rapidly.

The alarming increase of juvenile criminals in Germany is puzzling the legislators. In 1885 the juvenile offenders numbered 30,704, the total rising to 45,504 in 1894, and to 47,975 in 1898. The increase of all criminals in 1898 over the preceding year was 3 per cent., an increase disproportionate to the growth of population. The juvenile criminals, however, increased alarmingly, the number in 1898 being 6 per cent. over that of 1897.

The annual report of the superintendent of the New York institution for the blind calls attention to the steady decrease in the number of children who become blind in New York city after birth. This decrease he attributes to the rapidly increasing knowledge of sanitary science; the careful medical inspection of the public schools; the recognition by the ignorant poor of the danger of diseases of the eye, and their effort to cure, if not prevent, them; the increased knowledge of the medical profession about the eye and its treatment.

A movement is on foot to give Alaska cable communication with the United States. The sooner this is accomplished the greater the satisfaction felt by the people of all the States and Territories. If Cape Nome is one-half as rich as reported, there will be, by next fall, possibly a quarter of a million people in that vicinity.

The Canadian Postoffice Department has authorized the opening of a postoffice in North Victoria County, Ontario, to be known as Buller, and the name of UppersThorne Centre, near Coulogne, has been changed to Ladysmith, taking effect on the day of the relief of White's headquarters in South Africa.

The cattle business is to grow in the South like cotton milling. The Florida Times-Union says that in Osceola, where "the plain farmers take life insurance policies of from $5,000 to $20,000," there is a growing apreciation of the possibility of cattle raising. The "enormous demands of the Chicago market" have reached Florida at last. But soon rather than ship the animals to Chicago, and with them the cotton seed, so that the Northern feeder shall reap the double profit, they will feed and kill at home. Artesian wells will be dug; cultivated grass will be sown; blooded bulls will be introduced, and the Florida stock industry will "go forward to a splendid future." Let her go!

Electric towage has been introduced on the Belgian canals. The engine is a tricycle, the rear wheels being the drivers. Power is transmitted to it by the trolley system from overhead wires strung along the tow path and fed from a central generating station. The towline is fixed laterally to the engine and the route covered is about thirty miles. It is intended, however, to apply the system to all of the Belgian canals and abolish horse towage entirely.

San Francisco stands in the front rank of cities wherein the profession of law is overcrowded. It contains one practicing lawyer to each 361 of its inhabitants. Denver, Col., has one for every 321; Kansas City, Mo., one for every 326; Atlanta, Ga., one for every 404; Albany, N. Y., one for every 412; Chicago, one for every 506; Omaha, Ohio, one for every 513; Cleveland, Ohio, one for every 522; Buffalo, N. Y., one for every 565; Rochester, N. Y., one for every 725, and St. Louis, Mo., one for every 770.

Dancing is part of the musical gymnastics employed in some Chicago schools, to relieve the tension and to teach grace of motion and politeness. "Rhythmic movement" the teachers call it, but the spectator can distinguish the Virginia reel, quadrilles, minuets, and other dances. In Syracuse also the school children dance, those in the eighth-year grades of the grammar schools being taught the follow-step and the two-step as a part of the physical culture exercises.

Two years ago a so-called universal accident insurance or compensation act was passed in England which provided that workmen in certain industries (a considerable number, in fact) should be compensated for any accident, no matter how caused, or through whose negligence, so long as it grew out of the employment. No amount of care on the part of the employer, no degree of negligence and stupidity on the part of the workman, was to relieve the former from paying compensation for disability, sickness, or death due to accident. It is now proposed to extend the principle to industries and trades not covered by the original statute.

The figures of the decline of American shipping are both pathetic and exasperating. Forty years ago, in the year before the beginning of the Civil War which enabled our chief rival, Great Britain, to supplant us on the seas, the proportion of American trade carried in American ships was 66 per cent., or two-thirds of the whole; and we were competing under favorable conditions with English ships for the foreign commerce of other nations. Thirty years ago, our share of the business of carrying our own commerce was 33.1 per cent.; it had dropped from two-thirds to one-third. The next ten years brought it down from one-third to less than one-quarter; namely from 33.1 per cent. to 23 per cent. in 1879. In 1889 it had diminished to 14.3 per cent. In 1899 it had dwindled to 8.9 per cent. Of the stupendous total last year of $1,896,876,037 of our exports and imports, more than nine-tenths, or $1,646,232,067 was borne across the seas in foreign vessels. Less than one tenth, only $160,644,006, travelled under the American flag. Such is the story of the nation's great loss.

"Syndicate farming" is the latest suggestion for trust organization. The suggestion comes from England, and, from what recently appeared in the London Telegraph, is a fate soon to be met with over there. The writer asserts boldly that under modern conditions, with farms no longer fertile without the addition of nitrogenous materials, with machinery taking the places of laborers, and that at heavy expense and with such heavy imports of cereals, the United Kingdom must either go out of the business of farming or turn the agricultural lands over to combined capital. Farming on a large scale has been essayed in this country in a number of States. Farms have come into the hands of big corporations by means of foreclosures of loans until the corporate owner has found itself a landowner of huge dimensions, but without skill in agriculture. Machinery is used to a wider extent in America than anywhere else on the globe. Fertilizing materials in the older States have become necessary to produce reasonable crops of wheat, corn, and oats. Will syndicate farming ever become a feature of American life?

The nucleus of a large development in rice culture is being laid in this country. It appears that the United States would have no difficulty in producing all the rice which it consumes. Last year over 136,000,000 pounds of domestic rice were marketed, and in addition 204,000,000 pounds were imported. This total represents a per capita consumption of about five pounds. Although in comparison with the consumption in Asiastic countries, where rice is a staple of life, this rate is very low, it gives great promise. The most successful cultivation of rice is seen in Louisiana, although several other of the Southern States are now contributing large quantities of this grain. It is estimated that there are about 10,000,000 acres of land in the five gulf States on which rice could be profitably grown. Irrigation is necessary in all these States which can be made available. Professor Knapp says that rice is the only grain in the dry state that can be prepared for consumption by the simple process of boiling. For this reason it is well adapted to be the food for the poor, besides possessing many other recommendations as a food for all classes.

A Venezuelan orchid now on exhibition in London is valued at $5,000.

PHILIPPINE IGORROTES.

DURING THE CHASE OF AGUINALDO THEY DID GOOD SERVICE.

How Major March and His Column of Travel-Worn American Soldiers Were Welcomed to Bagnan—Stolidity of the Natives—Utility of a Vigorous Kick.

THE Manila correspondent of the Chicago Tribune writes the following amusing account of the Igorrote natives who have been enlisted in our army and who accompanied Major March during his pursuit of Aguinaldo:

Major March and his column of 100 travel-worn men, accompanied by twice as many Igorrote "azadores," or burden bearers, reached Bagnan at nightfall. The Major knew that Aguinaldo had left the town several hours before, but hoped to get some information there which would put him on the right track.

At Bagnan, which was merely a collection of huts on a steep, sloping mountain side, hundreds of Igorrotes were waiting to greet us.

As the column entered the town the Presidenta gave a signal with his cane and they burst into a loud shouting, "Viva Espanol! viva Espanol!" The Major looked discouraged. Before he did anything else he called up the Presidenta and a selected chorus of lusty lunged Igorrotes and taught them to repeat after him, "Viva Americanos! viva Americanos!" The Igorrotes were willing. "Viva Americanos" meant as much to them as Viva Espanol," or "viva Chicago," or anything else. They are much like the Chicago newsboys. They wanted something "to holler," and one thing was as good as another and meant about as much.

It was discouraging to the Major, after he had carefully drilled his chorus and informed them who we were and whence we came, to have one of them point at him as he walked away and say in a breathless tone to the other Igorrotes about him, "Aquinaldo." Major March explained that he was not Aquinaldo, but it did no good.

Only a few had any clear idea of who or what Aguinaldo was, and Major March came as near realizing their ideal as anybody, so they at once applied to him that name.

There was not much to eat in Bagnan. The chief, and, in fact, about the only, food of the people seemed to be a species of sweet potato, which was not sweet in spite of its name, but which the soldiers eagerly bought as a welcome change from the everlasting rice.

The men made camp fires and crowded about, for the evening was decidedly cool. The Igorrotes sat stolidly huddled up in their blankets in the middle of the road and everywhere else they could get that was directly in the road. It was impossible to step without walking over an Igorrote. The soldiers would scowl at them to move out of the way, but they merely looked stupidly ahead and continued to squat where they were.

Finally, the exasperated soldiery, having exhausted a vocabulary of expletives that would have made an old and hardened army mule fall to his knees in repentance and tears, spoke no more to the Igorrote brethren. If they wanted one to get out of the road they simply pushed him over and rolled him down the trial. If they wanted one to go to the spring after water they merely put a canteen in his hand, pulled him to his feet, turned his face toward the spring and gave him a kick. The momentum usually sufficed to carry the Igorrote to the water and the alluring glare of the camp fire brought him back. If he forgot the water, two soldiers would kick him at once, and the increased stock of energy was generally sufficient to carry him to the spring and enable him to fill the canteen before he ran down.

Major March and his officers took possession of a little building which the Spanish friars had erected and used as a mission and school house. There were great cracks on the floor, and the cold mountain wind swooped into the room with a roar. It was as cold as the lake winds in winter. We tried to sleep, but the floor was the hardest I had ever slept on. The wind howled and shrieked and it was so cold that we would wake up every now and then with our teeth chattering and our feet and hands fairly numb.

Added to the cold were some 350 distinct and separate smells peculiar to Igorrote towns. Each different wind as it whistled up through the holes in the floor was laden with a new and more appalling smell. We took the blankets from our shivering bodies and wrapped them about our heads to keep out the Igorrote odors, but those vigorous and perniciously active smells would have gone through a brick wall, and all we could do was to try to sleep.

Many of the soldiers, especially those who had no blankets, sat all night crowded around their camp fires, where the cherry blaze and the fresh smell of burning pine kept away both the cold and the smells.

Of course, they had their troubles, too. They would send Igorrotes after fresh wood for the fire and the Igorrotes would never come back. They would simply move over and squat down by the side of another fire. When the soldiers in despair would go themselves after wood they would find, when they came back, a dozen Igorrotes, their blankets over their heads, sitting like wooden images about the cheerful blaze, and some of them fairly sitting on top of the glowing embers. The soldiers would sadly turn the simple natives on their sides and roll them down the hill, but soon they would be back again.

We slept as long as we could in the mission house and then, one by one, during the night, we would steal out and sit for a while at a fire and then go back and try to sleep again.

Toward morning the soldiers began cooking breakfast. Sergeant-Major MacDougal was at work boiling potatoes on a fireplace in a native shack. The fireplace was like a big table covered with earth, on which three or four fires could be made. Never was a more pathetic figure seen than that same Sergeant-Major MacDougal as he tended the fires with one hand and belabored the Igorrotes, who were squatting on top of the table, with the other. They were not content to stand on the floor as the soldiers did. They mounted the table itself and sat almost in the fire. Not one stick of wood did they bring, nor did they even offer to help put fresh fuel on the fire. They only squatted and blinked like frogs, and whenever the Sergeant-Major would turn his back they would completely encircle the fires.

When the Sergeant-Major returned with a new supply of wood and a freely lot of invectives they would merely blink at him reproachfully.

We waited in the morning for the return of the two Igorrote runners whom Major March had sent over to Bontoc the night before. They left at 8 o'clock at night and returned before 8 the next morning, having covered the fourteen miles of mountain trail to Bontoc and return in that time. Besides that they had discovered that Aguinaldo had left Bontoc and taken a trail to the south and that further pursuit by our column would be useless. To prove the truth of their statements they brought notes written in Spanish by Spanish prisoners in Bontoc and also by insurgent soldiers, who offered to surrender if our command would come to Bontoc.

These two runners proved that there was some good in the Igorrotes after all, and the Major paid them $2.50 Mexican apiece readily enough.

Besides the long journey the runners had made they had fairly carried their lives in their hands, as they were at the constant risk of being killed by Tagal sympathizers, even if they were not discovered by insurgent soldiers themselves. So the Major decided to return to Cervantes.

Bits of News For Both.

Two girls met in a dry goods store yesterday. They had evidently not seen each other for some time, as the trend of their conversation proved.

"What good times we used to have at the lake," said one.

"Yes, I like our own resorts," replied the other, "better than on the coast. Oh, say, where is my old flame, Perry? I think the world of that boy."

"Oh, he's married."

"You don't say! Who to?"

"Me."

"Well, of all things," replied her friend, flushing.

The conversation drifted, but a short time later reverted to its old channel.

"Say, Hetty," remarked Perry's wife, "did you meet Johnny —— out in San Francisco?" and then added, "he told me that summer he was there that he could not live without me."

"Yes, I met him in Los Angeles."

"Poor fellow! I feel sorry for him. He is a bachelor, yet, I suppose."

"No, he's married."

"You don't say! Who to?"

"Me."—Salt Lake Herald.

Hawthorne's Sofa at Brook Farm.

There was a comfortable sofa under the stairs in the hall, says Mrs. Ora Gannett Sedgwick, in the Atlantic, on which Nathaniel Hawthorne, who then occupied the front room at the right, used to sit for hours at a time, with a book in his hand, not turning a leaf, but listening with sharp ears to the young people's talk, which he seemed to enjoy immensely, perhaps with the satisfaction of Burns's "Chiel amang ye takin' notes." It is, however, but just to Mr. Hawthorne to say that, whatever use he made in Blithedale Romance of the scenery and "romantic atmosphere" of Brook Farm, he cannot be accused of violating the sanctities of the home and holding up to public observation exaggerated likenesses of his associates there. I spent some delightful hours with him the winter before he died, when he assured me that Zenobia represented no one person there.

The Savannah Cotton Exchange has adopted the following rule to take effect on or after Saturday, September 1, 1900. "All sales of cotton in square bales, shall be based on packages of standard size, (twenty-four (24) by fifty-four (54) inches) and when bales of other dimensions are tendered for delivery, an allowance of twenty-five (25) cents per bale shall be made to the buyer by the seller on such cotton."

G. F. MARTIN.

Mr. G. F. Martin, of Dixie, has decided to stay outside of party organizations and submits himself to the voters at the general election in August. His announcement for Sheriff will be found in another column. He was born within three miles of Dixie, and after some years spent in Dallas county, returned to the place of his birth, where for the last five years he has been running a farm. Mr. Martin has always believed in white supremacy, and in selecting the best men for office irrespective of party. While he lived in Dallas he invariably voted the Democratic ticket, and in Chilton he has exercised his judgment and voted for the best men from both parties. He was a member of the Farmer's Alliance. Mr. Martin is thoroughly qualified to fill the office, and if elected will doubtless prove a valuable official.

Obituary

On the evening of March 21st, 1900, the angel of death entered the home of Mr. G. B. Williams and claimed the soul of his wife's mother, Mrs. L. C. Holley. The separation of soul and body was accomplished without a struggle, those watching hardly able to discern when the dissolution took place.

Sister Holley was born November 25, 1892, and was married to J. S. Holley, June 7, 1846. In August of the same year she, with her husband, united with the Baptist church at Union in Coosa county, in which she remained a devoted member until she was called to join the church triumphal in eternal glory. Sister Holley was the mother of twelve children, five of whom preceded her to glory, the other seven were with her when the end came, and have the consolation of knowing that death to Sister Holley only meant a change from earth with its sorrows to a home of peace beyond this vale of tears, where she is awaiting her loved, who will one by one be gathered home.

The writer has known Sister Holley for 20 years, and none ever knew her but to love her, all were her friends. With her aged companion and children we sympathize, but not as those who have no hope. The mortal remains of Sister Holley were laid to rest at Mount Pisgah March 3d, 1900, near her old home, to await the resurrection of the just.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. U. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught A dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend to my work during the day. One fo my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits. For sale by Clanton Drug company, and R. A. Ingram, Verbena.

POPULIST EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AND MASS MEETING.

The Populist Executive Committee met last Saturday with A. A. Ayers as chairman, and after the vote was counted and the nominees declared a mass meeting was held.

While the committee was in session the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

Resolved 1. That it is the sense of this committee that the managers of Benson Box in Beat 3, at the primary election on March 30, 1900, were acting in accordance with the ruling of this committee which made managers the judges of the qualification of voters, and refusing to allow voters from other beats to vote at said box.

Resolved 2. That this committee endorses the action of the managers at Benson box in beat 3, on March 30, 1900

At the mass meeting a suggestion was made that People's Party clubs be organized all over the country, and the suggestion will be acted upon.

J. D. Collins made a motion that a Campaign Committee of five be appointed. The motion was carried and the following appointed:

S. M. Adams, chairman; L. B. Pounds, T. J. Dorminy, A. T. Hathcock, B. H. Wells.

Delegates to the State Convention to be held at Birmingham, May 2, 1900, were election as follows:

S. M. Adams, L. H. Reynolds, John W. Cox, Frank Crichton, J. W. Moore, Judson Strock, Alex G. Dake. The delegates were given no instructions.

The following delegates to the Senatorial convention of the Fifteenth District were elected:

S. M. Adams, W. A. Mims, E. B. Deason, B. H. Wells, C. W. Reynolds.

The meeting then adjourned sine die.

The newly elected Executive Committee is called to meet at Clanton, on Saturday, April 28, 1900, at 11 a.m., to perfect the organization of the committee, and to elect a chairman.

Stanton, April 2, 1900

Editor Banner—Please allow me space in the columns of your paper to express to the people of Chilton county my views in regard to stock and other local laws. I am opposed to stock law in this county in any shape or form, and if elected as Representative of this county will oppose any bill pertaining to, or any part thereof, of Chilton county unless the question has been subjected to the voters of such beats or localities where the above law is asked for and a majority of the freeholders in said beat or locality are in favor of it. I am for a law that will make more stock, and stock law means less stock. I am exceedingly anxious to see the farmers of this county raising more sheep for the market, and to encourage this we must have less dogs.

I am in favor of taxing the dogs in this and adjoining counties to a limited amount per annum and apply the taxes so collected to the school funds. I propose to compensate the fox-hunters by allowing them so much for each fox or wild-cat caught or killed with or by their dogs in the county to some limited amount sufficiently to cover the taxes on such packs of dogs. We cannot afford to slay out all the dogs and let the foxes and wild-cats take their places of doing mischief, and to force a tax on the fox-hunters' pack of dogs and give him no way of rebuttal against such taxes he would of necessity be forced to dispose of the most of them on account of expense.

I am in favor of John T. Morgan for the U. S. Senate, and will support him in the legislature if elected.

On account of recent illness I will not be able to visit through the county before the primary on the 14th inst., but in another column of this paper you will find my announcement, and if you conscientiously can support me in the Democratic primary on the 14th day of April, your vote will be highly appreciated by myself and many friends.

CORRESPONDENCE

Kincheon, April 2, 1900

Editor Banner. I beg space in your valuable paper for a few remarks in regard to my candidacy for the office of County Superintendent of Education.

In the first place, let me say, that I seek the office because I need it and assure the people, that if finally elected, I shall endeavor to qualify thoroughly for all of its duties. Having received a good common-school education in Coosa county, Ala., I spent two years in Washington and Lee University of Lexington, Va., I began teaching in the year 1876 and have been teaching every year since that time. I came to Chilton county in 1886, am now engaged in the Mulberry community where I have taught eight schools during the fourteen years of my residence in this county. Having regularly affiliated with the Democratic party, I submit my name to my party primary, and, in accordance with the call, earnestly solicit the votes of all who will support me in the August election. I have never sought office before and have never held any except that of county surveyor, which I resigned for the more regular employment of teaching. I wish to join in no partisan warfare and have nothing to say against my worthy opponent, except that I think that he has held the office long enough to let it pass around my way.

Asking for myself and granting to others, the inalienable right of every American citizen to vote as he pleases, and asking him please to vote for me, I enter the race for the honors and emoluments of the office.

Pletcher, March 31, 1900

Editor Banner—I wish to say a few words in regard to Mr. J. H. Johnson who is now a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county. Mr. Johnson is a man of great eloquence, sober minded, energetic, and he is eminently qualified to fill the office. Mr. Johnson is a man that I know to be reliable; he is a man that speaks the truth in all circumstances; he is a man that says what he means and means what he says. Gentlemen, I would like to say to all whom it may concern that whenever such a man as Mr. Johnson offers himself to the people for a position in their county it seems to me that they surely will go out on the 14th inst and cast a vote for him. I believe that there will be as many votes polled for Mr. Johnson as there will be for any two of the other candidates subject to the Democratic party. I feel well assured that Mr Johnson will be the next sheriff of Chilton county. Respectfully,

N. C. WEAVER.

The Savannah Cotton Exchange has adopted the following rule to take effect on or after Saturday, September 1, 1900. "All sales of cotton in square bales, shall be based on packages of standard size, (twenty-four (24) by fifty-four (54) inches) and when bales of other dimensions are tendered for delivery, an allowance of twenty-five (25) cents per bale shall be made to the buyer by the seller on such cotton."

G. F. MARTIN.

Mr. G. F. Martin, of Dixie, has decided to stay outside of party organizations and submits himself to the voters at the general election in August. His announcement for Sheriff will be found in another column. He was born within three miles of Dixie, and after some years spent in Dallas county, returned to the place of his birth, where for the last five years he has been running a farm. Mr. Martin has always believed in white supremacy, and in selecting the best men for office irrespective of party. While he lived in Dallas he invariably voted the Democratic ticket, and in Chilton he has exercised his judgment and voted for the best men from both parties. He was a member of the Farmer's Alliance. Mr. Martin is thoroughly qualified to fill the office, and if elected will doubtless prove a valuable official.

Obituary

On the evening of March 21st, 1900, the angel of death entered the home of Mr. G. R. Williams and claimed the soul of his wife's mother, Mrs. L. C. Holley. The separation of soul and body was accomplished without a struggle, those watching hardly able to discern when the dissolution took place.

Sister Holley was born November 25, 1899, and was married to J. S. Holley, June 7, 1846. In August of the same year she, with her husband, united with the Baptist church at Union in Coosa county, in which she remained a devoted member until she was called to join the church triumphal in eternal glory. Sister Holley was the mother of twelve children, five of whom preceded her to glory, the other seven were with her when the end came, and have the consolation of knowing that death to Sister Holley only meant a change from earth with its sorrows to a home of peace beyond this vale of tears, where she is awaiting her loved, who will one by one be gathered home.

The writer has known Sister Holley for 20 years, and none ever knew her but to love her, all were her friends. With her aged companion and children we sympathize, but not as those who have no hope. The mortal remains of Sister Holley were laid to rest at Mount Pisgah March 3d, 1900, near her old home, to await the resurrection of the just.

A FRIEND.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. U. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught A dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend to my work during the day. One fo my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to an nowledge its merits. For sale by Clanton Drug company, and by J. Jemison, Verbena.

POPULIST EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AND MASS MEETING.

The Populist Executive Committee met last Saturday with A. A. Ayers as chairman, and after the vote was counted and the nominees declared a mass meeting was held.

While the committee was in session the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

Resolved 1. That it is the sense of this committee that the managers of Benson Box in Beat 3, at the primary election on March 30 1900, were acting in accordance with the ruling of this committee which made managers the judges of the qualification of voters, and refusing to allow voters from other beats to vote at said box.

Resolved 2. That this committee endorses the action of the managers at Benson box in beat 3, on March 30, 1900

At the mass meeting a suggestion was made that People's Party clubs be organized all over the country, and the suggestion will be acted upon.

J. D. Collins made a motion that a Campaign Committee of five be appointed. The motion was carried and the following appointed:

S. M. Adams, chairman; L. B. Pounds, T. J. Dorminy, A. T. Hathcock, B. H. Wells.

Delegates to the State Convention to be held at Birmingham, May 2, 1900, were election as follows:

S. M. Adams, L. H. Reynolds, John W. Cox, Frank Crichton, J. W. Moore, Judson Strock, Alex G. Dake. The delegates were given no instructions.

The following delegates to the Senatorial convention of the Fifteenth District were elected:

S. M. Adams, W. A. Mims, E. B. Deason, B. H. Wells, C. W. Reynolds.

The meeting then adjourned sine die.

The newly elected Executive Committee is called to meet at Clanton, on Saturday, April 28, 1900, at 11 a.m., to perfect the organization of the committee, and to elect a chairman.

Stanton, April 3, 1900

Editor BANNER—Please allow me space in the columns of your paper to express to the people of Chilton county my views in regard to stock and other local laws. I am opposed to stock law in this county in any shape or form, and if elected as Representative of this county will oppose any bill pertaining to, or any part thereof, of Chilton county unless the question has been subjected to the voters of such beats or localities where the above law is asked for and a majority of the freeholders in said beat or locality are in favor of it. I am for a law that will make more stock, and stock law means less stock. I am exceedingly anxious to see the farmers of this county raising more sheep for the market, and to encourage this we must have less dogs.

I am in favor of taxing the dogs in this and adjoining counties to a limited amount per annum and apply the taxes so collected to the school funds. I propose to compensate the fox-hunters by allowing them so much for each fox or wild-cat caught or killed with or by their dogs in the county to some limited amount sufficiently to cover the taxes on such packs of dogs. We cannot afford to slay out all the dogs and let the foxes and wild-cats take their places of doing mischief, and to force a tax on the fox-hunters' pack of dogs and give him no way of rebuttal against such taxes he would of necessity be forced to dispose of the most of them on account of expense.

I am in favor of John T. Morgan for the U. S. Senate, and will support him in the legislature if elected.

On account of recent illness I will not be able to visit through the county before the primary on the 14th inst., but in another column of this paper you will find my announcement, and if you conscientiously can support me in the Democratic primary on the 14th day of April, your vote will be highly appreciated by myself and many friends.

DR. C. N. PARNELL.

W. H. Shipman, Beardsley, Minn., under oath, says he suffered from dyspepsia for twenty-five years. Doctors and dieting gave but little relief. CORRESPONDENCE

Kincheon, April 2, 1900

Editor Banner. I beg space in your valuable paper for a few remarks in regard to my candidacy for the office of County Superintendent of Education.

In the first place, let me say, that I seek the office because I need it and assure the people, that if finally elected, I shall endeavor to qualify thoroughly for all of its duties. Having received a good common-school education in Coosa county, Ala., I spent two years in Washington and Lee University of Lexington, Va., I began teaching in the year 1876 and have been teaching every year since that time. I came to Chilton county in 1886, am now engaged in the Mulberry community where I have taught eight schools during the fourteen years of my residence in this county. Having regularly affiliated with the Democratic party, I submit my name to my party primary, and, in accordance with the call, earnestly solicit the votes of all who will support me in the August election. I have never sought office before and have never held any except that of county surveyor, which I resigned for the more regular employment of teaching. I wish to join in no partisan warfare and have nothing to say against my worthy opponent, except that I think that he has held the office long enough to let it pass around my way.

Asking for myself and granting to others, the inalienable right of every American citizen to vote as he pleases, and asking him please to vote for me, I enter the race for the honors and emoluments of the office.

G. L. SPEER.

Pletcher, March 31, 1900

Editor BANNER—I wish to say a few words in regard to Mr. J. H. Johnson who is now a candidate for sheriff of Chilton county. Mr. Johnson is a man of great eloquence, sober minded, energetic, and he is eminently qualified to fill the office Mr. Johnson is a man that I know to be reliable; he is a man that speaks the truth in all circumstances; he is a man that says what he means and means what he says. Gentlemen, I would like to say to all whom it may concern that whenever such a man as Mr. Johnson offers himself to the people for a position in their county it seems to me that they surely will go out on the 14th inst and cast a vote for him. I believe that there will be as many votes polled for Mr. Johnson as there will be for any two of the other candidates subject to the Democratic party. I feel well assured that Mr Johnson will be the next sheriff of Chilton county. Respectfully, should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

N. C. WEAVER.

FIRST—Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

SECOND—Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

THIRD—Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

FOURTH—Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it. It can be taken in summer as well as in winter.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow. Eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides. No appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying "Electric Bitters" and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at J. S. Johnson's Drug Store.

WITHIN THE BOER LINES.

The Burghers in Camp and on the Field of Battle.

TOUCHING RELIGIOUS CEREMONIES.

NOTHING has been more extraordinary in connection with the South African war than the lack of news that has come from the Boer side.

Of the foreigners within the Boer ranks, the most picturesque and one of the ablest is Count de Villebois-Mareuil, who won fame in the Foreign Legion, French Army, and who, it is said, threw up his commission and joined the Boers because he was not given the rank of Brigadier-General, which he felt he deserved.

But it appears that it was not personal ambition but genuine sympathy for the Boer cause that influenced him. Not only is Colonel Villebois-Mareuil a brilliant soldier, but a distinguished writer as well, and herewith are presented extracts from a letter contributed by him to La Liberte, of Paris. It gives much that is new concerning the Boers, from whose side little has been published.

Colonel Villebois-Mareuil writes:

"If you consider both men and things, here is a curious mixture of very ancient and modern methods. "With its marabout tents, its kitchen in the open air, its Irish stews, the Boer laager would give the illusion of an Algerian camp but for the enormous wagons, drawn up in line or in square; the multiplicity of animals and the silence and calm of the men.

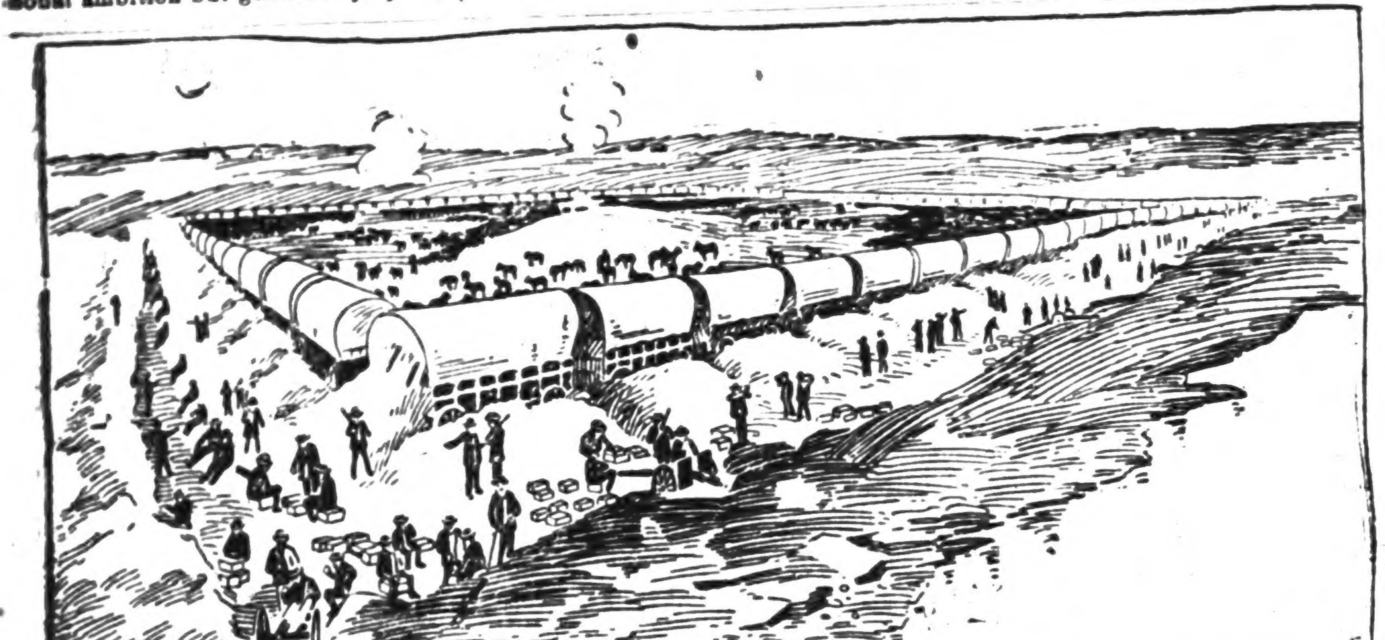
"Guard duty is taken in turns by successive groups all night long. The tent of the general, the major or the field cornet serves as a club for any one who likes. The life of the chiefs is for me a mystery of physical and intellectual endurance in the midst of this continuous invasion.

"There are no punishments, no recompenses, no altercations nor coercive measures, everything being done freely at stated hours as a duty. Though there is no restraint, there is never a reprehensible act.

"The laagers have a commissariat department that works with admirably regularity in spite of the extreme strain that is put upon it.

"But after all the laagers are chiefly tent, which was excessively hot. Two candles were stuck in bottles placed on empty cases; the men squatted around, two or three reading from the same hymnbook. They had laid their pipes besides them and their rifles were stacked about the tentpole. They sang well in lusty, clear voices free from any nasal twang. The effect was strikingly picturesque, the strongly marked, earnest faces in the candlelight thrown out against the dark background of the shadows behind. Similar scenes were to be witnessed at each laager every evening, sometimes in three or four tents at the same time."

A letter from Sir George White to General Schalk Burger was taken by Lieutenant Orlebar, of the Nineteenth Hussars, during the siege of Ladysmith. He was accompanied by an orderly with a white flag, and when he reached the Boer outposts he was blindfolded and conducted to the General, the orderly being left behind in charge of the picket. His



A TYPICAL BOER LAAGER, FORMED OF THE WAGONS, HASTILY INTRENCHED, WITH THE STORES AND ANIMALS INSIDE.

"BLINDFOLDED:" AN ENGLISH OFFICER CARRYING A MESSAGE TO THE BOERS.

The concentration of troops was carried out by railway with the greatest ease and without a hitch, as with trained troops.

"Land transport is assured by those massive, canvas-covered wagons, drawn by sixteen pairs of oxen. Filled with blankets and provisions for the longest journey, they formed the only vehicle before the railway was constructed. To-day they are on all the Natal routes, and on the banks of the swollen rivers when it is impossible to discover a ford.

"In camp is a commissariat officer who serves out provisions with a liberality to which our commissariat officers have not accustomed me. The meat is admirable. Bread for the army is baked in Glencoe by a Frenchman named St. Croix, some of it in the ovens left there by the British. If bread should run out there is Boer biscuit, which is softer, more palatable and far better than ours.

"The Government still ... the men supplied with tea, coffee, rice, potatoes and condiments; this your universal provider, this Government—your tailor, outfitter, saddler, shoemaker, and all without the slightest fuss, without the bother of filling up forms. All you want is a voucher from the field cornet, who is responsible to his own conscience for the reasonableness of the orders he signs.

interesting for the spirit that animates them. An atmosphere of deep religious feeling pervades the camp, which commits everything to God—the fate of the Transvaal, the defense of its liberties, and the rights of its people against the aggressor. If you compliment a general he replies: 'God has permitted it.' The Boer, whose secret aspirations are thus encouraged, lifts eyes of faith to heaven. The pastors are among the men, living their life, present at their death, simple, like the others, although treated with special respect.

"Any man who has seen the Boers, night after night, gathered in groups, some on horseback, others on foot, punctual in all weathers, taking up their nightly stations, is constrained to bow before the superior power which can transform lives so free as theirs and mould them to the needs of warlike discipline.

"The rain is often heavy, night falls, but they press stoically forward without noticing it, and until the hour of dawn, crouching among the rocks along a slope, bogged in the mire or drenched in the flooded fields, they will keep vigil or sleep under the southern sky, offering their lives in continual sacrifice to their country.

"No man who has seen them in battle, their eyes ever on the alert, their deadly magazines rifles in their hands, quick to change their position or to strengthen a weak point, inflexible, and yet at the same time generous, stopping their fire as soon as it has produced its effect, refusing to pursue after the enemy has been put to flight—no man who sees them such perfect masters of their strength can fail to understand that they are a people apart, these extraordinary Boers—sure of their eye as of their nerve, of their resolution as of their endurance."

George Lynch, artist of the Illustrated London News in Natal, who was taken prisoner by the Boers, describes a hymn service in the Boer laager behind Lombard's Kop, from which the Transvaal "Long Tom" daily bombards Ladysmith, as follows: "About fifteen men, mostly about thirty or forty years, were crowded into the eyes were not uncovered again until he was inside the General's tent, which was sumptuously furnished, there even being a big bed in it. When General Burger's answer was ready, the Lieutenant was again blindfolded and conducted back to the outposts.

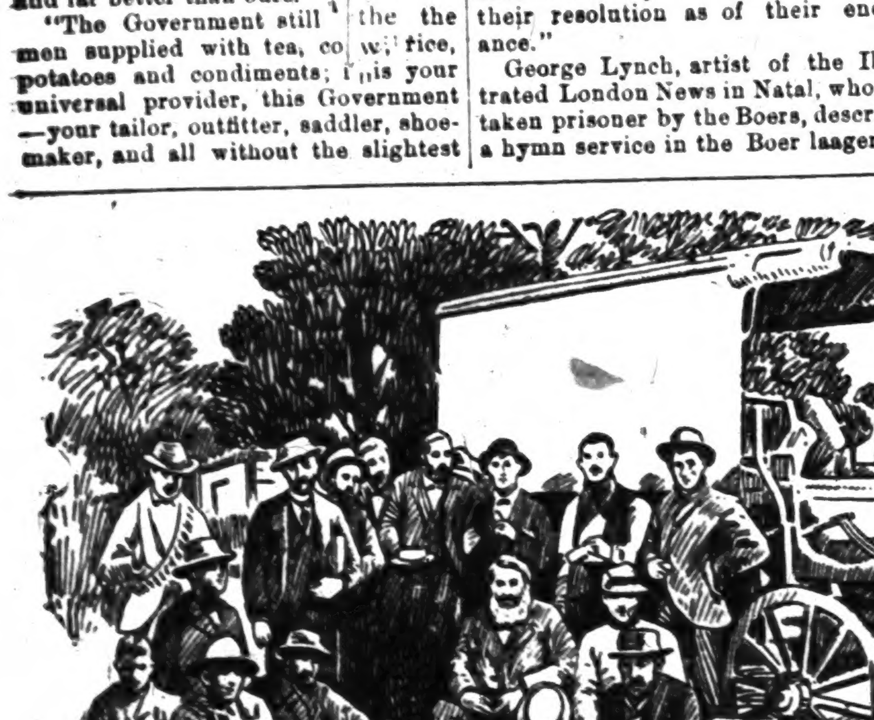
There are ruffians on both sides,

BOERS HOLDING A BURIAL SERVICE OVER BRITISH SLAIN.

(The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph with General French's column at Naauwpoort writes with regard to the burial of the unfortunate Suffolk men: "Our burying party sent out was received by the Boers sympathetically. They rendered assistance also to our men. Over the grave they sang a hymn, and some of the leaders made impressive speeches, expressing abhorrence of the war, regretting the heavy losses on both sides, and declaring the hope that the war would soon be ended.")

but on the whole the war seems to have been conducted as humanely as war can. British and Boer doctors and clergymen have combined to do all that science and religion can to soften the hardships and mitigate the horrors of battle.

A Dutchman gives an interesting account of a visit he recently paid to the Boer camp. He made a short stay at the tent of General Joubert, who at the time was engaged with his secretary and the telegraph wires, while close at hand and under the same canvas his sturdy spouse was placidly peeling potatoes as if no fatal issues were hanging in the balance. The rites of hospitality were observed by the Commandant General ordering the native wench Eva, who has accompanied him and his good spouse through many a fierce campaign, to bring the national beverage, coffee.



GENERAL JOUBERT, WITH HIS SON AND STAFF, AT BREAKFAST.

(The General is seated in the centre. The young man on the right, with hat turned up at the side, is his son, and the man in front of him is General Joubert's chaplain.)

John Chinaman as a Workman.

When he is paid by time, the Chinaman does not work more than he can help. When he is on piecework, however, his affection for the almighty dollar, developed in his race to the highest degree, makes it his tendency to scamp his work, and very ingenious indeed can be his devices in this direction. Running a machine tool would seem, therefore, to be the work wherein he would be most effective, but even then he wants a smart shop foreman, not of his own race, to see that tools are running at an effective speed and cutters held up to their work. What can certainly be said at present is that it takes more of him to do an equal amount of work in a given time as compared with the European. It took eleven coolies to carry the luggage of a representative of Engineering from a hotel to a railway station, where one man and a handcart would have sufficed. This overplus of labor and infinitesimal coinage is responsible also for the terrible amount of theft of small loose parts, or even fixed parts, of the loose or fixed plant on the railways.—London Globe.

THE BALKAN LADYSMITH

SIEGE OF PLEVNA MOST FAMOUS OF MODERN TIMES.

Osman Pacha and His Indomitable Turks Repulsed the Bravest Battalions of the Russian Czar, Time and Time Again—One of the Finest of Military Feats.

AT the time when the eyes of the world were eagerly bent toward the Ladysmith of Natal, a writer in the London Daily Mail thought it well to recall the not less heroic defence, twenty-two years ago, of what might be called "the Ladysmith of the Balkans"—Plevna. The early victories won by the Czar's battalions, in June and July, 1877, found Osman Pacha—then a little known man—in occupation of the fortress of Widdin with forty thousand of the best troops in Turkey and ninety guns.

But so soon as Osman learned that the invading army of the Grand Duke Nicholas had crossed the Danube he wheeled his army inland, until, on July 17, the village of Plevna was reached. His trained eye at once detected that this was a place to be defended. On July 18 the Grand Duke wired General Krudener to "occupy Plevna as promptly as possible." They reckoned without Osman.

General Schildner-Schuldner, sent forward by Krudener according to the Grand Duke's orders, found Osman in possession of Plevna and already partially intrenched. Yet Schildner-Schuldner, with 6500 men, was foolish enough to throw himself against the Turk's 40,000. This attack—the first battle of Plevna—signally failed, the Russian losing two-thirds of his force and most of his baggage. It was the first reverse sustained by the invaders, and they could not understand it. They estimated the Turkish losses in this battle at four thousand, but one writer places it at two hundred.

Worse followed. The Grand Duke could not be made to believe that the enemy was in serious force at Plevna. So ten days later he ordered Krudener to hurl his 30,000 against Osman's 40,000. Of course, the inevitable happened. The Russians lost 169 officers and 7136 men, a single regiment having seventy-five per cent. of its number killed and wounded.

Just as many people expect that the real issue of the present campaign will be decided around Ladysmith, so it was seen that the crux of the Russo-Turkish war would be Plevna. After July 30 came a six weeks' pause. The investment of Plevna by an army which, by September 6, numbered 95,000 followed. The siege operations were directed by the veteran Todleben, the hero of Sebastopol, who, though he had 150 guns, declared Plevna "impregnable." For meanwhile the battle of September 11, 1877, had won for Osman the proud title of Ghazi—"the Victorious."

The Czar in person witnessed the rout of his bravest battalions. In the right attack 6000 victims were swept to destruction before those blood-stained redouts. On the left Skobeleff won a partial but wholly useless success. In the final assault of this, the most sanguinary conflict of the whole war, the Turks attacked with only 5500 men instead of 11,000, so distressing had been their losses.

"There were," writes one who saw it, "walls and parapets built of dead bodies, erected by the Russians to close the rear entrances of the works; there were piles of corpses and maimed men; there were brooks and rivers of blood." As the outcome of twenty-eight hours' fighting the Russian losses exceeded 20,000!

Nevertheless, by October the Turks began to be hungry. Inside Plevna, including non-combatants, 45,000 months had to be fed. The soldiers' clothes dropped off and could not be replaced. By mid-October snow set in, adding fearfully to the garrison's sufferings, and the mortality from disease became awful. Yet the Turks behaved with heroic fortitude. November arrived, still in snow and sleet and frost. "The Plevna camp, twenty-five square miles in area, was a vast cemetery," says one historian.

Two alleged "attempts" to relieve the unconquered fortress failed lamentably. Osman found himself left to his fate by a grateful Sultan. On December 1 he conferred with his divisional, brigade and regimental commanders on the subject of a sortie. The Ghazi was in favor of it, though knowing well how small the chances. He could now place in line not more than twenty-five thousand unwounded men, to which the Russo-Roumanians could oppose a hundred thousand men and 482 guns. Small hope for the Turks, but infinite was their faith in Osman.

December 10, 1877, dawned cold, foggy and snowy. For the sortie every individual of the "lost children" received a rifle, down to the buglers and non-combatants. Each man was given 130 cartridges, and each battalion received a reserve stock of 180,000 cartridges.

The wheels of gun carriages and tumbrils were muffled with straw to deaden sound, and the wounded were placed in ox carts. The long train that accompanied Osman's noble hearts out of Plevna counted eighty-eight guns, 1100 bullock carts and 5000 pack horses and mules. The regimental standards were destroyed ere moving out, for did they not bear on them the names of Crimean victories?

Osman commanded in person, with Tahir Pacha as second. Their aim was to cross the Vid and retreat over the Balkans to Sona. A little maize porridge is not the best of rations on which to fight a great battle. Still the Turkish ranks presented a magnificent appearance as they moved out of Plevna to cross the Vid by three bridges. Then it was that Osman Ghazi, sword and pistol in hand, in person led the great bayonet charge of his first division. To them were opposed the picked men of Ganetzky's Grenadiers; but so irresistible was the onslaught that their fine troops were overborne and scattered to the winds.

Three lines of trenches were successfully pierced; twelve guns and many prisoners were taken. The Turks charged in a compact mass of fourteen thousand bayonets, and for the moment naught could resist their onslaught. But the reaction was at hand. The wild hysteria of this last attempt was passing into the exhaustion of splendid failure. The Muscovites rallied to their guns.

Heavy masses of men were moved up by Todleben, and as the devoted Turks struggled to keep their alignment shells crashed into their disordered ranks at close range. Osman was struck in the leg by a fragment of one of these grim messengers and immediately disabled.

One who saw Osman Pacha as he lay wounded in a sorry hut says: "The terrible expression on his tortured features haunted me long afterward." To add to his misery, aids came pouring in from every quarter of the field asking for help. As a matter of fact, the Russians were already in Plevna, having discovered overnight that the eastern fortifications had been abandoned.

About eight thousand of both sides—men, women and children—had fallen ere the wounded Ghazi would consent to the white flag being displayed. Message after message reached him, imploring him to give in, but for many a wavering minute he refused to pass the word. At last the white symbol was hoisted on the roof of the hut, around which the shells were screaming and bullets whistling thick as hail.

It was hoped that General Ganetzky, who was there in nominal command, would consent to a conditional surrender; but the Russian, knowing that he held the enemy in the hollow of his hand, was implacable, and the end of the brief negotiations was that the word for "unconditional surrender" had to be passed.

And so fell the unassailable, unscalable fortress of Plevna, "after a defence which had lasted 143 days, which embraced four great battles, twenty-five minor actions and numerous skirmishes; which involved a cost in life and limb of close on one hundred thousand human beings, and which, to quote the Czar Alexander II., 'is one of the finest things done in military history.'" Well might the Russo-Roumanian allies gaze in undisguised wonderment upon the worn face of the man who had defied their united efforts for so long, and well might Ganetzky salute profoundly as he met the fallen hero being driven toward the Russian headquarters, and be constrained to remark, with the air and voice of a man who feels what he says, that "the defence of Plevna will live long in history."

The Indians at Paris.

The Indian village at Paris will occupy a space of two hundred by one hundred feet. It will represent the Indian at home on his reservation. There will be seen the wigwams of skin and cat-tail rushes. The squaws will prepare the meals in the crude utensils. They will pound the corn in the wooden mortars and cook the stews in the big kettles. The women of rank will be distinguished from the others by their earrings, their jewelry, their fine feathers and the paint upon their faces. The ghost dance and the marriage dance will be performed. There will be the exhibitions of skill with the rifle and tests of horsemanship. The keeper of the wampum, of the secret lodge—the chief of the medicine men—will sit in his wigwam in Paris as he sits in Black River Falls, making medicine for the safe return of his people to the prairies and the forests of the West that they love so well. Fifty of the finest specimens of men, women and children from the eight leading tribes will be selected for the trip. They will comprise members of the royal families and personages of high rank in several Indian nations—the chiefs, the princesses, the head council men and the great medicine men.—Frederick Boyd Stevenson, in Woman's Home Companion.

Marked Likeness.

The trials of a Chinese portrait-painter must be many and varied if he often has critics of the sort whose remarks were recorded by a recent sojourner in the land of "chop-sticks, bombs and gongs." The artist had finished the portrait of a prominent man, and summoned his friends to give their verdict as to its success.

"The cap is very like," said the first one.

"The dress is very like," said the second.

"But is not the cap or dress that make the likeness," said the artist. "How is the face?"

The three friends stared solemnly at the portrait in silence for a moment. Then up spoke the one who had not given his opinion before.

"The beard is very like," he said, gravely, and with that the artist was obliged to be content.

An Exploded Theory.

"There's nothing in literary 'inspiration'," said the would-be author. "I rented a garret ten flights up; bought a gallon of oil and a 'midnight lamp;' and even went so far as to have a bailiff come and arrest me for debt, and I haven't been able to write a line yet!"—Atlanta Constitution.

An army officer estimates that in the century just closing no less than thirty million men have been killed in war in civilized countries.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: The Home Life—It Points Out the Duty of Parents and Admonishes the Children—Don't Stuff the Young People With Religion.

[Copyright 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This discourse of Dr. Talmage will interest young men, while it is full of advice and encouragement to parents who are trying to bring up their children aright; text, Proverbs x., 1, "A wise son maketh a glad father, but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother."

In this graphic way Solomon sets forth the idea that the good or evil behavior of children blesses or blights the parental heart. I know there are persons who seem to have no especial interest in the welfare of their children. The father says: "My boy must take the risks I took in life. If he turns out well, all right. If he turns out ill, he will have to bear the consequences. He has the same chance that I had. He must take care of himself." A shepherd might just as well thrust a lamb into a den of lions and say, "Little lamb, take care of yourself."

Nearly all the brute creation are kind enough to look after their young. I was going through a woods, and I heard a shrill cry in a nest. I climbed up to the bird's nest, and I found that the old bird had left the brood to starve. But that is a very rare occurrence. Generally a bird will pick your eyes out rather than surrender her young to your keeping or your touch. A lion will rend you if you come too near the whelps. Even the barnyard fowl, with its clumsy foot and heavy wing, will come at you if you approach its young too nearly, and God certainly intended to have fathers and mothers as kind as the brutes.

Christ comes through all our households to-day, and He says: "You take care of the bodies of your children and the minds of your children. What are you doing for their immortal souls?" I read of a ship that foundered. A life-boat was launched. Many of the passengers were in the waters. A mother, with one hand beating the wave and the other hand holding her little child out toward the lifeboat, cried out, "Save my child!" And that impassioned cry is the one that finds an echo in every parental heart in this land to-day. "Save my child!" That man out there says: "I have fought my own way through life, I have got along tolerably well, the world has buffeted me, and I have had many a hard struggle. It don't make much difference what happens to me, but save my child!" You see I have a subject of stupendous import, and I am going, as God may help me, to show the cause of parental solicitude and then the alleviations of that solicitude.

The first cause of parental solicitude, I think, arises from the imperfection of parents on their own part. We all somehow want our children to avoid our faults. We hope that if we have any excellences they will copy them. But the probability is they will copy our faults and omit our excellences. Children are very apt to be echoes of the parental life. Some one meets a lad in the back street, finds him smoking and says: "Why, I am astonished at you! What would your father say if he knew this? Where did you get that cigar?" "Oh, I picked it up on the street." "What would your father say and your mother say if they knew this?" "Oh," he replies, "that's nothing. My father smokes!" There is not one of us to-day who would like to have our children copy all our examples. And that is the cause of the solicitude on the part of all of us. We have so many faults we do not want them copied and stereotyped in the lives and characters of those who come after us.

The solicitude arises from our conscious insufficiency and unwisdom of discipline. Out of twenty parents there may be one parent who understands how thoroughly and skillfully to discipline; perhaps not more than one out of twenty. We, nearly all of us, err on one side or on the other. Here is a father who says, "I am going to bring up my children right; my sons shall know nothing but religion; shall see nothing but religion, and hear nothing but religion." They are routed out at 6 o'clock in the morning to recite the Ten Commandments. They are awakened up from the sofa on Sunday night to recite the Westminster Catechism. Their bedroom walls are covered with religious pictures and quotations of Scripture, and when the boy looks for the day of the month he looks for it in a religious almanac. If a minister comes to the house, he is requested to take the boy aside and tell him what a great sinner he is. It is religion morning, noon and night.

Time passes on, and the parents are waiting for the return of the son at night. It is 9 o'clock, it is 10 o'clock, it is 11 o'clock, it is 12 o'clock, it is half-past 12 o'clock. Then they hear a rattling of the night key, and George comes in and hastens upstairs lest he be accosted. His father says, "George, where have you been?" He says, "I have been out." Yes, he has been out, and he has been down, and he has started on the broadroad to ruin for this life and ruin for the life to come, and the father says to his wife, "Mother, the Ten Commandments are a failure; no use of Westminster Catechism; I have done my very best for that boy; just see how he has turned out." Ah, my friend, you stuffed that boy with religion; you had no sympathey with innocent hilarities; you had no common sense. A man at midlife said to me, "I haven't much desire for religion; my father was as good a man as ever lived, but he jammed religion down my throat when I was a boy until I got disgusted with it, and I haven't wanted any of it since." That father erred on one side.

Then the discipline is an entire failure in many households because the father pulls one way and the mother pulls the other way. The father says, "My son, I told you if I ever found you guilty of falsehood again I would chastise you, and I am going to keep my promise." The mother says: "Don't! Let him off this time."

A father says, "I have seen so many that make mistake by too great severity in the rearing of their children. Now, I will let my boy do as he pleases. He shall have full swing. Here, my son, are tickets to the theatre and opera. If you want to play cards, do so; if you don't want to play cards, you need not to play them. Go when you want and come back when you want to. Have a good time. Go it!" Give a boy plenty of money and ask him not what he does with it, and you pay his way straight to perdition. But after awhile the lad thinks he ought to have a still larger supply. He has been treated, and he must treat. He must have wine suppers. There are larger and larger expenses.

After awhile one day a messenger from the bank over the way calls in and says to the father of the household of which I am speaking, "The officers of the bank would like to have you step over a minute." The father steps over, and the bank officer says, "Is that your check?" "No," he says; "that is not my check. I never made an 'H' in that way; I never put a curl to the 'Y' in that way. That is not my writing. That is not my signature. That is a counterfeit. Send for the police." "Stop!" says the bank officer. "Your son wrote that."

Now the father and mother are waiting for the son to come home at night. It is 12 o'clock, it is half-past 12 o'clock, it is 1 o'clock. The son comes through the hallway. The father says: "My son, what does all this mean? I gave you every opportunity. I gave you all the money you wanted, and here in my old days I find that you have become a spendthrift, a libertine and a sot." The son says: "Now, father, what is the use of your talking that way? You told me to go it, and I just took your suggestion." And so to strike the medium between severity and too great leniency, to strike the happy medium between the two and train our children for God and for heaven, is the anxiety for every intelligent parent.

But for the most part the children that live sometimes get cross and pick up bad words in the street or are disposed to quarrel with brother or sister and show that they are wicked. You see them in the Sabbath-school class. They are so sunshiny and bright you would think they were always so, but the mother looking over at them remembers what an awful time she had to get them ready. Time passes on. They get considerably older, and the son comes in from the street from a pugilistic encounter bearing on his appearance the marks of defeat, or the daughter practices some little deception in the household. The mother says, "I can't always be scolding and fretting and finding fault, but this must be stopped." So in many a household there is the sign of sin, the sign of the truthfulness of what the Bible says when it declares, "They go astray as soon as they be born, speaking lies."

Some go to work and try to correct all this, and the boy is picked at and picked at and picked at. That always is ruinous. There is more help in one good thunderstorm than in five days of cold drizzle. Better the old fashioned style of chastisement, if that be necessary, than the fretting and the scolding which have destroyed so many.

There is also a cause of great solicitude sometimes because our young people are surrounded by so many temptations. A castle may not be taken by a straightforward siege, but suppose there be inside the castle an enemy, and in the night he shoves back the bolt and swings open the door. Our young folks have foes without, and they have foes within. Who does not understand it? Who is the man here who is not aware of the fact that the young people of this day have tremendous temptations?

Oh, how many traps set for the young! Styles of temptation just suited to them. Do you suppose that a man who went clear to the depths of dissipation went down in one great plunge? Oh, no! At first it was a fashionable hotel. Marble floor. No unclean pictures behind the counter. No drunken hiccough while they drink, but the click of cut glass to the elegant sentiment. You ask that young man now to go into some low restaurant and get a drink, and he would say, "Do you mean to insult me?" But the fashionable and the elegant hotel is not always close by, and now the young man is on the down grade. Farther and farther down until he has about struck the bottom of the depths of ruin. Now he is in the low restaurant. The cards so greasy you can hardly tell who has the best hand. Gambling for drinks. Shuffle away, shuffle away. The landlord stands in his short sleeves, with his hands on his hips, waiting for an order to fill up the glasses.

The clock strikes twelve—the tolling of the funeral bell of a soul. The breath of eternal woe flushes in that young man's cheeks. In the jets of the gaslight the fiery tongue of the worm that never dies. Two o'clock in the morning, and now they are sound asleep in their chairs. Landlord comes around and says "Wake up, wake up! Time to shut up!" "What!" says the young man. "Time to shut up?" Push them all out into the night air. Now they are going home. Going home! Let the wife crouch in the corner and the children hide under the bed. What was the history of that young man? He began his dissipations in the barroom of a Fifth avenue hotel and completed his damnation in the lowest grogshop.

Sometimes sin does not bait in that way. Sometimes sin even comes to the drawing room. There are leprous hearts sometimes admitted in the highest circles of society. He is so elegant, he is so bewitching in his manner, he is so refined, he is so educated, no one suspects the sinful design, but after a while the talons of death come forth. What is the matter with that house? The front windows have not been open for six months or a year. A shadow has come down on that domestic hearth, a shadow thicker than one woven of midnight and hurricane. The agony of that parent makes him say, "Oh, I wish I had buried my children when they were small!" Loss of property? No. Death in the family? No. Madness? No. Some villain, kid gloved and diamonded, lifted that cup of domestic bliss until the sunlight struck it, and all the rainbows played around the rim and then dashed it into desolation and woe, until the harpies of darkness clapped their hands and all the voices of the pit uttered a loud "Ha, ha!"

The statistic has never been made up in these great cities of how many have been destroyed and how many beautiful homes have been overthrown. If the statistic could be presented, it would freeze your blood in a solid cake at your heart. Our great cities are full of temptations, and to vast multitudes of parents these temptations become a matter of great solicitude.

Begin early with your children. You stand on the banks of a river and you try to change its course. It has been rolling now for 100 miles. You cannot change it. But just go to the source of that river, go to where the water just drips down on the rock. Then with your knife make a channel this way and a channel that way, and it will take it. Come out and stand on the banks of your child's life when it is thirty or forty years of age, or even twenty, and try to change the course of that life. It is too late! It is too late! Go farther up at the source of life and nearest to the mother's heart, where the character starts, and try to take it in the right direction. But, oh, my friend, be careful to make a line, a distinct line between innocent hilarity on the one hand and vicious hilarity on the other. Do not think your children are going to ruin because they make a racket. All healthy children make a racket. But do not laugh at your child's sin because it is smart. If you do, you will cry after awhile because it is malicious. Remember it is what you do more than what you say that is going to affect your children. Do you suppose Noah would have got his family to go into the ark if he staid out? No. His sons would have said, "I am not going into the boat; there's something wrong; father won't go in; if father stays out, I'll stay out."

Are all your children safe? I know it is a stupendous question to ask, but I must ask it. Are all your children safe? A mother, when the house was on fire, got out the household goods, many articles of beautiful furniture, but forgot to ask till too late, "Are the children safe?" When the elements are melting with fervent heat and God shall burn the world up and the cry of "Fire! Fire!" shall resound amid the mountains and the valleys, will your children be safe?

I wonder if the subject strikes a chord in the heart of any man who had Christian parentage, but has not lived as he ought? God brought you here this morning to have your memory revived. Did you have a Christian ancestry? "Oh, yes!" says one man. "If there ever was a good woman, my mother was good." How she watched you when you were sick! Others wearied, if she got weary, she nevertheless was wakeful, and the medicine was given at the right time, and when the pillow was hot she turned it. And, oh, then, when you began to go astray, what a grief it was to her heart!

All the scene comes back. You remember the chairs, you remember the table, you remember the doorsill where you played, you remember the tones of her voice. She seems calling you now, not by the formal title with which we address you, saying, "Mr." this or "Mr." that, or "Honorable" this or "Honorable" that. It is just the first name, your first name, she calls you by this morning. She bids you to a better life. She says: "Forget not all the counsel I gave you, my wandering boy. Turn into paths of righteousness. I am waiting for you at the gate." Oh, yes, God brought you here this morning to have that memory revived, and I shout upward the tidings. Angels of God send forward the news. Ring! Ring! The dead is alive again, and the lost is found!

THE SABBATH SCHOOL.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR APRIL 8.

Subject: Precepts and Promises, Matt. vii., 1-14—Golden Text, Matt. vii., 12—Memory Verses, 7, 8, 13, 14—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

1. "Judge not." Rash, harsh, uncharitable judgments; the thinking evil, where no evil seems, and speaking it accordingly. Unkind, condemnatory, uncalled-for judgments, which are neither dictated by duty nor prompted by love. "That ye be not judged." It is the prerogative of God to judge men. If we judge others we must expect to be judged by others and our acts will also be judged by God. "No mercy shall be shown to the reputation of those who show no mercy to the reputation of others."

2. "It shall be measured to you again." In the moral order of things an unjust blow will recoil on him who has dealt it. With your measure shall it be measured to you. Our judgment of others frequently condemns ourselves. Rom. 2:1-3. What would become of us if God should be as severe in judging us as we are in judging others? When we endeavor to raise ourselves above others by severely judging them, we only lower ourselves in the estimation of God and all good people.

3. "The mote, etc." The "splinter" as opposed to the "beam." On one side self-love blinds us to ourselves; and on the other, envy and malice give us piercing eyes in respect to others. When we shall have as much zeal to correct ourselves, as we have inclination to reprove and correct others, we shall know our own defects better than now we know those of our neighbor.

4. "In thine own eye." That man is wholly unfit to point others to the way of life who is himself walking in the way that leads to death. Those who blame others ought to be blameless and harmless themselves.

5. "Thou hypocrite." Our Lord tears off the mask and gives people their right name. A hypocrite is one who professes to be what he is not; who claims to be a devoted Christian, while his heart is vile. But in this case a person is called a hypocrite because he does not apply to himself the measure by which he judges his brother. He appeared to have a care for others, but his zeal was only a pretence, a mere show for the purpose of exalting himself. "First cast out." We should attend to the interests of our own souls first. Let us seek to know ourselves, and get ourselves right, and then it will be our duty to look after the souls of others.

6. "That which is holy unto the dogs." Do not give the sacrificial meat that has been consecrated to God to the dogs. Give not the holy ordinances, which have been instituted for the true followers of Christ, to unholy and sinful men who try to destroy the characters of others by evil-speaking, backbiting and slandering. Dogs alludes to that which is low, unclean and ill-natured; swine to stubborn resistance, sensual gratifications and impurities. "Your people." Precious things. "Trample them." They will reject and despise them, and turn them to an unholy account.

7. "Ask—seek—knock." This verse contains very important directions. In every thing, by prayer and supplication, we are to make our requests known unto God; and then we are to "seek"—continue to ask and knock at the door of His mercy. Our approaches to God should be in earnestness and sincerity. These three words include the ideas of wants and loss. We are destitute of all spiritual good, and have lost God, and are in danger of losing eternal life; be in earnest: be importunate; ask with confidence and humility; seek with care and application; knock loudly and long.

8. "Every one that asketh receiveth, etc." Christ binds Himself to hear and answer. No soul can pray in vain that prays as God has directed. If we bring Christ's words and Christ's sacrifice with us, not one of heaven's blessings can be denied us. But our asking must be in harmony with the will of God, and in faith. James 4:2, 3.

9. "What man is there of you." No one is so wicked as to give his child a stone if he should ask bread. The child is here represented as asking what is necessary and wholesome. The Lord does not answer our requests unless they will be for our good.

11. "If ye then, being evil." Sinful people are ready and anxious to give good gifts to their children. From natural affection they are ready to provide everything necessary to their support and comfort. "How much more." How much more will One whose nature is love and who is infinitely holy and good give good things to them that ask Him. The world often gives stones for bread and serpents for fish, but God never does. "Good things." The Father, through Christ, gives "good things." Christ, gives the Holy Spirit (Luke 11:13); His words of admonition and command; His peace and joy (John 14:27; 15:11); His love (Rom. 5:5); in a word, He gives Himself. 1 Cor. 1:30; Col. 3:11.

12. "That men should do to you, etc." This is the Golden Rule. The principle here stated is the second great commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Place thyself in the condition of thy neighbor and act accordingly. 1. It is fundamental, and underlies government, society and religion. 2. It is reasonable. 3. It is universal. 4. It is equitable. 5. It is portable; we can carry it with us. 6. It is evangelical. In order to carry it out fully, we need the grace of God in a large degree. "The law and the prophets." This is the sum of all that is contained in the Old Testament, pertaining to men's conduct toward each other. It is brief, yet comprehensive, and cannot be improved upon.

13. "Enter ye in at the strait gate." Or, by this strait gate, referring to the precept just laid down. But, in general, this is the narrow gate of humility, repentance and true conversion. It is the entire absence of sin that makes this gate narrow. And we are told to "enter in." Luke says, "Strive (or agonize) to enter in." The entrance is difficult, 1, because it is narrow. 2. The gate must be diligently sought. 3. The devil, the allurements of the world, the inspiration of the crowd and the desires of our own wicked heart will all tend to draw us away from the narrow gate, and these must all be resisted and overcome before we can enter in. "Wide is the gate." The gate of unbelief, of carnel affections, of fleshly lusts has many allurements, and is open to all. "To destruction." The end is eternal death. "He that purseth evil pursueth it to his own destruction." Prov. 11:19. The way of sin leads to ruin. "Many ..... go in thereat." The way is easy of access. It is broad, and popular, and requires no effort. The train will run down an incline without steam.

14. "Leadeth unto life." Spiritual life consists in being united to Christ. Without Christ the soul is dead. Eph. 2:5, 6. The sin of which we are guilty (John 5:40) is rejecting Christ, our life. "Few there be." Few care to renounce their sinful pleasures. "That find it." Although the narrow way must be sought, yet it is possible to find it. All mankind may be saved if they will meet the conditions.

Expert Agent Appointed.

The director of the census has appointed Alcee Bouchereau of New Orleans special expert agent to collect statistics of the sugar industry in the southern states.

According to the Delagoa Bay railroad award the Portuguese government is condemned to pay 15,814,000 francs.

GAVE BOY A TONIC CAPSULE.

Reward for the Honesty and Cheek of a Zealous Bellboy.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat: A well-known drug drummer, who is paying his regular holiday visit to New Orleans, took the train last Monday evening for a little side trip to Baton Rouge and in the hurry of his departure left a handsome bone-handled umbrella hanging on a hook in the lobby of the hotel. It was a tempting prize, but probably every kleptomaniac who saw it supposed the owner was seated near at hand. At any rate, it remained undisturbed and was still there yesterday when the drummer returned. "By the way," he remarked, after he exchanged greetings with the clerk, "I've managed somehow to lose my new bone-handled umbrella. Have any of you seen such a thing lying around the office?" A quick-witted bellboy heard the question and, glacing around, saw the missing article hanging within a foot of his head. Supposing it had been there for only a few moments, he promptly grasped the ferrule. "Is this the one?" he inquired. "Yes!" exclaimed the traveler, delighted, "and I must say I'm surprised nobody has nipped it!" "Aw, they couldn't do that," replied the bell boy, "I've been holdin' on to it for y' ever since y' hung it up." The drug drummer stopped with his hand half way down his pocket and a whimsical smile overspread his countenance. "Well," he said slowly, "I was intending to give you half a dollar, but if you've been holding that umbrella for three consecutive days you're more in need of a tonic. Here is a capsule of quinine and iron." The gloom which settled down upon the bell bench might have been hewn with an ax.

"The Only Thing That Gives Relief."

Mrs. M. E. Latimer, Biloxi, Miss., had an itchy breaking out on her skin, and she sends $1 for two boxes, saying: "Tetterine is the only thing that gives me relief." This is strong language, disinterested and voluntary. It cures all skin diseases, tetter, itch, eczema, salt-rheum, etc., and never fails. 50c. a box at druggists or send stamps to J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

An acetylene gas plant has been erected at Assam, which shows that the ease with which this gas can be generated from calcium carbide should gain for it wide favor in parts of the world where it would be impossible to have a gas or electric light plant. The lack of a good illuminant is often felt severely by colonists and others in far-away parts of the world, and acetylene is a welcome relief from kerosene oil and candles.

A method of rendering corks very impermeable without affecting their elasticity has been patented in Germany by Herr F. H. Wundrum. Caoutchouc is dissolved in 10 times its weight of benzine, and the corks are placed in this solution and submitted to a pressure of 10 or 12 athospheres by means of a force pump. They are then dried in a strong current of air.

A MOTHER'S STORY.

Tells About Her Daughter's Illness and How She was Relieved—Two Letters to Mrs. Pinkham.

"MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to tell you about my daughter. She is nineteen years old and is flowing all the time, and has been for about three months. The doctor does her but very little good, if any. I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but I want your advice before beginning its use. I have become very much alarmed about her, as she is getting so weak."—MRS. MATILDA A. CAMP, Manchester Mill, Macon, Ga., May 21, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It affords me great pleasure to tell you of the benefit my daughter has received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After beginning the use of your medicine she began to mend rapidly and is now able to be at her work. Her menses are regular and almost painless. I feel very thankful to you and expect to always keep your Vegetable Compound in my house. It is the best medicine I ever knew. You have my permission to publish this letter if you wish, it may be the means of doing others good."—MRS. MATILDA A. CAMP, Manchester Mill, Macon, Ga., September 18, 1899.

The Czar Takes To Cycling.

The czar has from his boyhood been a keen cyclist, and the czarina, when her health permitted, has occasionally shown her skill as a wheelwoman. But lately his majesty appears to have given up pedaling, and he has just had made for himself in Paris a petroleum tricycle of burnished steel, fitted with all the latest improvements. The machine is wholly devoid of ornament except in the form of a silver escutcheon attached to the left steering bar, on which are emblazoned the imperial arms. In speed it is said to be a record breaker. A little chariot of wickerwork is being constructed in St. Petersburg for the use of the czarina, who will thus be towed behind her august consort in comfort and, let us hope, in safety. It is understood that these two vehicles are to accompany the young sovereigns in the visits which they propose to pay later in the year to various European courts.—London.

Jemison, April 10, 1900
Editor Banner. Sir, you will please give me space in your paper to express my feelings as a defeated candidate. I am perfectly satisfied. Some of my friends, I thank you and very much for your support and appreciate it as much as if I had received a majority. I wish to say to the voters to be as quiet as possible and look over the claims of the nominees. Gentlemen, I am out of the race but I am not out of the fight. I have my choice whom I rather would get there but everybody cannot get their choice. Everybody must be satisfied for the majority to rule, for this is the only way we can ever keep together, I hope the people will consider well the importance of the success of our party and keep in the middle of the road, and stand by your colors. Success to the People's Party and Banner.
Respectfully,
D. L. LANGSTON.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Clanton, April 5, 1900
Editor Banner. I desire to return my sincere thanks to the parties who so cordially supported me in the People's Party primary elections of March 27th and 30th. It was beyond my sanguine expectations considering the inclement weather, for it was a day none but those deeply interested would turn out to vote, and those who did have my deepest gratitude, and I do assure them I greatly appreciate what they did for me on those days, and I shall ever try to merit and be worthy of their confidence. And I futher desire to thank the parties who were defeated in their honorable aspirations in the above election, for their hearty avowal of their whole support of the nominees of the party, and to express to them my candid conviction, that they will labor as hard for the principles of our party as the nominees themselves for they realize it is not for men we contend but for the noble principles of our party, and that a strict adherence to the same will eventually bring its just reward, and some who may have been defeated this time may be leading candidates next time. And I wish to say that I do not believe that at any time since 1892 have we been more united than now, and that we will not only succeed in electing our tickets, but that it will be by the old-time 1892 majority. We have a strong ticket. I have had opportunity to learn of the workings in the offices of Collector and Assessor, and will say you will have to look long before you can find two more worthy men and officers than T. J. Hubbard and A. C. Mims. Their errors and insolvencies have been far less than under the administration of any of their predecessors. Tho. J. Hubbard was the third mad last year to make final settlement with State and county, and he was ready like he is this year, to make settlement months before the time required by law, Jan. 30th; and when you realize that it required the collection and transmission of over Twenty-five thousand dollars from our county, and that a great amount had to be realized out of 4 and 5 cent cotton, it simply cannot be beat, and it speaks remarkably well for our people as upright, law abiding citizens, for it was at that time a difficult matter for them to get the money to pay their taxes. The other members of our ticket are no new men to you, but have been honored before by your support, save our candidate for Representative, Hon. John W. Cox, who I am satisfied will fill the bill to your entire satisfaction and the honor of our principles, and also our candidate for Sheriff, Moses A. Kilgore. I will say that he, I and some others joined the Cane Creek Farmer's club in 1886, and during the days of the Alliance Bro. Kilgore was an earnest and attentive member of Cane Creek Alliance, ready and willing at all times to discharge the requirments of the order.

With a Probate Judge that is an honor to our county and state, a true and tried sheriff and circuit clerk who is loved by all who know him, with the gentlemen who compose our ticket elected we will have a set of county officers of whom we may justly feel proud.
Yours respectfully,
ALEX. G. DAKE.

Turn-Round Topics.

The measles have certainly raged through this community, though the first to have them is up and able to be at work. At present we are sorry for the family of Mr. Thomas Mims, they are nearly all down in bed and Mrs. Mims has been reported dangerously ill. The farmers here are further behind with their work than ever before, I think, for the time of the year. M. E. Williams and family visited coopers Sunday.

G. W. Jones, mother and sister, visited Coopers Sunday. Mrs. W. Kendrick is visiting her parents at Clanton. N. J. Goss is at home again from school at Clanton. The woods have been burning here and burned the entire place known as the Walters place. Prospects are good for a good fruit crop T. P.

Stanton, April 9, 1900
Editor BANNER—Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the candidacy of Mr. G. F. Martin for sheriff. Of all the good men who are running for office in Chilton county today, there is none more competent than Mr. Martin. For the past three years I have been knowing him and he is a splendid man, and is a member of the Baptist church. In his political principles Mr. Martin has been independent, and I don't believe that any man will regret casting his vote for him, as he is in every way fitted for the office that he aspires to. He is opposed to the stock law, and says that he would like that to be understood. He has stood with the Democrats in Dallas and since his residence in Chilton has voted for the best men regardless of party. He supported Judge Adams when he was running and a large part of the Populist ticket. This is no solicitation on any ones part but my own.

MARRIED AT RIDERVILLE

Married at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. Wm. Davis, on the 8th inst., Mr. Frank Reynolds to Miss Alabama Martin. Mr. Frank is a son of Mr. John W. Reynolds, one of our best citizens. He is a sober, industerous young man and possessed of those qualities that gain friends and gives promise for a bright and happy life. The bride belongs to one of the leading families of this section, and is just the kind of young lady that the sober, sensible and ambitious young man should always choose for a companion. The popularity and esteem in which the young couple are held by the community was clearly shown by the large number present and the hearty congratulations extended by all.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs Geo. F. Parsons & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I bought a bottle. It soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this remedy to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." For sale by Clanton drug company, and D. I. DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

House Members Plan to Oppose Porto Rican Bill.

Democratic members of the house held a caucus Saturday night to determine upon plans in connection with the approaching vote on the Porto Rican bill. About ninety members were present, including Mr. Richardson, the democratic floor leader, and most of the other prominent figures on the democratic side.

The chief attention was given to the question of pairs, as the vote is expected to be so close that the result may depend upon the pairing of members.

On motion of Mr. Underwood of Alabama, the democratic "whip," the following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, That all democratic members are urged to return to Washington at once; that hereafter democratic members will make no general or permanent pairs; that all pairs shall be made in writing and shall be signed by one of the members designated by our party caucus to arrange pairs."

Mr. Richardson offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That as a party we declare our unalterable opposition to the measure now pending before congress entitled 'A Bill Temporarily to Provide Revenues for the Relief of Porto Rico,' and hereby enjoin upon every democrat to be present in the house of representatives when the votes is taken thereon, and to record his vote against it."

DISASTER TO BRITISH TROOPS.

Five Companies Surrounded and Captured by Boers.

The following is the text of Lord Roberts' dispatch to the war office in London announcing the capture of five companies of his troops:

"Another unfortunate occurrence has occurred resulting, I fear, in the capture of a party of infantry consisting of three companies of the Royal Irish Fusileers and two companies of the Ninth Regiment of mounted infantry, near Reedersburg, a little eastward of Bethany railroad station, within a few miles of Bloemfontein. They were surrounded by a stronger force of the enemy with four or five guns.

"The detachment held out from noon, April 3, until April 4, a. m., and then, apparently, surrendered, for it is reported that the firing ceased at that time. Immediately after I heard the news I ordered Gatacre to proceed from Springfontein, but he could get no news of the missing detachment. There can be no doubt the whole party have been made prisoners."

GEN. MAREUIL KILLED

And Fifty Boers Were Taken Prisoners. None Escaped.

The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Bloemfontein, Thursday.

"Methuen telegraphs from Boshof, in the Orange Free State, a little east of Kimberley, as follows:

"Surrounded General Villebois Mareuil and a body of Boers. None escaped. Villebois and seven Boers killed; eight wounded. Fifty prisoners.

"Our looses were: Killed Captains Boyle and Williams, both of the Yeomanry, and two men of the Yeomanry. Wounded about seven men. The attack lasted four hours.

General De Villebois Mareuil was the chief of staff of the Boer army. He was about 50 years old, and is said to have been responsible for many of the Boer successes in Natal and latter in Cape Colony.

BOER VICTORY.

General Dewet Defeats British Cavalry and Takes 450 Prisoners.

A Pretoria dispatch says: It is reported that General Dewet attacked and defeated a large force of British cavalry at Dewet's Dorp, southeast of Bloemfontein, capturing 450 prisoners and a large quantity of ammunition and camp stores and inflicting heavy loss.

The federal loss was two killed and four wounded. All is quiet with the other commandoes.

Corn Crop Destroyed.

A special to the Express from Rio Grande City announces the total destruction of the corn crop in the lower Rio Grande bottom lands.

SWEPT BY RAGING TORRENT

Scores of Lives and Property Destroyed in Texas.

GREAT DAM IN COLORADO RIVER BREAKS

Eight Employes of Power House Were Drowned—Hundreds of Houses Swept Before the Terrible Wall of Water.

A Saturday's special from Austin, Tex., says:

This city is tonight in pitch darkness, with a raging river one mile wide and swollen far beyond its natural banks, roaring and surging through all the lower portion of the town, having spread death and destruction in its wake.

In addition to the vast loss to property interests, it is calculated that between thirty and forty lives have been lost and the reports coming in from the tributary country do not tend to improve matters. The flood is not unlike the disastrous Johnstown flood some years ago, in that a raging river, already swollen far beyond its capacity, bore too heavily upon an immense dam spanning the river here, breaking the same and letting loose a reservoir of water thirty miles long, half a mile wide and sixty feet deep, to aid in carrying destruction down the valleys of the Colorado river. The great dam in the Colorado river gave way today to the enormous pressure of water and debris, and with a roar and crash, swept the valleys below the city, wrecking the immeuse light and power plant and drowning eight workmen.

Following is a list of the unknown dead including those killed in the power house: Frank Pincet, Frank Kinney, Walter Flower, Walter Johnston, Alfred Jonson, Frank Fitzgerald, Walter Blossman, Joseph Newman, Dick Morris, colored, John Proes, Charles Burchard, six negroes.

On last Wednesday night it began raining very hard at this place, the storm extending north of here along the water-sheds of the Colorado river. The precipitation continued until this morning, and as a finale the downfall averaged six inches within an hour. All this vast quantity of water along the water-sheds of the Colorado river rapidly swelled the current until at 8 o'clock this morning the river, which had been rising steadily since last evening, was a raging torrent, having risen forty feet within ten hours.

After daylight this morning it became evident that the situation was serious. This morning the river began rising so rapidly that it was evident that the dam and all the power houses and contents, costing $1,500,000, was in imminent danger. To add to the terror of the situation, small frame houses, trees and debris of every description, in varying quantities, began drifting down the river and piling up against the upper face of the dam. This weight was augmented every moment, until, by 10 o'clock, there was a mass of debris lodged against the dam which threatened the safety of the structure. In addition, millions of gallons of water were whirling and plunging to the sixty-foot fall, and it was evident that no wall could withstand the immense pressure.

The crisis came shortly after 11 o'clock this morning, when suddenly, with a report like the roar of the ocean, a great wedge, 25 feet high, 500 feed wide and about 8 feet thick, rolled out of the center section of the dam, down the face of the 60-foot depth into the river below. This left a yawning gap in the very middle of the dam, through which the debris and water fiercely poured, while the flood, already raging, was threatening everything in its path, this sudden breaking of the dam but serving to add to the horror of the catastrophe.

The released water poured into the power house, catching eight employes at work there, drowning all of them instantly.

A crowd of poor white people, numbering about thirty, living just below the dam in tents, were seen at their habitations just before the dam broke and have not been accounted for since, and it is generally conceded that all of them were swept away. One man was caught on the bridge and he and his horse and buggy went down with the torrent and were heard of no more. A family of six negroes living in the valley south of the city are known to have been drowned.

It is estimated that more than 100 houses have been destroyed and the loss to property will be great, independent of the light and power plant, costing one and a half million dollars.

LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY.

Disastrous Reports From Flooded Districts of Texas.

Reports of loss of life and damage caused by incessant rains during the past three days in Texas continue to pour in from all directions and indications point to a repetition of the disastrous floods of last year. The loss of life to a great extent has already surpassed that of previous years. Both telephone and telegraph service all over the state is completely prostrated and details from the flooded districts are very meager. All streams, including the Brazos and Colorado rivers, are overflowing the lowlands and rising very rapidly. The crops of cotton and corn are nearly completely submerged and will have to be replanted.

AGRICULTURAL BILL.

Measure Carries Unusually Heavy Appropriation.

The agricultural appropriation bill reported to the house Saturday carries $4,116,400, being $890,778 more than the law for the current year. Two additional scientists—one biologist and one botanist—have been allowed. An additional allowance of $40,000 for seed distribution is granted upon the petition of 225 members of the house; $60,000 is appropriated for iron warning towers for the weather bureau in place of the present wooden structures; $38,000 for an additional quarantine station in New York; $47,000 additional for meat inspector and $200,000 for a laboratory building in Washington.

POLITICAL FACTIONS AT WAR.

Intense Excitement Prevails at Middlesboro, Kentucky.

A special from Middlesboro, Ky., says:

Intense excitement prevails here over a clash of the authorities. Will Moseley, a special policeman, shot Charles Cecil, a deputy sheriff, and was himself killed later by unknown persons. The killing is the outcome of the bitter feeling that exists between two political factions.

Warrants have been sworn for the arrest of Chief of Police King, Policeman John Moseley, a brother of the man killed, and Policeman Will Sullivan for attempting to arrest a negro released by the city judge.

Bloodshed Over Dewey's Candidacy.

In Chicago one man was killed and another badly injured in a fight growing out of Admiral Dewey's candidacy for the Presidency. Eugene Lucker, a colored man, was shot and instantly killed by George Miller, a barber. The latter was badly cut about the throat with a razor and may die.

DEWEY NEVER VOTED

He Says He Has Always Been a Democrat.

Admiral and Mrs. Dewey returned to Washington Saturday from their visit to Philadelphia. The admiral said that he expected in a few days to have ready for the press a statement of his plans for the future.

"Can you confirm the statement that you are credited with making that you are a democrat?" asked a reporter.

"Certainly, I am a democrat," he replied. "I always have been a democrat," he added, smilingly.

"Have you ever voted the democratic ticket?"

"No, I never voted in my life. The only man I ever wanted to vote for was Mr. Cleveland."

Gen. Miles a Presidential Aspirant.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles is willing to be the democratic nominee for president, says the New York World. He has so stated to his friends, and ten days ago he visited W. C. Whitney to talk with him about the possibility of his being nominated. Mr. Whitney told the general that all of the leading gold democrats were as much opposed to the nomination of Bryan as they were when he was named four years ago, but he did not commit himself to the support of the general. He merely took the matter under advisement and said he would consult with his friends.

Saw Mills on Two-Thirds Time.

The Georgia Saw Mill association, representing some 300 yellow pine mill plants in Georgia, South Carolina and Florida at a meeting held at Tifton, Ga., decided by a practically unanimous vote that on and after May 10 all mills belonging to the members of the association would be run on two-thirds time. This will affect thousands of operatives.

IN FAVOR OF DEMOCRATS.

Kentucky Court of Appeals Declares Legislature's Action Final.

The court of appeals at Frankfort Friday rendered a decision in the consolidated case involving the governorship of Kentucky, sustaining the decision of Circuit Judge Field, and declaring that the action of the legislature declaring William Goebel to be governor and J. C. W. Beckham lieutenant governor was final. It is held that the courts have no power to review this action of the legislature; that the governor exceeded his authority in adjourning the legislature to meet in London, Ky., and that the journals of the two houses of the general assembly, being regular, cannot be impeached. The division of the court was six to one in favor of the democrats, four democrats and two republicans concurring in the majority opinion.

After a consultation in the afternoon between ex-Governor Bradley and other republican leaders, the announcement was made that application would be made at once to the United States supreme court on a writ of error.

TO HIGHEST COURT.

Writ of Error Granted in the Kentucky Contest Case.

Chief Justice Hazelrigg, of the court of appeals, Saturday afternoon granted a writ of error from the decision of the court of appeals to the supreme court of the United States in the contest over the offices of governor and lieutenant-governor of of Kentucky. Judge Hazelrigg, with a party of friends, had gone fishing on the Elkhorn when Governor Taylor's attorneys arrived, and the chief justice entered an order granting the writ while standing on the banks of the famous fishing stream.

Ex-Governor Bradley and other attorneys for Taylor will go to Washington this week to present the writ.

QUINTUPLE GARROTING.

Five Murderers Executed in Ponce Porto Rico—Horrible Spectacle.

The five men, Simeon Rodriquez, Carlos Pecheco, Hermogenes Pacheco, Eugenio Rodriquez and Rosalio Santiago, convicted of the murder in October, 1898, of Prudencio Mendoza, at Yuacoa, Porto Rico, after criminally assaulting the wife and daughters of the victim, who were compelled to dance around the victim, were executed by the garrote in Ponce last week, at a spot about a mile from the jail. The great publicity of the garroting exhibition, with the black-robed condemned in open carts, the slow procession, the entreaties of the priests and the braggadocio manners of the executioner with the later exhibition of the corpses to the assembled thousands, made a horrible spectacle. Business was suspended and large but orderly crowds lined the streets and surrounded the elevated platform upon which the execution took place. The policing was perfect.

GOOD SHOWING

Made by Department of Insular Affairs for Philippine Ports.

The division of customs and insular affairs of the War Department has made public a statement of foreign vessel movements at the ports of Manila, Ilollo and Cebu, Philippine Islands, from the date of American occupation to December 31, 1899. The statement shows that the total number of foreign vessels that entered the ports named during the period above mentioned was 517, with a total tonnage of 607,577. The total number of foreign vessels that cleared from the above ports during the period mentioned was 505, with a total tonnage of 630,901.

Grand Jury Still at Work.

The grand jury will continue the investigation of the Goebel assassination at Frankfort, Ky., during the week. About forty witnesses have been examined so far, and it is said that more than that number are on the list of those summoned who have not yet been heard. No report is expected before the latter part of the week. It is said that the names of several of the most important witnesses who have testified so far have not been disclosed, and the evidence has been jealously guarded.

Reunion at Shiloh Battlefield.

Friday, the thirty-eighth anniversary of the great battle of Shiloh, near Corinth, Miss., where Grant and Albert Sidney Johnston struggled so valiantly for the mastery, was celebrated on the historic battlefield by a grand reunion of the blue and gray. Federal veterans from Illinois, Missouri, Iowa and other northern and western states attended, while nearly every southern state was represented.

FIGHTS WITH THE FILIPINOS.

The Rebels are Making it Interesting for American Army.

Reports of encounters between the American troops and the insurgents in the Philippines continue to arrive from many points.

On Friday Captain Sturgis, while reconnoitering struck an insurgent outpost on the Nevelisches road five miles distant from Manila killing two and capturing ten. All were in full uniform Unfortunately Captain Sturgis' force was not large enough to pursue the main body.

A detachment of the Forty-second Infantry while scouting in Laguna province was pursued by the insurgents and obliged to take refuge in a church at Paeto, where the Americans repelled the enemy until reinforcements arrived.

Lieutenant Gordon with a company of the Sixteenth Infantry while scouting near Aparri, Cayogan province, came upon 250 insurgents. Lieutenant Gordon was wounded.

A sergeant and a corporal of Company I, Eighteenth Infantry, were killed in a severe fight in Cadiz province, island of Panay.

The insurgents made a night attack upon Calbayon, Island of Samar. They killed the sentry, swarmed into the town and searched the house of Major Gilmore, Forthy-third Infantry, who was absent. They killed his cook. Ultimately the Americans drove them out of the town killing four and capturing several.

General Young, commanding in North Luzon, has made several requests for reinforcements, reporting that his force is inadequate, that the men are exhausted by the necessity of constant vigilance, that he is unable to garrison the towns in his jurisdiction; that the insurgents are returning to the district and killing the Amigos, and that it is necessary to inflict punishment in several sections before the rainy season begins.

General James Bell, who is commanding in Southern Luzon, has made similar reports. He says his forces are inadequate and that he merely holds a few towns, without controlling the territory.

The president of the town of Samal, province of Bataar, Luzon, and other prominent natives have been assassinated because they were known to be friendly to the Americans.

The president of another town has joined the insurgents because they had threatened to kill him if he did not.

OVER FIFTY LIVES LOST

In the Flood Sections of Southwestern Texas.

Reports received at Dallas up to noon Monday from the southern and southwestern Texas flood sections show conclusively that more than fifty lives have been lost, including those at Austin.

The names of at least one-half of the victims are not obtainable because of the isolation of the localities from railroad and wire lines. Most of them are in the Colorado valley, south of Austin and Bastrop.

Towne is a Candidate For Vice-President.

Former Congressman Charles A. Towne, of Duluth, is a candidate for the democratic nomination for vice-president. Judge Caldwell, of Arkansas, has declined to permit the use of his name in that connection, and Towne's nomination is said to come from the gold democrats and republican-antli-imperialists of New England who were charmed with his eloquence on his recent tour through that country and his diplomatic handling of silver question.

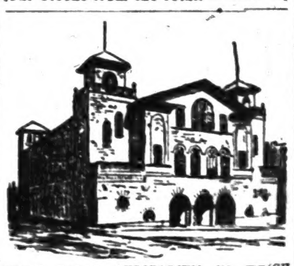
Convention Hall, Kansas City, where the National Democratic Convention will be held July 4th, is situated at Thirteenth and Central streets, four blocks from the retail district of the city. It has been classed by travelers as one of the largest and most perfectly constructed auditoriums in existence.



SIOUX FALLS AUDITORIUM IN WHICH POPULISTS WILL MEET.

The building was erected at a cost of $225,000, which was raised entirely by public subscription. It occupies a piece of ground 314 by 200 feet in extent, is two stories high and is built of native stone, cream brick and terra cotta. The first story is of the Renaissance style of architecture, and the second story is of Peristyle form, with groups and columns. The building is of bridge construction, without a column, the roof being supported by great steel girders that span its 200 feet of breadth. Its general seating arrangement is modeled somewhat upon the plan of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. The floor space is divided into arena, arena balcony, balcony and roof garden, boxes skirting the arena and the arena balcony. The stage is situated in the center of the arena. The total seating capacity is nearly 20,000, and with standing room the building is capable of holding more than 22,000 people. The arena alone seats 4000. To each side of the arena and under the first balcony are numerous committee rooms, which have their separate street entrances. The building has no stairways, the upper seatings being reached by means of inclined planes. Separate exits are used for the balconies and roof garden, and it is estimated that the hall can be emptied at the rate of 5000 people a minute.

Convention Hall has, since its dedication, a year ago, housed some of the largest audiences that ever gathered under roof in this country. Its acoustic properties have received especial praise. Hon. William J. Bryan, who last June addressed the Head Camp of the Modern Woodmen of America in the hall, said later:

"It is hard to conceive how Convention Hall could be improved upon for the purposes of large public gatherings."

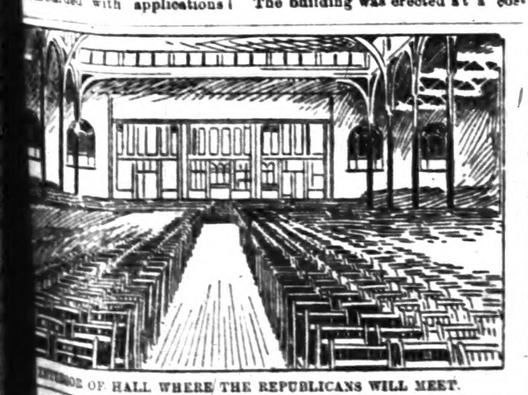
Maurice Gran, whose grand opera company sang there November last to record-breaking grand opera house audiences, said:

"It is a wonderful structure, complete in all its appointments, and has no equal in America," while Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, who a month later faced in this hall some of the largest crowds that he had ever addressed, said from the platform:

"I came one thousand miles to find the best hall I have ever spoken in."

The leading hotels of the city are the Coates, the Baltimore, the Midland, the Savoy, the Victoria and the Washington, all of which are located from three to ten blocks distant from the hall. The Coates, which has always been Mr. Bryan's stopping place, will, it is said, be made the headquarters of the National Committee.

The accompanying illustration shows the Sioux Falls auditorium, which has a seating capacity of about 5000. Had it not been for this building, which is the largest of the kind in South Dakota, Sioux Falls would not have been able to capture the national convention of the Populist party, which will be held May 9. On May 23 the Republicans of South Dakota will also hold their State convention in Sioux Falls for the purpose of nominating a Congressional and State ticket and selecting delegates to the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia. The auditorium is a new building. Not until after a delegation of Sioux Falls rustlers, in the fall of 1898, succeeded in capturing the convention of the National Creamery-Buttermakers' Association was the construction of the building decided upon. The structure is well arranged and is complete in all its details.



INTERIOR OF HALL WHERE THE REPUBLICANS WILL MEET.

Cereals in Algeria.

The growth of cereals has always been the staple industry in Algeria; but of late it has become unremunerative, and the returns both of European and native culture are very small. Even among Europeans agriculture is in a very elementary condition. No forage is used save what grows spontaneously; no manure, or very little, is put on the land; no cattle are kept beyond what are required for plowing, the land is impoverished, badly kept, and full of weeds and noxious insects, which smother and devour the crops. Ninety-eight per cent. of the land sown every year is devoted to the growth of cereals, and too little of it to the rearing of cattle. The great obstacles to agriculture are the uncertainty of seasons and the impossibility of competing with such countries as America, Russia and India, where land is abundant, and, in the last two at least, labor is cheap.—Chambers's Journal.

Automobiles Used For Towing.

The haulage of boats by automobile along the canal between Brussels and Charleroi has demonstrated, after a long trial, that the new method of of towing is three times quicker than horse traction. The automobile derives its energy from a railway composed of six lines, three of high tension (6000 volts) and three of low tension, on which the trolleys run. The electricity is furnished by three dynamos, each of 120-horse power.—Philadelphia Record.

Lowe Calls Senatorial Conventions.

R. J. Lowe, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, has issued a call for senatorial conventions for the following named districts, being districts in which there are no senatorial committees, to meet in Montgomery, April 25, 1900, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the state senate from their respective districts. The districts to which this call applies are as follows: First district, Lauderdale and Limestone; Fifth district, Jackson and Marshall; Fifteenth district, Chilton, Shelby and Elmore; Seventeenth district, Butler, Conecuh and Covington; Nineteenth district, Clark, Choctaw and Washington; Twenty-first district, Monroe, Escambia and Baldwin; Twenty-third district, Henry, Dale and Geneva; Twenty-fifth district, Pike, Crenshaw and Coffee; Twenty-ninth district, DeKalb and Cherokee.

To Connect the Warrior and Tennessee.

A movement has been launched in Birmingham looking to the emptying of a portion of the waters of the Tennessee river into the Warrior canal, which it is proposed to build from somewhere in the vicinity of North Birmingham to the Warrior river. With this end in view former Mayor J. A. VanHoose some time ago had G. D. Fitzhugh, the well known civil engineer, to prepare a blue print of the proposed route for the canal connecting the Tennessee river and the Warrior canal. Mr. Fitzhugh pronounced this proposed canal as entirely feasible, and says the engineering difficulties to be overcome are few and of small importance.

Vein of Rich Phosphate Found.

A splendid vein of phosphate has been discovered in Limestone county not far from Elkmont and is yielding a very fine quality. In the same section a vein of gold has been discovered, but whether in paying quantities or not can not yet be told; also a little east of that village a splendid deposit of silver has been discovered.

STATE BREVITIES.

The Central of Georgia will spend some $6,000 in fixing up tracks at the new cotton mill which is to be erected at Roanoke.

Paul Pittman, a grocery merchant of Florence, will erect a soap factory in that city, with a daily capacity of some 3,000 pounds.

Capt. Bird H. Ford is dead at his home in Wedowee, where he had lived so long. Captain Ford was a Mason and one of the best of the country's citizens. He was 88 years of age.

The Williamson furnace in Birmingham made its first run last Friday. This furnace has been idle for about ten years and has only recently been modernized.

The total subscriptions to the Anniston Yarn mills, at the final meeting Thursday afternoon, aggregated $101,900, with several small subscriptions yet to be reported.

The newly-formed Globe Coal Company will open a new coal mine at Little Warrior next week. Jackson & Hillman will operate it. Employment will be given to over 100 men.

The fourth furnace at the plant of the Alabama Steel and Shipbuilding Company at Ensley began making steel Thursday and two others will be making steel within the next few days.

The work of rebuilding the town of Prattville where it was so badly burned March 19 has been going on at a rapid rate for the last ten days, and if the good work keeps up at the same rate the new town will be a great improvement.

H. C. Forbes, of Russellville, who has already had much experience in gold mining in Alaska, will lead a party of Franklin county fortune hunters to the Cape Nome fields, the intention now being to leave Russellville about the last of the present month.

The coroner's jury in the case of Joe Scott, the negro who was shot to death and his house set on fire near Birmingham, returned a verdict charging Floyd Brown, Tom Carter and Robert Anderson with the murder. These men are in jail, Brown having made a partial confession.

The first week of the United States court was concluded at Huntsville Saturday. About twenty moonshiners have been convicted and sentenced so far. Andy Barton, Buck Northington, Sam Shoemaker, Ed Cantrell, Philip Frost, Luce Thirp, James Vandiver and Foster Dooley were convicted and sentenced to $100 one and one month's imprisonment.

Andalusia to Have a Bank.

Authority has been asked of the comptroller of the currency to organize the First National bank at Andalusia with a capital of $50,000. The applicants are C. A. O'Neal, Montgomery C. S. O'Neal, Richard Tillis, William J. Hall and G. F. Emerson.

Killed By a Train.

A most distressing and fatal accident occurred at Scottsboro, in which W. T. Dorough, an aged citizen was struck by a freight train on the Southern road and instantly killed. His neck, both arms and limbs were broken. Mr. Dorough was in his 80th year.

Well Known Temperance Lecturer Dead.

Rev C. W. Buck died in Montgomery Sunday morning. The deceased was an ordained Baptist minister but has been following the profession of dentistry for several years. He was a prominent temperance lecturer and prohibitionist at the time of his death.

Given the Death Penalty.

Albert Curry, one of a gang of five negroes charged with killing Pink Dobbins, at Talladega, was convicted at that place Monday and sentenced to hang on May 18. Dobbins, who was a white man, was assaulted by a crowd of negroes and literally cut to pieces. The tragedy occurred about a month ago. Curry is a mere youth.

Captain Young Dead.

Captain James H. Young one of the most prominent citizens of Scottsboro, died Saturday and was buried Sunday. Captain Young was born in Christian county, Kentucky, in 1825. He was a strict member and a ruling elder in the Cumberland Presbyterian church. He was a captain in the Confederate army.

Epes Is a Progressive Town.

Epes is rapidly coming to the front as one of the most prosperous towns of the state. Less than two years ago, when the town was burned, there were only frame structures of not very much value. Today there are ten big brick structures, besides many smaller buildings of wood. A cotton oil mill is to be erected for the next season by local capital.

Marion is still infested with the railroad fever and has received some tangible assurances that the Birmingham Selma & New Orleans may possibly turn that way instead of being extended down into Marengo.

Prominent Manufacturer Dead.

F. G. Oxley, president of the Oxley Stave company, operating six large plants in various sections of the south and west, and who has for thirty years supplied the Standard Oil company with staves for its barrels, died at Bridgeport, Ala., Monday of heart disease.

A Gigantic Combination.

Negotiations are in progress for a combination of the gigantic new Carnegie company and the Cramp Ship Building company. If the conference now going on in Atlantic City results in a satisfactory arrangement, the coalition between these two great interests will soon be announced.

An Important Decision.

In the case of Morris Keim vs. the United States the supreme court Monday decided that the courts have no supervisory powers over the heads of the departments of the government in discharging their subordinates. The opinion was handed down by Justice Brewer.

Another Enoch Arden.

Holmes Harmon, a white man who strangely disappeared from his home at King's Mountain, near Charlotte, N. C., just twenty years ago, has as suddenly returned to find his wife married to another man and his children all either married or dead.

SHIPPING STRUCTURAL IRON.

Carnegie Company Doing Their Part In Rebuilding of Auditorium.

The Carnegie company, who received from the Gillette-Herzog Manufacturing Company of Minneapolis, the contract for structural iron to be used in the construction of the convention hall at Kansas City, have commenced shipment of the material. As far as the Carnegie company is concerned, the building can be completed on time.

THE BANNER has always made it a practice to publish the list of jurors for each term of court, but this time we will have to omit it. On making application for the list we were informed that, acting under instructions from Judge Denson, the names of the jurors would not be published for this term of court.

HON. W. F. ALDRICH has introduced a bill in congress to provide for the establishment of a diplomatic, consulate and civil service college, for the purpose of educating at the government's expense young men and women not over twenty-five years of age for the diplomatic and consular service of the United States.

It is stated that Judge S. M. Adams of Chilton county, will be nominated by the Populists at their State Convention to be held at Birmingham on May 2nd, it being understood that Judge Adams has been agreed upon by the leaders of the party to make the race. The Populites will put out a full State ticket and will make an aggressive fight, so their leaders say. Judge Adams ran for State Commissioner of Agriculture on the Populist ticket with Kolb in two successive campaigns. He is recognized as one of the ablest Populist leaders in Alabama, being an able speaker and a man of strong character.

THE above from the Montgomery Advertiser, and while we do not know what the "leaders" have agreed upon, we doubt very much if Judge Adams has agreed to do anything of the sort mentioned. If the dispensary question is to be made an issue, we have heard Judge Adams say he has not studied the question sufficiently to be able to say whether he favors a dispensary law or not.

OLIVER MULLINS.

This gentleman whose life has been spent in the same part of the county were he now resides is a man well known all over the county, and his announcement for Commissioner from the first district subject to the Democratic primary is very agreeable to his Democratic friends. Mr. Mullins was born and raised in Beat one, and has had considerable experience in the Commissioner's court, having served two terms. He has never swerved from the Democratic party and is encouraged at this time to ask for their full support in the race he is making for the commissioner's office, promising that if he is elected he will work for the best interests of all the people and of the county.

CORRESPONDENCE

Vick, Bibb co. Ala., Apl. 9

Editor BANNER—We see so much in the Banner from home in Chilton about friends and election matters until we feel like talking too. We see Mr. J. H. Johnson goes to Autauga county for all his endorsements for sheriff, but fails to bring anything before the people of Chilton that shines at all. Well, that is alright he and others that are running will be sick on the 14th of April when they see the vote come in from Beat 8. We are not voting the people of Beat 7 or 8 but it is going to go solid for Lee Hayes, and it ought to go just that way, and we think it will be sure to stand approved that way from the simple fact that the people of Chilton know a good thing when they see it. We can not vote in dear old Chilton this time; we have always used our influence for the Democratic ticket and against Hayes, but no man can bring anything against his official career, so elect him boys, elect him.

Stanton, April 9, 1900

Editor Banner. Please allow me space in the columns of your paper to more fully express my political views. So far as concerns this and other similar counties, I heartily endorse the People's Party platform at least the most essential planks of it, but must say that I fail to see any material difference between it and the old Jeffersonian democracy in which honesty, integrity, fair dealing to all and special privileges to none prevail. But while I am not an enemy to any party or organization, I do oppose the primaries to some extent, especially in counties like this where three-fourths of the voters are white people, and all are white in the primaries (in this I accede), but it does seem to me that it is asking too much of the people to come out away from their ever-day advocations to vote for the same officer twice in one year. I take the position that every aspirant of office should run on his own merit, after due cohsideration of qualifications, honesty, integrity, etc., then it would seem that the majority would have their choice. Along on this line I propose to place myself before the people, regardless of popularity or previous affiliations.

My announcement will be found in another column to which I call your especial attention, and to those that I am not acquainted with will possibly meet with you between now and the August election, and unless you are under special obligations would respectfully ask your consideration in my behalf, and kindly thank you for any support, either by your vote or influence, promising you if elected will make an officer of which you will have no grounds to complain. With peace, prosperity, and good-will to all mankind.

I am respectfully,
G. F. MARTIN.

Made Money on Round Bales

Roundlap bale. I believe that the Roundlap bale is the bale of the future, as it effects a large saving of waste, and enables the planter to get a higher price for his cotton."

Mr. Abram Williams, Nov. 10, 1899, wrote Messrs. Wilkins & Jones: "To-day I had two Roundlap bales of cotton packed on your Roundlap bale press, for which you paid me 7¾ cents per pound, when the same grade of cotton in the square bale here to day is only bringing 7 to 7½ cents per pound."

Mr. J. S. Collins, Pike Road, Ala., Nov. 11, 1899, wrote: "I have gotten for my cotton $2.50 per bale more than I could have gotten for it in square bales. I believe that the Roundlap press is the salvation of the farmers of our country. I believe that it has saved in our neighborhood of eight or ten miles square $5,000 in the price of cotton, and 20,000 pounds of lint cotton that would have been lost in samples, theft and weight, and $1,500 in warehouse charges, besides drayage and railroad expenses."

The England Gin Company, which operates a Roundlap plant at England, Ark., Dec. 13 1899, wrote: "We are very much pleased with the Roundlap bale press. It is a recognized fact in this community that we have made the price of cotton from ½ to ¾ cents higher than it would have been. Only this last week when we were out of the market about four days seed cotton dropped from 2½ to 2 cents per pound."

MADE MONEY ON ROUND BALES.

Patrons of Roundlap Gin Plants Tell of Their Big Profits.

The past ginning season again demonstrated the incomparable superiority of The American Cotton Company's Roundlap bale. Not only were farmers benefited who had their cotton put up in Roundlap bales, but even the patrons of old-style gins profited by the presence of the Round-lap competition.

Farmers all over the cotton states have written letters to the owners of Roundlap plants telling of the profit that has come to them from having their cotton put up in Roundlap bales. Mr. W. F. Hartley, Sr., who patronized the Greenville, Ala., plant, wrote Feb. 3, 1900: "The most important point in the Roundlap bale's favor to the farmer is the advance in price above that of the square bale. It has averaged the entire past season $2.00 per bale more than the square bale. More than $5,000 has been placed in circulation by the advanced price caused by this one press."

Mr. F. M. Rogers also wrote from Greenville, Ala.: "I have received from ½ to ¾ cent per pound more than the market price here for square bales. The Roundlap bale is a Godsend to the farmers, and has saved them thousands of dollars in a few months."

Mr. J. D. Reily, Centerville, Miss., wrote Dec. 4, 1899: "Another advantage to the farmer is that Roundlap cotton brings such a good price that the buyers of square cotton have been forced to put their prices up. Thus all the farmers are benefited in a town where there is a Roundlap press."

Mr. F. B. Simonton, Temple, Tex., Nov. 12, 1899: "I have received from $1.50 to $3.50 per bale more for my cotton than if I had ginned and sold in the square bale. Besides I know that the prices The American Cotton Company has paid for seed cotton have been the cause of those buying the square bale paying from 10 to 50 points more for it."

Mr. J. L. Wood, of Venus, Tex., Dec. 2, 1899, wrote: "I sold to The American Cotton Company at its East Waco plant the first bale of cotton that was ever ginned by the Roundlap bale system in Waco, and have been selling my cotton in the seed to you since that time. For the last three years, including 1899, I have sold my cotton to your Venus plant. I can safely say that I have made $2.00 per bale more by selling to you in the seed than I would have made if I had ginned it into square bales, besides saving a great deal of annoyance with the street buyers. In view of the fact that the custom ginners and those opposed to the Roundlap system say that you do not let the farmers have cotton seed I will say that I have always gotten seed when I asked for it."

Mr. P. B. Hall, a merchant and planter of Waynesboro, Ga., wrote Nov. 10, 1899, to Messrs Wilkins & Jones, owners of the Roundlap plant at that place: "I had one lot of 20 bales turned out by you, and without saying anything to anybody I put the samples on the market. All of the buyers in town bid upon same, thinking it square bale cotton. One of the buyers bid 5⅜ cents, another 5 7-16 cents, and another 5.95 cents, the latter remarking at the time that he was really bidding a full sixteenth more than the lot of cotton was worth. Without knowing what bids I had received—in fact I did not tell you that anybody had bid upon it—you offered and paid me 6.50 for the lot of cotton, which was a clear difference of 55 points in favor of the

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c best salve in the world. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by J. S. Johnson, jr., druggist.

Ring forth your triumphs, Easter bells,
Till earth shall learn the story;
Sweet is the news your music tells,
He lives, the King of Glory!
The Lamb, who was for sinners slain,
Comes forth from death in might to reign.

He lives the race of man to bless,
To banish care and sadness,
All griefs to heal, all wrongs redress,
To fill the earth with gladness.
The Lamb, who was for sinners slain,
Doth now for man's redemption reign!

Behold, from winter's thrall set free,
The lilies fair are springing;
Their radiant bloom, in holy glee
The waking earth is bringing,
A tribute to the Lamb once slain,
Now raised in endless might to reign.

Come forth ye souls, in glad new life,
This blessed Easter morning;
With bloom of love and beauty rife,
His grace be your adorning;
The Lamb, who once for you was slain,
Doth bid you rise with him and reign.

THE LITTLE HUMPBACKED GIRL.

A Child's Easter Story.

COME over here, said Olivia, and I will tell you an Easter tale. There was once a woman who had an only daughter that was very small and pale and altogether somewhat different from other children. When she took the little one out for a walk the people stood and looked at the child and whispered among themselves. When the little girl asked her mother why the people looked at her so strangely the mother always replied, "It is because you have on such a beautiful new dress." Thereupon the little one was contented. As soon, however, as they returned home the mother would clasp her little daughter in her arms, kiss her again and again and say: "You sweet little angel, what would become of you if I were to die? No one, not even your father, knows what a dear little angel you are!"

Some time afterward the mother became suddenly sick and she died on the ninth day. Thereupon the father of the little girl threw himself in despair on the deathbed and asked to be buried with his wife. His friends, however, spoke to him and comforted him, and so he left his wife's body, and a year later he took unto himself another wife, who was lovelier, younger and richer than his first wife, but by no means as good.

And from the day that her mother died the little girl spent her whole time from morning till evening seated at the window sill in the sitting room, since there was no one who would take her out for a walk. She had become even paler than before and she had not grown at all during the latter years.

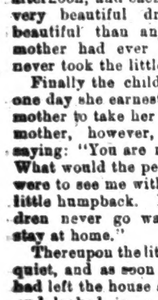
When her new mother came to the house she said to herself: "Now I will go out walking again in the city and on the beautiful promenades where the sun shines so brightly, where there are so many lovely shrubs and flowers and where there is such a crowd of handsomely dressed people." For she lived in a narrow little alley, in which the sun seldom shone, and when she sat on the window sill she saw only a little bit of the blue sky—a bit not larger than a pocket handkerchief. Her new mother went out nearly every day in the forenoon and afternoon, and each time she wore a very beautiful dress, much more beautiful than any dress the first mother had ever owned. But she never took the little girl with her.

Finally the child took heart, and one day she earnestly begged her new mother to take her out with her. The mother, however, refused bluntly, saying: "You are not smart enough. What would the people think if they were to see me with you? You are a little humpback. Humpbacked children never go walking, but always stay at home."

Thereupon the little girl became very quiet, and as soon as her new mother had left the house she got on a chair and looked in a mirror and saw that indeed she was humpbacked, badly humpbacked. Then she sat again on the window sill and looked out into the street and thought of her good old mother, who, in spite of her humpback, had taken her out walking every day. The she thought again of her hump.

"What is inside of it, I wonder!" she said to herself. "There must be something inside of such a hump as this is."

Many a strange fancy entered her little head and many an hour she wiled away in wondering why her back, instead of being straight like the backs of other children, was distorted out of all shape by such an ugly hump. The stories of fairies which her dear mother had told her came back to her memory, and in childish fashion she sometimes prayed that some good fairy would come and take away the burden that threatened to blight her whole life.



LOOKED IN THE MIRROR AND SAW SHE WAS HUMPBACKED.

Oh, if she were only like other children! Was there one of them who loved the sunshine and the flowers better than she, and yet among them all was there one who saw so little of the sunshine and the flowers as she did? From her seat by the window she saw the little ones playing in the narrow street, and as their frequent peals of merry laughter came to her ear, her question, "Why am I not like other children?" became ever more urgent.

So the summer passed, and when winter came the little girl was still pale and she had become so weak that she could no longer sit on her window sill, but was obliged to remain lying in bed, and, just when the snowdrops were beginning to peep above ground, the good old mother came to her one night and told her how glorious and beautiful it was in heaven.

The following morning the child was dead.

"Don't weep, father" said her new mother; "it is best for the poor child." And the girl's father answered no word, but simply nodded his head.

The little girl was buried, but on Easter morn an angel with large white wings like a swan flew down from heaven, seated himself beside the grave and knocked thereon, as though it were a door. And soon the little girl came forth from the grave and the angel told her that he had come to take her to her mother in heaven. Then the little girl asked in a trembling voice whether even humpbacked children could enter heaven. She could not conceive such a thing possible.

Yet the angel answered, "You dear, good child, you are no longer humpbacked," and with those words he passed his white hand over her back and the ugly old hump fell off like a great hollow shell, and this left her a transformed being.

And what was in it? Two beautiful white angel wings! The child spread them out, as though she had always known how to fly, and she flew with the angel through the dazzling sunlight up into the blue sky. On the loftiest seat in heaven sat her good old mother awaiting her with outstretched arms, and the child flew straight into her lap.—New York Herald.

VISIT OF THE ANGEL MOTHER.

EASTER MONDAY EGG-ROLLING.

Thousands of Children Spend a Joyous Day in the White House Grounds.

Clifford Howard, in writing of the annual Easter Monday egg-rolling in the White House grounds at Washington, gives a fine glimpse of the spot in the Ladies' Home Journal. "The chief points of attraction," he says, "are the mounds of hillocks that rise in gentle slope from the lawn in various parts of the grounds. Their sides are richly carpeted with soft, thick grass, and here it is that little children roll their eggs. They clamber up the hillside with their baskets, the little tots crawling up on hands and knees, and then turn and roll their eggs one by one down the green slope. But the children do not confine themselves to rolling eggs. Many of them take more pleasure in sitting about in groups and picking eggs with one another. This is done by striking two eggs together on their points. The one whose egg is broken in this encounter is the loser and gives up his egg to the other. This game is particularly enjoyed by the colored children, for it gives them a good opportunity and a good excuse to eat eggs, and there is nothing they like better. Preparatory to an encounter each little fellow tests the hardness of his egg by knocking it against his teeth. If it can stand this test it is considered a good one for picking, and the owner sallies forth with a broad grin, confident of success. The boy who owns a goose egg or a turkey egg is a prince among his fellows. Occasionally such a boy appears. In all probability his shoes are torn, his clothes are patched and his woolly head is adorned with an antiquated moth-eaten fur cap. But he could be no prouder nor command greater respect if he were adorned with regal robes. He is immediately surrounded and followed wherever he goes by a band of admirers, who adopt him as their champion and defy anybody to pick an egg with him."

Origin of Easter Rabbits.

One of the quaint and interesting features of our modern Easter carniva is the appearance in shop windows, side by side with the emblematic colored egg, of a pert tall-eared rabbit, and those who cannot understand why bunny should have a place in our Easter decorations shrug their shoulders and think it a trick to please the children. But the legend of the Easter rabbit is one of the oldest in mythology, and is mentioned in the early folklore of South Germany. Originally, it appears, the rabbit was a bird, which the ancient Teutonic goddess Ostara—goddess of the east or of spring—transformed into a quadruped. For this reason the rabbit or hare is grateful, and in remembrance of its former condition as a bird and as a swift messenger of spring, and of the goddess whom it served, is able to lay colored Easter eggs on her festival in the spring time, the colors illustrating the theory that when it was a bird the rabbit laid colored eggs, and an egg has always been a symbol of the resurrection, and, therefore, used as an illustration at Easter.

To Color Easter Eggs.

Fill a large kettle with cold water, drop in the eggs and place them upon the stove. When the water has boiled for ten minutes remove them. By using cold water they heat gradually and are not apt to crack. Several days before this process put a little of these dyes into small bottles and fill them up with water: Eosin pink, yellow, green, blue, scarlet, violet and orange. A spoonful of yellow dye is first placed in a small dish; roll a warm egg over and over in it and when it is evenly dyed place it upon a paper to dry. When all the yellow eggs that are wanted are secured, use another dye in the same manner. Pretty baskets for the eggs are made by covering pasteboard shapes with white cotton batting and tying with narrow ribbon bows. The light-colored eggs may be finished with inscriptions in darker colors or ornamented with bronze or gold powder. The baskets may be sprinkled with metallic flitter, which adds to their effectiveness.

Hot Cross Buns.

Hot cross buns, so generally eaten on Good Friday, have many superstitions connected with them. They are kept by the English peasantry from one year to the next, being partaken of whenever sickness afflicts the family or the herds and being considered a sovereign remedy. Another legend says that if friends or lovers stand inside the church doors before matins on Good Friday and break a hot cross bun, and each take a half as long as they keep the pledge no enemy can come between them and their love will increase.

Let Husbands Rejoice.

Who says the year 1900 isn't a jubilee year? It is now announced that Easter bonnets this spring will be cheaper than ever before.

Keeping Easter in Cuba.

THOSE of us who know Easter only in our cold and prosaic North can have little conception of the significance and solemnity of passion week in countries where a hotter sun has infused intenser warmth into the blood. Thomas H. Graham gives an interesting description of Easter as observed in Santiago and other Cuban cities.

"During the entire week," he says, "all social gaiety is suspended; even business assumes a quieter aspect, but the distinctive celebrations do not begin until Holy Thursday. On that day high mass is broken off in the middle, and a procession of priests carries an image of the Christ—the 'Ecce Homo'—to the cathedral. In towns where there is no cathedral some church is selected, and there the image, life size and robed in white, is carried in solemn state, the entire populace joining the procession. This ceremony commemorates the journey to Pilate's judgment hall. The image is left in the church and the people disperse in silence. Then the devout begin the ceremony of the pilgrimage. That is, they visit fourteen churches, indicative of the fourteen stations of the cross, saying prayers at every station.

"Good Friday is something to be remembered. The sun rises on a city plunged in absolute stillness—stillness of the grave. The very air is funeral. In the afternoon the procession of the Holy Virgin takes place. This is really the most striking of all the ceremonials. The sacred image, robed in black, is carried by priests and is followed by the eighteen canons of the church in singular costume, all black. On their heads they wear canonical black caps fully two and a half feet in height, and their robes have trains sixteen or eighteen feet long. Every canon is followed by an acolyte, who carries his train. Then comes the populace, men and women, still in black, all carrying lighted candles. The scene is curiously medieval and impressive.

"Through the entire day no bells have been rung. Then comes the 'Saturday of glory,' with its wonderful and dramatic change. At 10 o'clock in the morning all the church bells ring out joyfully, and the 'vigil' is ended. Everywhere rejoicing takes the place of mourning. Easter Sunday is a day of music and gladness."

FORTUNES AS TOLD IN EGGS.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

All Nature Joins in Singing His Praises—Everything Bright and Beautiful Suggests Him—Power of the Hymn as a Cradle Song is Remarkable.

(Copyright 1900.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In this discourse Dr. Talmage shows how Christ brings harmony and melody into every life that He enters; text Psalm cxviii. 14, "The Lord is my strength and song."

The most fascinating theme for a heart properly attuned is the Saviour. There is something in the morning light to suggest Him and something in the evening star low to speak His praise. The flower proclaims Him, the stars shine Him, the cascade proclaims Him, all the voices of nature chant Him. Whatever is grand, bright and beautiful, it you only listen to it, will speak His praise. So when in the summer time I pluck a flower, I think of Him who is "the Rose of Sharon and the Lily of the Valley." When I see in the fields a lamb, I say, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." Whom, in very hot weather, I come under a projecting cliff, I say:

Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee!

Over the old fashioned pulpit there was a sounding board. The voice of the minister rose to the sounding board and then was struck back again upon the ears of the people. And so the 10,000 voices of earth rising up find the heavens a sounding board which strikes back to the ear of all the nations the praises of Christ. The heavens tell his glory, and the earth shows his handiwork. The Bible thrills with one great story of redemption. Upon a blasted and fated paradise it poured the light of glorious restoration. It looked upon Abraham from the ram caught in the thicket. It spoke in the bleating of the herds driven down to Jerusalem for sacrifice. It put in flute pathos into the speech of one with fishermen. It lifted Paul into the third heaven, and it broke upon the ear of St. John with the brazen trumpets and the doxology of the elders and the rushing wings of the seraphim.

Instead of waiting until you get sick and worn out before you sing the praise of Christ, while your heart is happiest and your step is lightest and your fortunes smile and your pathway blossoms and the overarching heavens drop upon you their benediction, speak the praises of Jesus.

The old Greek orators, when they saw their audiences inattentive and slumbering, had one word with which they would rouse them up to the greatest enthusiasm. In the midst of their orations they would stop and cry out "Marathon!" and the people's enthusiasm would be unbounded. My hearers, though you may have been borne down with sin and though trouble and trials and temptation may have come upon you and you feel to-day hardly like looking up, methinks there is one grand, royal, imperial word that ought to rouse your soul to infinite rejoicing, and that word is "Jesus!"

Taking the suggestion of the text, I shall speak to you of Christ our Song. I remark, in the first place, that Christ ought to be the cradle song. What our mothers sang to us when they put us to sleep is singing yet. We may have forgotten the words, but they went into the liber of our [illegible] and will forever be a part of it. It is not so much what you formally teach your children as what you sing to them. A hymn has wings and can fly everywhither. One hundred and fifty years after you are dead and "Old Mortality" has worn out his chisel recutting your name on the tombstone your great-grandchildren will be singing the song which last night you sang to your little ones gathered about your knee. There is a place in Switzerland where, if you distinctly utter your voice, there come back ten or fifteen distinct echoes, and every Christian song sung by a mother in the ear of her child shall have 10,000 echoes coming back from all the gates of heaven. Oh, if mothers only knew the power of this sacred spell how much oftener the little ones would be gathered and all our homes would chime with the songs of Jesus!

We want some counteracting influence upon our children. The very moment your child steps into the street he steps into the path of temptation. There are foul-mouthed children who would like to besoil your little ones. It will not do to keep your boys and girls in the house and make them house plants. They must have fresh air and recreation. God save your children from the scathing, blasting, damning influence of the street! I know of no counteracting influence but the power of Christian culture and example. Hold before your little ones the pure life of Jesus. Let that name be the word that shall exorcise evil from their hearts. Give to your instruction all the fascination of music morning, noon and night. Let it be Jesus, the cradle song. This is important if your children grow up, but perhaps they may not. Their pathway may be short. Jesus may be wanting that child. Then there will be a soundless step in the dwelling, and the youthful pulse will begin to flutter, and the little hands will be lifted for help. You cannot help. And a great agony will pinch at your heart, and the cradle will be empty, and the nursery will be empty, and the world will be empty, and your soul will be empty. No little feet standing on the stairs. No toys scattered on the carpet. No quick following from room to room. No strange and wondering questions. No upturned face, with languing blue eyes, come for a kiss, but only a grave and a wreath of white blossoms on the top of it and bitter desolation and a sighing at nightfall, with no one to put to bed. The heavenly Shepherd will take that lamb safely, anyhow, whether you have been faithful or unfaithful. But would it not have been pleasanter if you could have heard from those lips the praises of Christ? I never read anything more beautiful than this about a child's departure. The account said, "She folded her hands, kissed her mother good-by, sang her hymn, turned her face to the wall, said her little prayer and then died."

I speak to you again of Jesus as the night song. Job speaks of Him who giveth songs in the night. John Welch, the old Scotch minister used to put a plaid across his bed on cold nights, and some one asked him why he put it there. He said: "Oh, sometimes in the night I want to sing the praise of Jesus and to get down and pray, then I just take that plaid and wrap it around me to keep me from the cold." Songs in the night! Night of trouble has come down upon many of you. Commercial losses put out one star, slanderous abuse puts out another star. Domestic bereavement has put out a thousand lights, and gloom has been added to gloom and chill to chill and sting to sting, and one midnight has seemed to borrow the fold from another midnight to wrap itself in more unbearable darkness, but Christ has spoken peace to your heart, and you sing:

Jesus, lover of my soul,
Let me to Thy bosom fly,
While the billows near me roll,
While the tempest still is high,
Hide me, O my Saviour! Hide
Till the storm of life is past,
Safe into the haven guide;
Oh, receive my soul at last.

Songs in the night! Songs in the night! For the sick, who have no one to turn the hot pillow, no one to put the taper on the stand, no one to put ice on the temples or pour out the soothing anodyne or utter one cheerful word—yet songs in the night! For the poor, who freeze in the winter's cold and swelter in the summer's heat and munch the hard crusts that bleed the sore gums and shiver under blankets that cannot any longer be patched and tremble because rent day is come and they may be set out on the sidewalk and looking into the starved faces of the child and seeing death there, coming and saying in the [illegible] famished ones, "O, gone up!" Yet songs in the night! For [illegible] get the back pay of the "sharpshooters" and last help she will [illegible] comfortable home turning back from [illegible] and the pale cheek and refusing all re[illegible] night! Songs in the night! [illegible] up the gates of [illegible] rises from the [illegible] the king in [illegible] pearly [illegible] of them [illegible] condemned [illegible] some [illegible] night! [illegible] one [illegible] last [illegible] woman [illegible] night! [illegible] Moravian [illegible] house and [illegible] and high [illegible] an [illegible] graves [illegible] into the woods, the clamor [illegible] sang it and the [illegible] dren in the [illegible] chairs in [illegible] with the [illegible] shouted [illegible] and mariners [illegible] few days [illegible] blast of the sea. One theme for the song, Jesus for the [illegible] the baptismal [illegible] mental [illegible] But the day has [illegible] swift wheels [illegible] churches are [illegible] again setting [illegible] families coming [illegible] must have one [illegible] we praise. [illegible] be Jesus, everything [illegible] We must have [illegible] it be children? Again [illegible] what shall it be? [illegible] what shall it be [illegible]

I say on a more [illegible] song. The very [illegible] get tired; the strongest [illegible] get weary, and the [illegible] ly do not sing [illegible] of God we will [illegible] sing the praises [illegible] never to weary [illegible] songs that are [illegible] the house circle [illegible] start the tears [illegible] itself and [illegible] has stopped, [illegible] which, long after [illegible] tongue has ceased [illegible] air. Well, it will [illegible] heaven, all the [illegible] sang with us on the [illegible] earth shall join [illegible]

Jerusalem, my [illegible]
Name ever dear to [illegible]
When shall my labors [illegible]
In joy and I peace in [illegible]

On earth we sang harvest [illegible] wheat came into the barns [illegible] were filled. You know the [illegible] time on a farm as when the [illegible] in and so in heaven it will [illegible] song on the part of those [illegible] sowed in tears and reaped [illegible] your heart, you [illegible] the sheaves come in [illegible] through the heavens, and [illegible] down the hills crying [illegible] Harvest home!

The Christian singers [illegible] all ages will be there. [illegible] Thomas Hastings will be [illegible] Mason will be there. Beethoven will be there. Mozart will be there. They will bring cymbals and the trumpets and the [illegible] temples will be there. The 200 singers [illegible] that day will be there.

Patriarchs who [illegible] floors, shepherds [illegible] dean hills, prophets who [illegible] beards and coarse apparel, [illegible] woe against ancient [illegible] meet the more recent martyrs [illegible] up with leaping colors of [illegible] will speak of the Jesus [illegible] prophesied and others [illegible] whom they died.

Oh, what a song! It [illegible] Patmos, it came to Christ [illegible] dropped to Bethany in the [illegible] times that song has come [illegible] hans, for I really [illegible] breaks over the continents [illegible]

A Christian woman [illegible] ter of the Gospel was dying [illegible] age near the old church [illegible] day night the choir used to [illegible] rehearse for the following [illegible] she said: "How strangely [illegible] rehearses to-night. They [illegible] hearing there for an hour [illegible] some one about her, the [illegible] hearing to-night. [illegible] know they are. I hear them [illegible] very sweetly they sing."

Now, it was not a choir [illegible] heard, but the choir of [illegible] that Jesus sometimes sets [illegible] heaven, and a passage [illegible] greets our ears. The [illegible] strike such a tremendous [illegible] of jasper cannot hold it.

I wonder—and this is a [illegible] been asking myself [illegible] you sing that song? Will [illegible] unless our sins are pardoned [illegible] now to sing the praises of [illegible] never sing it there.

The first great [illegible] tended was in New York, [illegible] the Crystal palace and [illegible] of singers and hundreds of [illegible] instruments. Some of you [illegible] that occasion. It was the [illegible] kind at which I was present, [illegible] never forget it. I was [illegible] ing and with the [illegible] great harmony, beating the [illegible] to the overwhelming [illegible]

But, oh, the grander song [illegible] shall come from the East [illegible] West and from the North [illegible] South, "a great multitude [illegible] number" into the temple of [illegible] beyond! host, rank beyond [illegible] above gallery, and [illegible] that great host to conquer [illegible] with His wounded hands and [illegible] feet! Like the voice of [illegible] the voice of mighty [illegible] shall cry: "Worthy is the [illegible] slain to receive blessing and [illegible] honor and glory and power, [illegible] end. Amen and Amen!"

Oh, if my ear shall hear [illegible] sounds may I hear that! [illegible] glad assemblage, may I join [illegible]

I was reading of the battle [illegible] in which Henry V. figured, [illegible] after the battle was won, [illegible] the king wanted to address [illegible] interposition, and he ordered [illegible] to read the Psalm of David [illegible] came to the words, "Not [illegible] but to Thy name be the [illegible] dismounted, and all the [illegible] mounted, and all the great [illegible] and men, threw themselves [illegible]

Oh, at the story of the Saviour's deliverance [illegible] prostrate ourselves before [illegible] hosts of earth and hosts of [illegible] upon our faces and cry: [illegible] not unto us, but unto Thy [illegible] glory!"

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR APRIL 15.

Subject: The Daughter of Jairus Raised, Mark v., 22-24; 35-43—Golden Text, Mark v., 36—Memory Verses, 39-42—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

22. "One of the rules of the synagogue." There were two principal officers of the synagogue. "Fell at His feet." This was giving Jesus great honor.

23. "Besought Him greatly." Jairus must have been well acquainted with Jesus. It was with the consent and invitation of this ruler that Jesus had frequently spoken in the synagogue. Jairus was in earnest now; 1. The case was an important one. 2. He knew that he could obtain help from no one else. Christ was his only hope. It is well for us to be thus shut in with God; such experiences bring us to our knees in deep humility. "My little daughter." An only daughter twelve years of age. "At the point of death." Why had he waited so long? Why do we wait so long before going to Christ? "Lay thy hands on her." Christ could heal either with or without being in personal contact with the disease, but ordinarily He touched those whom He healed. This is still the divine arrangement. Is any sick among you? there is ample provision made. Jas. 5:14, 15. "She shall live." Jairus had faith. He had seen Jesus perform miracles many times, and he believed in His ability to heal.

24. "Jesus went with him." Jesus is always ready to go to the assistance of those who are suffering. "Much people." Great opposition had lately been stirred up in Capernaum by the ecclesiastical authorities, and the people had come together to see what He would do. There was general excitement.

35. "While He yet spake." After Jesus had started to go with the ruler a woman, who for twelve years had been seriously ill, came in the crowd behind Him and touched His garment. Jesus turned and spoke to her and healed her. While He yet spake to this woman the messenger came from the ruler's house. "Thy daughter is dead." The servant who brought this news had no idea of Christ's ability to raise from the dead. If Christ had been as other physicians it would then have been too late. But as in the case of Lazarus, so now, Jesus did not appear to hasten. God alone understands His own purposes.

36. "Heard the word." The news was not carried to Jesus directly, but He heard it. "Be not afraid." Fear would destroy His faith. This is a severe test; from a human standpoint the case is hopeless. Jairus might have been in doubt about asking Jesus to go farther. "Only believe." God sometimes deprives us of all other sources of help, and thus draws us to Himself. Faith had to be called out, tried, purified, and so perfected. The thing sought was, humanly speaking, unattainable, and the means employed seemingly powerless, and yet the results were obtained through the power of Christ, and by the peculiar discipline to which faith was subjected.

37. "Save Peter, and James, and John." A competent number to be witnesses of the miracle, but not so many that His taking them might look like vainglory. "The brother of James." John is thus described because when Mark wrote this gospel, soon after our Lord's ascension, the memory of James, lately beheaded, was so fresh, that his name was more known than that of John himself.

38. "Seeth the tumult." They were already making preparations for a great funeral. "That wept and wailed greatly." Both real and hired mourners, wailing women and musicians. It is a custom still prevailing in the East to hire wailing women. Unless the body was embalmed the burial would take place almost immediately. In Jerusalem to-day burial is not generally delayed more than three or four hours.

39. "Why make ye this ado, and weep." Christianity moderates our grief, and shows us a Father's hand holding the rod. This must have been very distressing to Jesus. The apostle tells us to sorrow not as those which have no hope. 1 Thess. 4:13. Pompous funeral ceremonies are ridiculous in themselves and entirely opposed to the spirit and simplicity of the religion of Christ. "Not dead, but asleep." She is not dead so as to continue under the power of death, but shall be raised from it as a person from natural sleep. There are two views taken of this case. The human view is, The child is dead; the divine view is, The child is asleep. Sleep is the image of death.

40. "Laughed him to scorn." Evidently those around Jairus shared not his faith, but all the greater was the faith of Jairus. "Had put them all out." Those who scorn the Lord and His benefits were not deemed worthy to witness His miracles. "The father and the mother." It was entirely proper that the parents of the child should be present, and then He desired to comfort them and strengthen their faith. "Entereth in where the damsel was lying." Jesus could have raised her without being present, but if we assist in bringing souls dead in sin to life we will have to go where they are. Francis Murphy said to the ministers of a certain large city, "The reason why you gentlemen fail to reach people is because you do not go where they are. It is not enough, when you see the drunkard in the ditch, to draw your broadcloth around you and say 'poor fellow;' you must take off your coat and get right down where he is and help him up. You will have to touch people in order to save them."

41. "Talitha-cumi." Damsel, arise. This was a common term of endearment used by loving mothers to wake their children. The words seem to tell us that in the glad waking, on the resurrection morning, there will be nothing startling, or unnatural, but "the old familiar love which has blessed us here will greet us there."

42. "With a great astonishment." They knew it was supernatural. There is nothing to show, however, that it was the means of causing saving faith to spring up in any heart. If people will not be led to a holy life through God's word and the preaching of gospel truth, neither would they be persuaded "though one rose from the dead."

43. "That no man should know it." The reasons for this were, 1. That He might prevent a great concourse of people. 2. It would further enrage the scribes and Pharisees. 3. Christ's miracles were intended to aid, not to supersede faith. 4. He desired to make disciples, and direct the people to His teaching. 5. It might excite their carnal and selfish expectations. It was not His miracles but Himself that they needed. "Given her to eat." She was raised not only to life but to health. Although raised by divine power yet life was to be maintained by the ordinary means. It is tempting God to resort to supernatural means when the ordinary means can be used.

TEACHINGS.—If we desire to receive from God we must, 1. Come to Him. 2. Humble ourselves before Him. 3. Be in earnest. 4. Ask in faith.

The death of the Marquis of Queensbery affords a fresh illustration of the eccentricities of fame. The prize-ring rules known by his name throughout the world he framed for the generous school-boy fights, which Thomas Hughes has made immortal. Of the professional "ring" and its followers he knew little and cared less. It is said, indeed, that he saw only two prize-fights during his life, and came away from them disgusted with the spectacle.

"NEW LEAVES" WET BLANKETS

Make Themselves and Everybody Around Them Unhappy.

Now comes the melancholy time of year when everyone is making resolutions not to do the things they like best to do, and the gloom and discontent and general all-around pessimism attendant upon such heroics, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. "It's all very well to resolve not to smoke if it's bad for the health and pocket," said a pretty girl at a party the other evening. "But when a man resolves not to smoke he ought also to resolve not to look funereal over it, and make all his friends yearn to supply him with pipes and cigars the instant he puts his gloomy face in the door. It's bad enough to dance with men who tell you frankly that parties are bores and that they've only come to oblige Mrs. C., but to have to sit and talk to a man whose mind is in the clouds, whose nerves are in a jangle, and whose face suggests the 'knight of the rueful countenance'—and all on account of some ascetic resolution—is too great a tribute to pay to the new year, and I, for one, cross reformed smokers and new leaves generally off my list of nice men. What a cruel and immoral proceeding. Think of Billy Strongly. Now, there's a new leaf who looks jolly and gay, and he swore by the bunch of mistletoe at Mrs. Van Dusen's ball that he wasn't going to stay up till 1 o'clock a single night this season. Oh, I don't mind Billy Van Dusen. He likes 'Cinderellas' any way, and he won't keep his resolution long enough to make anybody unhappy. When it begins to bore him and his friends, why, he'll just break it and people will say, 'How like Billy.' It's the stern, ascetic men who do things they don't want to do because they want to do them, and for no other reason; that I object to. Do you follow me?" "Oh, yes," faintly. "So, if you really intend to read Mr. Howells and Thomas Hardy all winter and never go to the theater to see anything gayer than Duse, why, just let me know. I am frank and I try to be fair. But I don't like unhappy, strong-minded persons. If it hurts to be good, why, just let me know, that's all."

THESE ARE SWELL DOGS.

How Fashionable Pets Are Costumed in Paris.

Dog tailors have a good time in Paris. Under the impression that nature has not provided the right kind of coat for a dog, the dog lovers—or fashion lovers—of Paris has fostered a new industry, the providing of clothing for ladies' pets. Some very interesting and suggestive facts about this industry are collected by Good Words. "Our clients belong to the very highest classes of society," said one of these Parisian dog tailors. "We recently had a very remunerative order from the daughter of a diplomat in Paris for a set of gala clothes for her dog to match the liveries of her father's lackeys. She was about to be married, and as she entered the residence after the ceremony, her three dogs were to be waiting for her at the top of the grand staircase. They were to be dressed in their liveries, and each was to have a bouquet of orange blossoms attached to its collar." Even this was exceeded by another bride, who ordered for each of her half dozen dogs a regular bridesmaid's costume of white faille embroidered with lace and garlanded with orange blossoms. White satin slippers were also made to measure for each four-footed pet. One step further have these lovers of fashion gone in making their dogs an excuse for fresh display. Sets of fine linen must now be provided for the society dog. No self-respecting animal would think of possessing less than half a dozen undergarments of fine lawn, if he is in health, and of silk or surah if he is subject to colds. A dozen embroidered cambric handkerchiefs must be added to his equipment if he is troubled with watery eyes. A further trial awaits him in the shape of boots of leather or rubber, as the case may be Bracelets and tie-pins, perfumery and fancy soaps, ivory combs and brushes make up the dog's toilet necessaries. Surely if a fashionable Parisian dog could speak, he would explain that his foolish friends lead him the life of a dog in the worst sense.

It is said that of the 4,000 lawyers in the city of Chicago, only about 400 are making more than expenses.

A geological party recently discovered in a glacier of the Rocky mountains in Montana, a large quantity of grasshoppers buried in the ice. It is supposed that when the prairie grasshoppers go north and cross this glacier, many of them succumb to the cold and are entombed in the ice. The glacier has been named for the grasshoppers.

Somebody, very learned, once took the trouble of weighing the brains of a number of animals, and found that the brain of a tame rabbit weighed less for its size than the brain of any other known creature—much less than that of a wild rabbit.

TRACED BY FINGER PRINTS.

Remarkable Cases in Which Criminals Were Thus Detected.

The fiasco of Berlin in the recent Dreyfus trial at Rennes gives some additional interest to the discussion on finger prints that took place at the latest meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Galton read a paper on the finger-prints of young children, in which he maintained that these prints, if properly taken, would suffice for after-identification by an expert. The grave defect in the Bertillon system is its reliance upon a system of measurements—a defect that does not exist, it is claimed, in the more accurate system of taking prints. At the same meeting Mr. E. R. Henry, inspector general of police in Bengal, gave a demonstration with a magnifying lantern of this same method. He claimed that the "personal equation," which vitiates results in the Bertillon system of anthropometry, is entirely eliminated in the printing method. Finger-prints, being absolute impressions taken from the body, are not so uncertain as a set of measurements usually are. The method described by Inspector General Henry is as follows: A thin film of printers' ink is spread over a piece of tin, and each finger in turn is pressed on the film and then pressed on paper, by which means a clear impression is secured. Mr. Henry gave some remarkable illustrations of cases in which criminals had been identified by their finger-prints—one by finger-marks on the soft paint of a window sill, and another by blood marks made by the fingers on the covers of a book. In consequence of these remarkable facts, the legislature in India had amended the law of evidence. With such respectable authority to vouch for it, this method may yet rise in esteem in American courts of justice. English prison officials are not, as a class, likely to become enamored of any mere theoretical scheme—a reproach to which the French will possibly be exposed by the extravagant demonstration made by Bertillon. At any rate, this system of identification by means of finger-prints seems worthy of further experimental trial, and would be a good field for some of our prison officials to utilize in order to demonstrate that they take an interest in the science of criminology.—Medical Journal.

By a recent invention of a young Danish engineer, it is possible to connect a phonograph with a telephone in such a manner that the former becomes available for receiving the record of the speaker, in case the individual with whom he desires to communicate is not at hand. This record will reproduce the words of the speaker at any time it is desired. The phonograph is said to be quite different from Edison's, and much less complicated. Instead of the wax roller, a steel band is used, and the record can be wiped off in the same manner a chalk drawing is removed from a slate.

FAIR WARNING!

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

is a scientific prescription, carefully prepared from the purest and best ingredients, consequently the most costly cough medicine on the market. In buying Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25 cents than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less.

Therefore some druggists are cunningly persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit.

MAN ON THE CORNER

the Sights He Saw and Some He Saw Not.

ngs are drawing closer and closer in our county politics and we are confronted with a host of candidates. By no means suppose every man in the county is acquainted with the names and pretensions of the Populist candidates, which will be announced next Saturday next, it is already well known who are candidates of the Democratic ot my place to discuss the characteristics of either candidates—that I consider is prerogative, my friends, and you are well able to judge the men as I am. Like you, I have personal preferences and political preferences, and while I am no extremist in any direction I believe that both parties have put up some mighty good men. In fact there are two points as regards candidates. A man may be a real good man in his characteristics, may even be a great man as a candidate, and a mighty poor man as the leader of a party. That is a question for the party to determine.

Let us look at the situation in the campaign. The two parties have nominated their men, and we have a gentleman going ahead in the interest of either party. Let us put the possibilities of the Democrats and the independents. I believe there is about 28-hundred registered voters in this county. At the Populist primary which expressed their choice; the Democratic primary some 1,500 turned out, so I am informed that there is at least 15-hundred who have not obligated themselves to either party, which is very comforting to the independent gentleman.

There is no denying the fact that there is a considerable majority of Democrats for several years past in the county. The Populists. Is there any one to thank there has been a change of sentiment? Have the Populists come in power because everyone has been well pleased with the administration of the county affairs? Never was a county in a better financial condition than it is at present time; many improvements have been made, and every dollar that has been paid for. The people look the whole world over and say that it owes not any man a dollar.

ANNOUNCEMENT

FOR SHERIFF

We are authorized to announce [illegible] as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the will of the Democratic party. We are authorized to announce [illegible] as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county, subject to the will of the Democratic party.

South Lily

We are having plenty of rain in this vicinity, which is making everything look fine; corn is up to a good stand, some have planted cotton, which are partly getting replanted. Mr. Geo. Calloway has opened a storehouse at Mulberry Gap.

There is some talk of changing the mail route to go from Lily to Mulberry instead of Maplesville.

Little Cora Wright is very sick.

We hope the Sunday-school at Mulberry will be a success and a great benefit to all.

Some of the Democrats say it will be no trouble to elect their nominees in August. I don't guess it will if the Populists get votes enough, but in a party there is want of harmony there is no hope for success in this county.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

Jemison.

The health of community fairly good, after smallpox, measles, and mumps assertain their rights so long; measles have left Mr. L. H. Reynolds' children in feble condition.

Our gardens are nice considering the changeable weather.

Sitting by our window trying to write, will be a failure, we are so delighted with the gentle rain, the opening buds, the singing birds, each vieing with the other in beautious splendor, this Fastes Monday morning.

Our daughter, Mrs. Frank Gist, and children, are spending a while withus before joining her husband in Washington, where he is engaged in the Census Bureau department.

Hours later, 'ere these lines we send away, the beating rains and the rumbling thunder make us sad.

A Card of Thanks.

Thorsby, Ala., Apr. 11, 1900

Editor BANNER—Please allow us space in your valuable paper to express our gratitude to our many friends of this community and elsewhere, for their assistance and liberal contributions While our house, and almost everyihing in, it was consumed by the flames on the 6th inst., this kindness and liberality on the part of our friends, will enable us to rebuild again and enjoy our family circles at the old home. Again returning our sincere thanks to our many friends,

We are very respectfully,
WM. MARTIN and family.

South Lily.

We are having plenty of polities in this vicinity: wheat crops are looking fine; corn is coming up; some have planted cotton, others are partly getting ready to plant.

Mr Geo. Calloway is building a storehouse at Mulberry cross roads.

There is some talk of changing the mail route to go from Randolph instead of Maplesville.

Little Cora Wright is still sick.

We hope the Sunday-school at Mulberry will be a good one and a benefit to all.

Some of the Dems around here say it will be no trouble to elect their nominees in August, and I don't guess it will if they can get votes enough, but in the midst of plenty there is want and the Dems are in the midst of plenty of Pops in this county. J. E. D.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Thorsby, April 13, 1900

Editor Banner. Please allow me space in the columns of your welcome paper to express my thanks and appreciations to the people, for nominating me for their County Superintendent. Gentlemen, I appreciate the honor conferred and also the responsible duties of the office, and I assure you that I shall spair no pains in performing those duties. If elected I will devote a portion of my time in visiting the schools of the county, and do all that I can to get the people to prepare more comfortable and accommodating school-houses, and better equip them for their children; for this in my opinion is one of the hindering causes to education in rural schools. I hope to visit all the schools in the county, and find out the true condition of them and the work that is being done.

A word to the candidates who were not nominated. I think it so commendable in you gentlemen, for coming to the front and promising your hearty support to the ticket nominated. I know the unpleasantness of being defeated, but you will do just what I did. You will do all that you can to elect your ticket. This is not the last election. There will be another ere long and your time is just ahead no doubt. I think we have everything at wich to be encouraged, and confidently believe that we will roll up a majority of not less than one thousand in the August election.

Very truly,
J. W. MOORE

Editor BANNER—The people of my party have spoken, and I am willing and stand ready, with the lights before me at present, to abide the result. I thank all friends of mine, personal and political, for their support and influence in my race for Sheriff. For those who have been treacherous to my cause, I have no words of censure, but I leave them to settle with their own conscience.

To the letter dated Vick, Bibb county, Ala., Apl. 9, printed on the eve of election, I have no reply as it deserves none.

With no ill feeling toward any of my competitors, and with congratulations to the successful man, I am with best wishes for the prosperity of the county

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs Geo. F. Parsons & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I bought a bottle. I was soon, relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this remedy to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." For sale by Clanton drug company, and D. THE COTTON CROP.

A New Process to Be Applied in Taking the Twelfth Census.

There is probably no single fact, the knowledge of which is more interesting and important to the southern people than the amount of the cotton crop. The statistical methods of ascertaining the magnitude of the cotton crop are unsatisfactory.

There is one method of ascertaining the amount of crop exactly, for there is one process, that of ginning, to which all cotton for any commercial or industrial use whatever must be subjected. If one could obtain from the cotton gins of the country reports of the amount of the staple they have turned out, the precise aggregate of the whole crop would be known. It is proposed to apply this process in taking the twelfth census, the field work of which is to begin on the first of June. An expert special agent has been appointed whose sole duty will be to obtain returns from all the ginning and baling establishments in the cotton growing region. No ginnery is too small or insignificant to be visited and asked for a return.

A BAILEY LANDSLIDE.

Carried Five Counties in Primaries Last Saturday.

The warmest political contest known in Texas for many years is now under way in the struggle between United States Senator Horace Chilton for re-election and Congressman J. W. Bailey to succeed him. Hill, Hunt, Bastrop, Washington and Mills counties held primaries Saturday. The greatest interest centered in the two big counties of Hill and Hunt. The latter is in Chilton's home and congressional district.

Bulletins from all the counties indicate that Bailey has carried everything. One feature of the primaries is that the populists have returned almost bodily to the democratic party. The result of the primaries for United States senator to date is: For Bailey, Wise, Montague, Shackelford, Duval, Hunt, Hill and Washington counties, and probably Bastrop and Mills, having approximately eleven votes. For Chilton, Nueces and Upshur.

KENTUCKY FIGHT.

Dr. Joseph K. Parker Shot and Killed Veto A. Antenalla.

In a fight with revolvers at Lexington, Ky., Dr. Joseph K. Parker shot and killed Veto A. Antenalla. Dr. Parker had been in Lexington for some years and was well known. Antenalla was a tailor and resided three doors from Dr. Parker's home. The men were not friends, and when Antenalla declared in the grocery that, excepting the grocery keeper, not a man on the street would tell the truth, Dr. Parker took exceptions to the remark. They first fought with their fists. Dr. Parker was arrested, and is in jail.

Col. McClure Has Accepted.

Col. A. A. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, has wired to Secretary N. F. Thompson his acceptance of an invitation to address the Southern Industrial convention at Chattanooga during the first day's session May 15. Colonel McClure will speak on "The Press of the South and Its Relation to the Future of the South."

Millionaire Killed.

Rufus Wright, the millionaire manufacturer of rubber tires, who was shot during a scuffle for the possession of a revolver in the apartments of Mrs. Louisa Lottridge at the Leland Hotel, Chicago, died Sunday from the effects of the wound.

After Information.

At the beginning of Saturday's session of the senate Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, offered and secured the adoption of a resolution requiring the attorney general to transmit to the senate all papers filed in the Union Pacific railroad case and to inform the senate why the Union Pacific road received in settlement of the case $4,600,000, and the United States only about $800,000.

Mules for British.

The steamship Sahara cleared New Orleans Saturday for Cape Town, Africa, with 1,000 mules.

The war department reports that there are now 10,343,152 American citizens eligible for military duty. These figures are enough to make the entire European menagerie pause and ponder before tackling.

SUMMARY OF STATE NEWS

Current Topics of Interest Gleaned From all Parts of Alabama.

TWO FARMERS FIGHT WITH KNIVES

Florence Wants Free Delivery System. Discussion of Race Problem. Accident to a Child. Briefly Noted.

Increase in Postoffice Receipts.

The receipts of the Birmingham postoffice for the the quarter ending March 31, 1900, amounted to $28,142 33, against $20,782 37 for the same period of last year, showing an increase of $7,259 96, or 35 per cent.

Goat and Gun and Child.

At Hoke's Bluff John Funderberg's little child got hold of a loaded gun in some manner and had it out doors playing. A pet goat standing near by butted the child over and discharged the gun. The load took effect in the child's leg, producing a very dangerous wound.

A Freight Collision.

The south-bound local freight and a work train came into collision Saturday on the Mobile division of the Southern railway, near Thomasville, Ala., both locomotives being ruined and a fireman hurt. The wreck is said to have been caused by an attempt to work freight trains on time card, in the absence of qualified operators, the telegraphic employes being on a strike.

For Discussion of Race Problem.

Final preparations for the Inter-State Conference in Montgomery May 8, 9 and 10 for the discussion of race problems are rapidly taking shape. The conference is to be held under the auspices of the Southern society for the promotion of the study of race conditions and problems in the south—a society now having a distinguished membership of representatives from every southern state.

Florence Wants Free Delivery System.

A movement has been started in Florence to securee a free postal delivery system for that city, and petitions are being signed to the postmaster-general asking him to investigate the needs of the system at once. The population of Florence has increased from 6,000 in the height of the boom days in 1890, to more than 9,000 at present, and is increasing very rapidly, so that a free postal delivery is only a matter of a few years at best. Florence is also making an effort to get a government building, and there is very good prospect of securing both the building and the second-class postoffice.

Farmers Fought with Knives.

News has just reached Athens of a very serious difficulty that took place in the western part of Limestone county a few days ago, when two young men were so seriously slashed with knives that it is thought that their lives will be the forfeit.

Jim Jackson and John Shannon, popular farmers living in the Salem neighborhood, met and had a row over some remark that Shannon charged Jackson with having made about his sister. Words led to blows, and from that they drew their knives and rushed upon one another. No one was present who was able to separate the enraged men and they slashed each other until they fell from loss of blood. Jackson was cut across his lower bowels in such a manner that his entrails fell out and were cut in many places. Shannon received several severe stabs in the back.

BRIEFLY NOTED.

The Cullman Cotton company will put in a cotton seed oil mill at Cullman to cost $50,000. This company will also put in two more gins.

Lum Sterling shot and killed Radford Higgins near Lebanon Church, in Randolph county. Both are negroes. Sterling has surrendered to the authorities.

Messrs. J. T. Tillman and R. B. Collier are making an effort to build a broom factory at Wyeth City. They are now figuring with the farmers to find out how many will agree to plant broom corn the coming season.

Near Reserve, in Lauderdale county, ghouls have been at work in the old Moss Wood burial ground on the plantation of F. M. Perry, and nearly every grave in the cemetery has been desecrated. The reason for the work is not known, the cemetery not having been used for years. It is supposed that some one is digging in the hope of finding a treasure of some kind, though there is no clue to the perpetrators.

THE GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST.

Statement of Claims of the Several Candidates for Governor.

The principal interest in Alabama political circles is now centered in the gubernatorial contest. Friends of Col. Samford claim that he will go to the convention with between 175 and 200 delegates. Mr. Waller's friends say that he will have about 160 delegates. General Shelley's friends calculate his strength at 60 votes, if he wins Jefferson. Mr. Stallings' strength is estimated at about 70 votes. Later returns indicate that Stallings has carried Wilcox and Henry. This would run his sure vote up to 51. Mr. Tomlinson claims 50 delegates in the convention, with a fighting chance for Mobile's delegation.

General Shelley has carried Jefferson county by a majority of approximately 800.

Col. A. A. Wiley claims to have sufficient votes to insure his nomination to congress as successor to Mr. Stallings. He claims Montgomery, Pike, Covington and Baldwin. These counties have two majority in the district.

GOV. JOHNSTON'S STATEMENT.

Concedes the Victory of Senator Morgan and Accepts the Result.

Governor Johnston Monday gave out the following statement:

"It is manifest that the democracy of the state has declared for the re-election of Senator Morgan. I am a democrat in victory or defeat, and shall acquiesce in that result as I have always done without a murmur.

"I know that there were a very large number of gentlemen who were my personal friends, and who would have been glad to support me, but felt that they could not turn their backs on a senator who was so illustrious.

"I am glad that I can look back on the canvass with the consciousness that I have indulged in no filth or misrepresentations, and that today I have no unkindness in my heart for the distinguished gentleman who has won.

"I am deeply grateful to the friends who have so loyally supported me in this contest. I hope that I shall live long enough to show each one of them that my gratitude will only cease when I shall 'cross over the river and rest in the shade.'

"I congratulate myself that in a contest with with one so distinguished and beloved as Senator Morgan that I have polled nearly 40 per cent. of the vote in the primary, and that a change of less than 10,000 votes would have given me a majority in the legislature.

"The reforms secured during my administration have aroused no little resentment, but I hope that when the passions of the hour pass away, that the people will see that these reforms will be of lasting benefit to them, and that in the end all will come to acknowledge that the good of the people and the glory of the commonwealth has been nearest my heart.

"I had hoped that if elected to the senate I could be of substantial service to my people, amongst whom I have lived so long, and with whom I have shared all the perils of war and struggles of peace.

"I have done something, I hope, to reunite our people, and to compose the differences that so sharply divided them, and I shall continue to struggle to accomplish that end, whether as a public official or a private citizen.

"We must all stand together to build up our state, develop its resources, improve its educational facilities and to give the people the blessing of a just, impartial and economical administration of their affairs."

Dr Wilson Killed By Lightning.

Rev. O. B. Wilson, superintendent of Stillman Institute at Tuskaloosa, was killed by lightning Monday. He was talking over the telephone when lightning struck the wire and he was killed instantly. He is a Virginian by birth and education. He had a wide acquaintance in the southern states and was universally beloved. At the time of his death he was wholly employed in labor for the colored people of the south under the Southern Presbyterian church, and was giving himself to it as a work of love, not consenting to receive any salary for a most laborious work.

Jim Crow Law.

The Alabama supreme court Monday decided a case in the affirmative where a street railroad company enforced a rule that whites and negroes should occupy separate portions of the car set apart for them, respectively. A negro woman was put off the car for refusing to obey the order, and sued for damages. The lower court decided in favor of the railroad, and the supreme court affirmed the decision.

RACE PROBLEM DISCUSSION

Conference to Be Held in Montgomery May 8, 9 and 10.

STRONG PROGRAM; LARGE ATTENDANCE

Ex-Secretary Herbert, Burke Cochran, Gov. Johnston, C. B. Breckenridge, Gov. McCorkle and Dr. Curry Among the Speakers.

Notice has already been made of the Inter-State Conference at Montgomery, Ala., on the 8th, 9th and 10th of May for the discussion of race problems in relations to the welfare of the south. This conference is to be held under the auspices of the Southern Society, and it is to be controlled entirely by southern men. The movement originated in Montgomery, and it has already become representative of the various ecclesiastical, educational and political forces in the life of the south. Visitors from all quarters of the country are expected, and terms have been arranged with the South eastern Traffic Association for a rate of one fare and a third to Montgomery and return upon the certificate plan.

The program is one of deep and varied interest. The sessions of the conference will be held in the new Auditorium at Montgomery, and they will be opened on the evening of May 8, at 8 o'clock. The Hon. J. B. Gaston, of Montgomery, will call the meeting to order as the temporary chairman, and will introduce the Hon. E. B. Joseph, mayor of the city, who will in a brief address deliver Montgomery's welcome to the visitors. The Hon. J. F. Johnston, governor of Alabama, will then perform a like service as the chief executive of the state. Judge Gaston will then introduce the Hon. Hilary A. Herbert, ex-secretary of the navy, as the permanent chairman of the conference, and Mr. Herbert will deliver the chief address of the evening on "The Problems That Present Themselves."

On the following morning, May 9, at 10 o'clock, will begin the session of the Conference which will be devoted to the subject of "The Franchise in the South." The solution of this problem, which is pending in North Carolina, will be advocated by the Hon. Alfred M. Waddell, mayor of the city of Wilmington, N. C. A prominent jurist of the south will then speak either in behalf of the Mississippi or of the Louisiana provision. The set speeches will be closed by an important speech from ex-Governor McCorkle, of West Virginia, who will advocate such a suffrage test as will fairly bear alike upon both races. The meeting will then be opened to volunteer speeches from the floor under the ten minute rule. In order to prevent valueless discussion from consuming the time of the convention, the cards of the volunteer speakers must be submitted beforehand to the members of the executive committee, who will see that the various sides of the debate are fairly represented. On May 9, at 3:30 p. m. will take place the annual meeting of the Southern society.

On the evening of May 9 the conference will take up the discussion of the subject of "Popular Education in the South." This will open with a paper by Dr. Hollis Burke Frissell, the principal of Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va. Dr. Frissel is the head of the parent institution of this country for the industrial education of the negro race. It is the school where Booker T. Washington himself received his training. Dr. Frissell has proved the worthy successor of General Armstrong, the great founder of Hampton, and he is a man of broad patriotism—interested in all that concerns the educational welfare of both races in the south. Dr. Frissell will be followed by a prominent educator of the south, who will speak of the need of industrial education, especially for the white population. The closing speech appointed for the evening is to be by Dr. J. L. M. Curry, of Washington, D. C., agent of the Peabody and Slater funds and an educator and orator of national reputation.

After general discussion, the session will adjourn to meet the next morning, May 10, for the discussion of the religious aspect of work among the Negro race. This subject will be handled in an able and interesting way by leading representatives of the Baptists, Methodists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians and Roman Catholics. On this closing day there will be an afternoon session, at 3 o'clock, for the consideration of the lynching problem. The discussion will be opened by a paper upon the legal defects in the penalties for the punishment of crimes against women, with a consideration of the remedies for such defects, and a general discussion of the legal aspect of the whole question. This topic will be presented by the Hon. Alex C. King, of Georgia. Following this paper the conference will take up the question "Is Lynching Advisable?" The negative will be presented by the Hon. Clifton R. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, ex-minister of the United States to the court of Russia. For many years he was a member of congress from Arkansas, and his father, John C. Breckinridge, was beloved throughout the south. Among those who, it is hoped, will join the discussion under the ten-minute rule are some of the strongest men in the south, including the Hon. John Temple Graves, of Atlanta, and Dr Dreher, the principal of Roanoke College, Virginia.

The evening session of May the 10th will be opened by an address from Mr. Walter H. Page, of North Carolina, until recently editor of the Atlantic Monthly, of Boston, and now of the firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., New York City. Mr. Page will speak from his experience as a southern man upon "The Significance of the Race Line in Relation to the Race Problem."

After this address the Hon. W. Bourke Cochran, of New York, will deliver the oration of the evening on "The Negro as an American Problem." Mr. Cochran has long felt an intelligent and sympathetic interest in the great difficulties presented by the race problem to the south, and his address will be awaited with interest. He has expressed very warmly the feeling that southern men are peculiarly fitted to deal with the problem in their midst. The presence, however, of the negro in the south, which involves a responsibility which rests in a certain sense upon the whole country, and it is of this phase of the subject particularly that he has consented to speak. He has expressed the most cordial interest in the plans of the southern society, and his speech will indicate that the best sentiment of the north is in cordial and sympathetic touch with the best life of the south upon the subject of the negro as a national responsibility.

Mr. Cochran's opinions upon the subject of the franchise should carry great weight with the country at large. After this oration the conference will be adjourned with a brief word of farewell from Mr. Herbert, its presiding officer.

The officers of the executive committee of the Southern Society are giving of their best effort to make the conference worthy of Montgomery, of Alabama, and of the whole south. The membership of the Southern Society now extends through every southern state. Letters from every quarter are reaching the committee, which indicate that there will be a large attendance. There will be visitors from the north, and there will be many more from the various sections of the south. The address of the secretary of the executive committee is P. O. Box 370, Montgomery, Ala., and communications as to rooms, rates, etc., thus addressed will be turned over for reply to the committee on hospitality.

RAILROADS TIED UP.

Heavy Rains in Mississippi Doing Great Damage.

All railroad lines entering Jackson are indefinitely tied up as the result of the heavy rainfall, generally throughout Mississippi. The main line of the Illinois Central is flooded in several places, the chief obstacles being at the Camelback, and a washout bridge below Canton. The Yazoo branch of the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley is inundated at numerous places and all of the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley road is also flooded and at several points between Jackson and Harriston the low lands are covered with water for miles.

The Alabama & Vicksburg road has also abandoned its trains, bridges being washed away and tracks under water at several places between Vicksburg and Meridian.

SURPRISED INSURGENTS.

Killed Fifty-three of Their Number and Captured Forty-four.

A Manila dispatch says: Captain Dodd, with a squadron of the Third cavalry, recently surrounded a village in Benguet province and surprised two hundred insurgents living in barracks, apparently a recruiting center for the province. The enemy lost fifty-three men killed. Our troops also captured forty-four men and burned the village. One American was wounded.

Hoke Smith Sells the Atlanta Journal.

Hon. Hoke Smith has sold his interest in the Atlanta Journal to H. M. Atkinson, Morris Brandon and J. R. Gray, of Atlanta. Complete control of the Journal passes into the hands of Mr. Atkinson and his associates, as the minority stockholders also disposed of their holdings. Mr. Smith realized three for one on his stock, and the money turned over to him for his fifty-three shares was $159,000. The minority stockholders received two to one. The amount involved in the entire transaction is $275,500.

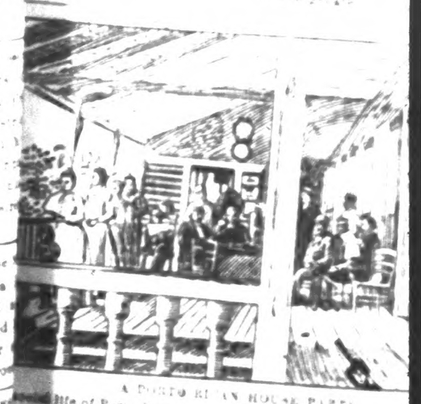
Lake City Postoffice Re-established.

The postoffice at Lake City, S. C., has been re-established and Mrs. Della D. Carter (white) appointed postmistress. This was done upon petitions filed by nearly all of the white and colored citizens requesting the re-establishment of the office and this lady's appointment. There has been no postoffice at Lake City since the colored postmaster there was killed by a mob two years ago.

The cases involving the Kentucky governorship were docketed in the United States supreme court Monday. A brief, in which counsel for both Taylor and Beckham joined, was filed at the same time, asking for an early hearing.

Porto Rico and Its Industries.

I.



A PORTO RICAN HOUSE PARTY.

Porto Rico and Its Industries.

The Condition of the Island as Revealed by Recent Investigations.

LIKE many of the islands colonized by Spain, Porto Rico has been the victim of a policy so mistaken as seriously to affect its industrial welfare. Under Spanish misrule, agriculture and manufacturing made little real progress. At the same time, it must not be forgotten that the native indolence of the Porto Ricans themselves contributed largely to industrial depression throughout the island. Indolence is natural to a Porto Rican as are spots to a leopard and as difficult to remove. It is something which Congress cannot change. In his book on Porto Rico William Dinwidde, who knows the island thoroughly, says:

> Porto Rico is a veritable desert for the man unless he goes there with a definite commission to execute. I like to emphasize the statement now and for some time to come. It is a good country for the immigrations to keep out of, however amiable they may be.

Porto Rico needs adequate transportation facilities as much as anything else. In 1888 Don Ibo Bosch, a Spanish contractor, received a contract to build a road which would encircle the island. After a period of four years of desultory work, only 110 miles had been built out of the 183 contracted for. The equipment of the road is no better than what is found in Michigan logging camps, and the service takes the afternoon siesta in true Spanish style. The only other railroad is a tramway from San Juan to Rio Piedras, of which an illustration is given. Its equipment is bad, but the service is comparatively good. Trains run at hourly intervals, furnishing transit of a tropical sort.

ROSARIO ST. YAUCO, PORTO RICO.

(Yauco is built upon a hillside which, while inconvenient to the traveler, is of great advantage to the sanitation, the rain water sweeping all the dirt and refuse into the stream, which runs into the valley below.)

YARD SCENE AT A PEASANT'S HOUSE, PORTO RICO.

There is said to be a great future for it. Valley roads from the inland country to the coast, running trains of from two to three cars and making twenty miles an hour. Sugar mill owners use electricity for light in the season, which, during the grinding season, is operated day and night. If the cost of continuous traffic or the power should make electrically driven cars unprofitable, compressed air will be substituted.

The sugar industry there is room for improvement. Contrary to the opinion, sugar-making is not an important agricultural industry as the coffee output is three times as valuable as the sugar output. The prosperity of the sugar industry is vital to the welfare of the island.

The methods of cultivation are primitive, but most of the mills are run by steam. In some districts the primitive method of crushing the cane between two wooden rollers is still in use. The power is furnished by two plodding oxen. The larger mills employ contrivances almost as primitive, and crude methods have resulted in involving estate holders in debt, a condition of things accounted for by the fact that the native indolence of the Porto Ricans themselves contributed largely to industrial depression throughout the island. Indolence is natural to a Porto Rican as are spots to a leopard and as difficult to remove. It is something which Congress cannot change. In his book on Porto Rico William Dinwidde, who knows the island thoroughly, says:

> Porto Rico is a veritable desert for the man unless he goes there with a definite commission to execute. I like to emphasize the statement now and for some time to come. It is a good country for the immigrations to keep out of, however amiable they may be.

Porto Rico needs adequate transportation facilities as much as anything else. In 1888 Don Ibo Bosch, a Spanish contractor, received a contract to build a road which would encircle the island. After a period of four years of desultory work, only 110 miles had been built out of the 183 contracted for. The equipment of the road is no better than what is found in Michigan logging camps, and the service takes the afternoon siesta in true Spanish style. The only other railroad is a tramway from San Juan to Rio Piedras, of which an illustration is given. Its equipment is bad, but the service is comparatively good. Trains run at hourly intervals, furnishing transit of a tropical sort.

There are only two "central" factories in Porto Rico with a complete equipment of modern machinery. "Central" factories, it may be explained in passing, are generally owned by capitalists, who may or may not own the cane lands. The landowners send their cane to the mill and receive a certain percentage of the sugar produced.

In some districts the primitive method of crushing the cane between two wooden rollers is still in use. The power is furnished by two plodding oxen. The larger mills employ contrivances almost as primitive, and crude methods have resulted in involving estate holders in debt, a condition of things accounted for by the almost prohibitory tariff placed by the Spanish on imported machinery.

It was in the hope of being relieved from this burden that many Porto Ricans welcomed the joining of the island's interests with those of the United States. The factor of transportation has to be considered, particularly in the case of sugar for export, where the hauls to the coast are very expensive. The poor shipping facilities also increase the cost of production.

Coffee growing is in a prosperous condition, but tobacco culture has not made the progress it should. More tobacco was exported from Porto Rico in 1828 than in 1896. The stagnation of the industry is due to a number of causes, of which the most important is the successful competition of the Cuban growers. The increasing demand for Havana tobacco has excluded the Porto Rican product from foreign markets.

The tobacco grown on the smaller island is not so good as that grown on the greater, but there is no reason for it to terrestrial valleys, from throne to manger; yet that did not seem to suffice Him as a retreat. Falling back still farther from Bethlehem to Nazareth, from Nazareth to Jerusalem, back from Jerusalem to Golgotha, back from Golgotha to the mausoleum in the rock, back down over the precipitous of perdition until He walked amid the caverns of the eternal midnight and drank of the wine of the wrath of Almighty God, amid the Ahabs and the Jezebels and the Belshazzars. Oh, men of the pulpit and men of the pew, Christ's descent from heaven to earth does not measure half the distance! It was from glory to perdition. He descended into hell. All the records of earthly retreat are as nothing compared with this falling back. Santa Anna, with the fragments of his army flying over the plateaus of Mexico, and Napoleon and his army retreating from Moscow into the awful snows of Russia are not worthy to be mentioned with this retreat, when all the powers of darkness seemed to be pursuing Christ as He fell back until the body of Him who came to diversh woe buried things lay pulseless and stripped. Methinks that the city of Ai was not so emptied of its inhabitants when they went to pursue Joshua as perdition was emptied of devils when they started for the pursuit of Christ, and He fell back and back, down, down, down, down down below reason, pit below pit, until He seemed to strike the bottom of objurgation and woe and torture. Oh, the long, loud, defiant shout of hell at the defeat of the Lord God Almighty!

Lesson the second. The triumph of the wicked is short. Did you ever see an army in a panic? There is nothing so uncomfortable. If you had stood at Long Bridge, Washington, during the opening of our sad Civil War you would know what it is to see an army run. And when those men of Ai looked out and saw those men of Joshua in a stampede they expected easy work. They would scatter them as the equinox the leaves. Oh, the gleeful and jubilant descent of the men of Ai upon the men of Joshua! But their exhilaration was brief, for the tide of battle turned, and those quondam conquerors left their miserable carcasses in the wilderness of Bethaven. So it always is. The triumph of the wicked is short. You make $20,000 at the gambling table. Do you expect to keep it? You wrinkle in the poorhouse. You make a fortune by unjust traffic. Do you expect to keep it? Your money will scatter or you will stay long enough to curse your children after you are dead.

Call over the roll of bad men who prospered and see how short was their prosperity. Pursuing after the men of Ai, they went from conquest to conquest, but after awful disaster rolled back upon them, and they were divided into three parts. Misfortune took their property, the grave took their body, and the lost world took their soul. I am always interested in the building of palaces of dissipation. I like to have them built of the best granite and have the rooms made large, and I like the pillars made very firm. God is going to conquer them, and then will be turned into asylums and art galleries and churches.

How long will it take your boys to get through squandering their gains? The wicked do not live out half their days. For awhile they swagger and strut and make a great splash in the newspapers, but after awhile a dividend line down into a brief paragraph. I died suddenly April 8, 1899, at thirty-five years of age. Relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend the funeral on Wednesday, at 2 o'clock from his late residence on Madison square. Interment at Greenwood or Oak Hill." Some of them jumped to their deaths, some of them took prussic acid. Some of them fell under the snap of a Derringer pistol. Some of them spent their days in a lunatic asylum. Where are William Tweed and his associates? Where are James Fisk, the litigator, and all the other misdemeanants? The wicked do not live out half their days. Disembogue, O world of darkness! Come up, Hildebrand and Henry II and Robespierre, and with blustering and blasphemy and sullen fire hiss out. "The triumph of the wicked is short."

Lesson the third. How much may be accomplished by lying in ambush for opportunities. Are you hypercritical of Joshua's maneuver? Do you say that it was cheating for him to take that city by ambuscade? Was it wrong for Washington to fix the campfires on Jersey heights, giving the impression to the opposing force that a great army was encamped there when there was none at all? I answer, if the war was right, then Joshua was right in his stratagem. He violated no flag of truce. He broke no treaty, but by a lawful ambuscade captured the city of Ai.

Oh, that we all knew how to lie in ambush for opportunities to serve God! The best of our opportunities do not lie on the surface, but are secreted. By tact, by stratagem, by Christian ambuscade, you may take almost any castle of sin for Christ. Come up toward men with a regular disengagement of argument, and you will be defeated, but just wait until the door of their hearts is set ajar, or they are off their guard, or their severe caution is away from home, and then drop in on them from a Christian ambuscade.

There has been many a man up to his chin in scientific portfolios which proved there was no Christ and no divine revelation, his pen a scimeter flung into the heart of theological opponents, who nevertheless has been discomfited and captured for God by some little three-year-old child who has got up and put her snowy arms around his sinewy neck and asked some simple question about God.

Oh, make a flank movement! Steal a march on the devil! Cheat that man into heaven! A $5 treatise that will stand all the laws of homiletics may fail to do that which a penny tract of Christian entreaty may accomplish.

Oh, for more Christians in ambuscade—not lying in idleness, but waiting for a quick spring, waiting until just the right time comes! Do not talk to a man about the vanity of this world on the day when he has bought something at "12" and is going to sell it at "15." But talk to him about the vanity of the world on the day when he has bought something at "15" and is compelled to sell it at "12."

Lesson the fourth. The importance of taking good aim. There is Joshua, but how are those people in ambush up yonder to know when they are to drop on the city, and how are these men around Joshua to know when they are to stop their fight and advance? There must be some signal—a signal to stop the one division and to stag the other. Joshua, with a spear on which were ordinarily hung the colors of battle, points toward the city. He stands in such a conspicuous position, and there is so much of the morning light dripping from the spear tip, that all around the horizon they see it. It was as much as to say: "There is the city. Take it!"

God knows and we know that a great deal of Christian attack amounts to nothing simply because we do not take good aim. Nobody knows and we do not know ourselves which point we want to take when we ought to make up our minds what God will have us to do and point our spear to that direction and then hurl our body, mind, soul, time, eternity at that one target.

In our pulpits and pews and Sunday-schools and prayer meetings we want to get a reputation for saying pretty things, and so we point our spear toward the flowers, or we want a reputation for saying sublime things, and we point our spear toward the stars, or we want to get a reputation for historical knowledge, and we point our spear toward the past, or we want to get a reputation for great liberality, so we swing our spear all around, while there in the old world, proud, pusillanimous and armed against all righteousness, and instead of running any further away from its pursuit we ought to turn around, plant our foot in the strength of the eternal God, lift the old cross and point it in the direction of the world's conquest till the redeemed of earth, marching up from one side and the glorified of heaven marching down from the other side, the last battlement of sin is compelled to swing out the streamers of Emanuel. O church of God, take aim and conquer!

TAKING THE CENSUS OF PORTO RICO.

RAISING OUR FLAG OVER PORTO RICO'S FIRST AMERICAN SCHOOL.

RAPID TRANSIT IN PORTO RICO—THE TRAMWAY BETWEEN SAN JUAN AND RIO PIEDRAS.

A PORTO RICAN HOUSE PARTY.

(The social life of Porto Rico is well worth emulating. The members of a church, or neighborhood clique, or even a big family being exceptionally thoughtful, kind and careful of the feelings of others. A little child is treated with the same respect as an old man, and the oldest woman in a social gathering is always the first to be served. These deep, cool verandas are used as living rooms the year round and are extremely comfortable.)

The accompanying picture represents the awaiting of a census enumerator in an interior Porto Rican town. The work of census taking in the island began in November, and has but recently been completed. The island was divided into seven departments, and a competent supervisor, recommended by Governor-General Davis, was placed at the head of each. These supervisors were the direct working communication between the assistant director and the enumerators, about 940 in number. The census officials were received with marks of consideration by the populace of the smaller towns.

In his book on Porto Rico, already referred to, Mr. Dinwiddie says that Spanish polity, as applied to the island, has brought about a social and financial condition quite incomprehensible to the people of the United States.

The other ports lack the outward charm of San Juan, and in some of them the deplorable poverty of the people is in evidence. At Aguadilla, at the northwest point of the island, where agriculture is the sole industry, people have flocked in from the country in search of work, only to die miserably when none was to be had. Even in spite of generous Government relief the deaths are said to have averaged in the last winter fifteen per day in a population of 9000. Residents of the poorest section of the town are the chief sufferers. Government aid alone keeps life in their impoverished bodies. The hurricane deprived them of their livelihood, and recovery is painfully slow.

Ponce, the end of the water route, boasts of more than 40,000 population, surpassing San Juan in this respect by several thousand and covering much more territory. It has no harbor except for light boats, and its streets, although greatly improved in the last year, are still wretched. The town aspires to become Americanized, and, as it is the supply station for quite an important sugar and tobacco region, it seems likely, when prosperity comes, to receive its share.

The Love-Making of Owls.

Perched on the same bough, or the same wall or ruin, the lady owl, though usually much bigger and stronger than her mate, looks the picture of demure coyness, if a little excited inwardly, like a girl at her first ball. But the male owl is very much in earnest; for a moment or two he remains quite still, then he puts out all his feathers, bows, and utters a softened scream; followed by a modified hiss that is full of tender meaning, and then he nudges her with his wing; she opens her big eyes very wide, and gives him a sidelong glance that may be a hint, for, horrible to relate, from the depths of his interior he instantly brings up a half-digested mouse, and, although she is as full of similar rodents and stag beetles as she can comfortably hold, she opens her mouth and accepts the fragrant gift with a murmur of satisfaction that speaks volumes of love and thanks. Then, when the dainty morsel has been disposed of, they caress each other tenderly for a moment or two, and then sit closely pressed to each other's side while the process of assimilation is perfected, after which they simultaneously flit away into the moonlight on noiseless wing in search of further prey.—Pall Mall Magazine.

Giving the Court Its Due.

An Irish lawyer addressed the Court as "gentlemen" instead of "your hobors." After he had concluded, a brother of the bar reminded him of his error. He immediately arose to apologize, thus:

"May it please the Court—in the heat of debate I called your honors gentlemen. It was a mistake, your honors."

Johannesburg, South African Republic, has a German school which last June was giving instruction to 113 boys, eighty-four girls and twenty-five children in the kindergarten.

SPAIN GIVEN NOTICE

Her Claims to Any of the Philippine Group Will Not Be Allowed.

Secretary Hay has formally notified the Madrid government that the United States cannot accede to its claim that Sibitu Island and Cagayan Sulu, of the Philippine archipelago, belong to Spain.

This action was taken in the light of information in the possession of authorities showing that Germany is taking a deep interest in the controversy.

It is likely that the Spanish government will endeavor to answer the American note, and, perhaps, will go so far as to suggest arbitration of the claim. It is altogether unlikely that that the administration will consider any proposition of this character.

WHARTON SUBMERGED.

The Colorado River Reaches a Stage Never Before Known.

The entire town of Wharton, Tex., and the country for eight miles above is now under water, all previous records having been surpassed. There have been no further casualties and there is no complaint of an insufficiency of supplies to feed the several hundred negroes who have refugeed there.

The crops in that portion of the Colorado valley are entirely ruined. The water is expected to stand for a week at least and prospects of heavy rains all over that section may make it longer.

The Brazos is nearing the overflow stage at Richmond. The body of a stranger, a well-dressed man of about 30 years, was fished out of the Colorado river.

Mrs. Bellamy, Authoress, Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Whitfield Bellamy, authoress, died in Mobile, Friday aged 63 years. She was the widow of Dr. Edward C. Bellamy, surgeon in the confederate army. Her best known work, "Old Man Gilbert," had a large vogue because of its faithful portrayal of southern social conditions. Her last novel, "Trials of Penny Lancaster," appeared last year in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Grand Jury Resumes Investigation.

The grand jury, which has spent the last two weeks investigating the assassination of Governor Goebel, at Frankfort, reconvened Monday and resumed the investigation. It is understood that nearly all of the witnesses have been heard and the report is expected very soon.

Two Miners Killed.

A special from South McAlester, I. T., says Joe Bass and Joe Potello, miners, were instantly killed in the Anderson mine and several other men badly injured Saturday morning. The cage in which the men were descending dislodged a piece of timber, which fell and crushed them.

Colson's Trial Begun.

The trial of Ex-Congressman David G. Colson, the surviving principal in the Colson-Scott duel of January 16, in which Lieutenant Ethelbert Scott, Charles Julian and Luther A. Demaree were killed and several others injured, was begun in Frankfort, Ky., Tuesday.

Treasury Statement.

Saturday's statement of treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $150,164,-069; gold, $90,047,271.

Militia to Get a Million.

The house committee on military has decided to fix at $1,000,000 the amount allowed annually to the militia of the several states in place of the $400,000 now allowed.

Near Reserve, in Lauderdale county, ghouls have been at work in the old Moss Wood burial ground on the plantation of F. M. Perry, and nearly every grave in the cemetery has been desecrated. The reason for the work is not known, the cemetery not having been used for years. It is supposed that some one is digging in the hope of finding a treasure of some kind, though there is no clue to the perpetrators.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: Victory in Retreat—The Triumph of the Wicked Is Short—Flee From Temptation—Calamity May Be Averted by Running Away From Evil.

[Copyright, 1900.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—From an old time battle scene Dr. Talmage in this discourse makes some startling suggestions as to the best styles of Christian work and points out the reason of so many pious failures; text, Joshua viii., 7, "Then ye shall rise up from the ambush and seize upon the city."

One Sabbath evening, with my family around me, we were talking over the scenes of the text. In the wide open eyes and the quick interrogations and the blanched cheeks I realized what a thrilling drama it was. There is the old city, shorter by name than any other city in the ages, spelled with two letters, A. I. Ai. Joshua and his men want to take it. How to do it is the question. On a former occasion, in a straightforward, face to face fight, they had been defeated, but now they are going to take it by ambuscade. General Joshua has two divisions in his army. The one division the battle worn commander will lead himself, the other division he sends off to encamp in an ambush on the west side of the city of Ai. No torches, no lanterns, no sound of heavy battalions, but 30,000 swarthy warriors moving in silence, speaking only in a whisper, no clicking of swords against shields, lest the watchmen of Ai discover it, and the stratagem be a failure. If the loitering soldier in the Israelitish army forgets himself, all along the line the word is "Hush!"

Joshua takes the other division, the one with which he is to march, and puts it on the north side of the city of Ai and then spend the night in reconnoitering in the valley. There he is, thinking over the fortunes of the coming day with something of the feelings of Wellington the night before Waterloo or of Meade and Lee the night before Gettysburg. There he stands in the night and says to himself: "Yonder is the division in ambush on the west side of Ai. Here is the division I have under my especial command on the north side of Ai. There is the old city slumbering in its sin. To-morrow will be the battle. Look! The morning already begins to tip the hills. The military officers of Ai look out in the morning very early, and, while they do not see the division in ambush, they behold the other divisions of Joshua, and the cry 'To arms! To arms!' rings through all the streets of the old town, and every soldier, whether hacked and bent or newly welded, is brought out, and all the inhabitants of the city of Ai pour through the gates, an infuriated torrent, and their cry is, 'Come, we'll make quick work with Joshua and his troops!'"

No sooner had these people of Ai come out against the troops of Joshua than Joshua gave such a command as he seldom gave—"Fall back!" Why, they could not believe their own ears! Is Joshua's courage failing him? The retreat is beaten, and the Israelites are flying, throwing blankets and canteens on every side under this worse than Bull Run defeat. And you ought to hear the soldiers of Ai cheer and cheer and cheer. But they huzza too soon. The men lying in ambush are straining their vision to get some signal from Joshua that they may know what time to drop upon the city. Joshua takes his burnished spear, glittering in the sun like a shaft of doom, and points it toward the city, and when the men up yonder in the ambush see it with hawklike swoop they drop upon Ai and without stroke of sword or stab of spear take the city and put it to the torch.

So much for the division that was in ambush. How about the division under Joshua's command? No sooner does Joshua stop in the flight than all his men stop with him, and as he wheels they wheel, for in a voice of thunder he cried "Halt!" one strong arm driving back a torrent of flying troops. And then, as he points his spear through the golden light toward that fated city, his troops know that they are to start for it. What a scene it was when the division in ambush which had taken the city marched down against the men of Ai on the one side, and the troops under Joshua doubled up their enemies from the other side, and the men of Ai were caught between these two hurricanes of Israelitish courage, thrust before and behind, stabbed in breast and back, ground between the upper and the nether millstones of God's indignation! Woe to the city of Ai! Cheer for Israel!

Lesson the first. There is such a thing as victorious retreat. Joshua's failing back was the first chapter in his successful besiegement. And there are times in your life when the best thing you can do is to run. You were once the victim of strong drink. The demijohn and the decanter were your fierce foes. They came down upon you with greater fury than the men of Ai upon the men of Joshua. Your only safety is to get away from them. Your dissipating companions will come around you for your overthrow. Run for your life! Fall back! Fall back from the drinking saloon! Fall back from the wine party! Your flight is your advance; your retreat is your victory. There is a saloon down on the next street that has almost been the ruin of your soul. Then why do you go along that street? Why do you not pass through some other street rather than by the place of your calamity? A spoonful of brandy taken for medicinal purposes by a man who twenty years before had been reformed from drunkenness buried into inebriety and the grave one of the best friends I ever had. Retreat is victory!

Here is a converted infidel. He is so strong now in his faith in the Gospel he says he can read anything. What are you reading? Bolingbroke? Andrew Jackson Davis's tracts? Tyndall's Glasgow University address? Drop them and run. You will be an infidel before you die unless you quit that. These men of Ai will be too much for you. Turn your back on the rank and file of unbelief. Fly before they cut you with their swords and transfix you with their javelins.

So, also, there is victorious retreat in the religious world. Thousands of times the kingdom of Christ has seemed to fall back. When the blood of the Scotch Covenanters gave a deeper dye to the heather of the highlands, when the Vaudois of France chose extermination rather than make an unchristian surrender, when on St. Bartholomew's day mounted assassins rode through the streets of Paris, crying "Kill! Bloodletting is good in August! Kill! Death to the Huguenots! Kill!" when Lady Jane Grey's head rolled from the executioner's block, when Calvin was imprisoned in the castle, when John Knox died for the truth, when John Bunyan lay rotting in Bedford jail, saying, "If God will help me and my physical life continues, I will stay here until the moss grows on my eyebrows rather than give up my faith," the days of retreat for the church were days of victory.

The pilgrim fathers fell back from the other side of the sea to Plymouth Rock, but now are marshaling a conquest for the Christianization of the world. The Church of Christ falling back from Piedmont, falling back from Rue St. Jacques, falling back from St. Denis, falling back from Wittemberg castles, falling back from the Brussels market place, yet all the time triumphing. Notwithstanding all the reverses which the Church of Christ suffers, what do we see to-day? Twelve thousand missionaries of the cross on heathen grounds; eighty thousand ministers of Jesus Christ in this land; at least four hundred millions of Christians on the earth. Falling back, yet advancing until the old Wesleyan hymn will prove true:

> The lion of Judah shall break the chain
> And give us the victory again and again!

But there is a more marked illustration of victorious retreat in the life of our Joshua, the Jesus of the text. First falling back from an appalling height to an appalling depth, falling from celestial bliss

THE Republican State convention is in session at Montgomery, and it looks very much as if there was going to be a split.

A SINGULAR fact in last Saturday's primary was the remarkable unanimity with which Democrats voted for Morgan and Samford, the least known of all the gubernatorial candidates.

HON. John W. Tomlinson has withdrawn from the gubernatorial race. He says he "made the fight against big odds and against methods that ought not to obtain in contests between democrats." Any old methods do, we suppose, when contests are not between democrats only

THE Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company is making an effort to interest capitalists to invest their money in the building and operation of cotton and other factories at points a long their line. Clanton should let its advantages be known; there is not a better location anywhere than here for a cotton factory, and its establishment would be an immense gain for the entire county.

So far as we have been able to ascertain, the result of last Saturday's Democratic primary is as follows: For Sheriff, C. J. Stewart; Representative, H. I. Honeycutt; Tax Assessor, B. W. Garner; Tax Collector. R. O. Headley; County Treasurer. W. I. Mullins; County Superintendent of Education, G. L. Speer; Commissioners, Oliver Mullins, R. M. Honeycutt, J. R. Parnell, P. C. Dennis. The official count takes place next Saturday, and the party will also hold a county convention and elect a new executive committee.

Roundlap Bales Made Cotton Higher

Wherever The American Cotton Company's Roundlap presses were operated last season higher prices prevaile for cotton whether baled round or square. In order to get cotton, square-bale buyers were obliged to pay more than the market price, and more than cotton was selling for in neighboring towns where there was not a Roundlap plant. In some cases the premium paid by square-box ginners in competition with Roundlap gins during the grater part of the season was as much as half a cent per pound above the price ruling at other old-style gins in the same county. The inevitable result followed. Cotton (and the owners' trade with it) was drawn for long distances to Roundlap points to the profit of the entire community, and at the expense of towns that did not enjoy the advantages of Round bale competition.

The effect of such object lessons has been a demand for Roundlap presses for next season which will tax the full capacity of The American Cotton Company's works running day and night.

WHAT SHOULD POPULISTS DO?

For some time past there has been a disposition shown by many Populists throughout Alabama to refrain from advocating the party making an aggressive fight in the present State campaign. This was due principally to the fact that Populists generally understood that underlying the fight in the Democratic party for the United States senate was the great question of a constitutional convention and the subsequent disfranchisement of a large number of voters—white as well as colored. It was known that Morgan's success would mean that the next legislature would have as its predominant factor a majority of machine Democrats whose first act would be to call a constitutional convention—a convention that would frame a new constitution which, while professing to eliminate the negro vote, would see to it that by some means or any means the voting strength of the Populist party would be very considerably reduced. On the other hand if Johnston was successful, it was an assured fact that the complexion of the next legislature would be such that all fear of the disfranchisement of any voter was unneedful. This was the cause of the Populist sympathy with Governor Johnston in his gallant struggle.

But the result of last Saturday's Democratic primary is apparently in favor of Morgan's nomination by the Democratic convention, and the following statement in Tuesday's Advertiser simply confirms that the Populist view was all along the correct one:

Hon. Frank S. White, State chairman of the Morgan campaign committee, speaking of the result of last Saturday's Democratic primaries, said: "Morgan's victory is a triumph for better politics for Alabama. It means a constitutional convention. The State can no longer do without it. Alabama cannot exist with a foundation under it of corruption at the polls. The constitutional convention and the elimination of fraudulent elections is bound to be the result."

So it will be readily seen that if a Morgan legislature should unfortunately be elected what we will have to expect.

Under these circumstances what should the Populist party do? We will endeavor to outline what we consider would be to the best interests of the State and of the party, and our readers will please bear in mind that "charity begins at home," and while the great national issues are still uppermost in our minds, we must first look to self-preservation in the State.

There has been some divergence of opinion among Populists as to the proper course to be pursued in national politics. This difference of opinion in that respect should be relegated to the rear. We cannot afford any differences at this juncture in State politics. Shall we have a new constitution forced upon us by the Morgan clique or shall we destroy it by our own exertions? The "elimination of fraudulent elections" was the primary cause of the formation of the Populist party in Alabama; for eight years we have fought the good fight, and in that time it is conceded, even by Democrats, we have at least twice won and was defrauded of the winning. Now is our final chance for victory!

The Populist State Convention meets at Birmingham on Wednesday, May 2, and every delegate, and not only every delegate but every Populist who can manage it, should be on hand there. There should be an overflowing house.

The convention should nominate a full ticket, and every man thereon should be a well-known, first-class man, with a perfectly clean record; every nominee should be known as a man in whom the people have already had cause to put confidence. Nominate a ticket from governor down, and if it is the wisdom of the convention also include a nominee for the United States senate.

The platform adopted should be simple—a platform without prefixes or affixes—a platform which simply asks every voter for his support on the ground of honest elections in our State. The "elimination of fraudulent elections" does not require a new constitution, all that is needed is honest elections. "Alabama cannot exist with a foundation under it of corruption at the polls." We entirely agree with Chairman White in that respect, but we cannot trust to his peculiar views of overcoming it. Why do we not have honest elections?

When we consider that the dispensary question is also one other big question in our State politics, it may be wise to incorporate that in our platform, and on these two vital issues the battle should be fought. But there should be no other issues involved.

In conclusion we would say that the Populists of Alabama are one on these two great issues: there must be many conservative Democrats who are of the same way of thinking; the Republican party for its own sake is compelled to vote the same way—with that party disfranchisement simply means annihilation; and finally there are thousands and thousands of good, honest Democrats who wish, as much as do the Populists, for the "elimination of fraudulent elections," without any new scheme for the perpetuation of the same. This is shown by Gov. Johnston's statement that he carried 40 per cent of the vote cast last Saturday, and it is not too much to expect that the greater number of them would vote with us.

All patriotic white men should be able to join with us on this simple platform.

Adams, April 16, 1900

Editor Banne. I want to tell you how the people at Sardis was demoralized on the 12th. One old brother claimed that he had got word that Cox was coming to Sardis to speak on that night, so he told his boy to get on that old gray horse and let the people know that Cox was coming. So the boy put that old horse out and let everybody know it. When night came everybody and his daddy was there. It seemed that everybody wanted to see who should be first to see Cox, but when we got there no Cox was there. Now I believe the old brother only dreamed that Cox was coming, but he still says that he got the word. I don't blame him, I would stick to it after going as far with it as he did. I am sorry that the people were so badly disappointed and very sorry for that old gray horse that had to bear that dream, as I called it, all over the country. But we decided to have some speaking anyhow, so everybody was invited to speak, if a democrat to tell why he was a democrat; if a People's party man tell why. It was decided in favor of the People's party. Next Saturday night we will have the same subject at Wayside schoolhouse. Everybody is invited to come and take a part with us. With best wishes to the People's Party, the Banner and its many readers. I will close. BILL IKE.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is a food medicine for the baby that is thin and not well nourished and for the mother whose milk does not nourish the baby.

It is equally good for the boy or girl who is thin and pale and not well nourished by their food; also for the anæmic or consumptive adult that is losing flesh and strength.

In fact, for all conditions of wasting, it is the food medicine that will nourish and build up the body and give new life and energy when all other means fail.

Should be taken in summer as well as winter.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed; and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

MORGAN WINS THE VICTORY

Returns Indicate That He Will Have a Walkover for Re-Election.

SAMFORD LEADS IN GUBERNATORIAL RACE

The Lee County Candidates Will Enter the State Convention With More Delegates Than Any Two Candidates.

Democratic primary elections were held in fifty-four of sixty-two counties in Alabama Saturday for United States senator, for governor and state and county officers. Returns up to midnight indicate a sweeping democratic victory for Senator Morgan over Governor Johnston for senator, but the governorship is in doubt, with a probability that no one of the five candidates in the race has a majority of the delegates, and that the contest will have to be fought out on the convention floor.

The latest returns from counties throughout the state have increased the majorities of Senator Morgan, and his victory over Governor Johnston has been confirmed. It seems not a single county on Saturday endorsed the governor. It was reported in the various newpapers that Johnston had carried St. Clair, but a vigorous protest comes from the citizens of that county, saying a majority of their votes were cast for Senator Morgan, and that county has been transferred to the Morgan column.

Out of 133 members of the general assembly of Alabama at least 120 will vote for the return of John T. Morgan to the United States senate. Many of the hold-over senators who have been pledged to Johnston will be forced to vote for Morgan under instructions from their constituency.

The greatest surprise furnished has been the remarkable strength shown by William J. Samford, of Lee. Late returns confirm his heavy vote and a few more counties have been added to his list. From present indications he will go into the state convention with more votes than any other two candidates, and his friends are claiming his nomination on the first ballot. From conservative reports it is estimated that he now has 211 delegates. With his chance of securing the uninstructed counties his showing for the nomination is very strong.

Charles E. Waller, of Hale, has also developed considerable strength and he will run second to Samford. His vote Sunday night was 76 with his supporters claiming several doubtful and unheard from counties.

The generally conceded strength of Congressman Jesse F. Stallings failed to materialize and his strength is at present confined to his home county and one or two adjoining.

Shelley has carried Colbert and Madison counties, a total of 20 votes in the state convention.

The fight between Tomlinson and Shelley in Jefferson county is still undecided and it may be several days before the result is known.

From all indications, it seems that the candidates for governor have carried the following counties:

Samford—Autauga 4, Barbour 12, Bullock 9, Chambers 9, Cherokee 7, Chilton 5, Clay 5, Cleburne 4, Coffee 4, Conecuh 5, Coosa 5, Cullman 4, Dale 6, Elmore 7, Etowah 7, Fayette 4, Geneva 4, Henry 8, Lamar 5, Lauderdale 8, Lee 10, Limestone 7, Lowndes 11, Macon 6, Morgan 8, Pike 8, Randolph 6, Russell 8, Shelby 7, St. Clair 6, Tallapoosa 8, Walker 5. Total 211.

Waller—Montgomery 19, Mobile 17, Marengo 11, Perry 10, Hale 9, Greene 7, Washington 3. Total 76.

Shelley—Madison 13, Colbert 7. Total 20.

Stallings—Butler 7, Jackson 9, Marshall 6, Covington 3. Total 25.

There are several counties which have elected delegates without instructions for the purpose of assisting some county candidates for minor state offices. Many of these are claimed by the several candidates.

Owing to the remote locations and tedious counting many counties have not been heard from, or are so close as to be placed in the doubtful columns.

County Returns.

AUTAUGA.—The election today was a landslide for Morgan and Samford. Enough beats have been heard from to give Doster, the Morgan candidate, a majority in the county convention. Samford will carry the county by a safe majority.

BARBOUR—On primary day Barbour county gives Morgan for senator and Samford for governor safe majorities.

BIBB.—The primary election for Bibb county passed off very quietly, a very light vote being polled. The indications are that Wilson, the Morgan candidate, is nominated for the legislature. Crawford is ahead for sheriff, Jones for collector, Hicks for assessor. The other offices in doubt. Most of the delegates are for Samford for governor.

BLOUNT.—Incomplete returns indicate that Morgan carries the county by a safe majority. Samford carries Oneonto and three other precincts so far as heard from. Stallings has carried four beats. Hipp, for senator has the county by 500 majority. It is close between Dixon and Jones for representative. Four precincts give Morgan 200 majority.

BULLOCK.—Al beats heard from but three (they cannot change the result) so far give Johnston 392, Morgan 588, Samford 569, Stallings 395, Shelley 20, Tomlinson 3. M. M. Baldwin and N. B. Powell are safe for representatives.

BUTLER.—Only beat meetings to select delegates to the county convention were held in this county. The county convention is called for the 21st inst. for the selection of delegates to the various primary conventions on June 2 to nominate representatives and county officers, when United States senator will be voted for and representatives instructed accordingly.

CALHOUN.—Returns indicate nomination of Fred L. Blackman, Anniston, as senator, and Harry C. Gunnels, Anniston, and Joseph J. Arnold, Jacksonville, as representatives. All three are Morgan men. There were no Johnston candidates. Waller probably leads for governor, with Samford or Stallings second.

CHAMBERS.—Chambers is safe for Morgan and Samford by practically unanimous vote. Johnston will not get an average of fifteen votes to the precinct. Oliver, Morgan candidate for the legislature, nominated by a large majority. Close vote between Forman and Heflin for state senate.

CHEROKEE.—County practically unanimous for Morgan. No Johnston candidates. This precinct gives 21 delegates for Samford in county convention. No primary on governor delegates; appointed next Saturday.

CHILTON.—Returns received from seven boxes give H. I. Huneycutt, Morgan candidate for the legislature, a plurality. The county has gone for Samford.

COLBERT.—No direct vote on senator or state offices. Morgan will get the vote of the county. D. C. Almond is nominated for the legislature. Returns are slow coming in and incomplete. Tomlinson chances are good. Bailey for treasurer.

CONECUH.—Five beats heard from give Morgan 335, Johnston 32, Samford 237, Stallings 138, Miller 239, Wiley 131. These beats are representative.

COOSA.—Goodwater gives Morgan 92, Johnston 34. Eight precincts heard from, seven of them solid for Morgan. Kellyton went two majority for Johnston. County solid for Morgan and Samford.

CULLMAN.—Thirteen out of seventeen precincts heard from indicate that the county will go for Morgan 4 to 1. Samford for governor by a good majority.

DALLAS.—Twenty precincts out of thirty-six in this county so far have been heard from. F. L. Pettus, B. H. Craig and Calvin Young for the legislature leads the ticket, and the returns from the other precincts will not make any change. It is a Morgan trio. The delegation to the state convention is uninstructed except to use itself to the greatest possible advantage for Craig Smith for treasurer.

ESCAMBIA.—The beat meetings today in this county elected delegates to county convention on the 21st. Indications point to no instructions for any candidate except McMillan for state treasurer.

ETOWAH.—Samford and Morgan swept Etowah county. B. H. Hammond, a Morgan man, was nominated for representative. Wm. Chandler and B. M. Pike close for sheriff, Adam Barnes tax collector, A. B. Stephens commissioner Third district.

JEFFERSON.—The contest in Jefferson county resulted in a complete tidal wave in the senatorial contest for Senator Morgan. He carried every beat in the city but one and a great majority of the beats in the county. Thirty-two of the forty-six beats heard from show the Morgan vote to be 7,651 and the Johnston vote 3,641.

HALE.—It is conceded that Hale county has gone largely for Morgan. Tunstall and Knight are the nominees for the legislature. They are Morgan men.

HENRY.—The total vote at the Columbia beat is, Morgan 186, Johnston 31, Samford 235, Stallings 12, Lee, Morgan candidate, 107 majority over Searcy. Telephone messages from interior beats indicate Morgan and Samford are safe by not less than 500 majority.

LAUDERDALE.—Morgan carried this county by a vote of 6 to 1. Eleven boxes out of eighteen in Lauderdale county give Morgan 1,650, Johnston 744. Kennedy is state senator by a vote of 1,340 to 925 for Ex-Representative Killen. It looks like R. E. Simpson and Calvin P. Anderson for representatives, though A. A. Williams will run Anderson a close second. Morgan's present majority of 1,014 out of 2,300 votes is gratifying to his friends in Lauderdale.

LAMAR.—Seventeen out of ninety beats heard from; Morgan vote about 6 to 1, with a majority of 900 in Lamar. J. Q. Guyton, Morgan man, nominated by two hundred majority for representative.

LEE.—Lee and Russell counties cast their votes for John T. Morgan for United States senator, and W. J. Samford for governor of Alabama.

In Lee county the Morgan men were victorious by 1,000 majority. There were a very few Johnston votes cast in the county, the Johnston men claiming that the primary today, which was ordered by two-thirds of the county executive committee, was not regular. In Phoenix City 152 votes were cast, all for Morgan. Opelika polled a big vote for Morgan. In the country districts a few scattering Johnston votes were cast.

Morgan carried Russell county by 10 majority. He went up to Girard with 78 majority in one election in February. Girard beat was thrown out in the recent election on account of fraud being practiced there, and the election in that one beat in the county was held over today. Girard today gave Johnston 68 majority, and Morgan gets the county by 10 votes. Russell went for Samford without opposition.

In Russell, W. A. Bellamy is nominated for sheriff; Abner H. Vann, tax assessor; tax collector, J. E. Owens; treasurer, J. J. Ware; superintendent of education, C. W. Field; representatives, J. E. Henry and J. M. Holt.

LIMESTONE.—Saturday was a warm day politically in Athens. It was the date of the democratic mass meeting ordered by the democratic executive committee for the purpose of selecting seven delegates and seven alternates to attend the state convention. At 11 o'clock the meeting was called to order. It soon developed that the friends of Samford, who were in the majority, had determined to carry things their way. The following delegates were selected and sent to the state convention bound with instructions to vote first, last and all the time for Samford for governor: Bedford Pugh, Walter A. Williams, Earle Pettus, John B. Turner, H. B. Malone and J. W. Tillman.

LOWNDES—This county has gone for Morgan by a big majority. Thirteen beats have been heard from.

MACON—Morgan has about 100 majority in the county. Samford carries the county almost solid for governor.

MADISON—In the democratic primary fourteen precincts out of twenty-two in Madison county give Morgan 1,794 votes and Johnston 193 votes in the contest for United States senator. General Shelly for governor has received a majority of about 600, and the Morgan legislative candidates, John H. Wallace and W. B. Bankhead, are elected by majorities of from 500 to 600.

MARENGO—A mass meeting of citizens of Marengo county, called today by Chairman Hecker, of the executive committee, held at Linden, ratified the action of the convention of January 13 last, which instructed candidates for Morgan.

MOBILE.—All returns and estimates so far in are for Morgan, except Beaver Meadow precinct, a small one. It is almost sure that Mobile county has gone for Morgan against Johnston by two to one. Mobile elects Morgan legislative candidates by majorities of from 500 to 800.

MONROE.—Election returns coming in slowly. Morgan and Samford lead. Morgan will carry the county.

MONTGOMERY.—Of the twenty-one beats in Montgomery county, with a representation in the convention of 265 delegates, Morgan carried eleven beats with thirteen delegates each and one with five delegates, giving him 148; Waller carried the same strength, and Stallings eight beats and Samford one.

MORGAN.—Senator Morgan has carried the county by a handsome majority. Out of seven boxes heard from Morgan's majority is 194. Samford has carried the county beyond doubt. The vote therefore, is as follows: Samford 502, Stallings 289, Tomlinson, 88.

PERRY.—Sufficient beats have been heard from to sustain the opinion that the county has gone overwhelmingly for Morgan. Hogue and Hardie will carry the county by good majorities. Both are Morgan men. The delegation to the state convention will be a mixed issue—Waller vs. Stallings, with Samford and Tomlinson second choice.

PIKE.—Everything indicates a large majority for Morgan and Samford, and Wiley for congress.

RANDOLPH.—Roanoke beat is solid for Morgan. But little news from the county, but indications are that it will be solid for Morgan.

SHELBY.—The county is practically solid for Morgan. For governor, Waller is in the lead; Samford and Shelley close for second. No representatives voted for.

SUMTER.—Morgan sweeps Sumter by probably 1,000. All three candidates for legislature are for Morgan. Tomlinson has a plurality of delegates, but the ten delegates to the state convention will be protested.

ST. CLAIR.—The majority of delegates elected in Saturday's beat meeting at St. Clair are for John T. Morgan for senator. The race was close between Samford and Stallings for governor.

TALLAPOOSA.—Reports from all except two small beats give Morgan 835 majority. Samford carried the county by an overwhelming majority. For representatives, Bulger and Gilliam are elected by good majorities. Bulger's majority over Lackey is 800.

TALLADEGA.—J. W. Heacock and Charles Whitson, both Morgan men, were overwhelmingly nominated for the legislature. No Johnston man ran and not a vote was cast for Johnston in this county.

Seven beats from Clay county average four to one for Morgan against Johnston. Morgan will carry Clay.

TUSKALOOSA.—Tuskaloosa county gives Morgan 400 majority. For state senator, George D Johnston and F. S. Moody have made a close run and the result is still doubtful. At this hour Moody is two ahead. Both candidates are Morgan men. Henry B. Foster and William W. Brandon are nominated by a large majority for the lower house. Foster is for Morgan and Brandon for Johnston, but the assemblymen are all instructed for Morgan. Dispensary for the county was carried by a small majority. John H. Bankhead was nominated for congress from the Sixth district without opposition. The election passed off quietly.

WILCOX.—Eight beats of North and Central Wilcox give Samford 182, Stallings 209. The same beats, with Bethel and Peachtree, give Morgan 421 and Johnston 288.

WALKER.—Beats heard from give Samford 21 delegates, Tomlinson 9, Shelley 8, Stallings 5. There will be 77 delegates in county convention. The delegates to state convention will be anti-Stallings. The delegates reported are unanimous for Morgan.

Fatal Wreck on Southern.

The fast freight No. 52 on the Memphis division of the Southern railroad jumped the track near Brownsboro, ten miles east of Huntsville, Sunday afternoon, and piled up at the foot of a high embankment. Engineer Percy Armstrong, of Stevenson, and Fireman Sandy Osborne, colored, were instantly killed. Several members of the freight crew, whose names are unknown, were seriously injured. The train was composed of thirty cars, and was going to Stevenson. Eight loaded cars piled up on top of the engine and caused immense damage. The track is torn up for a distance of 300 feet.

Killed His Wife.

Joe Stringer, living in Benton county, Tenn., killed his wife by choking her to death, and then committed suicide. Stringer used a double-barreled shotgun on himself, his brains being blown into an adjoining room. The couple had been separated, and Stringer had called on his wife, seeking a reconciliation.

There appears to be a constantly growing favor in Australasia for American products. The good feeling which has been recently developed between the United States and Great Britain naturally extends to the latter's colonies and has much influence in removing prejudices against American goods. American agricultural machinery, lumber, illuminating oils and other products are already receiving the preference in Australia and New Zealand, and only care and effort are needed to introduce other lines.

An Iowa man 108 years old was recently killed by a locomotive. The oldest inhabitants of the country should lose no time in denouncing the railroads for interfering with their prospects.

PARIS EXHIBITION OPENED

President Loubet Before a Great Concourse Conducted the Ceremonies.

TRIBUTES ARE PAID TO AMERICA.

The Opening Ceremonies Were a Mixture of Sumptuous Splendor and Widespread Confusion—America Leads All Nations But France in the Number of Exhibitors—State of Unreadiness.

PARIS (By Cable).—The Exhibition of 1900 is opened, but it will be at least a month before anything except buildings is to be seen. The day's ceremonies were a mixture of sumptuous splendor in the Salle des Fetes and wide spread confusion and unreadiness elsewhere.

The weather was, luckily, all that could be desired. Fourteen thousand guests had been invited to the function, and they had, because of the fine weather, only the dust to endure. The afternoon was a holiday in Paris by general consent, and a host of country people crowded into the city to swell the multitudes who from an early hour trudged in the direction of the Exhibition and took up positions along the route of the Presidential procession and at the approaches to the grounds.

The ceremonial within the Salle des Fetes was simplicity itself. The reception to President Loubet at the entrance lasted only a few seconds, and on reaching the Presidential tribune, M. Millerand, the Minister of Commerce, immediately delivered his address, handing over the Exhibition to the Chief of State, which was couched in most eloquent terms. M. Millerand's peroration was especially fine and it brought forth a storm of plaudits.

President Loubet then replied, and the speaking part of the function here ended.

The spectacle that met President Loubet's eyes when, amid the resounding strains of the Marseillaise, he stepped to the front of the Presidential dais on his entry into the Salle des Fetes probably was never seen before within the walls of any building. The vast circus was filled with a sea of human beings who overflowed the balconies jutting out from the sides.

The group among the great assembly which was the most attractive was the body of foreign representatives in picturesque attire. In a mass together were turbaned chiefs; Arab sheiks in flowing robes and with faces muffled in linen cloths; Hungarian magnates in magnificent velvet dolmans trimmed with valuable furs, with green breeches and top boots and wearing fur toques surmounted by waving aigrettes; Chinese and other Oriental emnasy officials in characteristic silk garments; tall Cossacks in sumptuous cloaks with bandoliers slung across their chests from which emerged the polished brass cartridge cases, and trailing heavy sabres.

At the end of President Loubet's speech the procession formed, and amid the strains of "La Marche Heroique," by the Republican Band proceeded across the Salle des Fetes between a hedge of guards with fixed bayonets to the grand staircase, which the party ascended, the Cuirassiers lining the steps, saluting.

On reaching the summit of the stairway President Loubet entered the Salon of Honor, where the ceremony of presentation of commissioners of foreign nations was gone through. In this salon is the American Electrical Exhibit, and here a body of fifty American guards were drawn up. They saluted President Loubet and he acknowledged their greeting, while M. Beaumy Belleville, Director General of the exhibition, turned to United States Commissioner Peck and thanked him for the advanced condition of this exhibit.

The Presidential party then descended into the grounds, emerging into the Champs de Mars at the Chateau Eau. After that the President with his party embarked on a little steamer on the Seine and proceeded up, passing in review the foreign national buildings, which are situated on the river front. When passing the American building, the uniformed attendants of the latter were drawn up in military order and saluted the President, who acknowledged the salute.

The President was greatly pleased at this little courtesy, and, turning to Ambassador Porter, who was beside him on the boat, he remarked:

"The American always does right; this is a magnificent building."

The official party debarked at the new bridge, Alexander III., when the President inaugurated. This ended the ceremonies of the day, and the party scattered in carriages.

Two Illinois Tragedies.

Deputy Sheriff J. R. Orendorf shot his wife in the head and killed her at Danville, Ill. Then he shot himself in the head, dying instantly. Jealousy caused the crime. Sidney S. Powers, a veteran of the Civil War, shot and killed his divorced wife at Elgin, Ill., and then killed himself.

Relative of Washington Dies.

Ebenezer Burges Ball, the nearest surviving relative of George Washington, died at his residence in Washington. He was eighty-four years of age and unmarried. Mr. Ball bore a striking resemblance to General Washington.

While it was known that they had arms, it was not thought they were as well supplied as they are until the first test of strength was made between them and the deputy sheriffs.

This test came when it was decided to send an engine for coal. Coal was needed to operate the pumping works at the dam, which have to be kept going day and night, and at 7:30 a. m. orders were given for an engine to go down and get some cars of coal ready. The men saw the engine come in and [illegible] that the contractors were about to start up without making a settlement with them, they swarmed out of the huts on the hillside and down the hillside to the works. They came armed with clubs, stones, shotguns and revolvers.

Engineer Jacoby had no sooner backed his engine out than it was surrounded by a mob, threatened to kill him if he attempted to run the engine. The [illegible] deputy sheriffs, who were present, were powerless to drive off the crowd. Finally Jacoby decided to give up the attempt. Jacoby left the engine and [illegible] the Italians retired to the hilltop, where [illegible] a guard on watch to prevent a further attempt.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

It has been estimated that even when the sun is pouring down its rays upon the ocean the most directly at noonday, none of its rays penetrate to a depth of over two hundred feet. Could a diver descend to that depth he would find himself shrouded in darkness as profound as though he were immersed in a sea of ink.

Were it not for matter floating in suspension in sea water—minute living organisms and air bubbles due to the breaking of the waves, all of which reflect light—the ocean, looked down into, would be as black as the blackest dyestuff, for in that case none of the sun's rays, having once penetrated it, would return to its surface.

A careful survey of the underground watercourses in the carboniferous limestone district of Yorkshire, England, has revealed the fact that there exists in that county an extensive system of subterranean streams, many of which issue miles away from the points called "sinks," where the water drained from the surface enters the rocks. Similar phenomena in other parts of the world, not yet so carefully investigated, occur on a much larger scale, and recent studies of the ocean bottom near the border of continents have shown that rivers of considerable size sometimes enter the sea beneath the surface.

It is computed by statisticians that the average annual rainfall in the United States would, if by some magical or mechanical device all gathered into one place, exceed by four times the volume of water in Lake Erie, which has an area of nearly ten thousand square miles, and an average depth of two hundred feet. The annual rainfall is computed to be in volume about the same as all the water in the Mediterranean, and any person caught in a storm without an umbrella may, if of a philosophical disposition, take this fact into account as evidence of the truth of the ancient saying that nothing is really so bad but it might be considerably worse.

The National Museum in Washington has come into possession of a meteorite which fell on Thomas hill, in Allegan, Michigan, on July 10, 1899. The fall occurred about eight o'clock in the morning. Observers noticed a slight bluish tinge and a hazy appearance in the track of the descending stone. Some report that they heard a rumbling and rushing noise. The meteorite probably weighed originally seventy pounds, but it was shattered by its fall, the largest piece weighing 62½ pounds. It buried itself eighteen inches in the ground, and was picked up while yet warm. It is friable, and contains finely disseminated metallic iron, olivine in the form of black glass, and some undetermined sulphides.

Professor Paulsen, of Kiel, Germany, has just completed some most interesting experiments upon the voices of males and females between the ages of three and twenty. He examined and tested no less than 862 girls and 1100 boys. As early as twelve years the voice of the males is affected by approaching manhood and its changes. The changing voice lasts intermittently from fourteen to nineteen. Six per cent. of the fourteen-year-old boys speak with manlike voice and three per cent. of the nineteen-year-old boys still speak in boyish tones. By the twentieth year the change is complete, but there is not yet perfect control of the organ. It is still dangerous to strain the voice in singing societies, for the falsetto tones are still unsettled.

Harnessing a Horse.

It is strange, but is nevertheless true, says a writer in Our Animal Friends, that almost every one who has had any experience—however slight—in harnessing a horse believes that he understands thoroughly how to do it. A very simple rule for fitting the bridle is that the bit should touch the corners of the horse's lips without dragging upon them, but too frequently this is disregarded, and the horse suffers a deal of misery from that error alone. Again, and sometimes in conjunction with the mistake we have just mentioned, the brow-band is so short that it draws the metal rings of the rosettes against the roots of the horse's ears, where their pressure causes acute pain. All metal ornaments of any weight at the top of the crown piece, behind and between the ears should be removed because of their pressure upon the base of the brain.

If blinders are used care should be taken that they stand well out from the horse's eyes, otherwise by pressing upon the eyeballs they cause intense pain and also obscure the range of vision. In all cases—unless the horse is so accustomed to blinders that it is absolutely unsafe to drive him without—they should be dispensed with, for they add nothing to a horse's appearance and he is much more comfortable without them. In fact, colts should be trained to drive with an open bridle, and it were well if laws were enacted to that effect.

FLOGGING IN BRITISH NAVY.

Still in Practice, as the Following Account Shows.

On Sept. 23 Thomas McGeehan, late second-class leading stoker of her majesty's ship Doris, was flogged at Simon's Town for the offense of malingering, says London Truth. The report of the circumstances, which appeared in the Western Morning News of Oct. 24, is not very lucid, but I gather from it that the malingering took place while the man was undergoing a sentence of imprisonment on the Penelope for striking a chief stoker. A "medical survey" was first held on the accused, which presumably resulted in a finding that he had been shamming sickness. On this a board of three officers sentenced the man to eighteen lashes. "After receiving eleven lashes," said the report, "the prisoner became insensible and the medical officer present (the staff surgeon of the Monarch) stopped the cruel proceeding, and the wretched man was borne bleeding and senseless to his cell." There does not appear, therefore, to be any suggestion that he was malingering this time. The Western Morning News, in chronicling this incident, expresses the hope that it may lead to a renewed agitation for the abolition of flogging in the navy. I can hardly conceive it possible that any one possessed of ordinary human feeling will fail to join us in this hope. As to the desirability of corporal punishment, whether in the navy or elsewhere, for certain peculiarly brutal classes of crime, opinion may differ. But the idea of flogging a man senseless for such a trumpery offense as that of pretended sickness to evade prison discipline is revolting in the most elementary feelings of justice and humanity. The reader will note that this poor wretch was sentenced (by three officers commanding her majesty's ships, and with the approval of the commander-in-chief of the station) to receive eighteen lashes, and what that punishment would have meant, had it been carried out, may be judged from the fact that the man had become senseless from pain and a medical officer had to interfere before two-thirds of the sentence had been executed. Such a result, considered in conjunction with the paltry character of the "crime" for which this murderous penalty was imposed, should convince any one of the utter unfitness of many of our naval officers to be intrusted with such powers over their subordinates.

The process by which an English factory converts rancid butter, bought up at a low price, into fresh butter is stated to consist in working into a uniform semi-liquid mass with fresh buttermilk, then blowing through this a current of hot air, and afterward a current of cold air. The former expels the butyric acid to which the smell and taste of rancid butter are due, while any impurities present fall to the bottom. The cold air separates the butter into globules, when it is kneaded with water, salted, colored a little if necessary and is ready for sale as fresh butter.

The codfish are feeding on the young lobsters to such an extent that it will not take long to exterminate them. Through the efforts of the United States fish commission codfish seems to have increased greatly in numbers. The fishermen around Block Island and Watch Hill say that cod are growing more plentiful every year, and they say further that when dressing codfish they frequently find young lobsters whole inside of the larger fish. Evidently young lobsters are becoming a delicate morsel for some of their companions of the sea.

RICH IN RESOURCES

Some Splendid Opportunities Are Open in the Australian Colonies.

Queensland is practically undeveloped as yet, and it is only 40 years old, that having been the time since its separation as a colony. It contains nearly 700,000 square miles, and has only 500,000 population. North Queensland has a population of only 100,000, and yet it is an exceedingly rich section in natural resources. Charter Towers, 82 miles west of Townsville, the principal gold mining section, produced 457,850 ounces of gold in 1898, of the value of $5,784,720, and the total output of gold for the colony during the past year was 920,048 ounces, valued at $13,751,775. The colony has produced, up to date, minerals to the value of $225,000,000. Copper, silver, tin etc., are some of the minerals existing in large quantities. Within the next few years there will be a tremendous output of copper, as a railroad is being built to the very rich Chilagoe mines. North Queensland is a great grazing country, and, as the climate and the abundance of native grasses are all favorable to grazing, the profit on sheep and cattle is very large. There are numbers of sheep ranches on which there are 100,000 sheep, one of which has 1,250,000 head. Cattle raising is also extensively engaged in, the exports of cattle from the northern portion of the colony alone being 2,500 head a day for ten months in the year. A herder can sell cattle at—with a profit—$5 a head, and when he gets $10, as he often does, the profit is very great.—Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

Insects Committing Suicide.

It is stated that insects have been known deliberately to kill themselves under certain forms of torture or provocation. Experiments have been tried upon wasps, which are extremely sensitive to benzine and dislike the odor very much. A tumbler was sprinkled with benzine, then inverted over a wasp, which at once attacked a bit of paper that was under the glass. Finally the wasp appeared to become desperate. He threw himself on his back, bent himself together and drove his sting three times into his body, then he died. Repeated trials convinced the scientists that wasps would, under these circumstances, take their own lives, as several of them got out of their uncomfortable atmosphere in this way.

For Malaria, Chills and Fever

THE BEST PRESCRIPTION IS Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The formula is plainly printed on every bottle—hence you know just what you are taking when you take Grove's. Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called Tasteless Chill Tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

Nature's MOST Natural Remedy

Improved by Science to a PLEASANT, PERMANENT, POSITIVE CURE

For Coughs, Colds, and all Inflamed Surfaces of the Lungs and Bronchial Tubes.

Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

The sore, weary cough-worn lungs are exhilarated, the microbe bearing mucus is cut out, the cause of that tickling is removed, and the inflamed membranes are healed and soothed so that there is no inclination to cough.

A COLD! A COUGH! CONSUMPTION!

My little daughter has been subject to severe colds and croup, and often taken with violent coughing spells at night. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is the only preparation I have found that will relieve her. I think it is necessary in the household.—E. L. Jones, Louisville, Ky.

I have been seriously affected for twenty-five years with a cough and pains in my side and breast that were causing me a miserable life. I spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and for medicine, but everything failed until I used Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It beats the world, and has saved my life. I recommend Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey to everybody with weak lungs. It is a great success.—J. B. Rossell, Grantsburg, Ill.

I have sold Pine-Tar-Honey for a year. Find it a splendid remedy, a good seller. Sold the bottles to Stella Howell, of this place, who considered to have consumption, is now in good health.—J. [illegible], Druggist, Grantsburg, Ill.

BEWARE!

In buying Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25c than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less.

Therefore some druggists are persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit. DON'T YOU DO IT. DEMAND

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

AND TAKE NO OTHER.

Sold by the Campbelle Drug Co. Clanton.

A Woman Only Knows

what suffering from falling of the womb, whites, painful or irregular menses, or any disease of the distinctly feminine organs is. A man may sympathize or pity but he can not know the agonies she goes through—the terrible suffering, so patiently borne, which robs her of beauty, hope and happiness. Yet this suffering really is needless.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

will banish it. This medicine cures all "female diseases" quickly and permanently. It does away with humiliating physical examinations. The treatment may be taken at home. There is not continual expense and trouble. The sufferer is cured and stays cured.

Wine of Cardui is becoming the leading remedy for all troubles of this class. It costs but $1 from any druggist.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

Macedonia.

The plows stood still all of last week, the ce farmers are somewhat behind in this section. Though some cotton seed has been planted.

The roads are in bad condition since so much rain.

There was a musicale at Mr. John Crumpton's last Saturday night.

Prof. Martin's school at this place is holding up well.

Bro. A. Glass has tendered his resignation as Sunday-school superintendent, and Bro. James Nix has been elected to fill his place. Bro. Glass has faithfully served us for a number of years.

There was singing at Mr. J. L. Palmer's last Sunday.

Lagrippe, bad colds, are prevalent in this section and a few cases of pneumonia.

Some people have acted wisely we saw three bales of cotton Thursday on its way to the "city" of Randolph.

Dr. J. W. Jones died at his home at Randolph, Monday, the 16 h inst., night at 12 o'clock. He was sick about two weeks with pneumonia and suffered a great deal before the grim reaper—death—came to relieve him from his sufferings. Dr. Jones will be sadly missed, as he was a successful doctor, and a friend to all, and made friends wherever he went. The remains were carried to his father's home at Independence, Autauga co., and enterred in the family grave yard by the side of his wife. He leaves two little children, twins, a boy and a girl.

Mrs. Palmer died at her home in Randolph the 16th inst., and was laid to rest in the Antioch cemetery.

Success to the faithful Banner.

Maplesville.

Heavy rainfall is yet retarding much farm work; our sensible farmers instead of crying over spilt milk or water, now are stepping out between showers to catch up with their work.

The "Ides of March have come and gone." This is applicable to our carnival, no Cæsar was stabbed to death, but much care was killed by the games, the dancers and the speakers, all seemed to have a most enjoyable time.

Col. Sanford's speech was so interspersed with so many applicable anecdotes as to be enjoyed by those opposed to his politics. We will certainly have a model government if our numerous candidates keep their promises. Let us live in hope that they will, but a few fear that there will be a non-performance of their many promises.

Mr R. D. Martin has gone to Birmingham on business.

There has been a wreck on each of our railroads near here, but none of the particulars have been learned, since this noble fraternity attends strictly to their own business and even women can find out but little of their affairs.

Rev. Freeman has been a visitor of Mr. Atkins of this place.

Miss Willie Blalack has returned from a visit to her aunt, Mrs. Rosberry.

Miss Lillie and Mr. Willie Bowline have made a most enjoyable visit to their aunt, Mrs. Wm. Lawrence, at Oakmulgee.

Turn-Round Topics.

Mrs. Kendrick and M. C. Williams' family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Connell.

Last week was a wet one here, and some of us cut and hauled cross-ties as farm work was at a stand still. Some have planted cotton while others have their first cotton row yet to list. That is the condition of this community.

W. A. Goss and David Kendrick visited Friendship Sunday.

A bible school was organized here Sunday with E. L. Jones superintendent.

William Johnson and another Clantonian was seen in these parts one day last week.

W. N. Pierce went to Montgomery and bought a supply of goods last week, has now a small stock at Burwell post office.

B. F. Taylor, of Gullahorn's mill, was here Sunday.

Mr. Mims' family continues to improve; not one of them is now sarily able to work.

The fruit crop at present is very promising and makes one feel assured of a good fruit crop.

The weather is so changeable, I wonder if it could'nt change round for the farmer's interest just now? Gardens, though they are late are looking very well. Irish potatoes first planted looking fine, while late ones seem to have rotted before coming up.

Miss Ada Johnson, of Birmingham, visited her grandparents here recently.

John Hammons broke one thimble and skein of his log dray one day last week.

The Pattillo Bros. are having a nice buggy made out and out with some exceptions. T. M. Howard is the workman and a good one too.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. U. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at, 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught A dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend to my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits. For sale by Clanton Drug company, and D. I. Peramus, Verbena.

We are having a lot of rain in this section of country; farmers are behind with their work on account of so much bad weather. Everything is lovely in Vick.

Mr. C. W. Plant went to Clanton on business last week.

Mr and Mrs Jones, of Perry, are visiting relatives here.

Mr. R. M. Cooper went to Centerville Tuesday.

Mr. J. W. Honeycutt is off on business this week.

The mill had to stop on account of high water.

We have a nice Sunday-school here and singing in the evening.

Mr. Will Keener went to Tuskaloosa Friday on business.

We are glad to know that Mrs. Herler is improving.

The Honeycutt & Neal lumber company is building a tram road and repairing their saw mills; they expect to do a large business here in short time. We are glad we have got such a good boss man as Mr. C. W. Plant.

Mrs Mull, of Stanton, visited friends and relatives here Sunday.

Messrs. Newt Ramsey and Brig Sexton, of Stanton were in Vick Sunday.

Election is over, some are sick and some are all smiles.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Jinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs Geo. F. Parsons & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this remedy to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." For sale by Clanton drug company, and D. I. Peramus, Verbena.

WANTED TO KILL DEWEY.

Strange Story of a Poor Old Man's Madness.

P. A. Summey, and old Confederate soldier, was sent to the state insane asylum at Milledgeville, Ga., Monday. In the course of an investigation into his condition it was ascertained that his mind has been wrong for two years, and that his mania has been to kill somebody of prominence.

When he saw the announcement that Admiral Dewey was coming to Macon on March 22 it occurred to him that this would afford the opportunity of his life; and he made his plans to assassinate the admiral in Macon. But on the morning before the Admiral and Mrs. Dewey arrived Mr. Summey had one of his lucid periods. He says he fully realized what he had been planning to do and fearing that he might again become deranged while the admiral was here, he immediately left for the country, remaining there several days. When he again lost control of his mental facilities his mania directed itself against some other public man, but having no opportunity to kill anybody of national consequence he made no definite plans. He was preparing to kill himself when arrested.

GREATR THAN EXPECTED.

Damage of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

The Mobile & Ohio officials at Mobile have flood telegrams from from Superintendents Fonde and Seals, from Quitman, Miss., saying that the task of gting the Mobile & Ohio in shape is more difficult than expected. Fonde wis that the iron bridge below Quitan needs attention, but how muche is unable to say, as the water is ill too high to permit of close examnation. A trestle there has left th track and stringers and nothing bt bents are standing, and these are at of alignment. A mile and a half track is off the embankment and i the woods. The water is falling, ut much of the roadbed is still covered. Superintendent Seals says repairs cannot be completed beforeThursday night.

TRAGEDY AT METCALF.

A Miner Lost His Life in Prosecuting His Work.

A frightful tragedy occurred Saturday in the coal mines at Metcalf, Ala., a short distance from Chattanooga, resulting in he death of Russell Prabst, a mine Prabst went to work in the coal mit as usual, and being obliged to go outside for something, mounted one of train of cars that are drawn in and outside. The passageway of the mine llow and on the way out, while the train of cars was running at a high rate of speed, Prabst being very tall and unable to crouch down low enough, struck his head against one of the cise-timbers of the roof overhead, crushing his skull and knocking him backward on the car, his body catching aginst the next timber and the end of ne of the loaded cars, completely stopping and stalling the train, the drum in the power house refusing to turn.

Hawaiian Government.

The conferees of the two houses of congress Saturday reached an agreement on the differences to the bill providing for the government for the Hawaiian Islands. In this ageement all provisions in reference to taxes previous to registration are stricken out and imprisonment for ordinary debt on account of taxes is prohibited. A provision was also agreed to making it certain that the laws of the United States in relation to seamen be extended to Hawaii.

The British Board of Trade Journal says that in recent years nettle fibre has come greatly into favor in the manufacture of fine yarns and tissues. Many factories in Germany use these fibres for spinning and other purposes. Nettle fibre produces one of the finest tissues obtainable from any known kind of vegetable fibre. In view of the importance which this seems likely to attain in connection with the weaving industries, it is intended to introduce the cultivation of nettles, if possible, into the Cameroons. The idea is to prepare the products of this experimental culture at the place where they are obtained, and test them in German factories. Should favorable results follow from these experiments, it is intended to organize nettle growing enterprises on an extensive scale.

Young Man Killed at Chapel Hill. First Shipment of Steel Wire Nails. A Court House to Be Completed. Big Damage Suit—Brevities.

Big Damage Suit.

J. M. Jackson, of Hockinford, Ohio, has instituted a damage suit in the circuit court of Calhoun county against the Southern Railway. Jackson asks $50,000 damages for the loss of both feet, which he alleges was cut off by a Southern train.

Fire at Elba.

Elba had a disastrous fire a few nights ago. About midnight flames were discovered in the new brick store occupied by A. R. Jones & Co. Three other buildings, two occupied by L. H. Morris & Son, merchants, and the third used as the postoffice were destroyed. The origin of the fire is not known. The total loss will be $7,000 or $8,000.

Killed by Train.

James Kennedy, a miner of Wylam, was killed by a Birmingham Southern train at Ensley. The body of the man was so horribly mutilated that it could not be identified until seen by his wife at the undertaker's shop. She identified it by the clothing and a mark on one arm. Kennedy appears to have been crossing the track near the steel plant in the dark when a train backed down on him.

Killing at Chapel Hill.

Two young men, Toker Boazman and Walter Finney, engaged in a difficulty at Chapel Hill, seven miles north of LaFayette, and the former was shot by the latter in the stomach, inflicting a wound which caused death. Both young men were members of prominent families. No particulars as to cause can be ascertained.

Will Force the Dispensary Issue.

Dr. G. B. Crowe, state chairman of the populite party, stated a few days ago that his party would force the fight in the coming campaign for the dispensary. He stated that the populites would force the democrats to take one or the other side on this issue. He predicts a good attendance at the state convention of the party to be held in Birmingham on May 2.

First Shipment of Steel Wire Nails.

The first shipment of steel wire nails from the Alabama steel wire, rod and nail works at Ensley was made a few days ago when fifty-five kegs of steel wire nails were sent to the Mayberry Hardware Company, Birmingham, who will act as distributing agents. The entire plant will be in operation in a few weeks. Some days since the rod mill department went to work.

To Complete Lauderdale's Court House.

Eley & Smith, of Chattanooga, Tenn., were awarded the contract for the completion of the Lauderdale county court house, the price being $23,000. The original contract called for $27,845, and was held by Arthur Marshall, who jumped the job after spending some $12,000 on it. He had drawn only $9,800 from the county, leaving about $18,500 still due on the original contract.

Plow Works Locate in Birmingham.

Another big industry has been secured for Birmingham. The new company, which will have a capital stock of $300,000, and will employ 250 men, will manufacture plows, and goes to Birmingham without asking for a single dollar of local capital or for a bonus, having been attracted by the natural advantages offered by the district to plants of that kind. The plant will be located just below the rolling mill, and will be moved from Columbus, Ga., where it has been in successful operation for several years. The deal has been closed, and according to the present plans the plant will occupy ten acres.

Killed His Wife.

News of a tragedy near Clopton was received in Eufaula Sunday. W. H. Slanson and his wife became involved in a difficulty and the latter drew a revolver and fired three times at her husband. Slanson thereupon seized a club and dealt his wife a blow, killing her instantly. It cannot be learned whether Slanson received any wounds or not. The cause of the difficulty is not known.

COUNTY CONVENTIONS.

Colonel Samford is Leading in the Race for Governor.

County conventions were held throughout the state Saturday and all doubt as to the way many delegations would vote has been dispelled.

Reports would indicate that the estimates as to Colonel Samford's strength have been verified and many of his friends predict his nomination on the first ballot, though the Shelley and Waller forces are prepared to make a hard fight.

From the returns received it appears that Colonel Samford has received instructions in twenty-nine counties with total of 142 delegates; Mr. Waller five counties with 66 delegates; General Shelley four counties with 57 delegates and Mr. Stallings seven counties with 41 delegates. Fourteen counties with a total of 108 delegates, report uninstructed delegations. This leaves a total of ninety delegates yet to be heard from. These delegates are to come largely from West Alabama. It is in that section that the Southern Railway covers most of the territory and on account of the strike among the operators, it is impossible to get news from most of the points.

Among the doubtful counties which acted are Walker, Shelby, Lauderdale, Morgan and Monroe. All of these counties instructed their delegates to vote for William J. Samford, Blount county, which has also been in doubt, instructed for Stallings, with Samford second choice.

The official count caused Morgan county to break the record, and gave governor Johnston a majority of 44 votes over Senator Morgan. This is the only county which gave Johnston a majority in the recent primaries.

The Bigbee on the Rampage.

The Bigbee river is higher than ever known, or one foot and one-tenth above the high water mark, and is still rising. The northern part of Demopolis is under water. The Black Water company's sawmill and the Demopolis Cooperage plant are submerged. The Southarn railway has five miles of track overflowed, and the town is cut off from rail communication with the outside world. The farmers along the river say they cannot make more than half a crop, as the water will go down late and the cotton will come into the hot season without strength to meet the worms and the drought. Hardly any farming will be done before the middle of May.

After Wheeler's Seat.

Colonel Cutler Smith announces that he will be a candidate for congress to fill the place made vacant by General Wheeler. Colonel Smith says he will run as an independent republican. He is at present a candidate for the state senate on the same ticket but will withdraw from the race and go after higher honors.

Big Shipment of Cotton Cloth to China.

The largest single foreign shipment of cotton cloth ever made from the south was forwarded Saturday by the Dwight cotton mills of Alabama City. The shipment comprised seventeen car loads, and is destined for points in the Chinese empire.

BRIEFLY MENTIONED.

Dr. John A. McKinnon, of Selma, widely known in Alabama, lies at death's door from blood poison, the result of rheumatism.

A new postoffice has been established in Tuskaloosa county known as Tierce, which is situated in the southern part of the county.

Ed Clinard, of Birmingham, a shoemaker by profession, died from the effects of a dose of laudanum, which is supposed to have been taken with suicidal intent.

The city of Anniston has property valued at $3,771,678, $2,556,480 being real estate, and $1,215,258 personal. On this valuation there is to be collected $21,858.39 of taxes.

Rev. H. W. Browder, president of the Athens Female college in Athens, has tendered to the board of trustees his resignation as president, and after the close of this term he will return to Kentucky, from whence he came.

Shot Through the Heart.

George A. Raulston shot John H. Woods in the heart, instantly killing him, in Knoxville, Tenn. As strangers they met in a saloon and began a quarrel. On the street a few minutes later the difficulty culminated in Raulston shooting Woods twice, once in the heart. Raulston claims he did the act in self defense and has surrendered.

GREAT LOSS BY FLOODS

Devastation and Ruin of Crops in Mississippi and Louisiana.

THE LOSS AMOUNTS TO THREE MILLION

Many Farm Houses Swept Away by the Waters—Heavy Loss of Life Reported in Chunky River Swamp.

The flood situation in Mississippi and Louisiana remains gloomy; but little change in the conditions reported heretofore. Authentic reports regarding damage to crops in country districts adjacent to Vicksburg by the heavy rains of the early days of the week have just come to hand. From these reports the devastation and ruin is widespread, crops, especially corn, being nearly a total loss. Whole fields, recently plowed and seeded were swept clear by the mad rush of waters down the hillsides, even the loose top earth being carried away down to the hard strata below.

The flood has already caused, at a conservative estimate, fully $3,000,000 loss in central and southern Mississippi, to say nothing of the damages by the railroads. The extent of the losses have not yet been fully realized, and it may be some days yet before an accurate total can be reached. In Louisiana, too, the damage done by the unprecedented rains was great, but in this state they are more inferential than positive. A special from Columbia, Miss., fixes the loss in that little town and its immediate vicinity at $500,000.

Many farm houses were carried away by the mad waters, the occupants barely escaping with their lives and the number of cattle destroyed was great. A great many gins and mills were washed away, and many saw mills saw their lumber piles melted away as if by magic. Nearly every bridge around Columbia was swept down stream. Pearl river is now higher than it has been known for many years. Miles and miles of the New Orleans & Northeastern are still under water.

Honey Island, the rendezvous of the noted train robber, Burch, is under twenty feet of water, and the island, which has for years been one of the natural game preserves, is now devoid of wild animals.

Distressing news comes from Hickory, Miss., which is completely surrounded by water and inundated in many localities. Hundreds of hogs and cattle near this point were drowned, and miles of fencing and valuable timber washed away. The latest advices from the town of Enterprise state that the losses there have been great and much destitution prevails. Half a score of towns are completely cut off from the outside world as they have been since the early part of the week. From Chunky River swamps, near Enterprise, comes the news of a heavy loss of life.

Pascagoula Bridge Swept Away by Floods.

Two spans of the big Louisville & Nashville bridge at West Pascagoula, Miss., were forced ten feet out of place Sunday morning by floating logs coming down the overflowed river. The passenger service is badly crippled, and passengers and mails are being transferred in boats. The freight traffic is entirely suspended.

Later advices from Pascagoula say one-half of the bridge is now gone and if the wind shifts the structure will be totally destroyed.

Naval Bill Passed.

The house at once entered upon the consideration of the naval appropriation bill Saturday. Mr. Underwood made an explanation of his course, saying the minority felt it had not had a fair opportunity to debate the armor plate eature of the bill. Mr. Vandiver (Mo.) moved to recommit the bill. Mr. Foss made a point of order against the motion. The speaker sustained the point on the ground that the suggestion contained a proper point of order. The bill was then passed without division.

Irish fear of conscription to obtain recruits for the war in South Africa has resulted in an extraordinary exodus of young men from the south of Ireland, most of them coming to America.

BLOODY WEEK IN THE PHILIPPINES

Insurgents Have Been Aggressive in Almost Every Province of Luzon.

Last week was one of the bloodiest of the war since the first day's fighting around Manila. Authentic reports, mostly official, show a total of 878 Filipinos killed, twelve officers and 244 men captured and many more wounded. The number wounded is hardly guessable. The wounded entirely test the hospital capacity, and a great majority of them will die. Probably the week's work finished 1,000 insurgents. The American loss was nine killed and sixteen wounded. Two sergeants and one private were killed in ambush while escorting provision trains.

The insurgents have been aggressive in almost every province of Luzon. General Pio del Pilar's band, numbering 300, which was out of sight for three months, the leader being reported killed, has reappeared in its old field about San Miguel, consisting of three companies of the Thirty-fifth infantry, with a Gatling, a three hours fight during a night attack. The loss of the insurgents in this engagement is not included in the foregoing total, as they removed their dead and wounded, but presumably it was considerable.

CANAL BILL TO COME UP

In the House May 1, and It Will Be Passed.

The committee on interstate and foreign commerce Friday made an important change in the Hepburn Nicaragua canal bill, striking out the provision for the "fortification," and thus providing what is expected to be a compromise which will aid in bringing the measure to an early consideration.

The amendment was proposed by Representative Barham, of California. The chairman of the committee was instructed to offer the same upon consideration of the bill at the proper time as the committee amendment thereto.

Following the announcement of the changes in the bill, Mr. Hepburn stated that it had been definitely arranged that the house would take up the canal bill on May 1 and 2.

INVESTIGATION COMPLETE.

Indictment Against Taylor to Be Held Up for a Few Days.

While the Franklin, Ky., grand jury has not adjourned, it is understood that the investigation of the Goebel assassination has been completed. The indictment against republican Governor Taylor, charging him with being an accessory to the murder, will be held up until after the argument of the governorship contest case, which is docketed for hearing before the supreme court at Washington April 30, and it is said by persons in the councils of the prosecution that no such warrant will be issued, or other steps taken in the case until after that time. The rumor that Governor Beckham has been applied to for a requisition is without foundation.

STRIKERS STARVING.

Acute Destitution Reported From Chicago.

Starvation has become a factor in the building, at Chicago. President Carrol of the Building Trades council estimates that 10,000 workmen are is actual want, and that their families, 45,000 persons are now in the acute stage of suffering as a result of the strike. The labor leaders realize his condition and are making preparations for relief on a large scale.

KILLED WHITE MAN.

Negro Then Escaped the Posse and Committed Suicide.

A special from Minden, La., says: A telephone message from Allenton, near the Bossier line, gave this news of the killing of Mr. Will White by a negro. Mr. White had an occasion to reprimand the negro, and after working two hours, while Mr. White's back was turned to the negro, he deliberately shot him in the back, killing him instantly. Immediately the negro ran to his house, about a quarter of a mile distant, and before a posse could apprehend him he killed himself.

Canned Roast Beef to Be Used.

The War Department officials have been compelled to resort to the use of canned roast beef in the subsistence of the army in the Philippines. This is due to the fact that it is absolutely essential that the soldiers shall be served with fresh meat because of the impossibility of providing refrigerated beef or cattle on the hoof under existing conditions.

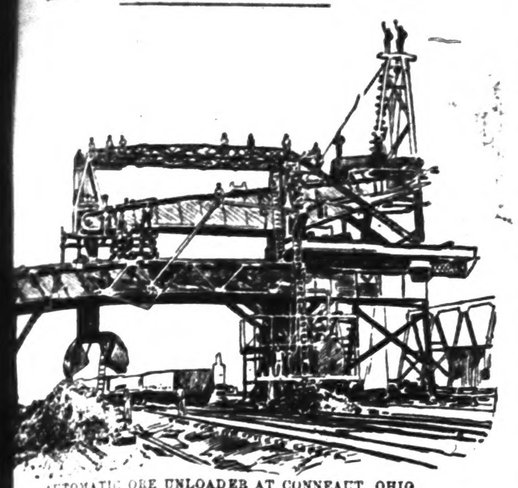
MOST WONDERFUL OF MACHINES.



AUTOMATIC ORE UNLOADER AT CONNEAUT, OHIO.

most wonderful machine on the chain of great lakes will be in oper- coming season on the Carnegie docks at Conneaut, Ohio. With its tion at all lake ports there will be little demand for unskilled labor. ivers at Conneaut, realizing this fact, regard the new machine with displeasure. During its construction it was deemed prudent to at night for a time under the glare of several arc lights to insure its ion. With the new machine six men can unload a vessel in the same it requires a force of 100 to do the same work. The weight of the chine is 400 tons. Its height is more than fifty feet. Equipped ny swivel and hinge joints its movements are almost human. In the riod of time that one laborer can sink his shovel into the ore in a hold and lift a few pounds, the scoop of this machine grasps ten tons.

Some of these grooves of trees were offered for sale recently at ridiculously low prices—$20 an acre for large tracts that have in some places six or seven of the great trees upon each acre.

It is difficult to realize that but for the prompt action of Congress, for a few dollars one could have bought a tree so old that our entire civilization has lasted for a time which is only the fraction of its age. People of California have been accustomed to look upon them as the deities of that land. No wonder a summer day spent in the Sierra Nevadas under the redwoods is one never to be forgotten. The wind may blow if it will, but so faintly does sound descend that it seem more like the rolling of a distant ocean. Sound and silence alike are majestic and impressive in those surroundings.

Here Bret Hart located one of his most fascinating stories, with an Indian lover living in a spacious hall within a hollow tree. Here he hides and shields from danger of outlaws his paleface sweetheart. What more romantic place in which to unfold the love of a wild, passionate child of nature?

Many of the hollow trees in the grove have served the more prosaic purpose of homes for miners and prospectors. In 1853 one of the largest trees in the Calaveras grove was cut down and the trunk smoothed off. Five men were busy over three weeks felling it by means of burning and the use of pump augers. The stump is twenty-four and a half by twenty-three feet, and Professor Whitney counted 1255 annular rings, which, making allowance for the core of the tree, indicates an age of about 1300 years.

That a vast difference exists between the ages of these trees is now generally accepted as a fact, and this tree was evidently of the younger have been sheltered at the same time from a storm.

The gigantea is wont to play jokes on travelers, and they are elephantine enough to be serious. The camper is never tempted to seek rest in the grasses and ferns and shrubs at its base, for he is liable to be bombarded with cones, and as they are about the size and weight of eggs, a drop of several hundred feet gives them surprising force. But the real danger lies in the limbs, which frequently fall, though the tree may apparently have none to spare.

In the Mariposa grove there are standing 365 large sequoias—one for every day in the year. This grove was donated by Congress to California in trust at the same time (1864) and by the same act as the Yosemite Valley, and is managed by the same board of commissioners. A troop of cavalry guards the domain.

Upon the fallen tree itself was maintained a tenpin alley and a reception room.

The Baptist Church in Santa Rosa was, with the exception of the arches, built entirely of lumber secured from one redwood, and but half of the tree was used at that. The age of this giant was estimated at 1200 years.

When one of these big trees gives up the ghost and falls under a stress of wind, it goes down like an avalanche of the Sierras. The ground trembles and the crash and ruin in its path mark a tragedy of nature.

The "Father of the Forest" in the Calaveras grove, which fell not long ago, had seen a thousand years when the great majority of its present associates were either non-existent or literally but little larger than mustard seeds. Its first limbs are 100 feet from the base, and, with a diameter of six feet, compare favorably with the largest trees of the country east of the Rockies. There are 125 trees in the lower and upper groves ever forty feet in circumference. In the Yosemite National Park, in a belt about two and a half miles long by two miles wide is the next largest grove of redwood trees. Here are some 600 trees which would be considered too large as shade trees for the broadest avenue. The largest has a circumference of eighty-one feet three feet above the earth. It is in many ways the greatest and grandest forest on the globe.

The big trees are generally wearing away with time and weather, and seem to have outlived the age in which they belonged, so that they will drop their limbs and topple themselves all too soon without the vandal's axe to bring them down. Many of them show signs of decay, and some are hollow at the base, though still living, with the heart gone. In the hollows of those woodland giants there is frequently plenty of space for a comfortable house of three or four rooms, and in one of them seventeen horses

STATE NEWS GLEANINGS.

Capt. A. W. Bowie Killed by a Freight Train.

Captain A. W. Bowie, one of the eldest and most prominent citizens of Talladega county, was killed Monday morning at 8 o'clock by a freight train on the Southern railway.

The accident occurred near the depot where the train was switching. Captain Bowie was standing on the track apparently unconscious of his danger, and was struck by the train and dragged several feet before the train could be stopped. His body was not mangled, the unfortunate old man having been struck on the head, which caused death.

Captain Bowie was 78 years old and was a soldier in both the Mexican and civil wars, gaining his title as commander of Company D, First Alabama Infantry. He leaves several sons, J. C., F. B., A. Y., and Leroy Bowie, of Talladega, and Hon. Sid J. Bowie, of Anniston.

Died From Overjoy.

A telegram was received in Huntsville announcing the sudden death at Washington of Christopher Columbus, a well known negro preacher. The cause of death was overjoy. Columbus was a veteran of the union army, having been a member of one of the negro regiments that fought in the civil war, and went to Washington a short while ago to put in a claim for a pension. The claim was allowed, and back pensions to the amount of $300 ordered paid. This sudden step from poverty to comparative affluence had some strange effect and caused death.

Gen. Wheeler Resigns.

The following letter explains itself:

"To Governor Joseph F. Johnston, Montgomery, Ala.:

"Sir—I forwarded my resignation as a member of congress to you yesterday. It has been suggested that it might be well if it were accepted to take effect when my successor is elected, as that would enable me to do more in working for the district in the meantime, but that is a matter for your better judgment.

"Very respectfully yours,

"JOSEPH WHEELER."

The Floods Around Selma.

A Selma dispatch says: The first train for several days over the Southern came in Monday morning from Meridian via Akron. Trains are now running only as far as Faunsdale, just this side of Demopolis. The Southern track is under water for ten miles this side of the Tombigbee river and the bridge at Devil's Run is floating, and several box cars had to be left on it to keep it in place. The Cahaba river is two miles wide and the Alabama at this point is still rising slowly.

Blackman Nominated.

Fred L. Blackman, of Anniston, a law partner of Knox & Bowie, and a strong Morgan man, was nominated for state senator from the Seventh district, composed of Calhoun and Cleburne counties in the democratic convention held Monday.

Prof. J. S. Laverty, of Talladega, has discovered a large deposit of iron ore on his place near Shocco Springs. There are 120 acres of the land, and the ore analyzes a very fine grade.

A fine vein of coal has been opened up a few miles south of Moulton. Arrangements will be made to develop the property at once.

In Command of Asiatic Squadron.

According to cable advices to the navy department, Rear Admiral George C. Remey assumed command of the Asiatic station Friday.

Mississippi Veterans to Meet.

Brig.-Gen. George V. White, commanding the Mississippi Division of United Confederate Veterans, has issued a general order calling for a meeting at Vicksburg on the second day of May, with a special request to all camps in his brigade to attend in a body.

Turkish Boat Destroyed.

News has just been received from Beyrout, Syria, to the effect that the Turkish torpedo boat Schmayl blew up in that harbor April 21, resulting in the loss of twenty-three lives.

True to His Name.

Albert J. Deady, an inspector for the National Cash Register company, and his 16-year-old wife, jumped from a bridge into the canal at Dayton, Ohio, and were drowned, each tightly clasped in the others arms. They leave a young baby.

Duke of Argyll Dead.

George Douglas Campbell, Duke of Argyll, died in London Monday.

In the Mississippi Legislature.

In three things only are women superior to men; they are superior to men as nurses, as teachers of young children, and no man can trim a hat equal to a woman. In all other respects men are the superiors of women. The best cooks are men; the best housekeepers are men. Although nearly every girl takes piano lessons and studies music, all of the great piano-players and musicians are men. These facts have been demonstrated by thousands of years of experience. Women who are trying to become lawyers, and who imagine that they can divide up the world's material rewards with men, should remember that they carry a serious handicap; nature intended that women should travel in certain paths, and will not reward them in other directions. Women are natural nurses and natural teachers. They should be natural housekeepers and cooks; they would be if they didn't fritter away so much of their time in running after foolish things.—Atchison Globe.

The tramways, omnibuses and underground railway in and around London, within a radius of five miles, carry each year, it is calculated, about 453,000,000 passengers.

FLOOD SITUATION WORSE.

Heavy Rains Cause a Rise in the Mississippi Rivers.

The flood situation south of Meridian, Miss., has changed for the worse. Heavy rains Sunday night caused a decided rise in the waters of the Okatibee, Chunky and Chickasaw rivers, streams that have caused so much damage to the three railroads running south from Meridian. The Chunky river is even with its banks, and is still rising. Every report is disheartening to railroad officials, who fear full traffic cannot be resumed inside of three weeks. The citizens in small towns, shut out from the outside world, are growing desperate, it being one week, in many instances, since they received a pound of freight or mail.

At Meridian the situation is bad, only the Mobile and Ohio road being able to handle freight. The Alabama Great Southern is finding great difficulty in handling one passenger train daily. The company is unable to say when freight traffic will be resumed.

A heroic fight is going on at Scranton and Moss Point by railroad and lumbermen to save the large property interests in that locality. The Louisville and Nashville railroad men, headed by General Manager Metcalf and Superintendent Marshall are working like beavers trying to hold the track against the flood. Both Metcalf and Marshall are in the thick of it like common laborors, inspiring their men to great exertion.

Famous Back Tax Suit Settled.

The famous back tax suit of the Board of Mississippi Levee Commissioners against the Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad company has been settled, the railroad company, through its attorney, J. B. Harris, of Jackson, Miss., paying to Walter Sellers, attorney for the board, the sum of $125,000, the amount agreed upon as the basis of compromise. The railroad company by this settlement secures a perfect title to all the lands in the levee district involved in the back tax suits.

Japan Will Stop Emigration.

Information has reached Washington to the effect that the Japanese government itself, and without waiting a request from the United States, is about to take steps to restrict the immigration of Japanese coolies to the United States. It is said that such large emigration as has lately occurred has resulted entirely from the competition of two great Japanese emigration societies; that the laborers have been practically brought here under the delusion that there were untold opportunities for work at great wages.

Carter's Appeal Dismissed.

In the United States supreme court Monday Chief Justice Fuller handed down the opinion of the court in the case of Captain Oberlin M. Carter, dismissing his appeal from the decision of the circuit court of the southern district of New York. The effect of the decision is to leave in force the decision of the circuit court, refusing to interfere in the sentence of the court martial, which sentenced Carter to five years' imprisonment.

Taylor in Washington.

Governor W. A. Taylor of Kentucky, who has been for several days in New York, returned to Washington Monday. His present expectation is to remain in Washington until after the disputed governorship contest is argued in the supreme court next week. The governor admitted that he had conferred with republican leaders about his case. He preferred, however, not to go into details regarding the conference.

The Porte Will Pay.

A Constantinople message says: The Porte has replied to the American demands, stating that Turkey will compensate American missionaries under the same conditions as in the case of other foreign subjects.

A Tragic Suicide.

Leaping high into the air as an expert diver would do in taking a fancy plunge into the water, an unknown man committed suicide at the foundry works of the H. C. Frick Coke company, Connellsville, Pa., by diving into a coke oven.

Panuco Destroyed by Fire.

A special from Tempico, Mexico, says: Telegraphic advices received here state that Panuco, the most important trading port of the river of that name, was totally destroyed by fire. Two thousand people are homeless. The majority of them are coming to Tampico for shelter. The property loss has not been as yet ascertained, but it will doubtless be large.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

Canaries, in the mating season, seem to vie with each other in the production of brilliant melody, and it is admitted that the female birds always select the best singers for their mates.

A radiometer for measuring the heat radiation of the stars has been tested at the Yerkes observatory. The instrument is the outcome of the work of Mr. E. F. Nichols of Dartmouth college. With the apparatus so arranged, a deflection of o. 1 millimetre would be given by a candle 15 miles distant, neglecting loss by reflection and atmospheric absorption. The results obtained showed that stellar heat radiation was distinctly detectable.

By distilling fresh herring and oily pine wood in an iron retort, and then condensing the products in a Liebig coudenser, Mr. William C. Day reports, in the American Chemical Journal, that he has produced an artificial asphalt closely resembling the natural product. This experiment is regarded as confirmatory of the opinion that asphalt and petroleum are the products of a natural distillation by which the remains of early forms of animal and vegetable life have been transformed in the heated crust of the earth.

A writer in Knowledge describes a wonderful sapphire, which led the celebrated Doctor Sorby to the discovery of the nature of the liquid sometimes found enclosed in the cavities of crystals. The gem in question contained a tube-shaped cavity, a quarter of an inch long and an eighteenth of an inch in diameter which was so regular in its bore that it served, by means of the liquid partially filling it, for a thermometer. Te contained liquid half filled the bee at 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and completely filled it at 89 degrees. A study of the rate of expansion of the liquid led Dr. Sorby to the conclusion that it must be carbonic acid.

Human science owes many a debt, especially on the practical side, to the instinct of the lower animal. One of these obligations is intimed in a recent scientific review of the subject of dams. Engineers frequently build dams straight across streams, the object being, in some case to save expense by sparing materia But the beaver arches his dam against the current, and experience has own that this form of dam is best to resist floods and the impact of floating ice. Acting upon the knowledge which is instinctive with the beaver and which human calculation approves the great Bear valley dam in Calornia and some other recently constructed dams have been so made that thir stability largely depends upon the resistance which their arched form presents.

RUSSIA'S STEEL FINGERS.

Peking Nipped Between the Extremities of Two Railways.

Alexander Hume Ford has something to say in the Century of "The Warfare of Railways in Asia." Russia's use of Central Asia as a base is thus alluded to:

Transcaspian and Central Asian countries are now pretty well covered with railroads, constructed or building, and at every town the Russian government has stationed thousands of Cossacks and native soldiers. At a moment's warning Russia could mobilize a vast army and in a few hours could throw a number of battalions across the Afghan or the Chinese frontier. Her influence in western China is paramount, but in Afghanistan, with all her reparations and the expenditure of millions, she can penetrate no farther than the frontier of her railroads, for it would take as many men to carry subsenance through the barren, rocky mountains as there would be fighters in the army. If there is to be war it must be along or within reach of railroads and troop-trains. Central Asia has become the base from which Russia must enter India and western China, and she has transformed it from an abode of robbers and slave-traders to a prosperous, peaceful, gricultural community. The former rulians are now drafted in her army, and are ready to follow where they are led.

Russia's steel fingers do not cease for a moment to harrass her old foe of the age, but the index reaching straight across China from Tashkent, while paralleling the Anglo-Italian concession in the valley of the Yellow river, touches other European interests. This line has been surveyed for its entire distance, but the exact route o several hundred miles through the desert of Central China has not as yet been decided upon definitely. Nevertheless, its completion will give Asia three distinct transcontinental lines from Paris to the Pacific. The wing, as it does, one-half of China under Russian influence, it is the greatest strategic line, from a territorial standpoint, that Russia has yet advanced. Almost parallel from Peking to Kashgar, where the Russian system ends, China has recently completed the erection of a telegraph line, and along this route from each end both countries expect to build a railroad. Russia is already extending one of the many tentacles of her Transcaspian system to Kashgar, and another she is sending up through her own territory to Omsk, to connect the Trans-Chinese with the Trans-Siberian system. It is the Trans-Chinese line which, like a bent finger, its knuckle against England at Singan, turns north to press firmly with its tip the city of Peking, where the Trans-Siberian system (Russia's railway thumb) presses down with all its weight upon China's capital, the two holding it between them with the grip of a vise.

At the Democratic State convention, which is in session at Montgomery, William J. Samford, of Lee, yeerday received the gubernatoria nomination on the third ballot.

The Democratic senatorial convention yesterday nominated W. R. Oler, of Calera, as their candidate for senator from the fifteenth district. Mr. Oliver had no opponent in the convention, but he has a formable one to meet in L. H. Reynos, our nominee.

At Nashville, Ky., yesterday, W. F. Crites, J. P. O'Neil and Robert Locke were sentenced to three years each in the Nashville penitentiary, and fined $100, by Judge Evans in the Federal court for conspiracy to prevent negro voters from exercising their rights of suffrage at the election last November.

The Advertiser has discovered another reason for a new constitution. Which beautiful logic it declares that because one white man shot another white man at the Republican convention last week all the negroes ought to be distranchised.

The State Convention of the People's Party will meet at Birmingham next Wednesday, and the prospects are right for a full and enthusiastic convention. We believe a full ticket will be nominated and the strongest fight made for victory in August.

Democratic County Convention.

The Democratic county convention was held at the court house, Clanton, last Saturday. Chairman Tipton Mullins called the meeting to order. All the bets were represented. W. M. Adams was elected chairman and Leroy Watts secretary and E. C. Jone assistant secretary.

Prior to the convention assembling, the executive committee met at Mr. Tipton Mullins' office and counted the vote.

The nominees were declared, the list being exactly the same as that we published last week.

A resolution was offered and unanimously adopted endorsing the course pursued by Tipton Mullins on the state committee.

J. Alex Moore, of beat 2, attempted to introduce a resolution, which was supposed to be an endorsement of Gov. Johnston's administration, but he could not get a hearing.

The following delegates were elected to the state convention: Tipton Mullins, W. E. Stewart, Wm. Vines, Joe E. Mitchell, E. M. Pinckard.

J. Alex Moore offered a resolution instructing the delegation to vote for Col. Samford for governor first, last and all the time, but Dr. Stewart made a motion to lay the resolution on the table. The motion was carried and the delegation was given no instructions.

The following delegates were elected to the senatorial convention: W. T. Cullen, Leroy Watts, C. W. Plant, Thomas Harrison, T. L. Crampton.

A new executive committee was elected, which will be found in another place in this issue. Tipton Mullins was unanimously reselected chairman, and the delegation instructed to do all it could to again send him to the state committee, and the convention adjourned sine die.

Does Sovereignty Mean Tyranny?

Does such a legal relation between the federal Government and fore ign Territories imply tyranny? By no means. The old conception of the colonial system implied government of colonies primarily for the benefit of the mother country. It was against such a system that the American colonies of Great Britain and of Spain revolted and established their independence. The new conception of colonies implies their government primarily for their own benefit. It is this conception which today unites Canada and Great Britain by bonds more delicate than silk and yet stronger than steel.

In short, this relation of the United States to its Territories is based not on greed, but on a high sense of duty. It implies the old Anglo-Saxon safe-guards for personal liberty. It implies local self government, far more, indeed than is enjoyed by the District of Columbia. But it also implies that federal citizenship in the United States is a high privilege, not to be granted lightly and only to be won by proved desert. It implies, finally, that statehood in the American Union is the highest privilege of all, to which no Territory has an a priori right, and which hereafter will be bestowed charily and only after long deliberations.—From "The Constitution and the Territories," by Harry Pratt Judson, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for April.

Summary of Crop Conditions

The Weather Bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions says:

The temperature conditions of the week ending April 23 were generally highly favorable but excessive rains in the Southern States greatly interfered with farm work and caused destructive floods. In portions of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana much replanting will be necessary as a result of the inundation. Corn planting has been generally retarded where not completed in the Southern States and the central Mississippi Valley later than for many years in Tennessee. Winter wheat is improved with ample moisture and favorable temperature the crop has made rapid growth in the Central Valleys and Southern States. Early sown spring wheat is coming up to good stands over the Southern portions of the spring wheat regions. Oat crop reports are encouraging. The continuous excessive rains over the Central and Eastern portions of the Cotton belt have retarded cotton planting and washed up much of the acreage previously planted. In Southern Texas planting is well advanced and it is progressing rapidly in the Northern portion of the State. Planting of the Northeastern part of the Cotton Belt is usually delayed. Fruit reports are encouraging.

OBITUARY.

Again has the death angel visited the home of Bro. G. R. Williams and this time taken from their home the spirit of the father of Mrs. Williams, Mr. Joseph Holley. After a lingering illness of over two months, death claimed for its own the mortal part of Bro. Holley on the evening of the 16th of April, at 7:30 o'clock, and his soul returned to the God who gave it. Bro. Holley suffered for months yet death relieved him, yet he was ever heard murmuring a complaint, but seemed perfectly resigned to the will of the Master, knowing as he did that God works all things for good to those that love and obey Him.

Brother Holley was born July 2, 1826, joined the Missionary Baptist church in his young manhood and lived a consistent Christian up to the time of his departure from this world to join his wife in the city of the just. His wife had only a few weeks to await her summons on that other shore, where they were reunited to part no more. Bro. Holley leaves behind him four boys and three girls to grieve over his absence, but they sorrow not as those who have no hope, for they have the blessed assurance that their loss is his eternal gain, and if they live out faithful to the end they too will soon be with mother and father in that home of bliss where sickness, sorrow nor death can ever enter. Dear children, grieve not for your departed loved ones but follow in their footprints, that when your summons comes you too may be ready, and leave this world as they did without a struggle. How sweetly comes death to the Christian was evinced in the death of both Sister Holley and Brother Holley, for they both passed from this earth to heaven without even a quiver of the body when the spirit took its flight.

The body of Bro. Holley was laid to rest beside that of his wife at Mount Pisgah, April 18, 1900, to await the resurrection morn when soul and body will be reunited in that celestial city prepared for those who were faithful on earth. Farewell, dear friends, I will soon come.

Repeal the War Tax.

The existence of over three hundred million dollars in cash in the U. S. treasury means that the government has not only the required gold reserve, as per the law just passed but also one hundred and fifty million of dollars over and above all expenses, and still the government is collecting taxes on checks, deeds, mortgages, medicines, perfumes, bills lading, telegrams, money orders, etc., levying upon the people an unjust, harassing, oppressive tax. What possible excuse can there now be for Congress refusing to repeal this unjust stamp tax upon business documents, medicines, toilet articles, etc? Think of it! Since July 1, 1899, there has gone into the public treasury an average daily surplus of two hundred and seventy thousand dollars, and it is increasing from day to day, and now that the government does not need the money, why continue it and tax the people.

Will Beatty, a colored breakman on the L. & N. was found dead on the track six miles south of Birmingham. It is supposed that he fell from a train last night. The body was brought to Clanton and buried Wednesday.

GOOD ROADS NOTES.

Need of Better Highways.

EVERY owner of an automobile wants good roads so that he may drive his horseless carriage over them. He is not selfish in this. The man with the hoe—the farmer—wants good roads so that he may bring his produce to market and his family and himself to the neighboring town with a less expenditure of time, wear and tear, and trouble. In sections of the country where the farmer has good roads he would not lose them for more than their cost and go back to the old system of having to haul through the mud and over the stones. He finds that the value of his property is increased, and he can haul two—yes, three—times a greater load in less time to market, and that he is richer and better because of the good road which connects his property with the neighboring town. In Europe the highway was built before the railway. It was their only means of communication until within the last sixty years. Afterward the railway came, and their system of highways was found so useful that they have been kept up, and, indeed, improved.

It has been claimed that we do not need better highways because of our excellent system of railways. This is absurd. Every pound of freight which is carried by the railways, except such as is loaded at factories, quarries, mines, etc., at side tracks, must first be carried over our highways. Every passenger who travels on the railway must, to reach the railway, first pass over some portion of the highways. It can safely be said that the highways of this country carry more passengers and more freight than the railways, but of course for a shorter distance.

General Roy Stone when he was Engineer-in-Chief of the Department of Agriculture, said that the annual cost of hauling in this country over the highways was $946,414,665. General Stone estimated that nearly two-thirds of this vast expenditure is chargeable to the bad condition of the roads.

Let us see what our neighboring States have done to improve their highways. Several of them in the past few years have passed good roads laws. The following data of the amounts spent by the States and counties under their good roads' law, and the miles of road improved is made up from returns of the authorities in the different States named:

	To.	Miles.	Amount.
Mass.	Dec. 31, 1899.	270½	$3,137,000
New Jersey.	Oct. 31, 1899.	429½	2,147,478
Connecticut.	Dec. 31, 1899.	200	1,289,000
		900	$6,573,478

How does the great Empire State of New York compare with her sister States in this matter? Something over two years ago the Higbee-Armstrong bill for improving the highways of this State became a law. Under it the Legislature has made two appropriations of $50,000 each. The State Engineer's office has advised me that up to October 1, 1899, the State and counties had expended $88,032 under this law, and they had completed seven and a half miles of road, and had seventeen miles in process of construction. He reports since the Higbee-Armstrong bill went into effect he has received 121 petitions for the improvement of highways, aggregating about 625 miles; in other words, the counties and local people stand ready to pay their half of the cost of 625 miles of road, and all that remains is for the State to appropriate their half under the provisions of the Higbee-Armstrong bill.

It has been estimated that there is something more than $3,000,000 a year spent in the State of New York in repairing the highways. The usual method of repairing roads is to plow up a ditch and scrape the silt, grass and roots which are there up on the road. The first time there is a hard rain much of this goes back into the ditch and a very large part of this annual expenditure of over $3,000,000 is simply money thrown away.

What does the State propose to do for good roads? They are little arteries which bring the blood of trade to the railways and the canals. If these arteries are poor and if the circulation of trade is sluggish the usefulness of great railways and great canal systems of the State are greatly impaired.—Speech made in New York by Albert R. Shattuck, Chairman of the Committee on Good Roads of the Automobile Club of America.

The Need of Good Roads.

Good roads are a business necessity, not only to the farmer, but to every municipality, industry and enterprise, and all would be equally benefited by improved highways. This proposition is not without supporting evidence, which can be accumulated in abundance. The farmer who must haul to a distant market the products of his acres finds that such transportation is excessively expensive in time and labor involved and in the maintenance of vehicles and beasts of burden. All this increases the selling cost of the product, without conferring any compensating benefit upon anybody. Consumers everywhere are ...s compelled to pay a heavy fine ...glect of road improvement. On ...trary, if the public roads ... made solid, smooth and of ...hauls from the farm to the ...ket would be rendered ...ation and physically ...he stock and vehicle ...hortened. ...bvious that they ...fully to every ... the duty of circulating and collecting information regarding the good roads movement in this country. The office has had only a small appropriation; so small, in fact, that contributions for its support have had to be made by those interested in its maintenance.

Argentina Getting Interested.

The appearance of the automobile in Buenos Ayres has been the signal for a good roads agitation throughout the Argentine Republic. The Argentine Touring Club has been organized, and roads exclusively reserved for bicycles and light automobiles are already in course of construction.

A NOTABLE CO-OPERATIVE SUCCESS.

Remarkable Association of Farmers Near Rockwell, Iowa.

Notable among co-operative successes is that of an association of farmers near Rockwell, Iowa. It has rounded its eleventh year of existence, and the past year was the most successful of the eleven. It is a wonder to farmers who are not members of it, and it is a thorn in the flesh of the grain-buyers. It had its origin in the dissatisfaction of the farmers over the price they received for their grain and hogs from the one purchaser with whom dealings were convenient. At the start ninety-five farmers took stock in the enterprise at $1 a share, the maximum limit of individual holdings being three shares. The members were always paid one-quarter of a cent more for their wheat than the seller outside the society, and the association, to protect itself from the allurements of higher prices paid by competing elevators, compelled its members to pay one-quarter of a cent commission in case the grain was sold to a competitor. The result has been that the Rockwell elevators have paid always one-half cent to one and a half cent higher than any other elevators in the county. Efforts to disrupt the organization have been made, of course, but the only effect thus far was to anger the members and to lead them a step further in the co-operative idea. The association now sells coal, salt, flour and other supplies to its members at prices which defy local competition. From a beginning of ninety-five members and less than 200 shares of stock, the association has grown to nearly 500 members, representing 691 shares. From a first year's business of probably less than $50,000, the year just closed has shown a business of a half-million dollars, and increase in the past year of $185,000. This year, too, they have added another elevator, have added 125 new members, declared a dividend of $6123, and have a surplus of over $7000 in the treasury.—New York Post.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Do not be ashamed of being big-hearted and ambitious to improve yourself in body and mind. Remember that one of the best ways of self-improvement is being of service to others who need help.

The lines on which we think most earnestly and continuously will decide our main desires, our hopes, our motives, our actions, our characters.

A happy marriage depends much more on a good, loving, patient character than all the circumstances of time, place and money combined.

A more glorious victory cannot be gained than this: that when the injury begins on his part, the kindness should begin on ours.

Be content with doing with calmness the little which depends upon yourself, and let all else be to you as if it were not.

A twinge of the conscience doesn't trouble most of us half so much as a twinge of the toothache.

Hope is like the sun, which, as we journey toward it, casts the shadow of our burden behind us.

Wondrous is the strength of cheerfulness, altogether past calculation its powers of endurance.

It is so much easier for a genuine humorist to amuse others than to even satisfy himself.

To him nothing is possible who is always dreaming of his past possibilities.

Equal parts of love and sense make the world go round on the square.

An Awkward Name.

He was dressed like a farmer, and he looked inquiringly at the clerk behind the counter of the chief post-office, and pointed pantomimically to a bundle of letters the latter was sorting.

"What name?" asked the clerk.

"Louder," said the farmer.

The clerk repeated his query in a tone calculated to startled even a dead man. But the man only smiled an unmeaning smile, and said: "Louder."

The clerk took a long breath, and the yell that came out was loud enough to wake the dead.

"No offence, sir, I hope? Yes, that's my name—Louder, sir."

"Oh, ah!" said the clerk quite softly. "I never thought of that. Yes; here's a letter."

Deadly Shells Now Used.

The ordinary shell which was manufactured thirty years ago only broke into from twenty to twenty-five pieces when it burst. At the present time it bursts into 240, while a shrapnel shell, which used to scatter thirty-seven missiles, now scatters 340. A present-day bomb, when charged with peroxylene, breaks up into 1200 pieces, and it is estimated that it would effectively kill any one standing within twenty yards of the explosion.

The Average Woman's Letter.

A woman's letter that is punctuated decently is as rare as a picture of a college girl's room that hasn't a banjo stuck up somewhere in sight.—New York ...

FILIPINO BANDIT-ROOST.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS CAPTURE A RENDEZVOUS STORED WITH BOOTY.

The Story of the Exploit is the Most Weird That Has Been Forwarded From the Philippines—An Ancient Robber Band Broken Up—Death of the Leader.

Ali Baba's Forty Thieves shrink into insignificance when compared with the nest of robbers which, according to War Department dispatches, has been cleaned out on the island of Negros by Captain B. A. Byrne and a detachment of the Sixth Infantry.

The story is by all odds the most weird that has been forwarded from our newly acquired archipelago up to date, and, on the whole, the achievement in a military sense is the most remarkable.

It seems that for several years past in Negros there have existed bands of marauders and robbers who lived in the mountains and defied authority.

Under Spanish rule they exacted tribute from the haciendas and pueblos without much interference, and the prospect that their revenge would be cut off under the new regime has not served to make them warm friends of the United States.

The greatest stronghold of these bandits was at Bobong, where they were about 450 strong, and, when Captain Byrne received orders to attack them, they had been for some time making life uncertain and property unsafe in the San Carlota district. Indeed, the natives were in such terror of them that it was very difficult to get any information as to their exact whereabouts.

At length, however, everything necessary was ascertained as to the situation of the robber town and its approaches, and it was also learned that the outlaws had an observation tower and signal station on the mountain top, from which they could watch the movement of troops marching against them.

"On this account," says Captain Byrne, in telling the story, "I decided on a night march of fifteen miles, though the odds seemed much against success, part of the way being through trackless jungle. But it was that or nothing, if the bandits were to be surprised, and in that manner only could a blow be delivered with fatal effect.

"I had 105 men. My plan was to go in command of seventy men and land them, if possible, in such position on the mountain side as to command both Salupitan and Bobong, the attack to be on the place where the enemy happened to be strongest at the time. Another column of thirty-five men was to march to the vicinity of Sanguinit and hold the mountain pass there, by which the bandits might escape should they elude my column.

"At 7.30 o'clock the men were notified to be in ranks at 8. Exactly on time the column started.

"It had been raining most of the afternoon; the night was as dark as night could be; the rain came down as though the heavens had opened, as it only can in this country.

"After entering the jungle the night was as black as ink; the hand held one foot from the face could not be seen. The rule was that each man should hold on to the man in his front, and each man was required to keep in communication with the man in his rear by touch or voice, not speaking louder than a whisper. In this manner the men with difficulty were kept together.

"In this way, with an occasional halt to close up the column, we marched until 3 o'clock a. m., when the guide informed us that we were near the base of the mountain, which it would be impossible to climb until daylight.

"We therefore rested until 4 o'clock, the day beginning to dawn at that hour.

"At 4 o'clock we began the ascent of the mountain.

"Steep at first, and then, getting almost perpendicular, it ceased to be marching and was only climbing instead.

"Foot by foot the men pulled themselves up by grasping roots and small trees; anything to hold on to or upon which the foot could rest, was taken advantage of, and, moving in this way for ten or fifteen yards, all would stop and rest.

"We climbed to the top of the hill, and, looking cautiously over, we were astonished to find one of the robbers' block-houses and observation towers not over fifteen or twenty yards away. It had a commanding view of the valley and all the trails in that vicinity, but not of the route we came.

"Some of the bandits were cooking breakfast in perfect ignorance of our presence. We instantly rushed upon them, and, before those in and around the house had realized what had happened, seven out of the nine had been shot down, the two who escaped, zigzaging so quickly in their flight that they could not be hit before reaching some high grass.

"I soon heard continuous firing in the direction Lieutenant Nesbitt had taken, and I started thither. I had proceeded but a few hundred yards when I came in plain view of the village, about three hundred yards distant.

"It was a beautiful place for a bandit stronghold, defended by block-houses and stockade against any enemy except on the side of the mountain, where it was not expected, apparently, that a foe would appear.

"The mountain did not descend directly to the village, but its slope continued to a point some distance below the level of the town, where it was met by the slope of the elevation upon which the village was situated.

"At the lowest point, where the slopes from the mountain and village would have met, there was a chasm of such depth as to make it impassable except by a single footbridge. A clear,

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR APRIL 29.

Subject: Jesus and John the Baptist, Luke vii., 18-28—Golden Text, Mark vii., 37—Memory Verses, 22, 23—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

18 "Disciples of John showed him." John was confined in prison in the fortress of Machærus, on the southern border of Perea. His confinement was not of the closest kind, as his disciples were allowed interviews with him. "Of all these things." The miracles which Jesus had performed, and, perhaps, an account of some of His public discourses.

19 "Art thou He that should come," Some suppose that John sent this message for his own information, others think that his purpose was to confirm the faith of his disciples in Jesus as the Messiah, while all agree that John was anxious to have Him declare, openly, His Messiahship. John had been in prison now about six months, and during all of that time Jesus had been enjoying the greatest liberty and had performed many miracles, and John may have been under a strong temptation relative to the Messiahship of Christ. If He were the Messiah why would He allow His forerunner to languish so long in prison? Why did He not openly declare Himself? Those were questions that might seem mysterious to John. But he took the proper means to get rid of his doubts, if doubts he had; his message is straightforward and open, and is addressed directly to Jesus. "Or look we for another." John had confidence in the integrity of Jesus, and believed that if He, after all, were only a forerunner, like himself, He would say so plainly.

20 "The men were come unto Him." These disciples of John needed encouragement. It was a severe test to them to see John in prison so long.

21. "In that same hour He cured many." They find Jesus in the midst of His miraculous activity. Some suppose that these disciples only remained with Jesus one hour. "And of evil spirits." In the account of the sick here healed, Luke, the physician, distinguishes the demoniacs from naturally sick persons.

22. "Go your way and tell John." Jesus kept them long enough to show them the remarkable cures which He was performing. Christ would have men judge of Him and of others, by their works. This is the only safe way of judging. A man is not to be credited because he professes to know, but because he demonstrates by his conduct that his pretensions are not vain. Jesus answered John's inquiry simply by a clearer presentation of the great truths of His gospel, and more miracles performed, each one of which was typical of the spirit and power of the gospel. It was precisely the same evidence that convinced the apostles and the multitude of believers. The argument is as potent now as in the time of Christ. "The blind see." In His reply Jesus combined the highest wisdom with the highest power. He appealed to His works by which John could not fail to recognize Him as the Messiah. "The dead are raised." They probably witnessed the raising of the widow's son at Nain. "To the poor the gospel is preached." This is the crowning proof of His Messiahship. The preaching of the gospel to the poor is the highest signature for the divinity of the gospel. The greatest mercy and the greatest miracle of all. Jesus set out the same old truths with new clearness, in a new light, so we need expect no new truths, but the same old truths and promises, with new depths of meaning—the old Bible in a new light.

23. "Shall not be offended in Me." Christ's education at Nazareth. His residence in Galilee, the humble life of His family and relations, His poverty, and the lowliness of His followers—these and the like were stumbling-blocks to many; he is blessed that is not overcome by these things. See 1 Pet, 2:7, 8.

24. "He began to speak unto the people." In answer to their thoughts and secret questionings. They might imagine from John's message that the Baptist wavered in his faith, and that his imprisonment had shaken his constancy. Our Lord, therefore, reminds them of what John was. "What went ye out for to see?" This is a reference to John's early ministry, when the whole country went to hear and see him. Matt. 3:5. "A reed shaken with the wind." The reed of Palestine is a very tall cane, growing twelve feet high, with a magnificent blossom at the top, and so tender and yielding that it will lie perfectly flat under a gust of wind, and immediately resume its upright position. So far from being a reed shaken by the wind of popular opinion, or affliction, John was a rock—a man of inflexible resolution and invincible courage, that stood unmoved though beaten by many storms.

25. "A man clothed in soft raiment." A second excellency of John was his sober, self-sacrificing life. Gorgeous raiment was the mark of effeminate persons; John was clothed with a camel's-hair garment. A preacher of the gospel should have nothing about him that savors of worldly pomp. "Are in kings' courts." If you desire to see gorgeous apparel and delicate living, go to Herod's palace. Christ's forerunner did not resemble any of the great persons that lived in kings' courts. The wilderness prophet was entirely separated from the worldly spirit of his time.

26. "Much more than a prophet." 1. Because he was himself the object of prophecy. 2. Because he pointed out the Messiah, whom others foretold, and saw Him whom kings and prophets desired to see. 3. He was forerunner as well as prophet. It was his mission, not merely to foretell the coming of the Lord, but to prepare the people to receive Him. He was a prophet, a teacher, a man divinely commissioned to point out Jesus and His salvation, and he was more excellent than any of the old prophets, because he had the honor of dying for that sacred truth which he so boldly proclaimed.

27. "Of whom it is written." In Mal. 3:1. An allusion to one who went before a king to remove all obstacles out of the way and prepare for His coming. (See third lesson of first quarter.) John was the instrument in the Lord's hands of preparing the hearts of the people to receive Jesus.

28. "Not a greater." See on verse 26. No one in any age has been superior to John in greatness of soul, in self-denial, in disinterested and heroical devotedness to the service of God, and to the interests of the kingdom of God. "He that is least in the kingdom of God." By the kingdom of God is meant the fulness of the blessings of the gospel of peace, which was not known till after Christ had been crucified, and had risen from the dead. Now the least in this kingdom who preaches a crucified, risen and glorified Savior, is greater than John, who was not permitted to live to see the fulness of gospel grace. He is greater than John not in personal character, but he lives in a better dispensation and has greater privileges.

The difficulties in the way of housing and feeding the 20,000 students in Boston who can afford to pay but a small sum for board and rooms have suggested the idea of erecting a ten-story building, in a central location, where some 800 or 900 of these young people may live at an expense of from $2.50 to $4 a week. Besides the 411 rooms in the proposed building, there will be a gymnasium, reading rooms, bowling alley, billiard room, and a concert hall capable of seating 800 people. The cost is estimated at $750,000, and this amount it is proposed to raise by subscription.

GATHERING RUBBER.

HOW THE MILKY SAP IS COLLECTED.

Given Employment to Industrious Colonies on the Para River — As Seen From the United States Steamer Wilmington.

By studying on a map of Brazil you can see that the Para river extends almost due west, south of the island of Marajo, to a network of narrow streams, known as the Passes, which connect the Para with the Amazon. These numerous channels are from 70 to 150 yards in width, and some of them are navigable for vessels of 18 to 20 feet draught. These passes are interesting enough to those traversing them in small craft, but to the officers and sailors of such steamers as the United States ship Wilmington they are trebly so. At night there is little to arrest the attention other than the weird, dark shapes of the banks, which ever seem close aboard. The land being low and flat, and the trees near the water's edge, it seems as if the ship has forsaken her natural element and is running overland on invisible wheels. When daylight comes in a sudden burst of light like the unheralded flash of the theater's illumination, there is revealed on each side of the narrow channel the forest's solid wall, exposing to view a panorama of overhanging vines, of creepers and foliage and branches brilliant with the multitudinous hues of tropical vegetation. There is a strange chattering of animal life and a whirr of winged insects. The discordant cries of myriad parrots echo from the trees. There is human life, too. Here and there embowered in the jungle can be seen little wooden huts, with thatched roofs and sides open to the cooling winds. These are the houses of the rubber gatherers, who labor day in and day out collecting the milky sap of the Hevea brasiliensis. This rubber gathering is interesting, and the Wilmington's crew watch curiously as the winding channel reveals little groups of natives at work along the edge of the stream. Those on board who have read the descriptions tell others of the manner in which the half-naked Indians labor, of how each family works what is called an "estrada," or street, a path through the forest, which embraces as many rubber trees as can be conveniently tended, of how these trees are slit with a machete and a cup fitted in the cut to catch the sap, and of the manner in which the owner makes his daily round and brings to his hut the collected juice. There is also interest in the description of its next stage, when the sap is dipped up by a stick and revolved over a smoky fire. The smoke causes each layer to coagulate on the stick, and when the desired amount is formed it is removed and made ready for shipment. These balls of crude rubber usually weigh in the neighborhood of twenty-five pounds, and are of a dark, lustrous hue. It was a novel experience, this visit of the Wilmington's crew to the home of the rubber gatherers, and the closest attention was paid to the ever-changing scenery as the white cruiser steamed slowly along through the Passes.—Ainslee's Magazine.

A Dangerous Occupation.

Much time and labor have been bestowed by scientific men in experiments relating to the use of phosphorus in the manufacture of lucifer matches. It is found that while the present factory rules in England have led to improved conditions and lessened risk, further advances are imperatively necessary. Some of the works in that country are old and lend themselves with difficulty to the improved structural arrangements found in the more efficiently equipped establishments, and in most of them methods now shown to be obsolete are in use, involving unnecessary risk to the operatives, and the dangerous processes are said to be largely carried on by persons in whom the danger is further aggravated by unsound teeth. The fact is particularly noted of the neglect in substituting machinery for hand labor in the dangerous processes, in the want of attention to the condition of operatives' teeth and neglecting to report well known cases of phosphorus poisoning, or even watching for their occurrence—deliberate and long continued concealment being practised in the latter.

Reading Aloud.

An accomplishment that receives too little attention among trained nurses is the art of reading aloud. Only those who have had to lie on a sick bed through long weeks and months can appreciate the comfort of being enabled to listen to intelligent reading. A gentle, pleasantly inflected voice, a clear and distinct articulation, an intelligent comprehension of the matter read have a soothing effect upon the most irritable nerves, and for that reason should be considered desirable qualifications in a sick nurse. There are many people who cannot afford the expense of having both a companion and a nurse, but a nurse who can be a companion as well must be considered an acquisition indeed.

An Inherited Opinion.

Quaint London Rents Paid.

Certain ancient and quaint rent services, which are due to the crown by the corporation of London, were in accordance with custom, performed at the offices of the queen's remembrancer, in the royal courts of justice, in the presence of a number of curious and interested spectators. George Pollock, the remembrancer, made the usual explanatory statement as to the origin of the custom, and proclamation was then made. "Tenants and occupiers of a piece of waste ground called 'The Moors,' in the county of Salop, come forth and do your service." The city solicitor advanced and cut a faggot of wood with a hatchet and another with a billhook. Proclamation was made next. "Tenants and occupiers of a certain tenement called 'The Forge,' in the parish of St. Clement Danes, in the county of Middlesex, come forth and do your service." The city solicitor on this occasion counted six horse shoes and sixty-one nails. The queen's remembrancer replied, "Good number." Faithful suit and service having thus been made the ceremony ended.—London Telegraph.

FOR WOMAN'S HEALTH

Earnest Letters from Women Relieved of Pain by Mrs. Pinkham.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM.—Before I commenced to take your medicine I was in a terrible state, wishing myself dead a good many times. Every part of my body seemed to pain in some way. At time of menstruation my suffering was something terrible. I thought there was no cure for me, but after taking several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all my bad feelings were gone. I am now well and enjoying good health. I shall always praise your medicine."—MRS. AMOS FESSLER, Box 226, Romeo, Mich.

Female Troubles Overcome

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM.—I had female trouble, painful menses, and kidney complaint also stomach trouble. About a year ago I happened to pick up a paper that contained an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I read how it had helped others, I thought it might help me, and decided to give it a trial. I did so, and as a result am now feeling perfectly well. I wish to thank you for the benefit your medicine has been to me."—MRS. CLARA STIEBER, Diller, Neb.

No More Pain

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM.—Your Vegetable Compound has been of much benefit to me. When my menses first appeared they were very irregular. They occurred too often and did not leave for a week or more. I always suffered at these times with terrible pains in my back and abdomen. Would be in bed for several days and would not be exactly rational at times. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and menses became regular and pains left me entirely."—MRS. E. F. CUETER, Brule, Wis.

WINTER BILE

Causes bilious head-ache, back-ache and all kinds of body aches. Spring is here and you want to get this bile poison out of your system, easily, naturally and gently. CASCARETS are just what you want; they never grip or gripe, but will work gently while you sleep. Some people think the more violent the griping the better the cure. Be careful—take care of your bowels—salts and pill poisons leave them weak, and even less able to keep up regular movements than before. The only safe, gentle inside Spring cleaner for the bowels are sweet, fragrant CASCARETS. They don't force out the foecal matter with violence, but act as a tonic on the whole 30 feet of bowel wall, strengthen the muscles and restore healthy, natural action—buy them and try them. You will find in an entirely natural way your bowels will be promptly and permanently put in good order for the Spring and Summer work.

Odd Names of Maryland Farms.

The curious names given to tracts of land by the owners in olden times are illustrated in a conveyance encountered by a clerk in the record office recently while engaged in reorganizing the indexes. The deed in question is recorded in Liber W. G., No. 00, folio 57. It was executed in 1790 and conveyed from Joshua Stevenson to Richard Gettings five tracts of land in Baltimore county, the consideration being £50. The name of each tract and its dimensions are as follows: My Sweet Girl, My Friend and Pitcher, 62 acres; Here Is Life Without Care and Love Without Fear, 41¼ acres; The Unexpected Discovery, 272 acres; Hug Me Snug, 15 acres, and Stevenson's Cow Pasture. BRONCHITIS CURED.

Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is the best cough remedy we have ever used. My wife had a severe case of bronchitis and throat trouble, and a sample bottle relieved her to such an extent that I bought a dollar bottle for her, and she is now almost fully recovered. We will never be without Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey in our house.—T. A. Wilburn, Taylorsville, Ky.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

DEATH OF JOHN W. COX.

With deep regret we announce the death of Mr. John W. Cox, which occurred last Saturday night at 11 o'clock. He had been suffering from an attack of pneumonia for the last two or three weeks, and this attack was accompanied by a complication of disorders which the enfeebled body was unable to withstand.

Only four weeks ago he was apparently in good health and gladly accepted the nomination for Representative in the General Assembly on his party. It was a position he was fitted to adorn, and his untimely decease leaves a void in the ranks which will be hard to fill.

Mr. Cox, while comparatively a newcomer in Clanton had already made a large number of friends, and in fact every place he went to, and everywhere he spoke, made friends as he went along. He was a good man, an eloquent speaker, a man of deep thought and honest convictions. He was a man who stood to the death for what he conceived to be the right and the [illegible].

Of a happy, genial disposition, a keen mind and a clear brain Mr. Cox saw the evils of our present system of government and tried as best he could to find the remedy. He believed in the brotherhood of man and was an indefatigable worker to that end. His death is a loss to the county and the State, but he is now free from earthly cares and is at rest with his Maker. Peace be with him.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

CALL FOR POPULIST MASS MEETING

In consequence of the lamented death of the Populist nominee, John W. Cox, for Representative in the General Assembly from Chilton county, and it being necessary for the Party to make another nomination, I hereby call a mass meeting of the Populists of Chilton county to be held at Clanton, Ala., on Saturday, May 12, 1900, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Representative in the General Assembly.

L. B. POUNDS, Chairman.
FRANK CRICHTON Sec

"I had stomach trouble twenty years and gave up hope of being cured till I began to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. It has done me so much good I call it the savior of my life," writes W. R. Wilkinson, Albany, Tenn. It digests what you eat. Campbelle Drug Co.

SPEAKING AT THORSBY

On Tuesday night there was as fine a gathering and as intelligent an audience as ever met in Chilton county. The meeting was held in the school-house and it was packed with ladies and gentlemen while the proceedings were enlivened by the sweet strains of the Thorsby brass band, which, by-the-way, deserves much credit for the rapid strides it has made toward perfection in the short time since its commencement.

The appointment had been made by Hon. L. H. Reynolds, who very courteously invited Col. Oliver of Calera, as soon as it was known he had been nominated by the Democrats as their candidate for senator.

Mr. Gant Riggins acted as chairman and introduced Col. Oliver who made the opening speech. He spoke in a moderate tone and quiet manner on what he considered democratic principles, but he unfolded nothing new to the audience except that he admitted it had been the democratic practice to steal votes. He also acknowledged that he had voted in the democratic convention for the infamous resolution which is intended to deprive the people of a voice in their own affairs.

Mr. L. H. Reynolds followed in an interesting and well considered speech reviewing the political situation. He criticised the Democratic platform and strongly condemned the resolution which disfranchises the white people that unless they vote the Democratic ticket they shall not be heard. As Mr. Reynolds was talking to an audience that has not the slightest idea of voting the Democratic ticket the effect was magnetic. He then discussed some local topics, including the incorporation of Thorsby and declared that whenever a majority of the citizens of that enterprising burgh wished to incorporate he was willing to help them all he could.

Judge Adams followed and made an eloquent and impassioned address upon that nefarious scheme of the Democratic party to defraud the people of the right of self-government unless they send Democratic members to the legislature. In round terms he scored this disgraceful exhibition of partizanship against the interests and desires of the people, and appealed to the voters not to vote for Col. Oliver who favored and had voted for such a measure.

Col. Oliver responded and said he would explain the meaning of the resolution. He spoke for some little time and went around the resolution, above the resolution and below the resolution, but in spite of repeated requests he failed to give any explanation of the resolution.

At the close of the meeting a People's Party club was formed. It was an auspicious opening of the campaign for Mr. Reynolds and presages a grand success.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

In Memory of John W. Cox

Among the labors of love given to us, as a greatful privilege may be classed that of paying tribute to the memory of a good and worthy citizen, whom we have known intimately for the last few years, and loved as a dear and valued friend, however we have differed on political issues. Though a man deserving a great deal of credit to his political party, he never stooped to any corrupt policy, his principles were always pronounced for the right to his party. Hence, like all true, worthy and reliable men, he could not take neutral ground upon a vital question, whether in his political party or any public measure. He was ready at all times to vindicate truth and show up error, and never tried to make wrong triumph over right, though the unrighteous victory might promise great rewards.

Steadfast and true he stood by correct principles and upheld the honor of his manhood and the party he loved.

For his loss we have but one consolation—Please God we shall see him again, and see him freed from the shackles of his feble pain racked body, now cast aside like a worn-out garment, and he standing amid the glories of paradise, clothed with the incorruptible in all its immortal strength and beauty.

Messrs. Wm. Vines and T. U. Crumpton of this place attended the state and senatorial conventions in Montgomery the 25th inst.; the latter came back with a fine suit of clothes and acting as though he felt himself the mayor of the town, and Mr. Vines like an alderman of the first ward. Some of our young friends who have very justly been reprimanded by T. U. Crumpton for rudeness are enjoying a joke hugely at his expense about this store-bought suit, when in full dress he wears a full-blown rose as a button-boquet, our deepest sympathy is tendered him in this cruel joke, a device think originated in envy.

Mr. Crumpton, of Tenn., representing a large dry goods house in Tennessee, has killed two birds with one stone by business and visiting his kinsman here.

Miss Mamie Lathram is now visiting Miss Gertie Woolley of Birmingham.

Mr. Charles English, our esteemed agent, has been on a flying visit Montgomery lately.

Some of our young people went to Montgomery on excursion rates to witness a game of base ball between Tuscaloosa and Auburn teams.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Horace Smith is quite sick here at his home.

Beware of a Cough.

A cough is not a disease but a symptom. Consumption and bronchitis, which are the most dangerous and fatal diseases, have for their first indication a presistent cough, and if properly treated as soon as this cough appears are easy cured. Chamberlains Cough Remedy has proven wonderfully successful, and gained its wide reputation and extensive sale by its success in curing the diseases which cause coughing. If it is not beneficial it will not cost you a cent. For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Demmus, Verbena.

PINGREE INTERVIEWED.

He Says the Only Hope Is in Democratic Party.

Governor Pingree, of Michigan, asserted in an interview that the hope of the people in this year's general elections is in the democratic party. The governor has always hitherto been an an independent republican. Speaking of the increasing power of trusts Governor Pingree said:

"There is no use in hoping that the republican party will do anything with them."

"Are you preparing to announce your withdrawal from the republican party?" the governor was asked.

"There is no announcement about it. I only say what I have said all the while. You have not heard me say anything against the democrats for some time. I believe that the hope of the people is in the democratic party this fall."

NEGRO DISFRANCHISEMENT.

The Purpose of Proposed Constitutional Convention in Virginia.

A special from Richmond, Va., says:

The question of calling a constitutional convention in Virginia primarily for the disfranchisement of the negroes has been practically settled, so far as the democrats are concerned. A majority of the delegates to the democratic state convention which meets at Norfolk on May 2, are instructed in favor of making the call for the convention a party issue. This matter is now the absorbing one in Virginia and the demand for the disfranchisement of the negro and other constitutional reforms has entirely overshadowed the original purpose for which the Norfolk meeting was called.

Democrats Have Gained Two Votes.

By the coming of Representative Kink, of Utah, who succeeds Brigham H. Roberts, who was expelled because a polygamist, and of Judge Lassiter, who succeeds the late Representative Epes, of Virginia, the democrats have gained two votes in the house. They lost one vote early in the session by the withdrawal of Representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania, from the democratic party and his affiliation with the republicans. That makes the republicans have a membership of 186, the democrats 150 and the populists and independents 8. The populists and independents in the present house have invariably acted with the democrats. For all practical purposes the house can be regarded as being comprised of 186 republicans and 169 democrats, a republican majority of 19.

Hon. J. R. Dinsmore Dead.

Hon. John R. Dinsmore died at Macon, Miss., aged 62. The cause of death was appoplexy. Mr. Dinsmore was one of the most prominent men in the state. He served as mayor of Macon for many years, and was a conspicuous and working member of the lower house of the legislature afterward. At the time of his death he was a member and president pro tem of the senate and a trustee of the Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Wisconsin Forest Fires.

Forest fires are raging in the eastern part of Jackson county, Wisconsin. The area burned already is over 75,000 acres, and the fires are still burning.

Farmers Organize.

The first lodge in Kansas of a new farmers' organization to be known as the "Knights of the Soil" has been organized at Abilene, Kansas. Similar lodges are to be started throughout the state, and it is intended that the whole shall finally form a farmers' trust that will endeavor to influence the price of grain by regulating the acreage and controlling the quantity placed on the market at any one time.

Leading Citizen Dead.

WORK OF THE CONVENTION

Declared for a New Constitution and Commercial Expansion of Trade.

THE CHICAGO PLATFORM WAS ENDORSED

And the Renomination of William J. Bryan for the Presidency Demanded—Advocates the Construction of the Nicaragua Canal.

Honesty of purpose was the dominant feature of the democratic state convention, which came to a close in Montgomery Thursday afternoon with the adoption of a platform and resolutions marked, on the whole, by a sensible view of present conditions and a determination to face problems calling for attention and settlement.

Following is the complete ticket nominated by the convention:

For Governor—W. J. Samford.

Secretary of State—Robert P. McDavid.

Attorney-General — Charles G. Brown.

Superintendent of Public Education—J. W. Abercombie.

Treasurer—J. Craig Smith.

Auditor—W. H. Matthews.

Commissioner of Agriculture—R. R. Poole.

Delegates at Large to the National Democratic Convention—John T. Morgan, A. H. Merrill, Robert J. Lowe and Frank S. White.

DELEGATES TO KANSAS CITY.

Delegates to the national convention at Kansas City were named as follows:

First District—Massey Wilson, of Clarke and C. L. Lavretta, of Mobile; alternates, E. M. Robinson, of Mobile and W. A. Moseley, of Washington.

Second—Tennent Lomax, of Montgomery, and F. M. Tankersley, of Crenshaw; alternates, M. R. Leigh, of Escambia, and S. A. Williams, of Pike.

Third—H. T. Benton, of Russell, and George H. Malone, of Henry; alternates, Joseph H. Adams, of Dale, and A. E. Barnett, of Lee.

Fourth—W. W. Burns, of Dallas, and J. W. McElrath, of Calhoun; alternates, R. D. Walker, of Dallas, and D. R. McMillan.

Fifth—N. D. Denson, of Chambers, and M. B. Abercrombie, of Macon; alternates, J. R. Wood, of Macon, and W. W. Wilkerson, of Antauga.

Sixth—Walter NeSmith, of Lamar, and L. B. Musgrove, of Walker; alternates, R. B. Calloway, of Sumter, and W. C. Fitts, of Tuscaloosa.

Seventh—T. C. Banks, of Etowah, and C. L. Haley, of Winston; alternates, W. T. Brown, of St. Clair, and W. C. Raburn, of Marshall.

Eighth—R. T. Simpson, Sr., of Lauderdale, and E. A. Alves, of Morgan; alternates, O. Kyle, of Morgan, and J. T. Ashcraft, of Lauderdale.

Ninth—Jones G. Moore, of Bibb, and John W. Tomlinson, of Jefferson; alternates, John J. Altman and E. W. Barrett, of Jefferson.

PLATFORM.

The committee on platform and resolutions reported as follows:

"We, the democracy of Alabama, in convention assembled, do believe and declare it to be the true doctrine and policy of the party:

"That honesty and economy in the administration of public affairs is essential to the continuance of the republic.

"That a scrupulous regard for the terms and spirit of the American constitution is the safeguard of the Union.

"That a prompt and broad comprehension of the duty of the hour is the best claim of a political party to the confidence of the people.

"That the democratic party believes in commercial expansion, the extension of trade by the freeing of it from all unnecessary burdens, and more particularly in the adding of needed facilities, so that our commerce shall be encouraged, and all the world may come in close touch with our prosperity.

"Therefore, we advocate the construction of the Nicaragua canal, to make a highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and to make the seaport of the state of Alabama the front door of the United States, and that this party pays its tribute of affection and admiration to our distinguished citizen, Hon. John T. Morgan, whose integrity, intellect, energy and persistence have accomplished so much in forwarding this great enterprise to a point where there can be no doubt of its ultimate success.

"That we denounce the unjust treatment of the Porto Ricans and the flagrant violation of the trust of these people and of the constitution of the United States.

"That we believe in legitimate expansion of home as well as of foreign trade. The rewards of invention and labor are the spurs of enterprise; without them we should have no progress; even the restriction of them means the retarding of our growth, but the combinations and trusts which have been formed throughout the country are the result of a perversion of the correct principles of trade and a violation of the rights of the people to free competition.

"We demand the supervision, regulation and curbing of trusts and combines, and designate as the chief of these oppressive institutions the protective tariff of the republican party. If we get rid of the matter of trusts, the republican tariff, we get rid of the trusts themselves, and, so long as the country fosters these institutions, so long will they rule over us.

"We believe in William Jennings Bryan as the representative of the democracy of the nation, and demand his renomination to the presidency of the United States.

"We believe the Chicago platform adopted in 1896 should be reaffirmed by the party in its approaching national convention.

"We pledge the people of Alabama that no backward step shall be taken in the matter of public education, and that every effort possible will be made to establish and maintain within the reach of every child, both rich and poor, the means of obtaining absolutely free of tuition such instruction as will qualify him for the intelligent performance of the responsible duties of citizenship.

RESOLUTIONS.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the next general assembly of this state should provide for the submission to a vote of the people of Alabama the question of holding a constitutional convention, with such safeguards as may be necessary to preserve the limitation upon the right of taxation now existing, and such other safeguards as the general assembly in its wisdom may find to be necessary and proper in the premises.

"Resolved, That this convention recommends to the democratic members of the next general assembly, that in all cases of local legislation affecting counties where the democratic nominee has been defeated, that they consult with and consider the recommendations of such democratic nominees in regard to such local legislation as affects their respective counties, so far as is consistent with right and justice.

"Resolved, That the democratic party favors all liberal actions looking to the good of the whole people, provided those actions are in agreement with the spirit of the American constitution, and that it unequivocally condemns the republican policy of seeking to govern without the sanction of the constitution or their wishes the people who have come under our guardianship and protection."

It was moved that the report and resolutions be considered separately, but, after some little confusion, the report of the committee was adopted as a whole, including platform and resolutions, without an opposing vote.

CARMICHAEL'S RESOLUTION.

Judge J. M. Carmichael, of Dale, before the report was adopted, offered the following resolution:

"Resolved that it is hereby understood and declared that no white man in Alabama be disfranchised for want of property, education or any other cause, except the commission of crime."

Judge Carmichael attempted to have this incorporated in the platform, but lost out in the hurry of the adoption of the committee's report. He was, however, not to be daunted, and getting on a table, had his resolution read, and it was unanimously adopted in a jiffy.

William Jacks, a member of one of the largest pig iron firms in Europe, with offices at Glasgow and other places, is in the Birmingham district investigating the iron and steel industries. Mr. Jacks handles much Alabama iron in Europe and it is expected that his visit will result in the consummation of some big export sales.

COL. W. J. SAMFORD

was born in Meriwether county, Georgia, about 55 years ago, but his father moved to Chambers county, Alabama, when the son was a mere infant and later moved to Macon county, near Tuskegee. His boyhood days were spent on the farm and in a printing office.

At the age of 17 he enlisted in the Confederate Army, and for four long years faced the deadly storm of shot and shell in defense of Southern liberty. He made a gallant soldier and was promoted to a lieutenancy for bravery and faithful discharge of duty.

After the war he read law, was admitted to the bar and rose rapidly in his profession and became one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the State. He was a Presidential elector in 1872 and again in 1876. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1875, and was the author of the clause limiting taxation. He took an active part in shaping the Constitution submitted by that convention and under which we are now living. In 1872 he was elected to Congress from the Third Alabama District, and made an enviable record in that body. He was not a candidate for renomination, and was succeeded by the Hon. W. C. Oates. He was soon afterward elected to the State Senate from the district composed of Lee and Russell counties, and so ably did he represent his people and the State that at the second session he was made President of that body. He was a most pleasing and efficient presiding officer, and his record in the position has been surpassed by none.

In 1892 he was again chosen to the Senate from the same district and again impressed himself very forcibly upon the legislation of the two sessions of the Senate in which he served. After quitting the Senate in 1895, he retired from active participation in politics, and devoted himself to his profession, but his time and his talents have always been at the service of the party.

Col. Samford is the son of the late Hon. W. F. Samford, of Macon, and later of Lee county, whose abilities and effectiveness as a writer and whose power and eloquence as a public speaker were far famed and acknowledged by all; and his distinguished son inherited all these qualities, and even more, for it has been said by those closely acquainted with him that he has a control and gift of language which have rarely been equaled by any one in Alabama. He is a most convincing and attractive talker at the bar, on the stump or in the forum.

He made a most brilliant canvass of the State and the response of the people in the primaries show with what effectiveness.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Expert Says It Is Almost Impossible to Make a Heavy Cotton Crop.

Col. H. Bussy, of Columbus, Ga., one of the best informed men in the south on crop conditions, says it is practically certain that a large crop of cotton would not be made this year.

"Even in this section of Georgia and Alabama," said Col. Bussey, "the rains are beginning to make the situation somewhat serious. A large part of the cotton was freshly planted when the rains set in, so that the lands were easily washed. This is especially true of the hillsides, while in the bottoms so much moisture rots the seed. It is very evident that stands from the first planting will be poor as a rule, and a great deal of replanting will be necessary. The problem now confronting the farmer is where to get the seed for replanting, as the first planting consumed about all the seed in this section. If the rains continue much longer the situation will become more serious. The scarcity of seed is general throughout the cotton belt, and it is very sure that much of the lands overflowed will not be planted in cotton on this account, even if the farmers had the time to prepare their lands before the season for replanting is over. Even if the rains should cease now, it would be several weeks before the bottom lands would be dry enough to be plowed up and prepared for planting."

PORTE HASN'T REPLIED

No Answer to the Note Handed Tewfik Pasha.

A Constantinople message says: The Porte has not yet replied to the note handed to Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish foreign minister, by the United States charged d'affaires, Mr. Lloyd Griscom, regarding the indemnity claim, and the situation is some quarters that a settlement will yet be made by means of some arrangement with private American contractors, concealing the actual payment and thus relieving the Ottoman government from admitting responsibility for the losses occasioned at the time of the massacres.

Lynching in Missouri.

Mindee Chowgee, the negro Indian who escaped from jail at Marshall Mo., after assaulting Sheriff Joseph W. Wilson and his little son and shooting the sheriff's wife in the arm when she caught him, was lynched Saturday night by a mob of angry citizens. The lynchers forced an entrance to the jail, meeting with slight resistance at the hands of the officers, and dragged the prisoner out into the jail yard, where he was strung up to a tree.

Lincoln's Brother-in-Law Dead.

Dr. George R. C. Todd, formerly of Kentucky, a brother-in-law of President Lincoln, died in Barnwell, S. C., Saturday. He has lived there for many years, practicing medicine. Dr. Todd was graduated from the Danville, Ky., college in 1843, and was for a long time with the Texas Rangers on the Rio Grande. Afterwards he served the Confederate states with distinction as an army surgeon.

Six Killed and Forty Injured.

An accident that threw a pall over the happiness of an immense throng, who had profitted by the magnificent weather to visit the Paris exposition, occurred within the exposition grounds Sunday afternoon. A temporary bridge, unable to withstand the immense crown broke. Six persons were killed and about forty others injured.

Scott Entitled to Seat in Senate.

The senate Friday voted upon the resolution declaring Nathan B. Scott to be entitled to his seat in the senate from West Virginia. The number of votes in the negative was only three, being cast by Messrs. Morgan, Pettus and Turner.

A Watchman Killed.

At Macon, Ga., Arthur Sneed, a night watchman employed at the Stevens pottery, was shot and killed by Lee Edwards, a negro day fireman. The cause of the murder was a quarrel over the condition of a boiler in the pottery.

Breckinridge's Distinction.

Attorney-General Breckinridge, of Kentucky, enjoys the distinction of being the only state officer in Kentucky whose title is not in litigation. Judge Clifton J. Pratt, the republican contestee, as anticipated several days ago, quit the contest and on failure of him to file a supersedeas bond, the undisputed title passed to Mr. Breckinridge.

The Commercial League, of Rome, Ga., is corresponding with parties who propose the erection of a $600,000 cotton mill in Rome.

STRUCK BY TRAIN.

Miller Findley Killed Near Buhl Station.

Miller Findley was killed Monday by a work train on the Mobile & Ohio railroad near Buhl station, twelve miles from Tuskaloosa.

Mr. Findley who lived with his father, D. M. Findley, near Romulus, had walked over to the railroad waiting to catch the train, being employed as superintendent of the railroad work now in progress near Tuskaloosa. He heard the train coming around the curve and attempted to flag it, but in some way the engineer did not stop in time, and it is presumed he either attempted to board the train or his foot was caught and he was struck and knocked off the track, killing him instantly.

BIRMINGHAM'S STREET FAIR

Will Be One of the Most Novel Entertainments Ever Given in That City.

The street fair and midway to be held under the auspices of the local lodge of the Order of Elks during the week begining May 14, promises to be one of the most successful and novel entertainments ever given in Birmingham. The local committees are leaving nothing undone to make it a regular "Elks' affair," which means "the best," and have behind them the strongest street fair promoters in the country.

The floral parade to be given in connection with the fair will be one of the most popular features.

Second avenue, between Fourteenth and Eighteenth streets, has been set apart for the fair and midway, which will also occupy the vacant lots adjoining.

The fair and midway will give afternoon and night exhibitions and will comprise twenty different shows, with no objectionable show in the lot.

Birmingham Receives Spanish Gun.

The captured Spanish gun allotted to Birmingham by the national administration has arrived. The gun is eight and a half feet long, is twelve inches in diameter at the breech and six inches in diameter at the muzzle. It is of the rapid-fire variety, and was at one time a part of the armament of the proud Cristobal Colon, which went down on that memorable Sunday when Schley wiped out Cervera's fleet as it stole forth from the harbor of Santiago.

Cyclone at Orrville.

A terrific cyclone and hailstorm visited Orrville Sunday. The farms of Louis Johnson, Macon Ellis and the Swan place were literally denuded of vegetation. Corn and cotton were killed, and will have to be planted over. The trees were stripped of their foliage. Hailstones of enormous size fell, and several cows and hogs were found dead after the storm had passed. Fences and outhouses were swept away, and an enormous amount of damage was done.

To Nominate a Congressional Candidate.

The executive committee of the Second congressional district held a meeting in Montgomery Monday and called the democratic convention of the district to meet in this city on May 17 to nominate a candidate for congress. Col. A. A. Wiley secured a majority of the counties in the recent primaries and will be the nominee.

Dr. Hiram G. Davis, pastor at Woodlawn, near Birmingham, has accepted the presidency of the Athens Female College. He is one of the most prominent young ministers in the North Alabama Methodist conference.

To Build 400 Coke Ovens.

The Republic Iron and Steel company has given an order to the Bessemer Fire Brick company for 2,000,000 fire brick, which will be used in the construction of 400 additional coke ovens and a third blast furnace at Thomas.

Miners Strike at Aldrich.

The first strike which has occurred at the Aldrich coal mines near Montevallo, which were opened just half a century ago, is now on. The mines are owned and operated by Congressman W. F. Aldrich of the Fourth district, who it is said, cut the wages of coal diggers 8 cents a ton.

Shooting Affray at Selma.

Ernest King and Charles Crosby, brothers-in-law, became involved in a drunken quarrel out at the Cawthon Cotton mills. Crosby hit King on the head with a piece of scantling when King pulled out a Colt's 44 calaber revolver and after taking deliberate aim shot twice, one ball entering the right side and the other going through the left arm. It is not thought the wounds will prove fatal.

Reunion of Spanish-American Veterans.

The second annual reunion of the Society of Alabama Veterans of the Spanish-American War will be held in the city of Birmingham on May 23, 1900. Commander George Huddleston, in his call for the reunion, urges the attendance of all members of the society whose membership is made up of the white men who served as volunteers or in the regular army of the United States during the war with Spain, who were mustered into service from the state of Alabama, or who reside in the state and who were honorably discharged from the service.

Large Tannery to be Built.

A company has been organized with a capital of $100,000 to build a large tannery on the line of the Chattahoochee Valley railroad, either at West Point, Ga., or at Riverview, Ala. It is reported at West Point that some northern capitalists have purchased a desirable site east of the Chattahoochee river in Georgia, and will build a large cotton mill there in the near future. In West Point the immediate extension of the Chattahoochee Valley railroad from Blanton, its present terminus, to Phoenix City, Ala., one of Columbus's Alabama suburbs, is regarded as assured.

Massey, third lieutenant; Rev. H. D. Moore, chaplain. From Lieutenant Graves it was learned that eleven of its members have passed over the river within the last twelve months.

CLOUDBURST AT WACO, TEXAS.

Eight People Known to Have Perished in the City.

A cloudburst, accompanied by high wind, descended upon the city of Waco, Tex., at noon Friday, and the net result is that eight people are known to have perished in the city limits and property valued at several thousand dollars has been destroyed or injured.

The known dead are: Mrs. Nancy Caudle, Miss Clara Caudle, Rosa Chapman, Emma Decker, Thomas Capps, Frank Walker, and two negroes, names unknown.

The downpour of rain commenced about noon and it was incessant until dark. It was in the shape of a waterspout and the rise in the creeks and the branches was so rapid that it did not give the inhabitants time to flee.

Three persons, two women and a man, all colored, were drowned within a hundred yards of the city hall. Their bodies were washed into the Brazos river and have not been recovered. There were several people, mostly negroes, standing on a bridge watching the rapid rise of Barron's branch, when the bridge, a brick structure, gave way without warning, precipitating them into the water. The number positively known to have drowned in the city limits is eight.

THE LOSS MILLIONS.

Such Destruction Never Before Seen in the Lone Star State.

The floods in Texas show no signs of receding. On the contrary most of the Texas rivers are rising. The railroad movements are absolutely suspended south of Dallas on almost every line in the state. The loss by flood and hurricane since Friday morning is estimated to reach from $8,000,000 to $5,000,000, including damage to railroads and crops. The damage to railroads is immense in Hill, McClennan, Williamson, Bell, Colorado, Bastrop and adjoining counties.

Town of Blum Destroyed.

A tornado passed through the eastern part of Blum, Tex., destroying several residences and a two story school house. School was in session at that hour and the anxiety of parents was great. Fortunately but two were seriously hurt, one of whom, Eunice Banks, will die. She was caught between two timbers and received internal injuries. About fifteen others were slightly hurt.

GRAND JURY'S WORK COMPLETE.

It is Said That Indictments Against Taylor Will Appear.

The Franklin county grand jury completed its labors Friday, but its final report will not be made until Monday. It is unofficially stated that the indictment said to have been found against Governor Taylor in connection with the assassination of Governor Goebel will be entered upon record.

Governor Taylor telegraphed Commonwealth Attorney Franklin that he is in Washington on business, but will return and appear in court if officially informed that he has been indicted is true.

BIG FIRE IN OTTAWA.

Seven Thousand Men, Women and Children Made Homeless.

Over five square miles of territory burned over; more than 2,000 buildings destroyed; seven lives lost; seven thousand men, women and children homeless and property loss of $17,000,000 according to the latest estimate, insured for about half its value, are the results of the destructive fire which swept Ottawa and Hull, Ontario, last Friday.

Dewey's Statement.

Admiral Dewey was asked:

"Will you issue a statement defining your views on public questions before leaving Washington for Chicago?"

"No," he replied. "I see no reason for any hurry in the matter. I have announced that I would be a candidate, and have announced that I am a democrat. Then, too, it is known that I will be an opponent of Mr. Bryan at Kansas City, which should suggest plainly where I stand on the vital issues. I am not prepared to say just when I will make a statement."

Woman Sold at Auction.

A woman known as Margaret Connette was sold at auction within a block of the Federal building at Galveston, Tex., last Monday night. The woman is said to have been imported from Belgium, together with a lot of German and French women, and was under contract to the man who sold her. United States Immigrant Inspector Levy is working on the case.

THE STATE CONVENTIONS

Republicans Meet in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire.

THE ADMINISTRATION INDORSED.

The Conventions Selected Delegates to the National Convention at Philadelphia — The Platforms Reaffirmed the St. Louis Platform, and Declared For Expansion—Opposition to Trusts.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (Special).—The Republican State Convention held here named four delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia, nominated a State ticket and adopted a platform.

The delegates-at-large chosen are Senator Joseph B. Foraker, Governor George K. Nash, and Congressmen Charles Dick and Charles H. Grosvenor. The following were named as alternates-at-large: Charles S. Foster, Myron D. Norris, W. O. Brown and George A. Myers.

The convention made these nominations for State offices: Secretary of State, Lewis C. Laylin; Supreme Judge, John A. Shauck; Board of Public Works, Charles A. Goddard; State School Commissioner, L. D. Bonebrake; Dairy and Food Commissioner, J. E. Blackburn.

The platform reaffirms the declarations of the St. Louis platform of 1896 and indorses the "wise and patriotic administration of President McKinley."

The platform praises the adoption of the gold standard, and regarding expansion says:

"We advocate for them free schools, full security for life, liberty and property, the most liberal measures for the development of their agriculture and industry and the largest degree of local self-rule for which they are fitted. We have faith in American patriotism, character and capacity, and we know that American Government will extend the inestimable blessings of freedom, law and civilization to the peoples who are brought under our protection."

The platform in conclusion insists that injurious combinations shall be forbidden, and so-called trusts shall be regulated from time to time, and be so restricted as to guarantee immunity from hurtful monopoly, and assure fair treatment and protection to all competing industries.

PENNSYLVANIA REPUBLICANS.

They Indorse the President and Pledge Support to Quay.

HARRISBURG, Penn. (Special).—The Republican State Convention, which was held in this city, indorsed the Administration of President William McKinley, and instructed the delegates to the National Convention at Philadelphia to support his candidacy for renomination.

The convention also declared in favor of the election of United States Senators in the same manner that State officers are elected, indorsed Senator Penrose, the administration of Governor Stone and other State officials, and pledged "its hearty and cordial support of M. S. Quay for re-election to the United States Senate."

The convention nominated Senator E. B. Hardenbergh, of Wayne County, for Auditor-General, and Galusha A. Grow, of Susquehanna County, and Robert M. Foerderer, of Philadelphia, for Congressmen at Large.

The platform declares against all unlawful and illegal combinations of capital to the detriment of business and trade and against the best interests of the laboring people.

NEW HAMPSHIRE REPUBLICANS.

Convention Names Delegates and Indorses the President's Administration.

CONCORD, N. H. (Special).—The Republican State Convention held here elected as delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention United States Senator Jacob Gallinger, Frank Jones, William C. Clarke, and Thomas N. Hastings. There was considerable opposition to the election of Mr. Jones as a delegate, on the ground that he had not been previously identified with the Republican party.

When the ballot was taken Mr. Jones received 395 votes; the other delegates were elected by a vote of 470. Alternates were elected as follows: Charles W. Holtt, of Nashua; Alfred F. Howard, of Portsmouth; A. Crosby Kenett, of Conway, and F. A. Faulkner, of Keene.

The platform adopted warmly praised President McKinley; indorsed him for renomination; approved the annexation of all our new possessions and said this Government could safely be left to Congress and the President.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS.

Philadelphia Delegates Selected and McKinley's Administration Indorsed.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (Special).—The Republican State Convention chose the following delegates-at-large to the National Convention: Isaac Stephenson, Marinette; Joseph B. Treat, Monroe; James H. Stout, of Menominee, and H. August Luedtke, of Milwaukee.

Resolutions were adopted reaffirming the St. Louis platform, indorsing the recent financial legislation by Congress, and vigorously commending the whole course of the McKinley Administration.

DEFEAT FOR INSURGENTS.

General Bell's Troops Encounter 300 Filipinos and Kill Eighty.

MANILA (By Cable).—Officers who have arrived here from Nueva Caceras, Province of South Camarines, bring details of a fight in which eighty Filipinos were killed.

The American outposts reported 300 natives assembled three miles from the town, and General Bell sent three detachments of the Forty-fifth Regiment, with two Maxims, who nearly surrounded the Filipinos, the majority of whom were armed with bolos and wore carabao hide helmets, coats and shields.

The Filipinos were quickly put to flight, leaving the field strewn with armor. Their riflemen were unable to shoot straight; and the bolomen never got near enough to the Americans to do any execution. Therefore none of the Americans was wounded.

General Bell's two regiments are hard worked in clearing the country. They meet with many small squads of bolomen, and have killed a total of 125.

ENERY beat should be fully represented at the mass meeting at Clanton on Saturday, May 12, when a Representative to the General Assembly is to be nominated.

WHEN we consider that the Democratic party is always insisting that the white people of Alabama should stand together politically, which simply means all should vote the Democratic ticket, we are astounded at the short-sighted policy they adopted at their recent convention, and at the lack of wisdom displayed in threatening white people with pains and penalties unless they return Democratic members to the legislature.

No other interpretation can be placed upon the following resolution than that the Democratic party says to those counties that are expected to return members opposed to the Democratic party: If you will not return Democrats you shall have no voice in the local legislation you require, but on the contrary we will consider anything opposed to your wishes, and will seek only the advice of the Democratic candidate whom you have declined to elect.

"Resolved, That this convention recommends to the democratic members of the next general assembly that in all cases of local legislation affecting counties where the democratic nominee has been defeated, that they consult with and consider the recommendations of such democratic nominees in regard to such local legislation as is consistent with right and justice."

That is about the most iniquitous resolution that was ever adopted by any convention. Is there anything democratic about it? Not an iota. Is there anything fair and honest about it? Nothing whatever. Is there a conscientious Democrat who will uphold it? Every Democrat we have spoken to unhesitatingly condemns it.

In the very next resolution passed by the convention the Democratic party condemns itself. After passing the infamous resolution gagging all opposition, the convention

"Resolved, that the Democratic party favors all liberal actions looking to the good of the whole people," and "that it unequivocally condemns the Republican policy of seeking to govern without the sanction of the constitution, or the wishes of the people."

How the same convention could pass two such opposite resolutions is a mystery. That which they applaud in their own body they condemn if it comes from a Republican source.

There is certainly nothing liberal in the first resolution, and it is not good for the people to have their wishes set aside. The constitution does not sanction any such ignoring of the wishes and desires of the people.

POPULIST EXEC. COMMITTEE.

The recently elected committee of the People's Party of Chilton county met at the court house, Clanton, last Saturday for the purpose of organizing the body.

Judge Adams called the committee to order.

The committeemen from each beat made a report on the present outlook in their respective beats. The reports were all highly favorable for one of the biggest Populist majorities in August that has ever been polled.

L. B. Pounds, of beat four, was unanimously elected chairman of the committee, and Frank Crichton secretary.

The following resolution was unanimously abopted:

Resolved, that this committee has heard with regret that our nominee for Representative, John W. Cox, is very sick, and we extend our sympathy to him in his affliction, and trust that he will soon be restored to health and usefulness.

There was an informal discussion on the organization of People's Party clubs, etc., and the committee adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

Miss Florence Newman, who has been a great sufferer from muscular rheumatism, says Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only remedy that affords her relief. Miss Newman is a much respected resident of the village of Gray, N. Y., and makes this statement for the benefit of others similarly afflicted. This liniment is for sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. The Duties of the Presidency

Some of those interviewed by the newspapers who treated Duwey's candidacy with the most respect criticised his conception of the presidential office as altogether inadequate. His theory that the duty of the President is merely to execute the laws that congress enacts is remarkably similar to the views that Mr. Grover Cleveland expressed in his first letter of acceptance in 1884; but a brief experience in the presidential office soon convinced Mr. Cleveland that a very great part of his business was to have policies and to urge them. Undoubtedly, Admiral Dewey's long experience in a highly disciplined service like the navy has given him fitness for certain kinds of executive work. But the governmental business of a country like ours is so vast that the executive work comes to be parceled out among a great number of high officials. The President himself succeeds or fails in the executive part of his work in the ratio of the wisdom he shows in the selection of men. The ability to exercise wisely the appointing power usually calls for a long experience in politics and public office, and a wide acquaintance with men throughout the country. Apart from the exercise of the appointing power, the President's chief business may be said to lie in the making of decisions relating to a vast number of questions of policy of greater or less importance. It would therefore seem highly doubtful whether a higher officer, either of the navy, like Dewey, or of the regular army, like Miles, whose life has been strictly devoted to the service to which he belongs, would be preeminently fitted to fill the position of President of the United States, especially in view of the kind of work that will fall to the presidential office in the next four years.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

A CONFERENCE for the study of race problems in relation to the welfare of the South will be held at Montgomery on May 8, 9 and 10.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and staisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawteile, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale in my show case, said to me: I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore, and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smiling and informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

One Certain Fact.

It may not be too late to assure our agricultural friends of one fact which will be certain amid all the uncertainty of the coming crop season, and the market season which is to follow it.

Food products will be high!

There is temptation in the cotton crop. Undoubtedly there is money in it for the man who does not have to leave it in town for high priced provisions. If a man could only keep what he gets for his cotton he might whistle and plant more, but he cannot. He must eat, and so must his animals. There is promise for a high price for cotton in September. Right now, with great areas in the river bottom flooded there is apparent another squeeze in the cotton acreage. If this condition, really materializes, there will be a reduced yield from what the world demands—perhaps even lower than the yield of the crop now almost marketed. It is an inviting situation for the man who would overplant, and he is not to be blamed if he looks with a fond eye upon his familiar staple.

As to what each man is to do he must be his own judge. Advice suitable for one might be altogether unsuitable for another. Besides, it is not the province of a newspaper to advise. It can only point conditions, leaving to each reader such application as he would give it. Short cotton or long cotton, high price or low, do not forget—

That western provisions will be high!

Will it pay to rely upon another section for food, to dump into the west the whole profit of our labor? This is a question which ought to be practical enough for any man to answer by resolving to raise his own foodstuffs.

There will be southern farmers on the right side of the market next September, no matter what the price may be. They will be the men who do not rely upon Wisconsin and Illinois for what they eat.

Can our farmers see the application—Constitution.

COTTON PROSPECTS.

Price, McCormick & Co., in their circular published Saturday, state: The visible supply of cotton as made up by The Financial Chronicle this morning is 3,500,000 bales. This is the smallest visible supply since 1890, when it was 20,000 bales less and cotton sold at 12½c in New York. The consumption of American cotton in 1899 was about 7,750,000 bales. This year, according to Ellison's own admission, it is 11,000,000 bales. The British spinner is commencing to recognize the situation afresh and spot cotton in Liverpool today is 5¼ p nce, within 1-8d of the highest figures reached this season. A record of the New York stock will probably be made next week and will in our opinion show that it is overestimated by 40,000 bales. This will leave the stock available for delivery on contract here hardly over 50,000 bales, which is supposed to be an adequate protection for a short interest that is variously estimated at from 600,000 to 900,000 bales. The situation is strong beyond precedent and cannot fail to result in extreme prices for cotton. Ten cents and even 11 and 12 cents a pound for August delivery cotton seems quite within the range of possibility. The bears in Liverpool and New York have all season been selling paper cotton in the vague hope that it would supply the demand for the real article.

It is possible that they will this season realize that phantom cotton is an impossible force against short sales. As regards the new crop, reports reaching us from the south are uniformly poor. Seed is said to be $50 per ton. We should be glad if those reading this circular will write us, giving us the exact situation as it is a part of the time of the moment. Should the deterioration of a new crop failure the situation would be without precedent since the war.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

A Way to Clean Copper Boilers.

The best way to clean hot water copper boilers is with oxalic acid. Procure ten cents' worth from the druggist and put it in a bottle that will hold a pint and a half. Fill the bottle with cold water, and when the acid is dissolved rub it over the hot boiler with a soft cloth and polish at once with a dry piece of flannel. The bottle should be marked "poison," and kept out of ordinary reach. The amount indicated will make enough to use several times.

Good Substitute For Putty.

A cheap and effective substitute for putty to stop the cracks in floors and other woodwork is made by soaking newspaper in a paste made by boiling a pound of flour in three quarts of water and adding a teaspoonful of alum. This mixture should be about the consistency of putty and should be forced into the cracks with a blunt knife. It will harden as it dries, and then may be painted or stained to match the boards. If the cracks are neatly stopped they will, after painting, be hardly perceptible.

Menu Cards For Luncheon.

The girls who entertain are using very effective little menu cards at their feminine luncheons.

These cards come in the form of exaggerated vegetables and fruit. They are made from heavy white drawing paper, cut to the required shape. One side of the paper is colored to represent the fruit and on the reverse side the menu is written.

Or there may be two cards folded together to represent two sides of the fruit, with the list of dishes inside and a pretty knot of ribbon as a finish.

White Rooms For Warm Weather.

White rooms promise to be a country-house fad this season. The vogue comes from Paris, but it originated in St. Peterburg, where these snowy apartments have been in great favor for some time. The new scheme will probably be applied to bedrooms here, as white is suggestive of coolness and repose, but the Parisians have made a specialty of white dining rooms. The ceilings, walls and woodwork are painted white; the hangings are of white serge or white brocade; the electroliers or sconces are of clear crystal and silver, and silver chains are suspended from one electrolier to another and fastened to a chandelier in the middle of the room. When this snowy effect is produced in a dining room napery, china and flowers of course carry out the effect.

Economy in the Use of Coal.

There are many good housekeepers who are indifferent in the matter of saving small coal and cinders. Unseen waste goes on in most houses in this respect. If housekeepers would make it a point to see that all cinders and ashes are thoroughly sifted daily they would be suprised at the fuel they would save.

There are various arrangements for sifting cinders. The best, however, is a cinder-box fitted with rockers like a cradle. It has a wire tray inside and a lid which covers the top. The cinders are placed in the tray and the cover is put on. The box is rocked for a few minutes and then left to stand a quarter of an hour. Then cover is taken off, the dust will have subsided, the ashes will have fallen through into the box underneath and the cinders will have been left on the tray ready for use.

After the cinders have been removed cold water should be poured over them. This causes them to make much better fuel when mixed with coals.

Recipes.

Squash Griddle Cakes—Make batter of two cups of sour milk, one cup of mashed Hubbard squash, one teaspoonful of soda, one saltspoonful of salt and flour enough to make a thin batter. Fry on a hot griddle.

Rice Balls—Cook one cupful of rice in equal parts of milk and water until tender. When cold add one teaspoonful of vanilla, one tablespoonful of sugar and one beaten egg. Form into balls, dip into beaten egg, roll in fine crumbs and fry in smoking deep fat.

Twin Biscuit—Prepare a milk-biscuit dough, roll out one-fourth of an inch thick and cut into rounds. Spread one-half of the rounds with a little soft butter, cover with the remaining rounds, press together, brush with milk and bake. Especially nice to serve cold for luncheon.

Corn With Peppers—Drain a can of corn and chop the kernels somewhat, chopping with them two green sliced peppers. Put the liquor back with them and cook gently on the back of the stove fifteen minutes. Add a few spoons of milk, teaspoon of butter and half a teaspoon of salt. Serve.

Horseradish Sauce—To a cup of grated horseradish add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, half a teaspoonful of salt and half a cup of good thick sweet cream. Mix these ingredients thoroughly, then add vinegar to taste. This is delicious sauce for roast meats, and not so strong and tear-provoking as the crude root.

California Tapioca—Soak a small teacup of tapioca in two cups of water over night. Cook until clear in the juice of two oranges and a half cup of sugar. Serve cold on flat saucers, placing half of a canned peach in the center of each dish and fill the cavity in the peach with whipped cream sweetened and flavored.

Macaroni au Gratin—Boil in salted water till tender, but unbroken, one-eighth of a pound of macaroni, spread in the bottom of a small buttered gratiner, cover with an equally thick layer of grated cheese, fill to level with cream, dust very lightly with cayenne, bake in a very hot oven for ten minutes.

QUEEN VIC'S LIFE.

SHE DRESSES PLAINER THAN HER SUBJECTS.

Lives More Frugally, and Maintains a Greater Air of Comfort and Homeliness About Her Private Rooms—Her Daily Labors.

The home life of Queen Victoria has ever been a subject of widespread interest and sympathy. Her somewhat dull and monotonous childhood, her idyllic married life, her long widowhood and her peaceful by busy old age have alike attracted both writers and readers on every hand. Perhaps the most remarkable feature in the queen's career has been the skill with which she has contrived to maintain the simplicity of an old-fashioned English home life, notwithstanding the pomp and ceremony which necessarily belong to court. This is largely due to her early training. The daughter of the duke of Kent, a prince of very limited income, the young Princess Victoria saw little of the luxury which is commonly supposed to abound in royal circles. Strict economy was the rule of her early home, and the lesson has never been forgotten.

Amid the costly magnificence which characterizes the state apartments the queen's private rooms are always notable for their comfort and homeliness. In matters of dress, too, Queen Victoria is far more economical than many of her middle-class subjects.

The queen attributes her long life and excellent health very largely to her practice of spending as much time as possible in the open air every day. In her youth riding was her favorite recreation, and in Scotland she has almost lived on pony back. Now, of course, carriage exercise has taken its place. Every morning her majesty goes out in her little pony chair, often visiting the farm and stables in the course of her drive. Sometimes her chair is drawn by a beautiful donkey which was purchased in the south of France by his royal mistress to save him from ill treatment. This donkey rejoices in the name of Jacko, and on holiday occasions wears a curious harness adorned with bells, and with two foxes' brushes hanging over his blinkers. The greater part of the forenoon of each week day is devoted to business, for no woman in the land gets through more actual work in the course of each week than the queen. Her dispatch boxes are arranged on a table set in Windsor park, near the Frogmore teahouse, whenever the weather permits. Here the queen carefully reads and annotates the innumerable dispatches which come to her from the foreign and home offices, for it has been the rule of her life to attend personally to all important affairs of state.

But this by no means represents all the multifarious occupations of the queen. Her private correspondence is enormous, for it is a kind of unwritten family law that all her children and grandchildren shall write to her every day. All important housekeeping questions are settled by the royal mistress herself, who often orders the meals and even keeps an eye on the household linen.

Even the smallest details of domestic economy are not regarded by the queen as beneath her notice. A story is told that on one occasion she went into a practically disused room at Windsor and noticed a cabinet that had evidently not been dusted that day. She promptly wrote the royal autograph in the dust, and beneath the name of the particular maid whose duty it was to dust the room. This may seem rather a small matter, but when one remembers that nearly 2,000 persons are employed in Windsor castle and its precincts it shows a very remarkable knowledge of the personality of so vast a staff.

The Byzantine Empire.

Byzantine Empire was the Roman Empire of the east. The name was derived from Byzantium, the ancient name of Constantinople, the capital of the empire. As a separate power it began its existence in 395 A. D., when Theodosius the Great died, bequeathing the Empire of Rome to his two sons, who divided it—Arcadius taking the eastern half, with his capital at Constantinople. It was a rich and powerful sovereignty, and continued to exist for over ten centuries. During the last few centuries it was gradually but surely declining before the Turks and Saracens, and ended with the Mohammendan conquest of Constantinople in 1543. It was also called the Greek Empire, and was the home and head of the Greek church.

NEW SYSTEM OF BREAD-MAKING.

French Process Supposed to Be Filled with Nutriment.

Bread-making is so important a fact of economy and existence that it even interests the officials of the United States government. The United States consul at Roubaix, France, recently sent to the state department a very accurate description of the Schweitzer system of bread-making, which is now being operated at a suburb of Paris, and which is to be established in all the cities of France by a society organized for that purpose. It is claimed for the Schweitzer bread that it contains more nutritive nitrogenous properties than bakers' bread and double the phosphates to be found in the latter. The system consists of converting the wheat into bread within a short time after it enters the mill to be ground into flour. At the Schweitzer establishment the wheat is first treated to a cleaning process, being brushed and washed. Then each grain is split in two; after which the wheat goes to the grinders, which crush it in such a way as to retain in the flour all the gluten and other nutritive properties, the bran alone being expelled. The freshly ground flour is mixed with yeast, salt and filtered water and carried at once by machinery to the kneaders, which are operated by steam. It is possible to knead 4,409 pounds of dough per hour. When the dough comes from the kneaders it is carried automatically to a room, where it is cut into loaves of all sizes and shapes. The bread is then baked in gas ovens of a peculiar device. By this system of bread-making it is said to be possible to get 100 pounds of wholesome bread from 100 pounds of grain. This bread is sold at the rate of less than 5 cents for a loaf weighing over two pounds, which is nearly 2 cents a loaf less than the usual price for bread. Ten big two-horse wogan loads of bread are sent out from the establishment twice a day and the trade is growing.

Spread of the English Language.

Writing on the decline of the French language, M. Jean Finot points out that at the end of the last century French was the language spoken by the greatest number of civilized people, whereas now it stands fourth. English is spoken by 116,000,000, Russian by 85,000,000, German by 80,000,000, and French by 58,000,000.

A Scientific Bequest.

An important bequest has been made to the University of France by M. Raphael Bischoffsheim, the banker of Dutch origin who became a naturalized Frenchman nineteen years ago and now sits in parliament for a division of the Alpes Maritimes. He has made over the freehold of the Nice observatory, founded by himself, with its branches, instruments, library and lands, to the university, together with a sum of £100,000, to be devoted to the maintenance of the establishment on Mont Gros, so well known to English visitors who patronize Nice or its neighbors in winter. The total value of the Bischoffsheim bequest is estimated at 5,000,000 francs, or £200,000. The Nice observatory has done good work and scientific men are glad to see that its future is assured through the liberality of its founder

REST

"I wish I knew what was the matter with me, my cheeks are so pale, my lips so white, my muscles so weak, and my nerves seem to be all unstrung. I am just about as tired and depressed in the morning as I am at night. If I could only get some rest, but sleep seems to do me no good."

Shall we tell you what is the matter?

That's Anemia

Anemia—it's another name for starved blood, thin blood, poor blood. Of course this isn't the kind to have. What you want is rich blood, red blood. You want the old color back to your cheeks and lips. You want your nerves once more strong and steady. To make this change you must take a perfect Sarsaparilla, a Sarsaparilla made upon honor, a Sarsaparilla that you have confidence in.

That's AYER'S

"The only Sarsaparilla made under the personal supervision of three graduates: a graduate in pharmacy, a graduate in chemistry, and a graduate in medicine."

If your liver isn't acting just right, if you are constipated or bilious, take Ayer's Pills. When the bowels are all right the Sarsaparilla acts more promptly and more thoroughly.

STOPPED DRINKING.

New Orleans Drunkard Saw a Verbatum Report of His Monologue.

"There goes a man whom I reclaimed from the Demon Rum," remarked a New Orleans court stenographer recently. 'It happened in this way. He is a tip-top fellow, and has no end of ability, but four or five years ago he began to let liquor get the best of him. He had a fine position at the time, and I don't think he exactly neglected his work, but it got to be a common thing to see him standing around barrooms in the evening about two-thirds full and talking foolish. A few of his close friends took the liberty of giving him a quiet hint, and as usual in such cases he got highly indignant and denied point blank that he had ever been in the least under the influence of liquor. All the same he kept increasing the pace, until it became pretty easy to predict where he was going to land, and it was at this stage of the game I did my great reformation act. I was sitting in a restaurant one evening when he came in with some fellow and took the next table, without seeing me. He was just drunk enough to be talkative about his private affairs, and on the impulse of the moment I pulled out my stenographer's note book and took a full shorthand report of every word he said. It was the usual maudlin rot of our good fellow half seas over, shading off in spots to boozy pathos, where both gentlemen wept in their beer, and including numerous highly candid details of the speaker's daily life. Next morning I copied the whole thing neatly on the typewriter and sent it around to his office. In less than ten minutes he came tearing in, with his eyes fairly hanging out of their sockets. 'Great heavens, Charley!' he gasped, 'what is this anyhow?' 'It's a stenographic report of your monologue at ——'s last evening,' I replied, and gave him a brief explanation. 'Did I really talk like that?' he asked faintly. 'I assure you it is an absolutely verbatim report,' said I. He turned pale and walked out, and from that day to this he hasn't taken a drink. His prospects at present are splendid—in fact, he's one of our coming men. All that he needed was to hear himself as others heard him.

Odd Names of Maryland Farms.

The curious names given to tracts of land by the owners in olden times are illustrated in a conveyance encountered by a clerk in the record office recently while engaged in reorganizing the indexes. The deed in question is recorded in Liber W. G., No. 60, folio 57. It was executed in 1700 and conveyed from Joshua Stevenson to Richard Gettings five tracts of land in Baltimore county, the consideration being £200. The name of each tract and its dimensions are as follows: My Sweet Girl, My Friend and Pitcher, 62 acres; Here Is Life Without Care and Love Without Fear, 41¾ acres; The Unexpected Discovery, 202 acres; Hug Me Snug, 15 acres, and Stevenson's Cow Pasture, With Little I am Content, ~

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light in the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

CALL FOR POPULIST MASS MEETING.

In consequence of the lamented death of the Populist nominee, John W. Cox, for Representative in the General Assembly from Chilton county, and it being necessary for the Party to make another nomination, I hereby call a mass meeting of the Populists of Chilton county to be held at Clanton, Ala., on Saturday, May 12, 1900, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Representative in the General Assembly.

L. B. POUNDS, Chairman.

It is pleasing to notice the grand improvement in educational facilities and practical work in that line, at Collins Chapel Institute. Their house alone explains the push and effort of the citizens surrounding it. The closing exercises of Prof Rasco's school last Thursday gave evidence that those fortunate people made a happy choice in selecting a competent instructor. There we see the ship shod manner of teaching that has characterized this county giving way to scientific brainy efforts.

We regret to announce that lagrippe is sending to bed whole families. Is it really contagious or is that rumor? Planting of crops in general are the slowest of completion of any time we remember. Mr. Powers says the farmers will catch up in June. Let us be hopeful.

In the meantime do not forget the Banner; to take it out of our hand would be like parting with a near friend. May the Editor live long and happily.

Can some one tell us how to get rid of flees immediately in and about the house. Mrs. I. C.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers views at any time, but it must be distiactly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—EDITOR.]

Clanton, May 9, 1900

Editor Banner—Having made a tour of a considerable part of the county recendy, and meeting many of its citizens, and as politics is beginning to stir the minds of the voters, I of course took advantage of this state of affairs to ascertain the situation as it is among the people, and I am happy to say that the outlook could not be more favorable to the success of the Populist ticket in the coming election.

While it is true that some have gone back to the old party perhaps never to return, (so mote it be) yet almost entirely all that followed Mr. Honeycutt out of the party two years ago are now fully convinced of where he is heading for and they follow him no more. The Dems could not have done a better thing for our party than they have in putting the two Honeycutts on their ticket. It is more convincing to the people than ten volumns of argument from our side. (thanks to their able chairman and all who participated in arranging their ticket even before their primary.)

And, again, the action of the Dem. State convention and the course which characterizes the purposes of the Democratic party in Alabama has aroused the people as never before, for now there can no longer be a shadow of doubt that they propose to legalize the disfranchisement of those who oppose them, whereas they have done these things heretofore in defiance of law. The resolution in regard to local legislation fairly astounds the people, both Populists and Democrats, and many of the better element of Democrats will not support such things by their ballots and they are talking it right out.

More anon,
L. B. POUNDS.

A Good Negro is Dead.

Wm. Cooper, a leading colored teacher in this county, died at his home on Thursday April, 26th. Cooper was about 35 years of age. He was born in the northern part of Autauga county of Daniel and Mary Cooper who with topical specimens of the good "ante bellum darkey." William inherited the admirable traits of his parents and was brought up a humble and industrious darkey. He was given school advantages by his parents and graduated at the colored school of Selma about fifteen years ago. Since then he has been a leading spirit among his race and has spent his time in teaching in Autauga, Bibb and Chilton. He was the only negro in the county holding life certificate—being recommended for it by Capt. Pratt of Bibb, Hon. Zack Abney of Autauga, and Prof. J. W. Moore.

He was humble and had a good sense of propriety—a member of the Baptist church, in which he took a great interest. He held the admiration of the best citizens who knew him. It seems unfortunate that he should have been called away so early. JUDSON STROCK, Supt. Ed'n.

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It is the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by all Druggists. Guaranteed.

When to Stop Eggs and Milk.

"People over 50 would do well to give up milk and eggs as a diet," said Dr. Henry M. Dearborne. "These are the structure forming foods of animals which mature in a short time, and when taken in quantities by human beings whose structures have already formed they tend only to the hastening and aging of the tissues."

Dr. Dearborne said that he had seen people who were beginning to find stair climbing difficult and who were losing their elasticity much benefited by eliminating these articles from their diet. "There has been a great increase in the duration of life below the age of 50, statistics prove," he said, "but beyond that period there has been no improvement." In his opinion, the person over 50 should have as good a chance to preserve life as the young child just beginning its struggle with existence.—New York Times.

CLANTON, - - - ALABAMA.

MR. ADAMS' ADDESS.

Chairman of the Peoples' Party Executive Committee Appeals to Voters.

To the White Voters of the State of Alabama—

GENTLEMEN AND FELLOW CITIZENS: At the populist state convention held at Birmingham on May 2, 1900, it was agreed that the convention adjourn to meet again in the city of Birmingham on May 30, 1900, and a resolution was passed instructing me, as chairman of the state executive committee, to invite

First, all men who are opposed to a constitutional convention.

Second, all men who are in favor of the dispensary system of controlling the liquor traffic.

Third, all men who are in favor of prohibiting the whisky traffic.

Fourth, all men who are opposed to the resolution passed by the recent democratic convention which recommends that in counties where the democratic nominee should be defeated, that the general assembly confer with such defeated candidate as to matters of local legislation.

Now, the above questions are matters of vital interest to the people of this state, and the people's party has taken a step that no other political party has taken.

We say to the man who is opposed to the constitutional convention, unite with us and assist in defeating this measure, which will benefit neither you nor the state.

We say to the man who is opposed to the nefarious whisky traffic, come and counsel with us, and whatever method is wisest and best we will join with you in its adoption in order to blot out this great evil, and by legislation, in the interest of our homes, as well as of our state, we will place the ship of state on a higher plane.

We call on the men of Alabama, regardless of past political affiliations, to join us on the 30th instant.

We call on the Christian men—men who pray daily, "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." And I wish to remind my brethren of the fact that you may pray this prayer until judgment day, and unless you vote as you pray your prayer will avail nothing.

Will you meet us and unite with us and help us in the right?

If the good people of this state sit down under the delusion that because the democratic party has nominated a good, Christian man for governor, that all matters of state are safe, they will wake up to find that Col. Samford is powerless in the hands of a party that is controled by whisky rings of this state.

In the second place, if the coming general assembly of Alabama is to take the recommendations of the democratic convention and be governed by it, we are to have a new order of things—yea, we are to have constitutional liberty ignored, and men repudiated by the people are to make laws. How can men calling themselves democrats advocate a doctrine like that? Where are we drifting to in Alabama? Think of a convention passing a resolution that the general assembly confer with defeated democratic candidates in matters of local legislation!

In the face of this nefarious resolution what becomes of the spirit of the state constitution which says the people shall elect their representatives? The time has come to call a halt!

And now, again, in behalf of the people's party state convention, I most heartily invite all white men who are opposed to the evils named above, and who are in favor of honest government to meet us on the 30th day of May, 1900.

Do not wait to organize, but come to the convention and voice the will of the people of your section of the state. If you have time, call a mass meeting and elect delegates; if not, come on your own account, and let us know where and how your people stand on these great questions.

Respectfully,

S. M. ADAMS,

Chairman People's Party Executive Committee.

Copenhagen's crusade against rats has led to the formation in that city of a National Danish Rat Exterminating society, which organization has constructed, at considerable expense, a crematory for the bodies of the rodents which it kills. The rats are said to be dangerous carriers of disease germs, and it has been found dangerous to the health of the city to bury them.

FILIPINOS WERE ROUTED NEAR LEGASPI

Two Hundred and Eighty Insurgents Killed in a Battle in the Visayan Islands—Other Notes of Interest.

Telegrams received at Manila from General Young report that Aguinaldo has rejoined the rebel General Tino in the north and that they have reassembled a considerable force in the mountains. General Young desires to strike them before the rains and asks for reinforcements.

The tenor of the dispatches indicates that General Young is confident that Aguinaldo is with Tino and it is presumed they are planning to resume fighting during the rains.

Company F, of the Forty-seventh regiment, met and routed a band of the enemy between Legaspi and Risgo, province of Albany, April 18. Two Americans were killed and five were wounded, including two officers. The Filipinos lost heavily.

The conditions around Legaspi and Sorsogon are reported to be continually disturbed.

Two rebel attacks on the American garrisons in the Viscayan islands recently have resulted in the killing of 280 of the enemy and the wounding of two Americans.

REPUBLICAN OPPOSITION.

Efforts Being Made to Prevent Passage of Canal Bill.

Republican senators are evidently working to prevent the passage of the Nicaragua canal bill through the senate this session. They may agree to its report from the inter-oceanic committee before the session ends, but probably not until too late to pass it.

Representative Aldrich has introduced a bill authorizing J. C. Bingham and R. F. Goodwin to construct and maintain a toll and railroad bridge, or either, across the Tallapoosa river between Elmore and Montgomery counties.

The bill to erect a monument over soldiers buried at Talladega, Ala., has been referred from the senate library committee to the military committee.

ASKED TO RESIGN.

City Council of Atlanta Calls Upon Mayor Woodward to Step Out.

The city council of Atlanta adopted a resolution calling upon Mayor James G. Woodward to resign his office. The resolution was the culmination of a sensational sermon Sunday night by Rev. L. G. Broughton, in which the minister made a violent attack on the mayor's personal habits.

The resolution calls upon the mayor to resign before the next meeting of the council, two weeks from Monday. The leader of the opposition to Mr. Woodward says he is in honor bound, under the terms of a statement made last summer, to resign.

The mayor declined to say what his action would be. His term expires next January 1.

Memphis Honors Dewey.

Memphis went wild Monday and the city surrendered unconditionally to the gallant admiral and his gracious wife. The climax of the day's festivities was a gorgeous flower parade in the afternoon, which passed through the principal streets and received the plaudits of thousands of enthusiastic citizens and visitors.

Cuban Editor Murdered.

At Gibara, province of Santiago de Cuba, Senor Alberti, editor of the Don Clairdades, was shot and instantly killed by an unknown assassin at the theater. Alberti was an active politician and his paper recently has been criticizing the action of the American officials, particularly the election orders. Alberti had received threatening letters which he ridiculed in his paper.

KEILY NAMED BY POPE.

Official Brief Containing His Appointment Received.

Formal notice of one of the most important appointments ever made by Pope Leo XIII was received at the papal legation in Washington Saturday when the official brief preconising Very Rev. Benjamin Keily, D. D., as Bishop of Savannah, Ga., arrived. Archbishop Martinelli, the papal delegate in Washington, at once forwarded it to the bishop-elect at Savannah, who has been administrator of the diocese since the last incumbent, Bishop Becker, died July 28, 1899. Dr. Keily, whose endorsement, not only by the late bishop, but also by the priests of Georgia, was a factor in securing his elevation to the hierarchy, is a native of Petersburg, Va.

HAWAII REPUBLICANS.

Convention Called to Formally Organize the Party.

A special from Honolulu, via San Francisco, says:

A call has been issued for a convention to organize the republican party of the territory of Hawaii. The convention is to meet in Honolulu, May 15. All persons who believe in the principles of the republican party as laid down by the last national convention of the party are invited to meet in their respective localities and elect delegates to this convention.

In addition to organizing the party the convention will select delegates to represent the territory in the republican convention at Philadelphia. As yet the democrats have made no move toward organizing in any part of the islands.

CANAL TREATY LIMIT

Extended to the End of McKinley's Term.

Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador, Saturday signed a treaty extending for several months from August 5, next, the period of time allowed for the exchange of ratifications of the Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty. This extension was arranged for in view of the conviction that no legislation on the treaty can be secured during the present session of congress.

The extension will prolong the period allowed for the exchange of ratifications until the expiration of President McKinley's term of office.

Seventy-five True Bills Returned.

The Bibb county grand jury adjourned Saturday. Its final report stated that the jurors had examined one hundred and eighty-three witnesses, investigated seventy-seven cases, and returned seventy-five true bills. It also recommended that the commissioners' court make some arrangement for the safe keeping of the public records of the county. There are no vaults, and in case of fire very likely none of the records would be saved.

Littleton Found Guilty.

Frank Littleton, charged with the murder of Mrs. Ella Hodges, was convicted Saturday, at Opelika, of murder in the first degree and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. The trial consumed three days and was the most largely attended case Lee county has had in many years. The evidence was circumstantial, but very binding and there was little doubt of his guilt. The woman was his wife's sister and was murdered by drowning.

Large Attendance at Race Conference.

Bookings at the hotels in Montgomery already promise a large attendance at the conference of the Southern Society for the Promotion of the Study of Race Conditions and Problems in the South.

The convention will hold its first session on the evening of May 8 and continue for three days. The convention will be held in the new Auditorium, and the first session will be called to order by J. SWEPT BY TORNADOES.

Several Persons Killed and Much Property Destroyed in Kansas.

A special from Kansas City, Mo., says: No less than a dozen tornadoes of more or less severity are reported to have occurred Sunday in central Kansas; in Saline, Ellsworth and Barton counties, which join each other. At Ellinwood, Barton county, three persons are reported killed.

Other storms are reported near Ellsworth and Kanapolis, in Ellsworth county, and near Brookville, in Saline county. Near Kanopolis eight distinct funnel-shaped clouds developed within a radius of twenty miles, four of them large ones, and two of which are known to have traveled over the earth for a space of twenty-five minutes.

Brookville reports six tornadoes traversed the county in as many different directions from that town without touching it. In no instance are details reported. The destruction wrought has probably been in the territories at inaccessible points.

Two persons are known to have been killed and three injured. Wires are down in the affected districts, making it impossible to accurately sum up the damages done.

Texas Town Destroyed.

One-third of the houses in Garcia, a town in Denton county, Texas, were destroyed Sunday by a tornado. No one was hurt, as, warned by a big black cloud, the people sought refuge in storm houses before the tornado reached them. Reports from other sections of Denton county show that several houses at Little Elm were demolished and several persons injured.

KILLED BY A PREACHER.

Sensational Shooting Affair Between Prominent Men in South Carolina.

One of the most sensational homicides in the history of Bamburg, S. C., occurred Friday when Rev. W. E. Johnson, pastor of the Baptist church, shot and almost instantly killed W. T. Bellinger, stenographer of the judicial district. Trouble between the two began the day previous over the painting of a fence between the premises of John B. Bellinger, father of the deceased, and the Baptist parsonage. Friday Bellinger met Rev. Johnson, who was armed with a double-barrelled shotgun. A few words passed, which led to firing by both parties. When assistance arrived Bellinger was dying.

The families connected with the affair are of the most influential in the town.

FIGHT ON PANAY ISLAND.

Four Americans Killed and Sixteen Wounded.

A dispatch received in Manila from Iloilo reports that a desperate fight took place at Leambanao, in the center of the island of Panay.

It appears that a reconnoitering party of the Twenty-sixth infantry was surrounded and that four of the Americans were killed and sixteen others severely wounded were left on the field. The remainder of the soldiers had a narrow escape.

The dispatch adds that reinforcements were sent from Iloilo as soon as news of the affair was received, whereupon the Filipinos retreated to their mountain stronghold.

Bishop Capers Is Selected.

Bishop Ellison Capers, of the diocese of South Carolina, the distinguished ex-confederate general, has been selected to deliver the memorial sermon at the confederate reunion at Louisville, Ky., Sunday, June 3.

Georgia Has a Lynching.

Marshall Jones, a negro implicated in the murder of Allen Crosby, a white man at Gillis' still in Coffee county, Ga., was taken from the jail at Douglas and lynched. The negro was tied to a small pine tree and his body riddled with bullets. Brown, the negro who fired the fatal shot at Crosby, has not been captured.

The Mobile cotton mills will in a few days begin the building of a new building with a view of doubling the capacity of the mill. The company will employ about 100 additional hands.

Killing at Knoxville.

At Knoxville, Tenn., Rufus F. Beard fired three shots into the heart of George Turner, killing him instantly. A large crowd was in the vicinity, and after the fatal shots at Turner, Beard turned upon the crowd, then rushing upon him, and leveled his pistol. He was seized before he fired again. Turner was advancing on Beard with an open knife when the shots were fired.

ALABAMA STATE NEWS.

Tragic Death of a Small Boy Near New Decatur.

News was received at New Decatur of the tragic death of Ed E. Thickston's 6-year-old son, which took place late Sunday afternoon at Russell mill, ten miles west of the city.

The little fellow, in company with several other children, was playing on top of a high bluff, when he lost his footing and fell over the embankment to the bottom of the bluff, a distance of 50 feet. In falling his body displaced a large rock, which fell with terrific force, striking his body and mashing it almost beyond recognition and causing instantaneous death.

An Eventful Trip to the Transvaal.

Rev. I. N. Fitzpatrick, presiding elder of the A. M. E. church, has just returned to Opelika from an extended trip through South Africa, and more especially the Transvaal, where he was ordered by Bishop Turner in December to put down a revolt in the colored Methodist church there.

Bishop Dwane, of South Africa, had revolted from the authority of the church and constituted himself the supreme power in church circles, and over 2,000 of the members had followed him. Rev. Fitzpatrick had an eventful trip, calmed the ruffled waters, and restored the church to its usual calmness, besides adding over 500 to its membership.

He travelled over 25,000 miles on the round trip at an expense for fare alone of over $1,000. He has been recommended for the bishopric of South Africa, India, Abbyssinia, and Egypt. He is a man that stands well with the white people of his home.

Coosa River Improvement.

When the matter of improvements on the Coosa river comes before the house committee on Rivers and Harbors at Washington on the 15th instant, a strong body of Alabama citizens will be on hand to add their efforts to those of Congressman Burnett, of the Seventh district, who is pushing the measure. It will compose, among others, Hon. Frank Lachrop, of Riverside; Judge Cabot, Lull, of Wetumpka; O. R. Hood and W. P. Lay, of Gadsden. It is the desire of Chairman Lay that every section to be benefited by the opening should send a strong delegation to Washington on the 15th. It is hoped that congress can be induced to appropriate $600,000 to be used on the Coosa river during the next six years. This amount it is thought, will open the stream from Rome, Ga., to the gulf.

Shooting Affray in Dadeville.

The Fifth district republican convention met at Dadeville Saturday and resulted in a shooting affray. A difficulty arose between Deputy Collector King and his brother, Neely King, and Postmaster J. T. Howie, in which Neely King was shot through the lower part of the abdomen, the bullet inflicting a very serious and probably fatal wound. Fifteen or twenty shots were exchanged in the melee, which occurred on the public square, crowded with people. Postmaster Howie surrendered to the sheriff and was released later on $1,200 bond.

Destructive Fire in Montgomery.

The business portion of Montgomery was threatened with destruction by fire Tuesday morning. Todd's Gun store, on North Court street, was destroyed. The stock was valued at $10,000, with $3,000 insurance. The building destroyed was the property of P. N. Tyson, and valued at $5,000. It is covered by insurance.

Destructive Fire in Atlanta.

The factory of the Ware Furniture company, one of the largest manufacturing plants in the south, located at Atlanta, Ga., was burned Monday. Forty cottages occupied by people employed in the factory were destroyed, many of the families losing all their effects. Several hundred thousand feet of hardwood lumber was also burned.

William Dickinson, a fireman, was badly burned, and Thomas Varner was carried from one of the burning cottages in an unconscious condition. The loss to the factory and on the cottages will be about $200,000, with insurance about one-half.

Birmingham's Street Fair.

The Elk's street fair begins in Birmingham May 14. The fair will be held in an enclosure on Second avenue, between Fourteenth and Eighteenth streets. The avenue has been graded and rolled in the limits to be occupied by the street fair and is now as smooth and level as a board. The work of enclosing it will be done this week and by Friday it will be ready for the reception of the Midway and the other attractions.

REORGANIZATION BILL PASSED.

Entire Staff Arrangement of the Army Revolutionized.

Friday's session of the senate was rendered especially notable by the passing, after a debate lasting only three hours, of the army reorganization bill. In military circles the measure is regarded as one of the most important of the present session.

It practically revolutionizes the present staff arrangements of the army. It proposes to change the present system of permanent appointments in certain staff corps to one of detail by a gradual process, as the officers now in those corps go out of active service. As vacancies occur in the department of the adjutant general and the inspector general, quartermaster general and commissary general, they are to be filled by details from the line, the details to be temporary and not to exceed four years.

The bill discontinues the regimental organization of the artillery and establishes an artillery corps of two branches, viz: 126 batteries of coast artillery and 18 batteries of field artillery, with a total of 17,448 men. It provides for an increase of 100 in the corps of cadets at West Point. The rank of the commanding general of the army is raised to that of lieutenant general, and that of adjutant general to major general.

The fortifications appropriation bill, carrying about $7,500,000 was passed.

SITUATION IN PHILIPPINES.

General Otis Sends Report of April Operations in the Islands.

The war department has received the following report from General Otis:

April captures from enemy, 30 pieces artillery, 1,200 rifles, considerable ammunition and large stores property. During early portion of the month the enemy was active in extreme northern and southern Luzon and some Visayan islands. Our reported losses for the month, thirteen enlisted men killed; three officers, twenty-four enlisted men wounded; rumored recent loss in Samar of nineteen killed, and number wounded not yet reported. This is due to small detachments scouting in mountains and in the interior of the island. The enemy losses officially reported were 1,721 killed, wounded and captured. Leading Filipinos express confidence in the early pacification of the island. They say the war has terminated.

GOVERNOR LEARY'S REPORT

On the Management of Guam. His Money Stock Increased.

Governor Leary has sent to the navy department another of his characteristic official reports about affairs in Guam, including the results of a thorough census taken under his direction and a financial statement for the first six months of his administration which shows a gratifying increase of surplus of Mexican dollars in the island treasury. American money has not yet entered into circulation in Guam and the figures in the balance sheet represent the silver currency left there by the Spaniards.

Arrested for Embezzling $13,600.

M. Wilenski, manager of the Savannah Shoe & Dry Goods Company, was arrested in Savannah, Ga., on the charge of embezzling $13,600. The Wilenski Company recently went into bankruptcy. Fraud was charged, and at an investigation sufficient evidence was heard to lead to the issuing of a warrant.

Culton Denied Bail.

On the conclusion of the argument on the motions for bail for W. H. Culton, charged with being an accessory to the murder of Gov. Wm. Goebel, at Frankfort, Ky., Judge Cantrill denied the application and Culton was remanded to jail. In rendering his decision, Judge Cantrill said that the uncontradicted evidence on some of the points in the case left the court no recourse but to refuse the defendant's application for bail.

Culton's trial will come up at the regular September term of court. The trials of the other accused prisoners will be held at Georgetown.

The United States transport Meade sailed from Manila for the United States Saturday with Major-General Otis and two aides on board.

FOUGHT FOR FIVE DAYS.

Heroic Defense of an American Garrison Attacked by Filipinos.

TEN OUT OF THIRTY SURVIVED.

Besieged in a Church on the Island of Samar—Killed Over Two Hundred of Enemy—Refused to Surrender—Rescue Effected by an Officer and Eight Men—Filipinos Becoming Aggressive.

MANILA (By Cable).—The American garrison of Catubig, Island of Samar, consisting of thirty men belonging to the Forty-third Regiment, has been attacked by rebels. Twenty of the Americans were killed. The remainder were rescued.

The Americans were quartered in the Catubig Church, which the enemy, numbering several hundred men, surrounded and attacked fiercely. The Americans fought sleeplessly for two days and then the rebels managed to ignite the roof of the church and it burned away and finally fell on those inside the edifice. The walls remained intact, however, and were used as a shelter by the besieged Americans for three days longer, the enemy attacking the building on all sides at once.

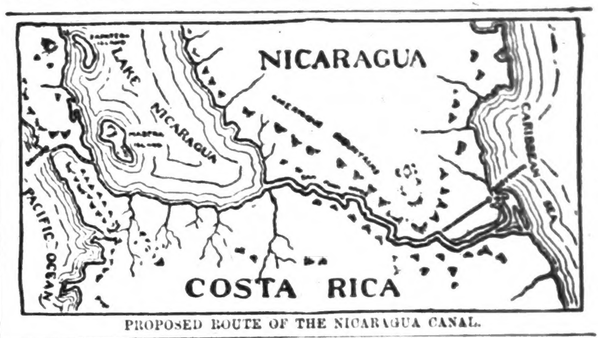
The Americans continued firing from the windows and doors of the church and did great execution among the Filipinos. It is estimated that more than two hundred of the latter were killed. Many dead bodies were removed from the scene of the fighting.

After five days' resistance by the Americans a lieutenant and eight men arrived from Iaoan and engaged the besiegers, who thereupon retired.

The fortunate arrival of the reinforcements prevented the annihilation of the American force in the church, which had declined repeatedly to surrender when ordered to do so by the Filipinos.

The ten survivors were without food, had little ammunition and were physically exhausted when relieved.

The fight has encouraged the Filipinos, who are acting in an aggressive manner and threatening that section of the coast, particularly the town of Catarma, whence the garrison will probably be withdrawn to Iaoan.



PROPOSED ROUTE OF THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

AGUINALDO REPORTED DEAD.

The Belief is Growing That the Igorottis Killed Him.

MANILA (By Cable).—The belief is growing that Aguinaldo was killed by the Igorottis. There is no proof that he has been alive since Major Peyton C. Marsh, of the Thirty-third Regiment, abandoned the chase after the Filipino leader in the Benguet Mountains, and an insurgent officer who recently surrendered to General Young says that the insurgent General Tinio holds this belief.

Major March's information was that there were only half a dozen soldiers with Aguinaldo when he fled beyond the Bontoc wilderness, where the savages are hostile to all strangers. Friends of Aguinaldo's wife assert that she has heard nothing from him since they parted. She is nearly prostrated with worry.

BUFFALO STRIKE SETTLED.

Differences Between the New York Central and Employes Adjusted.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (Special).—An amicable adjustment of existing differences between the members of the Car Repairers' Association employes of the New York Central and Superintendent Waitt, of the motive power department, who represented the company, was concluded after a conference lasting several hours.

The Central made unexpected concessions to the men, granting their wage scale except for these amendments: Carpenters, twenty-one cents an hour, or one cent an hour less than the demand; machinists, twenty-two cents an hour, or one cent less than the demand; inspectors, $62.50 a month, or $2.50 less than the demand. This means a considerable increase in the wages of all the original strikers.

The strikers voted to accept the terms made by Superintendent Waitt, but decided not to return to work until the same schedule is adopted by the other roads. The new schedule will increase the payroll in the one Central shop here $50,000 a year.

For Five Holland Boats.

The United States Senate Committee on Naval Affairs decided to recommend the amendment of the Naval Appropriation bill so as to authorize the purchase of five submarine torpedo boats of the Holland type.

Camphor Goes Up; Supply Short.

Owing to the recent assumption of the control of the camphor trade of the island of Formosa by the Japanese Government and that Government's action in fixing a new sale rate, the price of camphor has risen.

Hail and Rain Damage Tea Crops.

Reports received at Calcutta from the tea districts in India show the prospects are generally unfavorable. Hail and rain storms have done much damage to the crops.

Scheme to Fool Americans.

The old scheme of fooling Americans by leading them to believe they are heirs to English Chancery estates is again in operation.

Four Killed at a Crossing.

A wagon containing five persons was struck by an express train at Orangeville, just outside of Baltimore, Md., with the result that four were killed and one badly injured. The party in the wagon consisted of Alex Slayman, his three children and Henry L. Kline. Kline and the three children were killed. The party was returning from a fishing trip.

Rear-Admiral Watson Homeward Bound.

The flagship Baltimore, with Admiral Watson aboard, homeward bound, sailed from Yokohama for Kobe, Japan.

THE CANAL BILL PASSED.

The Vote in the House Was 225 For to 35 Against.

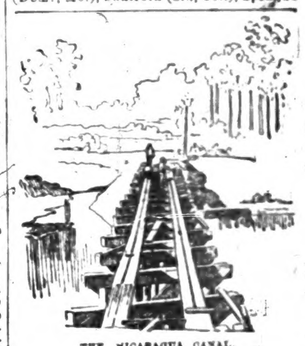
An Overwhelming Majority Recorded For the Measure After One of the Hottest Fights Ever Known in Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—The House at the conclusion of the most stormy debate of the present session of Congress, passed the Nicaraguan Canal bill by the overwhelming vote of 225 to 35.

Much excitement reigned throughout the day, and several times bitter words were used. The excitement reached a climax in a highly dramatic scene between Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Cannon, when the Iowan denounced the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee for attempting to "dishonor" him.

In Committee of the Whole no amendments were permitted except those proposed by the committee reporting the bill, although quite a number were proposed. The House adopted the one changing the word, "fortifications" to "provisions," by a vote of 154 to 104. A motion to recommit was lost, 52 to 171, and the bill then passed.

Those who voted nay were Acheson (Rep., Penn.), Adams (Rep., Penn.), Burton (Rep., Ohio), Cannon (Rep., Ill.), Capron (Rep., R. I.), Clark (Dem., Mo.), Cooney (Dem., Mo.), Cowherd (Dem., Mo.), Cox (Dem., Tenn.), Dalzell (Rep., Penn.), De Armond (Dem., Mo.), Denny (Dem., Md.), Dougherty (Dem., Mo.), Fleming (Dem., Ga.), Fletcher (Rep., Minn.), Gaston (Dem., Penn.), Gillett (Rep., Mass.), Graham (Rep., Penn.), Hitt (Rep., Ill.), King (Dem., Utah), Lawrence (Rep., Mass.), Lester (Dem., Ga.), Levy (Dem., N. Y.), Littauer (Rep., N. Y.), Littlefield (Rep., Me.), McCall (Rep., Mass.), Neville (Rep., Neb.), Rhea (Dem., Ky.), Rucker (Dem., Mo.), Shafroth (Sil., Col.), Sprague (Rep., Mass.), Stewart (Rep., Wis.), Talbert (Dem., S. C.), Thayer (Dem., Mass.), Vandiver (Dem., Mo.)—35.



THE NICARAGUA CANAL.
(A typical scene along the proposed route of the great waterway.)

The canal bill as passed is divided into four sections, the first of which appropriates such sum as may be necessary to enable the President of the United States to acquire from Costa Rica and Nicaragua control of territory now belonging to those countries, on which to construct a canal of a depth and capacity sufficient for ships of the greatest tounage and draft now in use, from a point near Greytown on the Caribbean Sea, via Lake Nicaragua, to Brito on the Pacific.

Section 2 provides that when said territory is acquired, the President shall direct the Secretary of War to contract said canal, with necessary harbors and terminals, and to employ such civil engineers as may be necessary.

Other sections provide that in the construction of the canal, the San Juan River and Lake Nicaragua shall be used as far as available; that the President shall guarantee to Costa Rica and Nicaragua the use of the canal and harbors for their vessels and citizens upon such terms as may be agreed to; appropriates $10,000,000 to begin the work, and authorises the Secretary of War to contract for materials and work for the construction and protection of the canal, the whole to be paid for from time to time, not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $140,000,000.

SIX VILLAGES DESTROYED.

Terrible Results of Forest Fires in Northern Michigan.

MARINETTE, Wis. (Special).—Six villages in northern Michigan, just across the State line, have been wiped out by forest fires. Those destroyed are: Ames, Nathan, Tabor, Gardner, Swanson and Arnold—all on the Wisconsin and Michigan Railroad. The inhabitants were all saved, special trains being run to their aid.

The fires were reported to be the fiercest north of Fisher, Mich. Scores of lumber camps have been destroyed and the losses to the lumber industries will be heavy. In addition, thousands of acres of valuable timber tracts have been fire-swept, entailing great loss.

Nebraska Republicans Meet.

The Republican State Convention of Nebraska met at Lincoln and nominated a State ticket headed by Charles H. Dietrich, of Hastings, for Governor. The convention chose as delegates-at-large to the National Convention Edward Rosewater, United States Senator John M. Thurston, John H. McClay, and John A. Sherwood. The platform adopted praised the establishment of the gold standard, declared for expansion and favored an increase in the navy.

Three Democratic State Conventions.

The Democratic State Convention of New Hampshire met at Concord and elected delegates-at-large to the National Convention at Kansas City. The delegates were instructed to vote for W. J. Bryan. The Democratic State Convention of Virginia met at Norfolk and selected delegates to the National Convention and the candidacy for President of W. J. Bryan was indorsed. The Democrats of Michigan in State Convention selected delegates to the National Convention and instructed them to vote for W. J. Bryan. Three State Conventions adopted resolutions reaffirming the Chicago Platform of 1896, and declaring against imperialism.

An interesting debate will be held at the court house on Saturday next after the Populist mass meeting has nominated a candidate for Representative. Judge Adams has announced that he proposes to attack the Democratic resolution declaring that local legislation shall be at the mercy of the defeated Democratic candidate. The Judge invited Hon. Tipton Mullins to be present and defend the resolution if he can, and Mr. Mullins has accepted the challenge.

We hope to see every beat in the county fully represented at the mass meeting to be held next Saturday at Clanton, when a Representative to the General Assembly is to be nominated in place of the lamented John W. Cox. This is a nomination directly in the hands of the people, and with a full representation from all parts of the county the choice must necessarily be a wise one.

The address issued by Judge Adams, Chairman of the People's Party State Executive Committee, which will be found on page 2 of this paper, is a wise and conservative appeal to all the white voters of Alabama to come together and consider what is to the best interests of the State and people.

There is no appeal to passion or prejudice; no accusations are made against any individuals or party. There are certain admitted evils existing in Alabama which it is highly improbable will be either corrected or ameliorated by the dominant party as long as they retain control of affairs, and the same party now, secure in its imagined supremacy, arrogantly threatens the people with the infliction of other evils.

As the address says: "The time has come to call a halt!" There is only one way by which the ring of Democratic politicians who have assumed charge of the affairs of the State can be made to learn that the people will not submit to each and every imposition they may desire to fasten upon us. That way is pointed out in Judge Adams' address, and a monster meeting at Birmingham on the 30th inst. is the most potent way of impressing the Democratic ringsters that they must not go too far.

In the face of the notorious resolution of the recent Democratic convention, which declares the people shall have no voice in the legislation most directly affecting themselves, it is idle to suppose that petitions or local meetings will have any effect upon the course mapped out by the Democratic party ringsters. They say: Any local legislation you may desire will not be considered by us if you dare to send any man to the General Assembly who is not a Democrat and under our control.

A more preposterous proposition was never advanced by any political party. If a county has 3000 voters and 2900 of them vote for a Populist, then the Democratic candidate who has not been supported by more than 100 voters in that county is to be asked to say what the people of his county should have—not what they want. He is to be flattered and cajoled to say they don't know what they want, and that which they are demanding is not good for them.

If the people are fighting a proposed stock law, for instance, and the defeated Democratic candidate says: Give them a stock law, then a stock law they will have.

If it's a prohibition county, and poor human nature, in the shape of a defeated Democratic candidate, does not like prohibition, all he will have to do is to "confer" with his party leaders, and away goes prohibition.

There is no end to the meanness and villainy which it is possible to inflict upon the people under this disgraceful resolution.

It is rather surprising, but at the same time very gratifying, to find the Age-Herald joining the Populists in denouncing the miserable resolution passed by the late Democratic convention in regard to local legislation. The Age-Herald, which poses as an ultra-democratic paper, strikes that abominable resolution harder than any Populist has yet done. With great pleasure we reproduce the article below.

The Age-Herald says Col. Samford "has over and over again said to the people of the state that the county, which is the political unit in this State, should determine its own sumptuary laws. If it wants prohibition it should have it. If it wants a license system it should have it. If it wants a dispensary it should have it. This is democracy, or rule by the people, of the people, for the people."

The Democratic (?) resolution says emphatically No! A county may want either of the above mentioned systems, but it shall have the most objectionable system forced upon it, if it asks for anything by popular vote and that popular vote is not agreeable to the Democratic party. The voice of the people shall be ignored, and only the defeated Democratic candidate shall be heard.

The Age-Herald says "Col. Samford wants rule by the people. He prefers it by counties because in that way a delicate issue can best be made to fit each locality." The atrocious Democratic (?) resolution says, Col. Samford and the people be d—d. If the people won't vote the Democratic ticket, legislation which "can best be made to fit each locality" is what they will not get. They defeated our democratic nominee and that which "best fits their locality" they shall not have.

The Age-Herald says "Col. Samford's position is impregnable, because it offers every county whatever it wants." The vicious Democratic (?) resolution say. Our position is impregnable and we mean to let the people know it and feel it. We are in power and intend to kill any and all opposition. We give the people notice, that until we have killed all opposition to the Democratic party by means of a constitutional convention, we will not heed any request of theirs, but on the contrary we will "confer" with the defeated democratic candidate, and in revenge for his defeat we will defeat whatever they ask for.

We hope the Age-Herald will continue in its good work, and it will deserve the good will of all the people. Honest Democrats are as much opposed to this undemocratic resolution as are any Populist. It was the work of the ring and they are responsible.

The attempt on the part of the fag-end of populism to inject the dispensary issue into the state campaign will miscarry. A state dispensary system has not been free enough from jobs in South Carolina to recommend it to other states. No doubt a measure is needed that will enable any county that desires the system to test without delay and without trickery public sentiment. More than that is not needed or demanded by the people.

Colonel Sanford is a good lawyer and a firm believer in representative government. He does not propose to force his individual convictions upon any body. He has over and over again said to the people of the state that the county, which is the political unit in this state, should determine its own sumptuary laws. If it wants prohibition, it should have it. If it wants a license system, it should have it. If it wants a dispensary, it should have it. This is democracy, or rule by the people, of the people, for the people. Instead of per contra on his part, Colonel Sanford wants rule by the people. He prefers it by counties, because in that way a delicate issue can best be made to fit each locality, and because in that way no attempt will be made to institute a particular policy until it has public sentiment behind it sufficient to support and fully enforce it.

Colonel Sanford's position is impregnable, because it offers every county whatever it wants, without involving any of the scandals that have attempted a state dispensary in South Carolina. Under his plan a system that suits Winston county can be adopted, and so can a system that suits Jefferson county. The vexed problem does not afford any better settlement—certainly not one that is more in accord with representative government. It is local rule and local drinks, and nothing can well be more American that that.

The easiest and most effective method of purifying the blood and invigorating the system is to take DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for cleansing the liver and bowels. Campbelle Drug company.

CHEWED REDHOT CHARCOAL

An Arab Accomplished This Feat Without Burning His Mouth.

A small brazier, full of redhot charcoal, was brought. Seating himself on the floor in front of this, the Arab picked out with a pair of iron pinchers a big lump, which he broke into small fragments, one of which he put into his mouth. Swaying his body to and fro, uttering a series of semisuppressed groans, he munched the hot charcoal between his teeth. When he had retained it nearly a minute, he spat it out and took up another piece. The operation appeared to cause him great pain. He rolled his eyes wildly, and at times the saliva dripped from the corners of his mouth.

Persians are said to be utterly callous to human suffering, but Mahmoud Bey was so much upset that he got up and went out of the room. The prince, too, was visibly affected. To me the performance appeared a mere piece of vulgar trickery. By practice a man might easily retain a small piece of hot charcoal between his teeth in such a manner that it should not scorch his flesh.

When the Arab had crushed some five or six pieces we begged him to stop. He rose and seated himself on the divan, remarking that there was no reason for any anxiety; that the operation was quite a simple one and could be learned in a few weeks by any novice. Despite his placidity, I suspected that his tongue and lips were burned. I was therefore surprised to see him swallow a few minutes afterward a cup of hot coffee and smoke a cigarette, apparently without any inconvenience.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Laughter as a Cure For Worry.

"Nearly every woman is a miser of jollity. Men are willing to catch pleasure as it flies, but women must have everything just so before they can abandon themselves to enjoyment, and then they are usually too tired to take it," said a lecturer to an audience of women. "It's a disease, but fortunately not incurable. Women say it is easy to talk this way, but that one can't be laughing when one is hurried and worried. All I can say is that you might be as hurried, but you wouldn't be as worried if you did laugh. I happened once to speak of my husband to a little girl, and she said:

"'Why, I didn't think you were married.'

"'Why?' I asked.

"'Oh, cause'—

"'Cause why?'

"'Cause you laugh so much.'

"Wasn't that a commentary on matrimony?"—Chicago Times-Herald.

The Use of Cooking Butter.

Every housekeeper knows that the term "cooking butter" means a grade of butter that is not quite fresh enough for table use and is therefore only fit to be used in cooking. The trouble is that in some houses butter never seems to become too stale to be utilized in the preparation of various dishes, and it is employed in the interest of economy even after it has acquired a rancid flavor. When table butter has lost its fresh fragrance of flavor and odor, it is still in perfectly proper condition to use as an ingredient in seasoning, but when it begins to be strong in taste or odor, even in a slight degree, it is ruinous as a seasoning and impairing as an ingredient. It is nothing short of sinful that so many good dishes should be spoiled by an unintelligent economy which, supposedly representing a saving of $5 or $10 a year, in reality is the most wasteful practice common to a kitchen. For butter that has grown strong the soap fat jar is the only proper destiny.—Ella Morris Kretschmar in Woman's Home Companion.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale in my show case, said to me: I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore, and she became so enthusiastic over its merit, that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smiling and informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Effective Farm Help.

Every spring at the beginning of farm work an army of boboes flock to the country claiming to be in search of work. They remind us of the old English story of two tramps who said they had walked all over England trying to get work, but hoping all the time they would be refused. Such help is worse than useless, yet it is the kind that the farmer is apt to get who puts off hiring help until he gets behindhand with work and then seeks the cheapest farm help—that is, the lowest price per month that he can find. Generally these boboes give themselves away by asking in consideration of their low wages that they be set only at the easiest jobs. They most always want to manages the horses, as that, they think, involves little labor. Such men are dear even if they would work for nothing. The only help that will do the farmer any good is help that understands the business of farming and is not afraid to tackle any kind of work, however hard and disagreeable it may be. Such help is always gobbled up early in the season or kept on yearly contracts, so as to be sure of them when hiring out time comes.—Boston Cultivator.

A Life And Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung troubles." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pains in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partly digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver into a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Peramus Verbena.

SIBERIA'S AWAKENING.

What Russia is Doing to Develop Her Vast Asiatic Possession.

CHARACTERISTIC SCENES IN TOWN AND COUNTRY.

REMARKABLE as the statement may seem, ever since the day when the first section of the Siberian railway was opened, from Chelibinsk to Kurgan, immigration has been flowing into the country in a constantly increasing stream. Now that the great rivers and steppes are crossed by through trains all the way from Moscow to Irkutsk, the movement is even more rapid, and already the vast areas of Siberia are less lonesome than they were a few years ago, writes Trumbull White, in the Chicago Record. The Russian peasant is displaying the same sort of restlessness that induced the settlement of our own Western States and Territories from the more thickly populated regions of the East. Indeed, the Russian peasant always has shown a willingness to support the "expansion" policy of his Government by moving on into the newly annexed lands and subduing them to his own civilization and manner of development, crude though that might be. It is time to dismiss the idea that the Russian peasant is altogether a clod. He has shared too well the labors of the Russian advance across Asia.

An observant English traveler writing recently of his journey in these lands has complimented the Siberian and the American in the same breath at the same time that he has phrased an important observation. "If we exclude the more recent peasant immigrants," he says, "the original Russian population of Siberia may be said to comprise the following three classes: The Cossacks, who first conquered the country; exiles, political and criminal; dissenters from the Greek church, who were either banished to Siberia or went there of their own accord. That is to say, the original Russian population of Siberia consists of men and women who were in some way intellectually or physically more active or more earnest than their fellow country men and women who remained in European Russia. The result is that to-day the average Siberian is a more vigorous and intelligent man than the average Russian. He picks up a thing more quickly; his life is richer, brighter."

The Siberian born citizens of the country do not fail to realize these differences. Already I have learned that they want to be called Siberians rather than Russians, and to them the latter name seems no more correct than to call the descendants of English colonists in the United States Englishmen instead of Americans. Already evidences have appeared that "Siberia for the Siberians" is not an unknown sentiment.

Provision for the sustenance of the immigrants on their railway journey through Siberia is simple but adequate. Most of the peasants bring with them as much food as possible of the sort they relish, in order to avoid the necessity of buying on the way. Ponderous loaves of black bread, slabs of died fish and a supply of tea are the chief essentials in this commissary department. Each family carries a teapot in addition to cups and simple dishes, and the individual traveler must do likewise if he wishes to be sure of comfort. As every one knows, tea is the staple article among the Russians and is consumed in great quantities. The Government provides for the necessity in excellent fashion. At every station of the first class, which means about every seventy-five or eighty miles, there is erected at one end of the platform a little house of logs, which is arranged solely for the convenience of the people who want water. A big tank, holding two or three barrels of water, is arranged with a charcoal furnace to keep its contents at the boiling point. In another corner of the house is a tank of cold water. Each of these is fitted with several faucets so that the passengers may serve themselves rapidly when they come. Near this house is an open shed facing the track, which shelters a rough counter and some shelves. This is at the service of the peasant women of the village, who bring all sorts of eatables to this primitive buffet at train time.

When the train arrives there is a hasty exodus from the cars. One representative of each family or traveling party hurries to the house where the hot water is waiting and draws from the tank into his teapot as much as he likes of the essential liquid. Others rush to the buffet shed, to find bread, fish, meat, cakes, hot soup, berries, kvass and kumyss, all of which are sold at astonishing low prices. Then they return to the train to prepare their meals and at their leisure eat and drink.

Emigrants from provinces not tributary to the Volga River are carried on special trains or in emigrant cars attached to the slower regular trains, at rates but little higher than those of the steamers and very much less than the regular third-class rates. For 1000 versts, for instance, the third-class fare is eight rubles and forty kopecks, or approximately $4.35, for 665 miles. The emigrant rate for the same distance is only three rubles, or about $1.55. It goes without saying that the accommodations provided at this rate are not luxurious, but they are quite as good as could be expected for the price, far more comfortable than the former method of travel into Siberia by long and trying marches and probably in most instances relatively better than the homes the people have had.

The cars themselves in which the emigrants travel to the land of their hopes are the ordinary fourth-class cars of the sort one sees all over Russia, inscribed after the invariable fashion, "for eight horses or forty men." They are what we call box cars in the United States, painted the familiar red, with sliding doors opening in either side.

The most characteristic feature of Siberian farm life is that the farmers live not scattered all over the country, remote from neighbors, but in villages as near as possible to the land they are cultivating. Each village, then, is a cluster of houses, in which live not villagers in the usual sense, as townspeople in a small settlement, but the farmers of the region round about.

Life in these villages of Siberia is rude enough, with none of the qualities we consider necessary to comfort. The lands are fertile, yielding ample crops of grain even with the crude methods of cultivation in effect. The plowing is shallow because the plows are poor. There is little cultivation after planting. The grain is harvested with hand sickles and scythes. It is thrashed by horses in the open field, the grain trampled out of the straw by three or four Siberian ponies trotting around in a small circle. It is winnowed by hand and ground in windmills. With all the crudity of the processes, the yield of wheat, for instance, is from twenty to thirty fold, and as high as twenty-five and even thirty bushels to the acre.

Some of the landed proprietors have begun to introduce modern methods of viniculture, but the peasants are slow to adopt them. The grapes are robbed of their juices in the simplest of presses, and the wine is still carted and stored in bullock hides. A wine cellar is a strange sight, with its rows of distorted skins, bulging with the liquors.

The barbaric style of architecture such as the Tartars were fond of is frequently seen in the larger Siberian towns. Omsk has many mosques of this kind. One of the accompanying large pictures shows a business street in Omsk.

An Odd Tree From Madagascar.

From Vick's Magazine we get this picture of the travelers' tree, an odd-looking growth indigenous in Madagascar. Botanically it is known as the Ravenala Madagarcarenis, but its popular name has been given it from the belief that water from rain and dew collects in its leaf stems in sufficient quantity to quench a traveler's thirst. The water does collect as stated, but as the plant grows beside water courses it can hardly be of special benefit to the traveler, who could slack his thirst much easier at the adjacent stream.

Subject: Our Father's House—A Lesson of Patience—An Impressive Warning Against Being Puffed Up With Transitory Earthly Grandeur.

[Copyright 1897]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This discourse of Dr. Talmage is pertinent at this time of year, when many people are moving from house to house, and it teaches lessons of patience and equipoise in very trying circumstances; text, Philippians iv., 12: "I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound."

Happy Paul! Could you really accommodate yourself to all circumstances in life? Could you go up without pride, and could you come down without exasperation? Teach the same lesson to us all.

We are at a season of the year when vast populations in all our cities are changing residence. Having been born in a house and having all our lives lived in a house, we do not have full appreciation of what a house is. It is the growth of thousands of years. The human race first lived in clefts of rocks, the beasts of the field moving out of the caverns to let the human race move in. The shepherds and the robbers still live in caverns of the earth. The troglodytes are a race which to this day prefer the caverns to a house. They are warm; they are large; they are very comfortable; they are less subject to violent changes of heat and cold. We come on along down in the history of the race, and we come to the lodge, which was a home built out of twisted tree branches; we come farther on down in the history of the race, and we come to the tent, which was a home built with a round pole in the centre and skins of animals reaching out in all directions, mats on the floor.

Time passed on, and the world, after much invention, came to build a house, which was a space surrounded by broad stones, against which the earth was heaped from the outside. The roof was made of chalk and gypsum and coal and stones and ashes pounded together. After awhile the porch was born, after awhile the gate. Then hundreds of years passed on, and in the fourteenth century the modern chimney was constructed. The old Hebrews had openings in their houses from which the smoke might escape if it preferred, but there was no inducement offered for it to leave until the modern chimney. Wooden keys opened the door, or the keyhole was large enough to allow the finger to be inserted for the lifting of the latch or the sliding of it. There being no windows the people were dependent for light upon latticework, over which a thin veil was drawn down in time of winter to keep out the elements. Window glass was, so late as 200 or 300 years ago, in England and Scotland so great a luxury that only the very wealthiest could afford it. A hand mill and an oven and a few leathern bottles and some rude pitchers and plates made up the entire equipment of the culinary department.

Thank God for your home, not merely the house you live in now, but the house you were born in and the many houses you have resided in since you began your earthly residence. When you go home to-day, count over the number of those houses in which you have resided, and you will be surprised. Once in awhile you will find a man who lives in a house where he was born and where his father was born and his grandfather was born and his great-grandfather was born, but that is not one out of a thousand cases. I have not been more perambulatory than most people, but I was amazed when I came to count up the number of residences I have occupied. The fact is there is in this world no such thing as permanent residence.

In a private vehicle, and not in a rail car, from which you can see but little, I rode from New York to Yonkers and Tarrytown, on the banks of the Hudson, the finest ride on the planet for a man who wants to see palatial residences in fascinating scenery. It was in the early spring and before the gentlemen of New York had gone out to their country residences. I rode into the grounds to admire the gardens, and the overseer of the place told me—and they all told me—that all the houses had been sold or that they wanted to sell them, and there was literally no exception, although I called at many places, just admiring the gardens and grounds and the palatial residences. Some wanted to sell or had sold because of financial misfortune or because their wives did not want to reside in the summer time in those places while their husbands tarried in town in the night, always having some business on hand keeping them away. From some houses the people had been shaken out by chills and fever, from some houses they had gone because death or misfortune had occurred, and all those palaces and mansions had either changed occupants or wanted to change.

Take up the directory of any city of England or America and see how few people live where they lived fifteen years ago. There is no such thing as permanent residence.

I saw Monticello, in Virginia, President Jefferson's residence, and I saw on the same day Montpelier, which was either Madison's or Monroe's residence, and I saw also the White House, which was President Taylor's residence and President Lincoln's residence and President Garfield's residence. Was it a permanent residence in any case? I tell you that the race is nomadic and no sooner gets in one place than it wants to change for another place or is compelled to change for another place, and so the race invented the railroad and the steamboat in order more rapidly to get into some other place than that in which it was then.

Aye, instead of being nomadic, it is immortal, moving on and moving on! We whip up our horses and hasten on until the hub of the front wheel shivers on the tombstone and tips us headlong into the grave, the only permanent earthly residence.

A day this spring the streets will be filled with the furniture carts and the drays and the trucks. It will be a hard day for horses, because they will be overloaded; it will be a hard day for laborers, for they will overlift before they get the family furniture from one house to another; it will be a hard day for housekeepers to see their furniture scratched, and their crockery broken, and their carpets misfit, and their furniture dashed of the sudden showers; it will be a hard day for landlords; it will be a hard day for tenants.

Especial grace is needed for moving day. Many a man's religion has suffered a fearful strain between the hour on the morning of the first of May, when he took his immature breakfast, and the hour at night when he rolled into his extemporized couch. The furniture broken sometimes will result in the breaking of the Ten Commandments.

My first word, then, in this part of my discourse is to all those who move out of small houses into larger ones. Now, we will see whether, like the apostle, you know how to abound.

Do not, because your new house has two more stories than the old one, add two stories to your vanity or make your brightly polished silver doorplate the coffin plate to your buried humility.

Many persons moving into a larger house have become arrogant and supercilious. They swagger where once they walked; they simper where once they laughed; they go about with an air which seems to say, "Let all smaller craft get out of these waters if they don't want to be run over by a regular Cunarder."

I have known people who were kind and amiable and Christian in their smaller house. No sooner did they go over the doorsill of the new house than they became a glorified nuisance. They were the terror of dry goods clerks and the amazement of ferryboats into which they swept, and, if compelled to stand a moment, with condemnatory glance turning all the people seated into criminals and convicts. They began to hunt up the family coat of arms and had Hon. merchant or unicorn rampant on the carriage door when if they had the appropriate coat of arms it would have been a butter firkin, or a sad iron, or a plow, or a trowel. Instead of being like all the rest of us, made of dust, they would have you think that they were trickled out of heaven on a lump of loaf sugar. The first thing you know them the father will fail in business and the daughter will run off with a French dancing master. A woman ruined in finer house is to be pitied, but a man upset is sickening.

But I must have a word with those who in this May day time move into smaller residences but smaller. Sometimes this is a prudential reason, is that your income is diminished in size, and economy is required, so they move into smaller apartments. I know there are such cases. Marriage has taken some of the children of the family, death has taken members of the family, and father and mother wake up and find that they have just the size it was when they started, and they would feel more and more at home in a house, hence they move out of it. Moving day is a great day in the year, and according to the law of association descriptive names are the rooms named after the different members of the family. I have it so in all my houses. I have it so in mine. We name the rooms after the persons who occupy them. And then there is the dining hall where the festivities took place, the holiday festivities; there is the sitting room where the family met night after night, and there is the room covered because there a life started for a while stopped—the Alpha and the Omega, some earthly existence. Scenes of meeting and parting, of congratulation and heartbreak, every doorknob, every fresco, every mantel, every threshold, meaning more to you than it can ever mean to any one else. When moving out of a house, I have always been in the habit, after everything was gone, of going into each room and bidding it a mute farewell. There will be tears running down many cheeks in the May time moving that the carmen will not be able to understand. It is a solemn and a touching and an overwhelming thing to leave places forever, places where we have struggled and toiled and wept and sung and prayed and anxiously watched and agonized. Oh, life is such a strange mixture of honey and of gall, weddings and burials, midnoon and midnight, clashing! Every home a lighthouse against which the billows of many a storm tumble. Thank God that such energies are not always going to continue, otherwise the nerves would give out and the brain would founder on a dementia like that of King Lear when his daughter Cordelia came to meditate his domestic calamity.

But there are others who will move out of large residences into smaller through the reversal of fortune. The property must be sold or the bailiff will seize it, or the income is less and you cannot pay the house rent. First of all, such persons should understand that our happiness is not dependent on the size of the house we live in. I have known people enjoy a small heaven in two rooms and others suffer a pandemonium in twenty. There is as much happiness in a small house as in a large house. There is as much satisfaction under the light of a tallow candle as under the glare of a chandelier, all the burners at full blaze. Who was the happier, John Bunyan in Bedford jail or Belshazzar in the saturnalia? Contentment is something you can neither rent nor purchase. It is not extrinsic, it is intrinsic. Are there fewer rooms in the house to which you move? You will have less to take care of. Is it to be stove instead of furnace? All the doctors say the modern modes of warming buildings are unhealthy. Is it less mirrors? Less temptation to your vanity. Is it old fashioned toilet instead of water pipes all through the house? Less to freeze and burst when you cannot get a plumber. Is it less carriage? More room for robust exercise. Is it less social position? Fewer people who want to drag you down by their jealousies. Is it less fortune to leave in your last will and testament? Less to spoil your children. Is it less money for the marketing? Less temptation to ruin the health of your family with pineapples and indigestible salads. Is it a little dear? Not hearing so many disagreeables.

I meet you this springtime at the door of your new home, and while I help you lift the clothesbasket over the banisters and the carman is getting red in the face trying to transport that article of furniture to some new destination I congratulate you. You are going to have a better time this year, some of you, than you ever had. You take God and the Christian religion to your home and you will be grandly happy. God in the parlor—that will sanctify your sociabilities; God in the nursery—that will protect your children; God in the dining-hall—that will make the plainest meal an imperial banquet; God in the morning—that will launch the day brightly from the drydocks; God in the evening—that will sail the day sweetly into the harbor.

And get joy, one and all of you, whether you move or do not move; get joy out of the thought that we are soon all going to have a grand moving day. Do you want a picture of the new house into which you will move? Here it is, wrought with the hand of a master: "We know that, if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." How much rent will we have to pay for it? We are going to own it. How much must we pay for it? How much, cash down, and how much left on mortgage? Our father is going to give it as a free gift. When are we going to move into it? We are moving now. On moving day heads of families are very apt to stay in the old house until they have seen everything off. They send ahead the children, and they send ahead the treasures and the valuables. Then after awhile they will come themselves. I remember very well in the country that in boyhood moving day was a jubilation.

On almost the first load we, the children, were sent on ahead to the new house, and we arrived with shout and laughter, and in an hour we had ranged through every room in the house, the barn and the granary. Toward night, and perhaps in the last wagon, father and mother would come, looking very tired, and we would run down to the foot of the lane to meet them and tell them of all the wonders we discovered in the new place, and then, the last wagon unloaded, the candles lighted, our neighbors who had helped us to move—for in those times neighbors helped each other—sat down with us at a table on which there was every luxury they could think of. Well, my dear Lord knows that some of us have been moving a good while. We have sent our children ahead. We have sent many of our valuables ahead, sent many treasures ahead. We cannot go yet. There is work for us to do, but after awhile it will be toward night, and we will be very tired, and then we will start for our new home, and those who have gone ahead of us, they will see our approach, and they will come down the lane to meet us, and they will have much to tell us of what they have discovered in the "house of many mansions" and of how large the rooms are and of how bright the fountains. And then the last load unloaded, the table will be spread, and our celestial neighbors will come in to sit down with our reunited families, and the chalices will be full, not with the wine that sweats in the vat of earthly intoxications, but with "the new wine of the kingdom." And there for the first time we will realize what fools we were on earth when we feared to die, since death has turned out only to be the moving from a smaller house into a larger one and the exchange of a pauper's hut for a prince's castle and the going up stairs from a miserable kitchen to a glorious parlor. O house of God not made with hands, eternal in the heavens!

The proportion of sickness in human life is nine days out of the year.

IN OLD MANHATTAN.

Holiday Costumes and Customs of Our Grandfathers.

Early in the eighteenth century—that is, about 200 years ago—the streets of New York, according to John Fiske, were "gorgeous with costumes," writes Margaret Sangster in Collier's Weekly. "One eminent citizen is described as clad in long-skirted coat and knee breeches of cinnamon cloth trimmed with silver lace; the coat is lined with sky-blue silk, the hose are of dove-colored silk and the shoes have large silver buckles." This gentleman adorned his head with an enormous wig; pictures of a similar wig elaborately curled we remember as worn by judges and courtiers in the days of the Georges, and even earlier, in the Stuart days. His hat was a broad-brimmed beaver, finished with a band of gold lace. His skirt was ruffled, his vest was of red satin, embroidered with gold.

The ladies of that period were exceedingly fine, and their raiment was as elegant and as sumptuous as that worn by the dames and demoiselles of our present New York. Blue and silver gowns opened over petticoats of black velvet trimmed with silver, while their little feet were incased in high-heeled shoes with huge rosettes.

In that leisurely time, when people lived in detached houses amid green fields, and for many a year afterward, down to perhaps thirty years ago, or forty, to be accurate, New Year's Day was the fete day of the year.

Every Knickerbocker family of the least pretensions kept open house on that day, and it was the rule—the thing imperatively required by good form—for the gentlemen to call on the ladies and wish them the compliments of the season.

There was a superstition about the first foot over the threshold, and people were immensely relieved if the earliest caller of the year were of a kind likely to bring luck to the house.

Millions and Mathematics.

The grammar school boy was deep in some problem or other with his slate and pencil as assistants.

"What is it?" inquired his father, interrupting his calculations.

"I was figuring up a little," he replied, "on that one hundred and fifty millions of dollars Mr. Carnegie was to get for his property, and I find that he could travel to the sun at the ordinary railroad rate of three cents a mile and have a hundred and forty-seven millions left to invest up there; or he could go in his private car at a dollar a mile and have fifty-seven millions left to buy sun spots with; or he could make thirty excursions there and back on ordinary trains; or he could make about five hundred trips to the moon and back; or he could cross the ocean a million times, first-class; or go round the world a hundred thousand times; or buy three thousand million car tickets; or he could buy fifteen thousand million one-cent postage stamps; or he could go to the theatre one hundred millions of times, and sit in the front row; or he could take fifty million girls; or he could eat fifteen hundred million plates of ice cream; or he could go to three hundred million baseball games; or——"

"Hold up there," interrupted the father. "Hold up. Here's a dollar. Go on out now and blow it for whatever you please, and I'll wager that Brother Carnegie would trade places with you if he could, and give you something to boot besides."—New York Sun.

She Would Not Speak to Him.

A handsome and stylishly clad young woman boarded a Broadway car in New York City the other day. She was followed by a young man. The lady flounced haughtily to a seat. The young man calmly seated himself beside her, and after a few moments turned to her and smiled blandly. She merely turned away.

After a pause of several minutes, during which every one in the car watched closely, he turned again with a smile, and this time spoke a few words in a low voice. She colored and turned haughtily away from him. At this, a rather elderly man, who sat opposite, and who had been taking it all in and fidgeting considerably, felt called upon to interfere. Addressing the conductor, he said:

"I wish you would put that man off the car. He has no business here. I've got daughters of my own who are obliged to go about the city alone, and that kind of a man is a menace."

The conductor looked embarrassed. The young lady was scarlet; but the object of the tirade was perfectly calm. Bowing politely to the elderly gentleman, and addressing the car in a general way, he said:

"Sir, I am obliged to you for your good intentions, but this young lady is my sister. She wants me to take her to the matinee and I won't do it."—New York Times.

What One Woman Thinks.

No friends are better than make-believe friends.

The best blessing a child can have is a good mother.

A man must think a good deal of his wife to go with her to pick out a new spring bonnet.

The gas bill is a light consideration, but it generally manages to cast a gloom over the household.

Some people look at their own faults through a telescope; at others' through a microscope.

If conductors were discharged every time a threat is made of reporting them, the cars would be at a standstill.

The man who knows it all ought to apply for a position in the bureau of information of a railroad station.

When a woman starts out to give a piece of her mind she usually ends up by robbing other people of their peace.—Philadelphia Times.

COURAGE IN BATTLE.

THE INHERENT BRAVERY OF EVERY MAN.

Individuals Who at Home Are the Most Peaceful of Men Become Demons in the Face of an Armed Enemy—Stories of Heroism.

Among the millions of citizens whose lives have run along in peaceful channels and who have never been urged by duty or inclination to forsake the ordinary routine of life for the camp and battlefield there is a sentiment of warm admiration and love for the soldier who performs daring deeds in time of war. It matters not the nationality of the warrior, or on which side our personal sympathy may be placed, the announcement of some dare-devil act of heroism calls forth our hearty applause. And why should it be otherwise? It is natural. It is the strong heart that wins. The dashing blade or free lance who with his life in his hands faces death calmly is to be respected, for in most instances really brave men are always true men. The great majority of people who have casually noted and dissected this universal applause for feats of military prowess have completely misunderstood the real meaning. The performance of a great tragedian may thrill us and bring forth our unstinted admiration, an admiration increased perhaps by the knowledge that we ourselves have none of the qualities he possesses and that a century of training would not bring us an inch closer to rivaling his wonderful genius. And not one man in a hundred who has read the stories of heroism that have come from Cuba and the Philippines, or later from South Africa, but places the possibility of his ever performing similar deeds just as far above him. He is in error. The inborn genius of dramatic fire is the property of the favored few, but the recklessness and courage of the soldier on the battlefield are simply an outcropping of the common heritage of mankind. At home, in a progressive community, a man may be a merchant or a bank clerk, but, whatever his station, the environment of civilizing influence is strong upon him, and most of his chances for the display of courage come to the moral side of his nature. But out in the open, with most of the trammels cast off and the enemy in front, with the ripple of the colors about him, and, more than all, the feeling that comes from companionship in a common danger with many of his fellows, it is the animal that gains supremacy. And man, being by nature a brave and fearless animal—the most fearless of all the animal species—simply remains true to his birthright and goes through the ordeal in the natural way. What can be the deduction? There is only one. It is that battle gallantry and battle brutality, springing as they both do from the same source, must necessarily be allied. You cannot slip the leash of a bloodhound and stop him half way to his scent. If any proof were needed to make the fact of inherent bravery and—the other thing—certain, it is to be found in the marvelous change in face, manner and even speech that comes to nearly every man when he is engaged in battle. Those who have seen their fellows under such conditions will have no difficulty in calling to mind what this change means. Refined men, and rough, uncultured men, too, for that matter, with the tenderest and most humane feelings, men who would shudder and turn sick at the sight of a slight accident on their home streets, have been frequently known to stand and deliberately watch the writhings and death agonies of their comrades who have been hit and torn to pieces by bursting shells, as if it were the commonest sight in the world. It may be urged that the excitement of being under fire would be sufficient reason for this callousness, but such an explanation will not account for the entire subversion of a man's whole life training. The real reason is that at such times it is the animal nature that takes full and complete possession of the human body.

For Black Eyes.

It is often the case that people meet with accidents and bruises that cause disfiguring and discolorations from which they suffer not a little embarrassment and annoyance. It is worth while to know that there is a simple remedy, and one quite within the reach of everyone. Immediately after the accident, mix an equal quantity of capsicum annuum with mucilage made of gum arabic. To this add a few drops of glycerine. The bruised surface should be carefully cleansed and dried, then painted all over with the capsicum preparation. Use a camel's-hair brush and allow it to dry; then put on the second or third coat as soon as the first is entirely absorbed. A medical journal is authority for the statement that if this course is pursued immediately after the injury, discoloration of the bruised tissue will be wholly prevented. It is also said that this remedy is unequaled as a cure for rheumatism or stiffness of the neck.

The Power of Imagination.

Stories illustrating the power of imagination are many. Here is a new one. It comes from a recent number of the Psychological Review which relates an interesting experiment made by Mr. Slosson with the view of demonstrating how easily this faculty of imagination may be called into play. In the course of a popular lecture, Mr. Slosson presented before his audience a bottle which he uncorked with elaborate precautions, and then, watch in hand, asked those present to indicate the exact moment at which a peculiar odor was perceived by them. Within fifteen seconds, those immediately in front of him held up their hands, and within forty seconds, those at the other end of the room declared that they distinctly perceived the odor. There was an obstinate minority, largely composed of men, who stoutly declared their inability to detect any odor, but Mr. Slosson believes that many more would have given in, had he not been compelled to bring the experiment to a close within a minute of opening the bottle, several persons in the front rank finding the odor so powerful that they hastily quitted the room. The bottle contained nothing but distilled water. It would be interesting to know the effect of the explanation on the audience, but this part of the story is left to the imagination of the reader.

Serious Ills of Women

The derangements of the female organism that breed all kinds of trouble and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very things that give way promptly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Uterine and ovarian troubles, kidney troubles, ulcerations, tumors, unusual discharges, backaches and painful periods—these are the ills that hang on and wreck health and happiness and disposition.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

has a wonderful record of absolute cures of these troubles—a constant series of successes for thirty years. Thousands of women vouch for this. Their letters constantly appear in this paper.

Spring Body Cleaning

Every spring you clean the house you live in, to get rid of the dust and dirt which collected in the winter. Your body, the house your soul lives in, also becomes filled up during the winter with all manner of filth, which should have been removed from day to day, but was not. Your body needs cleaning inside. If your bowels, your liver, your kidneys are full of putrid filth, and you don't clean them out in the spring, you'll be in bad odor with yourself and everybody else all summer.

DON'T USE A HOSE to clean your body inside, but sweet, fragrant, mild but positive and forceful CASCARETS, that work while you sleep, prepare all the filth collected in your body for removal, and drive it off softly, gently, but none the less surely, leaving your blood pure and rich, your stomach and bowels clean and lively, and your liver and kidneys healthy and active. Try a 10-cent box today, and if not satisfied get your money back—but you'll see how the cleaning of your body is

Bicycle Polo.

Polo played with the regulation sticks, merely by the substitution of cycles for horses, is not a new game among riders, though it requires no small amount of skill. It is obvious that the later form of game is possibly only for expert wheelmen or wheelwomen. When the ball is struck, not with a stick, but always with the front wheel, it means that the wheel must be lifted clear of the ground to give it the necessary play and that is a feat beyond the average rider. The rules for the new game are the same as those of the stick polo, and the player must always, on penalty of a foul, keep his cycle to the left of an imaginary line drawn from the opponents' goal to the center of the ball—i. e., must keep the ball on his right hand side. Then, to make a sharp stroke, the front wheel is lifted, the left hand brought sharply back and the ball is struck with the rim and tire of the hinder part of the front wheel. It sounds like a perilous feat and is somewhat, though not more so than the game played with sticks. In practice for either falls are frequent and inevitable. The rule about keeping on one side of the ball is evidently framed in order to avoid as far as possible such disastrous collisions as would ensue from crossing right athwart a rider.

DR. BELL'S PINE TAR HONEY CURES COUGHS

Could Not Talk.

Mrs. Smith Wooldridge, of this place, who was so afflicted with her throat for over two years that she could not speak above a whisper, after she used the first bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine Tar-Honey, could talk as well as ever, and the case is such a wonderful cure that her neighbors come in to see her for themselves, and are astonished to hear her talk.—

FAIR WARNING!

DR. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

is a scientific prescription, carefully prepared from the purest and best ingredients, consequently the most costly cough medicine on the market. In buying Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25 cents than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less. Therefore some druggists are cunningly persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no blister. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

Maplesville.

The firm foundation of our glorious country, the farmers, are in fine spirits with their crops, fruits and gardens; some think the nights and mornings are too chilly for young cotton plants, but we hope this is a blessing in disguise to raise the price.

Mrs. Douglas, Holley and J. T. Bazemore have all been visiting the old folks here.

We regret to state that some of our most generous citizens have been troubled about the sale of the Knupp mill to Mr. Gabriel; we sincerely hope Mr. Knupp will return and yet give satisfaction.

We are fortunate to have Rev. Ruddick give us his characteristic good sermons occasionally.

Revs. Dennis and Elliso exchanged pulpits last Sabbath.

Our last ice-cream supper was a success both financially and socially; the young ladies who affected such hunger to be treated so often by our gallant and ever gracious young men, are most greatfully remembered by some interested in the good cause.

Mr. and Mrs Perry and beautiful infant, Ella May, have been visiting her aunt here, Mrs. N. A. Goodwyn.

Our social young men have a croquet ground where dull hours are whiled away.

Messrs R. D. Martin and W. D. Lawrence have lately been to Birmingham on business.

Miss Maymie Latham is back from Birmingham to the pleasure of her many admirers.

Most of our citizens are attending court this week, which would be duller were it not for the presence of so many pretty little school girls returning home from Montevallo.

Mr. W. Walker has just returned home from a business trip to Birmingham.

Mr. A. T. Langley, of Roanoke, Ala., is visiting his brother here, W. N. Langley.

Misses Lillie and Nannie English have returned home from a visit to Eoline, Ala. SUBSCRIBER.

Collins Chapel Institute

The closing exercises of the Institute on the 3d inst. were splendedly carried out. Under the able management of Prof. R. A. Rasco our school has flourished from the commencement, and while we expected nothing less than a good school, our expectations have been more than realized.

Great preparations had been made for the day, and all the community turned out to do honor to the occasion. The unstinted hospitality of the Collins chapel neighborhood was given full play and the feast was fine and bountiful.

The intellectual feast was also good. We were honored by the presence of Gov. Johnston who made a fine speech on education, and afterwards discussed State finances. All were delighted with the Governor and hope he will come again.

Judge Adams gave us an address on education mainly confining his remarks to the young people. The Judge is always welcome here.

Hon. L. H. Reynolds and other visitors were with us, and all expressed themselves well pleased with the days proceedings, and the bright prospects of Prof. Rasco's school.

In the afternoon some of the higher grade students made speeches, and at night an excellent concert was given by the school.

Stanton.

Messrs. G. D. Martin and J. A. Melton returned from Selma last Friday.

Miss Mattie Gaudy has returned home from a visit to Selma.

Miss Ada Broadhead, of Vick, is visiting relatives here.

Mr. T. U. Crumpton, of Maplesville, was in town last week.

Several of us attended the ice-cream supper at Plantersville last Friday night.

Several of the citizens of Stanton attended court at Clanton this week.

Mr. Sam Mull, of Vick, paid relatives a visit here this week.

We regret to say that Mr. OeConnell got hurt by a piece of wood flying from the ripsaw at the furniture shop last Saturday afternoon; he is still confined to his bed but is improving.

Miss Minnie Rasberry, of Lily, is prying relatives a visit in our town.

Mr. John Marlor, of Clanton, spent Sunday with relatives of this city.

Mr. W. T. Nelson went to Clanton Saturday.

Mr Price paid relatives a visit at Billingsley recently. STAN.

Macedonia.

Farmers are moving on fairly well with farm work this beautiful weather, though we have plenty of work to do.

Mr. John Atchison has been right sick with grippe two weeks; his neighbors met last Saturday and gave him a day's work.

Bro. Thomas filled his regular appointment here last Saturday and Sunday.

Gardens, fruit crops and blackberries all look promising.

Well! The more some people talk the less we know, and the more we know of them the less we want to know.

Mrs. Eelam, of Rockford, is visiting her old home at Mr. Thackers, of this place.

There are and has been several cases of lagrippe in this section.

Several of the Mulberrians attended church here last Sunday.

Are you going to the singing? has been asked several times since that singing was given out. What are you going to wear? is about the second question asked. Well it is no trouble to have a full choir along this time of the year; new suits, new dresses and new hats are always incentive to a full choir.

Another singing. There is to be an all day's singing at Cox Chapel next Sunday, the third, all singers and lovers of music are invited. Come, bring your books and baskets and let's spend the day in the divine art. CLIFF.

Escaped and Ran

Calvin Pritchett, who is a fairly well-known character in this county, who lives a nomadic life and has camped near Clanton or more than one occasion, was arrested here Saturday on a warrant from Montgomery, where he was wanted for escaping from the chain-gang, and for beating his wife.

Pritchett was arrested in the capital city for beating his wife and was sentenced to one hundred days on the chaingang. He made his escape last week and Thursday night went to his wife's home, and at the point of a pistol forced her to get into a buggy with him and they drove to Clanton. After they arrived here Mrs. Pritchett made her escape from him and returned to Montgomery and notified the police, who at once sent the warrant to Clanton for Pritchetts arrest. His attorneys instituted habeas corpus proceedings, and while Pritchett was being carried back to jail at Clanton, he broke away from Deputy Sheriff R. J. Williams and escaped into the swamp, and up to the present nothing more has been heard of him.

SWEEPING INJUNCTION.

Unprecedented Rigor in Order Against Street Car Strikes.

The federal authorities at Kansas City, Mo., found alleged causes for interfering Saturday in the strike of the union employes of the Metropolitan Street Railway company. Judge Wm. Hooke, of Leavenworth, sitting in Kansas City, issued from the United States district court an injunction that is more absolute and sweeping in its terms than any injunction ever before secured in that district in a contention between labor and capital. The injunction is made absolute for a week, the matter being set for a hearing on Saturday next, and if its restrictions shall be observed by the strikers the Metropolitan company has its fight won, for the strikers' hands are tied for seven day, and in the meantime the Metropolitan company can go about the organization of its disrupted forces.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT MERIDIAN.

Scaffold Fell, Killing One Man and Injuring Two Others.

While engaged in painting the front of the Meridian National bank in Meridian, Miss., Morton Easley and Charlie Powell, two well known young men, fell a distance of about forty-five feet to the pavement, the rope that supported the suspended ladder on which they stood giving way. Easley's head struck the sidewalk and he was killed almost instantly. Young Powell miraculously escaped with his life, but he is badly bruised and will be confined to his bed for some time.

Just at the time the accident occurred Major J. L. Hawkins, a gentleman 77 years old, was passing and a part of the scaffolding struck him on the head, knocking him senseless to the pavement. He is very dangerously hurt and his recovery is considered doubtful.

A NEGRESS' FANTASY.

Claims God Commanded Her to Warn the Pope that Death is Near.

A colored woman named Mary James, belonging to a band of holiness people, at Eutaw, Ala., claims to have a revelation from God, who appeared to her, she says, and commanded her to go to Rome and stand before the pope and tell him to prepare to die; that his time is short. She told this to her husband and others, and declared that she was going to obey the Lord and go to Rome. Her husband, who is a well-to-do negro, became convinced of the truth of her declarations, and decided to let her go. James owns considerable property, and he furnished his wife with $1,000 and in company with another negro woman she has started for Rome, having sailed from New York last week on a steamer bound for Genoa.

REVOLUTIONISTS GAINING.

Colombian Revolution is Menacing the Government.

The chief officer of the steamer San Juan, which arrived at San Francisco from Central American ports, said:

"The claim of the Columbian government that the revolution has been surpressed is absurd. The revolutionists are increasing in strength every day, and Panama is liable to fall into their hands at any time. They are not only better armed than the government forces, but they secretly have the sympathy of the people, who have become greatly incensed at the arbitrary acts of the government.

House Unseats Another Democrat.

The house by a very narrow margin of two votes unseated Mr. Crawford, of North Carolina, and seated in his place Mr. Pearson, of North Carolina, who was a member of the Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Congresses. Mr. Pearson is the third Republican to be seated by the present house.

The firm which built the first Concord coach in 1833 has failed. The Concord coach is closely identified with the development of the country and the westward march of empire. Nothing on wheels from the days of the Roman chariot until its own appearance had so large an influence in the territorial expansion of a nation.

SUMMARY OF STATE NEWS

Current Topics of Interest Gleaned From all Parts of Alabama.

GENUINE BUILDING BOOM STRIKES SELMA

Famous Case Settled—Knights Templar Officers Elected—Locating Cotton Mills—Farmer Accidentally Shot—News Notes.

Selma is on a genuine building boom. In addition to the action of the people of the city on the new city hall and the ordering of the quarterly conference of the letting of the contract for a new Methodist church to cost $25,000, contracts have been let to Cook & Lowrie, of Montgomery, for the erection of the buildings for the People's Oil Mill. The cost of the buildings will be at least $25,000.

The contract was also let by J. H. Hood & Co., of Montgomery, contractors who are to build the new court house for Dallas county, to the Selma Brick and Tile company for a million brick to be used in that structure. The work of diagraming the foundation has begun and excavation will proceed and be completed before June 1. The contract calls for the completion of the court house by March 1, 1901.

Knights Templar.

The Alabama state commandery of Knights Templar, in session in New Decatur, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Right eminent grand commander, Russell M. Cunningham, of Birmingham; deputy grand commander, Robert Manethrop, of Eufaula; grand captain, General L. W. Hubbard; grand prelate, Owen W. Fitzsimmons, of Birmingham; grand senior warden, Charles R. Worcott, of Montgomery; grand junior warden, Charles E. Pearse, of Mobile; grand treasurer, E. S. Starr, of Selma; grand recorder, H. Clay Armstrong, of Montgomery; grand sword bearer, S. H. Firk, of Mobile; grand standard bearer, Thomas H. Mattocks, of New Decatur; grand warden, Walter Smith, of Tuscaloosa; grand captain of the guard, W. H. Denney, of Tuscaloosa.

Tuscaloosa was selected as the place to hold the next annual conclave, which will take place next May.

State Encampment.

Adjutant-General W. W. Brandon, of the state troops; Colonel T. O. Smith, of the Third regiment, and Adjutant H. B. Kennedy, of the same regiment, are in Mobile investigating that city's adaptability for encampment of the state troops this year. The same committee will examine the old camp grounds at East Lake, near Birmingham, and other places may also be visited. The encampment will probably be held in July and each regiment will go into camp successively.

A Famous Case Settled.

The Danforth and Armstrong case against the Tennessee and Coosa Railroad company has at last been settled, after having been a log to Etowah county courts for the last twelve years. The defendant agreed that the last judgment, $25,893.86, might be increased to $30,000, rather than stand another appeal, which was accepted, and the money will be paid in June.

Accidentally Shot.

A Mr. Wade, who lives four miles south of Edwardsville, was out shooting fish on the creek and accidentally shot himself. The load passed through his right side and shot off three fingers on his left hand, and one or two shot hit him in the mouth. He is badly hurt.

Fourth District Committee to Meet.

The democratic executive committee of the Fourth congressional district, composed of the counties of Calhoun, Cleburne, Talladega, Shelby, Chilton and Dallas, has been called to meet at Columbiana, on the 31st day of this month, for the purpose of deciding on a plan and date for the nomination of a candidate for congress. Up to the present time six candidates have announced.

Locating Cotton Mills.

Capt. P. Sid Jones, district passenger agent and immigration agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, with headquarters in Birmingham, is making strenuous efforts to introduce several cotton mill institutions along the line of his road. He believes that good-sized mills will soon be built at Cullman, Athens and other points in North Alabama.

FIGHT ON EXCURSION TRAIN.

One Man Fell From the Car and Fatally Hurt.

During a general fight in the baggage car of an excursion train from Birmingham Sunday J. T. Blount, of Sheffield, fell from the train and received fatal injuries. M. F. Blount, of Sheffield, received a stab in the throat and Berney Patterson, of Cherokee, received a stunning blow on the head.

The fight was the outcome of a difficulty between Will Patterson, marshal of Cherokee, and M. F. Blount. Three Patterson boys and two Blount boys joined in, but their brother, J. T. Blount, was drunk and avoided the fight. In some manner he fell from the train and there are several witnesses who testify that he walked out of his own accord.

Blount is in a hospital at Huntsville and will die. Berney, Will and Houston Patterson are under arrest. The fight occurred west of Madison.

Howard Withdraws.

Ex-Congressman M. W. Howard, a populist candidate for United States senator, has announced his withdrawal from the race, leaving the field clear for Senator John T. Morgan. Mr. Howard returned Saturday from Cincinnati, where he had been attending the middle-of-the-road populist national convention, which convention came near nominating him for president. In an interview he said: "I went into the convention at Cincinnati with more votes than enough to secure the nomination for the presidency, had I desired it. I did not want the nomination. I did not care to have my name put forward for the place, and withdrew before the balloting commenced. My own state delegation did not vote for me, because they desired to save me—did not care that I should lead a forlorn hope. But I was assured, and had proof of it, that I could have had 100 more votes than I received had I wanted the nomination."

Favorable Action.

A Washington dispatch says: Senator Morgan's joint resolution appropriating $10,000 for the erection of a monument to the soldiers who fell in the battle of Talladega, Nov. 9, 1863, has been favorably reported by Mr. Peters from the military committee. The Fifty-fifth congress passed a bill granting 25,000 acres of Alabama public lands for the Montevallo Girls' Industrial School. Binger Hermann, commissioner of the land office, is preparing a list of the lands available and will shortly select the portion for Montevallo.

The bill introduced by Representative Robbins and reintroduced by Representative Aldrich for the erection of a public building at Anniston has been favorably reported from the judiciary committee.

Died From Mad Dog's Bite.

Fred S. Gardner, of Centreville, died Saturday of hydrophobia. He was bitten by a mad dog two months ago, but the malady did not develop until about three days ago. It seemed to be in a mild form, but, notwithstanding, proved fatal. Mr. Gardner was a popular young man, and was 22 years old.

Candidate for a Seat in Congress.

Judge William Richardson is now a candidate for the seat in congress made vacant by the resignation of General Wheeler, and he is the second man to enter the race. The recent announcement of Hon. Jesse E. Brown, of Scottsboro, broke the ice and other announcements are expected soon.

Fire at Lafayette.

The Lafayette oil mill, at Lafayette, was burned Sunday, entailing a loss of $15,000. The gins and gin house operated in connection with the mill were saved, as was also a tank of oil on a car. The property was owned by L. L. and C. C. Torbert, and was not insured.

Heavy Frost in Limestone.

The section around Athens was visited by a severe frost last week that destroyed all cotton that was up. This, in connection with the scarcity of seed and the high prices prevailing, works a great hardship on those who have had their cotton killed.

Pig Iron Shipments.

During the month of April 109,978 ton of pig iron were shipped from Alabama and Tennessee, according to official figures given out at Birmingham. Of this amount the Birmingham district alone forwarded 69,988 tons. Export shipments were 8,651 tons. Pipe shipments from Alabama and Tennessee were 5,838 tons, and from the Birmingham district alone were 1,818 tons.

TROUBLE FEARED IN MANILA

Rumors of an Outbreak Seriously Discussed by Native Papers.

SEVERAL TOWNS OCCUPIED BY AMERICANS

Insurgents Suffer a Heavy Loss at Tabako—Filipinos Said to Have Received Three Shiploads of Arms From Germany.

A Manila dispatch says: The latest rumor of an outbreak in Manila among the natives, which was in circulation last week, was seriously discussed by some of the local papers and attracted more general attention than has usually been the case with this sort of thing. As a matter of fact, many Filipinos did leave their American employers with the apparent intention of joining such movement. Their action taken in connection with the arrest of several natives for carrying concealed weapons and the dispersion of several suspicious gatherings gave color to the reports.

The officials have been active in the matter, but are not inclined to think an uprising will be attempted. They believe the Filipinos, lacking in the necessary courage, especially in view of the fact that the natives fear to attempt the demonstration at the time of General Lawton's funeral, although they had made careful preparations, and many insurgents had come to Manila for this express purpose,

A paper found among the captured effects of General Pantelon Garcia asserts that the United States congress has done nothing for the Filipinos, and that therefore all Filipinos who are working for Americans must leave their employers immediately or suffer the penalty of treason.

One report is that the Filipino junta is endeavoring to incite an outbreak in order to show the civil commission that the insurrection is still alive.

Towns Occupied by Americans.

The towns of Hilongos and Maasin, island of Leyte, have been occupied by the troops of the Forty-third volunteer infantry. The insurgents opposed the landing of the Americans and sustained heavy losses. The Americans had three casualties.

MANY INSURGENTS KILLED.

One Thousand Preparing to Attack Tabako Were Defeated.

The insurgents have suffered a heavy loss at Tabako, near Lagaspi, Province of Albay, Luzon. Two hundred riflemen and 800 bolomen were preparing to attack the town, and Captain Lester H. Simons, with a company of the Forty-seventh volunteer regiment, advanced to meet them, and killed many.

The insurgent leader, a native priest, was wounded and captured, after his horse had been shot under him. Three Americans were wounded.

FILIPINOS RECEIVE ARMS.

Three Shiploads Said to Have Arrived From Germany.

A dispatch from Hong Kong says: "The Filipino junta has been receiving large amounts of money at Manila. Within the past three months three shiploads of arms have arrived here from Germany for the insurgent cause. The junta gave a big banquet here last night in honor of the reorganization of their government. The Filipinos claim they will open aggressive hostilities just as soon as the rainy season begins."

Reunion of Peachtree Creek Survivors.

Atlanta will witness on July 19 and 20 next a reunion of survivors, both Federal and Confederate, of the battle of Peachtree Creek. It has been decided as one of the features to give a barbecue in the trenches around the battlefield where the veterans met in battle thirty-six years ago.

Women Wish to Fight.

President Kruger, of the Transvaal, has received a telegram from a burgheress asking if the time has not arrived for the formation of a corps of women, adding that she is prepared, with a body of women volunteers, to take up arms in defense of the independence of the Transvaal.

Birmingham Men Chosen.

At the meeting of the Baptist Young People's Union Auxiliary to the Southern Baptist Convention at Hot Springs, Ark., the following officers were chosen: President, Rev. Dr. L. O. Dawson, of Alabama; vice-presidents, R. H. Coleman, of Texas, and J. O. Russ, of Tennessee; secretary, W. W. Gaines, of Atlanta, Ga; treasurer, P. H. Phillips, of Birmingham; chairman of the executive committee, Rev. B. D. Gray, of Birmingham.

BRYAN AND TOWNE.

The Ticket of the Sioux Falls Populites Nominated.

The national populist convention concluded its session at Sioux Falls and adjourned sine die after nominating W. J. Bryan for president and Charles A. Towne for vice-president.

The nomination of Mr. Towne was only accomplished after a struggle of several hours' duration, in which an effort was made to have the nomination of a vice-presidential candidate referred to a committee to confer with the democratic and silver republican parties in their national conventions. A motion to this effect was defeated by a vote of 268 to 192.

Both candidates were nominated by acclamation, but before the result was reached various candidates were placed in nomination and withdrawn. Both nominations were accomplished amid scenes of enthusiasm.

Mr. Bryan's nomination was made by acclamation and was accomplished with expedition. There were not to exceed half a dozen speeches in his behalf. All these were brief and pointed and were full of praise for the candidate.

Barker and Donnelly.

Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia, was named for the presidency at the Cincinnati convention of the middle-of-the-road populists. Ignatius Donnelly was nominated for Barker's running mate as the vice-presidential nominee.

TRADE REVIEW.

Country Recovering From Unnaturally High Prices.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade in part says:

With whole promptness the country is recovering from the embarrassment of unnaturally high prices. No disturbance nor stringency of credits result, nor any sign of alarm, and the movement is perhaps more healthy than it could have been if entirely controlled by the competition of many small concerns.

The proposition of works and of hands unemployed is yet quite small, and the volume of business transacted, though less than last year in New England and the middle state cities, is larger than ever before at fifty-four out of sixty-three clearing houses in the entire region west of Pennsylvania and south of the Potomac.

LABOR TROUBLES

At Tampa Have Taken a Turn for the Worse.

The labor troubles at Tampa, Fla., have taken a turn for the worse. There is now a general strike in all the cigar factories of the Havana-American company in that city, and about 1,000 people are out.

The trouble is a struggle between the labor unions, each trying to make the strike settle the superiority of the one over the other.

There has been a partial strike on at the Havana-American factories for weeks, but a settlement was agreed upon several times during the past four or five days, and it was thought the end of the trouble was in sight. Saturday, however, matters became so badly mixed that a general strike was ordered.

Butler Re-Elected.

Senator Marion Butler, of North Carolina, was re-elected chairman of the Populist National committee at Sioux Falls by a majority of 7 in a total of 76.

Chairman Butler will make his headquarters in Washington during the campaign. He accepted the position officially on condition that a vice chairman be chosen to assist in the work.

Young Man Shot to Death.

A very unfortunate killing occurred at Pinckney, St. Clair county, Saturday. John Ferguson shot and instantly killed Wm. J. Andrews. Both were young men, and each about 20 years old. They had been raised together and were intimate friends until recently. A few days ago they had a difficulty in which Andrews cut Ferguson on the hands. It was thought the affair would be amicably settled, but Saturday, as Andrews and his mother were passing the home of Ferguson's father, John Ferguson shot him with a double-barreled shotgun. He only lived a few minutes. Ferguson is at large.

Kruger Still Hopeful.

At the closing of the Transvaal volksraad last week, President Kruger cried out: "God of the volksraad, shall this be the final act? No. It shall not. God will be merciful and strengthen the right. Ours is the right."

The president added that he had documentary proofs of a "devilish conspiracy to annihilate the republics."

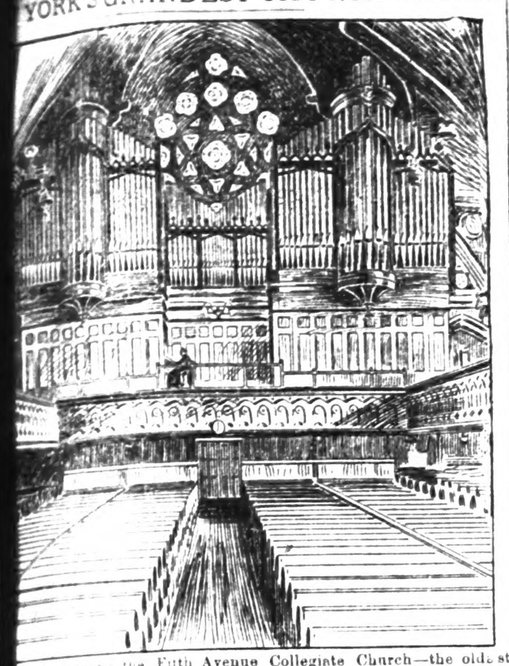
YORK'S GRANDEST CHURCH ORGAN.



Easter morning the Fifth Avenue Collegiate Church—the oldest organization in New York City—heard for the first time one of the wonderful church organs that have ever been installed in any place of worship.

In fact, the instrument combines practically five organs in one, and the five organs may be operated with no greater expenditure of energy on the part of the organist than is required in playing a piano. The new organ is operated on what is known as the "tubular pneumatic process." It is a perfect balance between the automatic and manual systems of playing. As may be imagined, a considerable amount of power is required to procure the full tones of dozens of pipes, some of them sixteen, thirty and even thirty-two feet in size. This power is provided by an electric motor. The various instruments which make up the complete organ are the solo, the swell, the great and the choir organs. In addition to these there is a echo organ, placed in the opposite end of the church from the main instrument and operated by means of electrical connection from one of the keyboards of the latter. Some idea of the elaborate nature of the mechanism involved may be gained from the fact that more than two miles of tubing are used in forming the connections within the organ, and it has fifty-two stops.

A great number of trenches thus fitted have been located in the enemy's country, and, of course, are set fire to at once, so as to destroy the wood points and the poison. The writer has never heard of an American soldier falling on these poisoned tips, but has seen some natives stark in death upon them. Another trick the natives have is shown in Figure 3, in which the trench is lightly covered with bamboo sticks and some stones or earth thrown over so as to conceal the spot.

The natives suppose that Americans will not notice the new earth, etc., and will step on the frail top and fall through upon the points below. The bamboo cover is marked E and the points G. Sometimes they run water into these places and put poisonous reptiles inside. They work out all sorts of extremely ingenious schemes of this description, and to the wonder of the natives the American soldiers refuse to be caught.

Wills Written on Battlefields.

Many queer and pathetic wills have been found upon the bodies of dead British soldiers on South African battlefields, and in every case the wishes of the testator have been respected.

The body of one soldier was found on the battlefield of Elandslaagte who, before death, had scrawled with the end of a lead bullet on the inside of his helmet the words, "All to my wife."

When an English army invaded Afghanistan one soldier was caught while doing scout duty and shot down when none of his comrades were in sight. Weeks afterward his body was found lying before a tall rock, on which he had written in letters of blood, "I want mother to have all."

In both cases the War Office held the wills to be valid, and saw that the proper distribution of the property was made.

COOSA RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

Committee From Alabama and Georgia at Washington.

A committee from Alabama and Georgia is in Washington to appear before the river and harbor committee asking an appropriation of $500,000 for the improvement of the Coosa river. The committee is comprised of Captin P. Lay, chairman; O. R. Hood, Gadsden; Captain Frank Lathrop, Riverside; Judge Cabot Lull, A. Hohenberg, W. A. Austin, Wetumpka; H. H. Henderson, Baltimore; Colonel D. B. Hamilton, B. J. Hughes, Captain J. B. Fitzpatrick, Rome.

Practically the entire Alabama delegation in the house and senate will appear, but arguments, as decided by a meeting, will be made by members of the committee and not by congressmen. The committee will present a memorial giving strong arguments for the improvement, showing the extent of business and manufacturing along the river, its importance nationally, resources of the state, with a map showing Alabama's river system of coal and iron deposits.

Tredegar Mineral Railroad Purchased.

The Tredegar Mineral railroad has been bought by Alex T. London, of Birmingham, and will at once be extended from Jacksonville to Anniston, a distance of twelve miles. The road was built by General J. W. Burke and others, and is three miles in length, reaching from Jacksonville to the East and West railway, the latter using it to get into Jacksonville. The East and West and Seaboard Air Line are believed to be behind the deal.

Mobile Gets Encampment.

Mobile gets the encampment of the Alabama National Guards. Adjutant General Brandon and the committee of officers, who were in Mobile Monday, were invited to remain over until Tuesday to confer with the Commercial club. They did so, and the club guaranteed to contribute $1,500. The site selected is on Mobile bay, near Monroe park. The committee is well pleased with the selection.

Rev. H. L. Hargett Accepts.

Rev. H. L. Hargett, pastor of the Congregational church at Gate City, has accepted the nomination for governor on the prohibition state ticket, and will make a canvass in the interest of the ticket. Dr. W. B. Crumpton was nominated for this place by the state prohibition convention, but declined to make the race.

Track Laying Begun.

New Officers of Christian Endeavor.

The state convention of Christian Endeavor closed at Huntsville Sunday. Montgomery was selected as the next place of meeting, and the following officers elected: President, J. W. Sibley, of Birmingham; world vice president, Rev. O. P. Speigel, of Birmingham; vice president, H. D. Self, of Montgomery; treasurer, Paul Speake, of Huntsville; secretary, Miss Naldo Allen, of Birmingham.

COTTON-GROWERS' CONVENTION.

Its Purpose to Effect Organization of the Planters is Accomplished.

The cotton-growers' convention held at Macon, Ga., Saturday, was one of the largest convocations of representative planters and business men ever held in Georgia. The convention was called for the purpose of effecting an organization of the cotton-planters, which would enable them to secure a better price for cotton.

Five hundred delegates were present, representing every county in the state and composed of planters, warehousemen, manufacturers, bankers, merchants and lawyers.

The convention was addressed by Hon. Hoke Smith, Hon. Pope Brown, president of the State Agricultural society; Hon. J. F. Hanson, Harvey Jordan, I. B. English and others.

Mr. Smith, in his address, said, in substance, that the value of the south's cotton crop is further reaching in its effect than any other product of the soil, its aggregate annual value being over $300,000,000. He stated that during the last one hundred years the money paid for cotton raised in the United States amounted to fifteen billions of dollars. Of this amount, eleven billion dollars was received for cotton exported. He said that in fifty years the consumption of cotton had increased from 2,500,000 bales annually to 18,000,000 bales annually, an increase of 700 per cent. He advised the farmers of the south to organize, so as to control the marketing of their crop on such a basis as would secure to them its real value.

The convention concluded with the organization of the Georgia Growers' Association, and elected Harvey Jordan, president; F. M. Langley, vice-president, and N. R. Hutchinson, secretary and treasurer; and an executive committee, composed of three representatives from each Congressional district.

The plan upon which the work of organizing the farmers is to be effected was referred to the committee on organization and the executive committee jointly—the convention ratifying, in advance, any plan that might be adopted.

SHORTAGE OF SEED

Embarrassing Cotton Planters of the Mississippi Valley.

This has been a most peculiar season for the farmers and planters generally throughout the Mississippi valley, and particularly in those sections in which cotton is the staple product.

On account of the late rains it was feared for a time that it would not be possible to get in a big crop. This fear has disappeared, however. The only worry which the planters are considering is that they will not be able to get all the seed they need. Last fall the demand from the cotton-seed oil mills was so strong and product and prices were so good that a very few planters held enough seed over to furnish all needed for planting.

HOSTILE TO LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Southern Baptist Convention Will Declare Its Enmity.

Hostilities against the liquor traffic were begun in the Southern Baptist convention, at Hot Springs, Ark., Saturday. Rev. Dr. J. B. Cranfill, of Texas, introduced a resolution declaring the enmity of the Southern Baptists against the traffic in every way.

Congress was denounced for nullifying the law abolishing the canteen, and the establishment of the army canteen and saloons are declared to be blots on our civilization. The resolution will be adopted.

Armor Plant Voted Down.

By a close vote Saturday the senate rejected the proposition to erect, without reference to the price at which the government could secure armor plate for the warships, an armor plate factory. The vote upon the direct proposition was 22 to 24, and subsidiary amendments were rejected by about the same vote. When the committee's proposition was about to be voted upon, a filibuster was organized, the quorum of the senate was broken and the question is still in the air.

Mules for the British.

The steamer Monarch sailed from New Orleans for Capetown, Africa, with 1,500 mules, and the steamer Corinthia cleared for the same port with 1,450 mules—all the animals being consigned to British army officials.

At Knoxville, Tenn., M. J. Condon, one of the city's wealthiest citizens, was killed in a runaway. Mortimer F. Shea, of New York, who was with him, was fatally injured.

BAPTIST CONVENTION ENDS.

Negro Missionary From Africa Captures the Vast Audience.

A Hot Springs, Ark., special says: Another Booker Wasnington appeared at the last moments of the Southern Baptist convention. He was Rev. Charles S. Morris, a young man of brown skin, and with eloquence that thrilled the big assemblage. He is a missionary among the blacks of Africa, and had been granted a few minutes for the purpose of making a plea for missionary work on the dark continent.

A half dozen other missionaries had just told of the labors, and while the convention listened with great interest, it remained for the negro to stir the great gathering to tumultuous enthusiasm, when, with splendid eloquence, he told his hearers that Carey was not the first modern missionary, but that the pioneers were the godly women who took charge of the slaves when they landed in old Virginia, and clothed and fed them and gave them the gospel. The thousands in the audience overwhelmed him with their applause.

It was some time before Ex-Governor Northen, the president, could obtain silence. "Brethren," said he, "I am in sympathy with your applause, but it is against the law."

Crowds pressed forward and struggled to get near enough to throw money on the platform. Several hundred dollars in silver and notes were thrown at Morris' feet. He said not to give money to him, but turn it over to the treasurer and have it used to send messengers throughout the south to arouse the colored people to co-operation in the mission work in Africa. The outpouring of money was so spontaneous that even after the eloquent black orator had refused it, it was flung at his feet.

The speech of the African missionary and the incidents attended it formed the climax of a highly enthusiastic convention.

The delegates selected New Orleans, and the Friday before the second Sunday of next May as the time for holding the next convention.

NAVAL BILL PASSED.

Committee's Report on Armor Plate Was Adopted.

After a discussion lasting five full days, the senate passed the naval appropriation bill. The secretary of the navy is authorized to secure armor of the best quality at $445 per ton, but if he be unable to obtain it at that price he is then authorized to pay $545 per ton for armor for the battleships Maine, Ohio and Missouri, and proceed to erect an armor factory not to exceed $4,000,000 in cost, half of which amount is made immediately available. The committee's proposition carried by a vote of 31 to 29. The secretary of the navy is directed to purchase five Holland torpedo boats, at a price not exceeding $170,000 each.

Just before adjournment, Mr. Nelson, of Minnesota, called up the "free homes" bill, and it was passed without a word of debate.

The house passed the general deficiency appropriation bill, and the military academy bill, the last of the supply bills, will follow it. The deficiency bill carried $3,839,021, and was passed substantially without amendment.

Killed His Wife, Then Himself.

LET Chilton send up a strong delegation to the State convention on the 30th inst.

IN the Fifteenth Senatorial convention, Elmore is entitled to thirteen delegates, Chilton seven, and Shelby nine.

THE convention of the Fifteenth Senatorial District, we understand will be held at Birmingham on the 30th inst., the date of the State convention. Delegates will please make a note of this.

WITH great unanimity the Democratic press decline to try and defend the notorious resolution passed at the recent Democratic convention. As it is unquestionably a resolution impossible of defense on the score of democracy it is the most politic course they can pursue.

WE are glad to know that considerable interest is being manifested in the State convention to be held at Birmingham on the 30th inst., and that the prospect is good for a full and complete representation from all over the State. The time is ripe for the movement, and the blunders of the Democratic party makes it incumbent upon all good citizens to see that those blunders are not not converted into crime. A good convention on the 30th will do much to that end.

THE report of the grand jury again shows a very creditable condition of affairs in Chilton county, and bears out the remarks of Judge Denson in his charge to the grand jury. There is no denying the fact that for several years past our county has continued to move forward. Our people are law-abiding, honest, hardworking and thrifty folks, and since they have elected their own officials they have seen the county's affairs administered as economically as their own private business. Our criminal offenders are not numerous, nor are many heinous offences committed. Our people are prosperous and happy, and, like good christians, know how to appreciate the blessings they enjoy.

The Fourth District Democratic Congressional Executive Committee, has been called to meet in Columbiana on May 31st, to decide upon a plan and date for the nomination of a congressional candidate in this district. There are six avowed candidates for the nomination in the Fourth. They are Hon. Joe B. Graham of Talladega, Hons. R. P. Thomason, B. D. Williams and Joe King of Calhoun, Capt. John Burns and Hon. Gaston Robbins of Dallas. There is considerable sentiment for a straight primary to nominate a candidate in the Fourth, but this matter will have to be determined by the committee.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The Spring term of the Circuit Court for Chilton county commenced on Monday morning. Soon after ten o'clock Judge N. D. Denson opened court and the Grand Jury was empanelled, with F. A. Gulledge as foreman, as follows:

J. P. Barrett, D. C. Savage, D. S. Robinson, H. W. Varden, G. B. Burkhalter, David Smith, E. H. Smith, J. L. O'Neal, Job Reynolds, W. D. Z. Foshee, A. C. Pool, Clayton Edwards, C. H. Lowery, F. A. Gulledge, Elijah Jones, J. J. Letcher, J. D. Houlsomback, John Collins.

Judge Denson made an elaborate and impressive charge to the Grand Jury. He explained the nature of their duties and the spirit in which they should be carried out, allowing neither prejudice or any other cause to influence the dicisions. He said that Chilton county ranked well with any other county in the district or the State in its comparative freedom from crime, but while that was the case let us all try and make it better still. He complimented the county on the possession of one of the handsomest court houses in the district, and advised that it be kept so by all necessary repairs being attended to without delay. The Judge spoke very earnestly upon the subject of carrying concealed weapons and, with a twinkle in his eye, remarked that if he was to order the court room doors closed that amongst those present it was very probable if coat-tails were lifted several concealed weapons would be exposed. It was the carrying of concealed weapons that led to more homicides than any other cause; a man would more readily resent a fancied insult if he knew he was in possession of a murderous weapon. It showed greater courage to take an insult, or even to run from the insulter, than it did to kill him. It was a most serious thing to take a human life for any cause whatever. He humorously added that it might be well for his hearers to bear in mind the next time they came to court, what he had said about carrying concealed weapons and closing the court room doors in case the experiment should be tried and the coat tails lifted.

Mr. John W. Foshee was sworn in as bailiff and conducted the jury to its room.

The following Petit Jury was sworn in for this week:

Elijah Bates, T. J. Teal, S. B. Adams, B. G. Foshee, Elijah Mims, A. E. Davenport, W. C. Roper, W. D. Cayton, Charley Swint, Joseph Foshee, C. R. Wells, W. N. Jones, J. W. Baker, Anderson Baker, R. A. Miller, Wiley Smith, James Mims, J. P. Parrish, James Scott, William Veasey, Rufus Houlditch, B. F. Reynolds, Curtis Moore, J. J. Hicks, R. M. Hubbard, Isaac Vinson, G. C. Shaw, C. R. Bruce, S. M. Yates, John Killingsworth, Milford Wooley M. A. Bates.

In the afternoon a special jury was drawn for the Foshee case, and the trial set for next Tuesday.

The following were the most important cases disposed of:

Melton vs. Jackson Lumber Co. This case has been in court for several terms. Melton is a deaf and dumb man and was employed by the Jackson Lumber Co. in grading a new railroad track. While thus employed a falling tree crushed him, and he instituted suit for $5000 damages. He lost the case, verdict being in favor of the defendant company.

D. C. Savage vs. V. B. Atkins & co., continued.

R. H. Barrett vs. B. F. Robinson. This was a suit for $5000 damages for assault with a knife. Verdict for plaintiff $125.

All the cases on the civil docket were disposed of this week.

The following visiting attorneys are in attendance. F. L. Pettus, W. Craig, Selma; W. R. Oliver, Calera; W. S. Carey, Montevallo; J. C. Thompson, Centreville; D. C. Blackwell, J. H. Savage, Anniston; Sam Will John, Birmingham; Wm. Blakey, Montgomery.

At 11:30 Thursday morning the Grand Jury made their final report, and court adjourned until Monday morning next, when the criminal docket will be taken up.

POPULIST MASS MEETING.

Pursuant to the published call the Populists held a mass meeting at the court house, Clanton, on Saturday last, for the purpose of nominating a Representative to the General Assembly in place of John W. Cox, deceased.

At 10:50 a.m. Chairman L. B. Pounds announced that arrangements had been made for a joint debate before the meeting proceeded with the business for which it had been called, and A. C. Smith would act as chairman during the debate.

Mr. Smith briefly stated that Judge Adams and Hon. Tipton Mullins would discuss the resolution passed at the recent Democratic convention, which recommends that the next General Assembly should consider with the defeated Democratic candidates all questions of local legislation.

Judge Adams opened by reading the resolution, his challenge to Mr. Mullins and the latter's acceptance. He then proceeded to severely criticise the resolution and its probable effects if it is acted upon. He denounced it in no measured terms as undemocratic and unconstitutional, and at times become somewhat excited in his impassioned denunciation. He spoke for fifty minutes and closed by requesting a respectful attention to Mr. Mullins.

Mr. Mullins said it was not his wish at this time to appear before a Populist meeting and defend the resolution, but he had thought it best to accept Judge Adams' challenge. Considering the resolution he had to defend Mr. Mullins probably made as good a defense as possible. His principal argument was it was only a recommendation to the General Assembly and he did not think it would be acted upon. He declared the Populist party was dead and cited as evidence of that fact the two national conventions recently held at Sioux Falls and Cincinnati. He said Populism was only kept alive in a few counties like Chilton and invited all Populists to return to the Democratic party. He spoke for 35 minutes and was quietly listened to.

After the speaking Chairman L. B. Pounds called the mass meeting to order, and on motion he was elected chairman of the meeting and Frank Crichton secretary.

A motion was made and carried that the chair appoint three letters to take the vote, and F. M. Foshee, W. C. Robinson and R. A. Rasco were appointed.

Nominations being next in order, the following were nominated: E. G. Rollins, L. B. Pounds, Moses Robinson, W. S. Cox.

Prof. R. A. Rasco's name was also offered, but at his request it was withdrawn.

Mr. Moses Robinson stated that his physical condition would make it inadvisable for him to be a candidate and requested his name be withdrawn, but his request was not complied with, and he consequently went before the convention in a crippled condition, many of his friends acceding to his wish and voting for some other candidate.

The Executive Committee had decided that at each ballot the man receiving the smallest vote would be dropped.

The first ballot resulted as follows: Rollins 43, Pounds 50, Robinson 11, Cox 3.

On the second ballot, Rollins 38, Pounds 53, Robinson 11, and as Pounds had a majority he was declared the nominee.

On motion of W. H. Conway the nomination was then made by acclamation, and Mr. Pounds briefly addressed the meeting accepting the honor.

E. G. Rollins, Judge Adams, and Moses Robinson each made short speeches and the meeting adjourned sine die.

It is impossible to say how many beats were represented by the 102 votes cast, but we believe most of them had one or more representatives present.

During the joint debate there was probably between three and four hundred people present.

Consumption

is robbed of its terrors by the fact that the best medical authorities state that it is a curable disease; and one of the happy things about it is, that its victims rarely ever lose hope.

You know there are all sorts of secret nostrums advertised to cure consumption. Some make absurd claims. We only say that if taken in time and the laws of health are properly observed, will heal the inflammation of the throat and lungs and nourish and strengthen the body so that it can throw off the disease.

We have thousands of testimonials where people claim they have been permanently cured of this malady.

We had a good turnout last Friday night to hear Judge Adams and Hon. L. H. Reynolds, and we organized a club with a good many members.

The easies and most effective method of purifying the blood and invigorating the system is to take DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for cleansing the liver and bowels. Campbelle Drug company.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and staisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," saye Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale in my show case, said to me: I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore, and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smiling and informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pains in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partly digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also tone up the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus Verbena.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

PHOEBE A. HEARST.

A Missouri Girl Who Became Famous—Her Devotion to Children.

"About fifty years ago Mrs. Hearst was born in Missouri. Her name was Phoebe Apperson, and she came of good southern stock, her father a Virginian, her mother a South Carolinian. Her parents and the parents of Mr. Hearst were neighbors, and the little girl, born to the Appersons, was named for Mrs. Hearst, mother of the boy who was to be her husband. Young Hearst went to California, found success, and returned to make his Missouri sweetheart his wife, taking her to California while she was still in girlhood. Before she was twenty, her son was born—the only child she has had. Mrs. Hearst says she regrets that she has had only one child. She would like to have raised a family of sons and daughters, but as she has brought up several nieces, and has educated and reared the children of her kith and kin, to say nothing of the countless children for whose education she has provided in the kindergartens she has endowed, and the young geniuses she has schooled in Europe, she seems to have done her full personal duty to humanity.

"In appearance Mrs. Hearst is slight and not tall. She gives an impression of fragility which is scarcely carried out by her ceaseless activity. Sometimes the nervous exertion tells on her, and she is forced to delegate social duties to her assistants. Although she employs a corps of secretaries, Mrs. Hearst always opens her letters. It is characteristic of the thoroughness of the woman. And this, although her mail runs into hundreds of letters a day. Most of them are begging letters from people who do not know that this sympathetic and charitable woman is too wise to give except through organized channels.

"Mrs. Hearst's hair is pale brown, lightly silvered with gray. It is parted at the middle and ripples away at the side in a Madonna-like coiffure very becoming to Mrs. Hearst's benign expression and regular features. The nose is straight, regular and rather small, the eyes large, full and gray, and the forehead well shaped and pronounced in intellectuality. The lips are rather thin, delicately curved and almost colorless. There is very little color in the cheeks.

"In spite of her life in the public eye, and the importance which her position has thrust upon her, in spite of the responsibilities of her wealth, Mrs. Hearst has a horror of publicity. She has been interviewed many times, and has been misquoted many times. She cannot see why she cannot be left to lead her life in her own way, and she does not understand why the public should be interested in all she does and says. She is quite sincere in saying that she does not see that she is at all extraordinary. She has not yet realized that an unselfish person, devoted to the public good, with no thought of self and no desire for self aggrandizement, is the most remarkable being on earth."—Ainslee's Magazine.

The Question of the Nose.

Mothers should care for the noses of the children and see that they grow properly. The soft tissues of the organ can be moulded in early life. A thick nose can be made thinner by regular treatment, such as compressing it daily, either with the fingers or with instruments made with springs and padded ends so as to clasp the nose. A clothes-pin has been used and so adjusted as to bring about the right amount of compression. Many noses are wrung and twisted out of shape by the vigorous use of the handkerchief. The delicacy of the structure of the nose is not appreciated.

The shape and size of the nose are often of a character to cause great distress to the person, and the deformity—for in some instances it really amounts to this—is borne with fortitude and resignation as something which cannot be remedied. The importance of the nose in its relation to appearance has been appreciated by the modern surgeon, and he does not regard it as beneath his dignity to perform operations for the improvement of this feature. Noses which are naturally misshapen and those have been made so by blows and accidents are restored, or modified to assume a proper shape. Usually a deformed nose interferes with the air-passages, narrowing or blocking them, and the operation is a matter of necessity as well as of appearance. Persons do not hesitate to spend time, money and much endurance to have their teeth straightened; it is often quite as important to the health, and more important to the looks, to have the nose straightened or to have it restored to a more desirable form.—Dr. Grace Peckham Murray, in Harper's Bazar.

The Latest in Skirts.

The changes in skirts seem to consist principally in still more careful close-fitting around the hips and not in any reduced quantity of material required, or any waning popularity for the plaits which are so much in evidence just at the moment. The graceful flare, which adds so much to the beauty of outline, will be increased rather than lessened, and plain skirts evidently will be quite out of the question. The trained effect appears on all the models which are as yet being sent out from Paris.

The newest round skirt from Paris is either goffered, tucked or gathered at the waist and over the hips. Other skirts are tucked at the top and then accordeon-plaited. This kilted cloth is chic and has the advantage of novelty, but unless carefully manipulated it will develop into an unwieldy garment. If the skirt is plaited, the plaited waist will be en suite. The plaits on gowns for different wearers, and in the use of different fabrics, will be widely diversified from the finest accordeon width to rather broad box plaits, which graduate to almost a point at the top on some of the French skirts, and widen proportionately at the top of the waist, tapering gracefully from the chest to the belt.

A skirt which attracted much attention on the street the other day consisted of a plain back satin skirt foundation, with an applique of chenille trimming around the foot. But over it fell an overskirt of blue plaid Irish suiting, rough and heavy, a most striking contrast to the underskirt. This style will be frequently seen during the coming year. Moreover, it has a recommendation of economy to the woman skillful with her needle. You can cut off an old dress skirt, scallop it around the lower edge and use it for an overskirt. The underskirt can be your oldest silk one carefully rebound and rejuvenated with a band in the popular stitching.

The Queen of Portugal.

One of the handsomest and cleverest queens in Europe is unquestionably the Queen of Portugal, who, having begun the study of medicine as a "hobby," has taken her degree of M. D., and is now the chief physician of her consort, herself and her children. Her Majesty, who is also considered one of the best dressed women in the royal families of Europe, is well known in English society, and her training and tastes are thoroughly English, for, having been born at Twickenham some thirty-five years ago, she has also spent a great part of her life in this country, lastly at the famous Stowe House, in Buckinghamshire. As may be generally known, Queen Amelie is the eldest daughter of the late Comte de Paris and the Comtesse Isabelle, and married, at Lisbon, thirteen years ago, on May 22, the then Crown Prince, Duke of Braganza, now King Carlos I.

The Use of Sealing Wax.

The use of sealing wax has become so generally fashionable that before long it may be considered vulgar to seal envelopes with gum. Who knows but there may be a revival, too, of those mysterious love signs which were rampant in the good old days of yore? Sixty or more years ago a flaming red wafer was used by a despairing lover when sealing a letter to indicate a distressed and bleeding heart; a yellow one when jealousy was rankling in his breast; a black one indicated anger and resentment; a green one, fickleness; a violet one, faithfulness and constancy, and a blush pink, blissful contentment and happiness. Quaint old seals engraved with mottoes, with crests and monograms, have become much sought after, and the most fascinating of all is the old fashioned set of seven seals with a motto for each day of the week.

Handsome New Gowns.

Some of the prettiest new gowns are of black net or grenadine over black silk, with the overdress profusely ruffled. The ruffles number from three to five, and vary in width from four inches to six. They are applied either straight around the skirt or curving slightly upward to the back. A charming effect is produced by edging the ruffles at both upper and lower edges with narrow white or colored velvet ribbon, repeating the treatment on the waist.

The Newest Fashions.

The old-fashioned blond lace with a pattern scattered over it is revived again for veils.

White gloves, except with black and white costumes, are not worn so much as the varied tints of fawn, biscuit, nickel gray, cream, lilac and a greenish gray.

Belts are essential features of all the new gowns, which means that most all blouses will be worn outside of the skirts, the belts being a portion of the bodice.

Lace flouncings of Renaissance and Venetian, as well as other kinds of lace, come all ready shaped in the circular form, fitting the cut of the skirt perfectly.

Silk skirts with silk jersey yoke tops which cling closely to the figure are one of the desirable novelties. And then there are China silk waists in all colors prettily trimmed with lace.

In the new effects of old styles is a knife-plaited black silk skirt, with a little short apron overskirt, rounding up short at the waist in the back, and trimmed with application of black lace around the edge.

Thin fabrics of all kinds will be fashionable, such as veilings and crepons. The most desirable thin stuffs have finely embroidered dots and figures, and the mixtures of silk and wool are most attractive.

Khaki letter paper is the latest, and being linen, it might be made out of the very material made into uniforms, from its appearance. This may not mean that it is altogether beautiful, but it means something, and a great many people will find it indispensable.

Lace, tulle, chiffon and lace straw are prominent features of the new millinery. Toques made entirely of lace over chiffon and completed with a bow of black velvet or a bunch of flowers are among the prettiest hats in sight. Pure white satin, finished straws, almost transparent, are very much in evidence.

Yellow chrysanthemums are the newest fad in millinery. Chrysanthemums of every shade and color, indeed, are popular, even those of black silk petals. Flexible straw braid and horsehair lace are among the novelties for trimming, and are combined with mousseline de soie, velvet or tulle with excellent effect.

THE USES OF ADVERSITY.

OUR FIERCE STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE VIEWED SCIENTIFICALLY.

Why a Hundred Men Labor and Sweat That One May Rise—Every Step by Which Man Has Climbed is Stained With Blood—The Gospel of Hope.

WHEN modern science began to examine critically the ladder by which man has climbed to his present position it was found that every step was stained with blood. That life was war and suffering the common lot of all; that animals preyed upon plants and man upon animals and bacteria upon man, a cycle of suffering; that every species was an Ishmael; that birds and butterflies were not the careless, joyous things the poet thought them, living only for beauty and pleasure, but were engaged in a terrible struggle for existence; that the song of birds was a war-cry and the adornment of the butterfly was merely war-paint. It was found that there was an awful waste in nature, waste of time, waste of work, waste of life. Of a million seeds sown by the wind only one lived. A thousand eggs were cast upon the waters to produce one fish. A hundred men labor and sweat that one might rise. It was an awful revelation, that of science fifty years ago. No wonder that it drove men insane; made them pessimists, atheists. If science had stopped here it would have been a gospel of despair.

But it did not stop; another step changed it to a gospel of hope. It was discovered that this suffering, that looked to a casual glance like an impediment to progress, was really its cause; that pain was the mainspring of the universe; that war was the mother of all things, as the Greek had said long ago; that the rod of affliction was the modeling tool by which God created all living things; that there could have been no happiness now if there had been no suffering in the past; that joy is the offspring of sorrow, out of war comes peace and through death comes life. This changed the whole view. It put optimism in the place of pessimism. Man could see the uses of adversity.

There was a time when there was no suffering in the world. But that was when there was no life; when the earth was without form and void and darkness was upon the face of the deep. With life came suffering, and increased with it. Progress may be defined as increase in the capacity for suffering. A stone does not feel pain, probably a plant does. Ancient animals suffered less than their descendants. The gigantic saurians that used to creep across the Rocky Mountain plains were as big as a house, but their brains could have been put into a tea cup. Not much chance for pain there. And finally man came, a creature built upon a new and improved plan; but his chief endowment was that he was able to suffer more. Several new kinds of suffering were invented expressly for him. He alone of all the animals suffers in anticipation of coming perils, and grieves over the errors of the past. It is the greater capacity for suffering that has made men what they are. These are they who have come up out of great tribulation.

The earliest animals were built to avoid suffering. They were as big as an animal could be, and walk. The sensitive parts were protected, as in our modern iron-clads, by defensive armor as thick as could be carried; hide and scales almost impenetrable. Now these animals are all extinct. They were beaten in the struggle for existence, and by what? By little animals with the nerves on the outside. The animals that were easiest hurt conquered those that were most protected. Now our museums are filled with the relics of these obsolete forms, models of inventions that did not work well, and on the walls are hanging the armor of the knights of the Middle Ages, who were beaten by men without armor. The best protected animal now in existence is the clam; the least protected is the man. To try to escape suffering is not a good plan. It has been tried on a large scale, and it does not work.

There was a time when there was no death in the world. This was long after the creation of living beings; if by death we mean a definite and certain period to life. The infusoria, the simplest organisms, are immortal. They do not die a natural death, although they can be killed. These tiny specks of protoplasm grow and divide, but we cannot say that one part is the parent of the other. It is the same individual, only separated into two parts for convenience. It lives and grows as long as the proper conditions prevail; not merely for three score years and ten, but for thousands of years. In fact, the first created speck of protoplasm is living yet, divided into innumerable parts. Later there came beings that died—spontaneously, at the end of a given time. It was apparently a great disadvantage that an animal should die when it had acquired the strength and skill of maturity, and that a new individual should have to pass through the period of helpless infancy. But the animals that died progressed and developed, while those that did not die remained stationary. Death came into the world that we might have a fuller and completer life.

Now we see more clearly what is meant by the many mysterious sayings in the Bible, that benefits arise from afflictions, that good comes out of evil, and life comes from death. People used to believe these statements; yes, they were doubtless true, but in some hazy mystical sense, nobody knew how. Now we know that they are not imaginative, but plain statements of fact; they are not figurative, but literally true.

We now know something of the benefits of suffering in the past, but why do we have to suffer? We see that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain till now, because it has brought forth US—but why does the labor continue? Here is a man, intelligent man, who knows some things and thinks he knows it all; civilized man, except for occasional lapses into barbarism; man who stands erect, except when he crawls into some meanness; man with the moral law written in his heart, which he follows whenever he thinks it a good policy; man, who knows God and prays to Him whenever he gets into trouble; man, proud man, looks up to his Creator and says, "Here am I, the end and aim of all Thy creation. I am worth all the pain and suffering that I have cost other beings, but don't carry this any further. Let us have peace."

This is no caricature. You will find substantially this view of the position of man in dozens of theological and scientific works. Of all created beings man is certainly endowed with the greatest capacity for conceit.

Where knowledge ends, faith begins. The more we know of God's dealings in the past the better is our foundation for our faith in the future. No suffering has been in vain, so ours, too, must have its use. We are now reaping the reward of the sufferings of others. Our happiness has its roots in a soil watered by the tears of untold generations. Animals and men, innocent and guilty, have suffered for us. They gave themselves as living sacrifices for a people they were not to see, for a cause they did not know.

What are we going to do about it? How can we repay the sacrifices that others have made for us? By sacrificing ourselves for others, for those around us and those who are to follow, for our neighbors and our posterity. We are to do for others what others have already done for us.—Professor E. E. Slosson, of the University of Wyoming, in the Independent.

Fractions.

Bright children in school are in great danger sometimes of passing over the border line of mathematics into the forbidden domain of common sense. A teacher once said to her class in mental arithmetic:

"Now, boys, I have a few questions in fractions to ask. Suppose I have a piece of beefsteak and cut it into two pieces. What would those pieces be called?"

"Halves?" shouted the class.

"Right. And if I cut each half into two pieces?"

"Quarters!"

"That is correct. And if the quarters were cut in half?"

"Eighths!"

"Yes. And if those were chopped in two?"

The answers had been growing fewer and fewer, but one boy meditated a moment and answered:

"Sixteenths!"

"Very good. And when the sixteenths were cut in half, what would they be?"

There was a silence in the class, but presently a little boy at the foot put up his hand.

"Do you know, Johnny? Well, you may tell me."

"Hash!" answered Johnny, confidently—and truly.—Detroit Free Press.

Donkey Had to Be Thawed Out.

A woman living in the neighborhood of Hampton-in-Arden, having gone out for a walk, accompanied by a little boy and girl, noticed standing in a ditch a woebegone donkey, and the little lad, anxious to make Neddy run on so cold a morning, went up and flicked him with a twig. But Neddy stood stock still and never moved a peg. The woman, surprised at this, went up to look at the occupant of the ditch and discovered that the poor animal had been frozen fast in the mud, so that its indifference to the boy's whip was immediately explained. She immediately returned home and had a man sent to dig the donkey out. Neddy was removed to the stable and was thawed effectively by the application of hot water. The countryman who assisted at the removing operation suggested that the woman, by discovering the donkey at the eleventh hour, as it were, had prevented the local country folk from witnessing what is traditionally one of the rarest sights—a dead donkey.—Birmingham (Eng.) Post.

Cheap Meals For London Poor.

The first of the Alexandra Trust dining rooms, named after the Princess of Wales, and for which Sir Thomas Lipton donated $500,000, was opened recently. The meals cost from a half-penny to four-and-a-half pence, and consist of hot oatmeal, soup, steak, pudding, vegetables, and tea, coffee, or cocoa. The arrangements include the sending of hot meals at a half-penny a head to schools within a radius of three miles. Another part of the scheme is to provide hot-water carts to convey meals to sick and bedridden persons. The governors expect a profit of three per cent. on the capital invested, which will be used in extending the work.

Don't Answer Impertinent Questions.

Impertinent questions are to be met with firm and dignified politeness. Any question about another's personal affairs, about the price of one's clothing, the amount of one's earnings, the reason one has for entirely private conduct, is impertinent. Would I answer such questions? Not at all. Usually, by a little tact, one can settle such questioners. If there is no other way, I counsel a plain but courteous sincerity—a simple refusal to answer. One may just say: "Pardon me, I prefer not to give any information whatever on this matter."—Margaret E. Sangster, in Ladies' Home Journal.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: Lift Up the Fallen—A Plea For Welcome For the Prodigal—Kindness Would Reclaim Many Unfortunates Who Have Dropped by the Way.

[Copyright, 1899.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the discourse Dr. Talmage pleads for a hearty reception for all those who have done wrong and want to get back, while the unrepentant and self-righteous are excoriated; text, Luke xv. 28: "And he was angry, and would not go in."

Many times have I been asked to preach a sermon about the elder brother in the parable. I received a letter to-day on the subject, saying: "Is the elder son of the parable unsympathetic and so could not be considered worthy of recognition? I feel sure that we ministers pursue the evangel of love. I can hear the flappings of his race-mates in a sermonic breeze that the grandstand is the pools for which he was an unsuccessful contestant. I confess that it has been difficult for me to train the camera of discourse upon the elder son of the parable. There was not enough light in the gallery, or the chemicals were poor, or the sitter moved in the picture. But now I think I have him; not a side face or a three-quarters or the mere bust, but a full length portrait as he appears to me. The father in the parable of the prodigal had nothing to brag of in his two sons. The one was a rake and the other a churl. I find nothing admirable in the dissolutenness of the one, and I find nothing attractive in the moral sobriety of the other. The one goes down over the larboard side, and the other goes down over the starboard side, but they both go down.

From all the windows of the old homestead bursts the minstrelsy. The floor quakes with the feet of the rustics whose dance is always vigorous and resounding. The neighbors have heard of the return of the younger son from his wanderings, and they have gathered together. The house is full of congratulators. I suppose the tables are loaded with luxuries, but only the one kind of meat mentioned, but its concomitants. "Clap!" go the cymbals. "Thrum!" go the harps. "Click!" go the chalices, up and down go the feet inside, while outside is a most sorry spectacle.

The senior son stands at the corner of the house, a frigid phlegmatic. He had just come in from the fields in very substantial apparel. Seeing some wild exhilarations around the old mansion, he asks of a servant passing by with a goatskin of wine on his shoulder what all the fuss is about. One would have thought that, on hearing that his younger brother had got back, he would have gone into the house and rejoiced and, if he were not conscientiously opposed to dancing, that he would have joined in the oriental schottish. No. There he stands. His brow lowers; his face darkens; his lip curls with contempt; he stamps the ground with indignation; he sees nothing at all to attract. The odors of the feast coming out on the air do not sharpen his appetite, the lively music does not put any spring into his step. He is a terrible pout. He criticises the expense, the injustice and the morals of the entertainment. The father rushes out bareheaded and coaxes him to come in. He will not go in; he scolds the father; he goes into a pasquinade against the younger brother, and he make the most uncomely scene; he says, "Father, you put a premium on vagabondism. I staid at home and worked on the farm. You never made a party for me; you didn't so much as kill a kid. That wouldn't have cost half as much as a calf. But this scapegrace went off in fine clothes, and he comes back not fit to be seen, and what a time you make over him! He breaks your heart, and you pay him for it. That calf, to which we have been giving extra feed during all these weeks, wouldn't be so fat and sleek if I had known to what use you were going to put it! That vagabond deserves to be cowbided instead of banqueted. Veal is too good for him." That evening, while the younger son sat telling his father about his adventures and asking about what had occurred on the place since his departure, the senior brother goes to bed disgusted and slams the door after him. That senior brother still lives. You can see him any day of the week. At a meeting of ministers in Germany some one asked the question, "Who is that elder son?" and Krummacher answered: "I know him; I saw him yesterday." And when they insisted upon knowing whom he meant he said: "Myself." When I saw the account of the carver in of a most obnoxious man, I was irritated.

First, this senior brother of the text stands for the self congratulatory, self satisfied, self worshipful man. With the same breath in which he vituperates against his younger brother he utters a panegyric for himself. The self righteous man of my text, like every other self righteous man, was full of faults. He was an ingrate, for he did not appreciate the home blessings which he had all those years. He was disobedient, for when the father told him to come in he staid out. He was a liar, for he said that the recreant son had devoured his father's living when the father, so far from being reduced to penury, had a homestead left, and instruments of music, had jewels, had a mansion and instead of being a pauper was a prince. This senior brother, with so many faults of his own, was merciless in his criticism of the younger brother. The only perfect people that I have ever known were utterly obnoxious. I was never so badly cheated in my life as by a perfect man. He got so far up in his devotions that he was clear up above all the rules of common honesty. These men that go about prowling among prayer meetings and in places of business telling how good they are—look out for them. keep your hand on your pocketbook! I have noticed that just in proportion as a man gets good he gets humble. The deep Mississippi does not make as much noise as the brawling mountain rivulet. There has been many a store that had more goods in the show window than lasted on the shelves.

This self-righteous man of the text stands at the corner of the house hugging himself in admiration. We hear a great deal in our day about the singer in the choir. Now there are two kinds of fine-voiced men. One is admirable, and the other is reprehensible. The one kind of higher-life man is prominent in his criticism of others. He can go before a prayer meeting to-night and make harangues, does not talk a great deal about himself, but much about Christ and heaven, gets kindlier and more genial and more useful until one day his soul spreads a-wing, and he flies away to eternal rest, and everybody mourns his departure. The other higher-life man goes around with a Bible conspicuously under his arm, goes from church to church, a sort of general evangelist, is a nuisance to his own pastor when he is at home and a nuisance to other pastors when he is away from home, runs up to some man who is counting out a roll of bank bills or running up a difficult line of figures and asks him how his soul is, makes religion a dose of ipecacuanha, standing in a religious meeting making an address, he has a patronizing way, as though ordinary Christians were clear away down below him, so he had to talk at the top of his voice in order to make them hear, but at the same time encouraging them to hope on that by climbing many years they may after a while come up within sight of the place where he now stands. I tell you plainly that a roaring, roistering, bouncing sinner is not so repulsive to me as that higher life malformation. The former may repent, the latter never gets over his pharisaism. The younger brother of the parable came back, but the senior brother stands outside entirely oblivious to his own delinquencies and deficits, pronouncing his own eulogium. Oh, how much easier it is to blame others than to blame ourselves. Adam blamed Eve, Eve blamed the serpent, the senior brother blamed the younger brother, and none of them blamed themselves.

Again, the senior brother stands for all those who about the reformation of and the dissolute. In the voice you can hear the faith that the reformation is genuine. He to say: "That boy has money. INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR MAY 27.

Parables of the Kingdom, Matt. ... 24-33—Golden Text: Matt. xiii., ... Memory Verses, 31, 32—Commen- ... on the Day's Lesson.

1. "Another parable." In all there are three parables spoken by our Lord recorded in the Gospels. "The kingdom of heaven." This expression sometimes signifies "real religion," but here it has reference to the visible church of Christ. This parable explains God's method of managing the affairs of His church in this world. In it Jesus shows that persons of various characters would profess to receive the Gospel, and be accounted members of the Christian church; but that there would be a final separation between them in the other world, however they might be blended together in this. "Which sowed good seed." Clean wheat, representing the truths of the Gospel and also those who embrace those truths. In the parable of the sower Jesus said the seed was the word of God, in this He said, The good seed are the children of the kingdom. V. 38. God sows nothing but truth; His children are converted through the truth. "In His field." He that soweth the good seed is the Son of Man. The field is the world. Vs. 37, 38. The world is "His" field. When Christ comes to take possession He will come to take possession of that which is His own.

25. "But while men slept." In the night, when evil-disposed persons would try to injure the property of their neighbors. When professors were lukewarm and pastors indolent. "His enemy came." The enemy that sowed them is the devil. V. 39. Notice that Jesus refers to him as "His" enemy. The devil is not only the enemy of Christ but of all who follow Christ. "Sowed tares." Literally "darnel," the weed that grows among the wheat. It had a near resemblance to the stalks of wheat. The tares are the children of the wicked one. He also refers to the state of the Jewish people, for they had become utterly degenerate and were about to be destroyed. "Went His way." Although a friend in appearance, this enemy is deceitful, vigilant, secret. He comes in "evil thoughts, unholy desires, flattering words, bad books," and, in fact, in a hundred ways.

26. "And brought forth fruit." Their real difference was seen when the fruit appeared. Compare Matt. 7:16-20. There is a great deal of secret wickedness in the hearts of men, which is long hid under a cloak of profession, but breaks out at last. When the seeds begin to grow it is hard to distinguish them, but when a trying time comes, when fruit is to be brought forth, then it is easy to discern between the wheat and the tares.

27. "The servants of the householder." The faithful and vigilant ministers of Christ. "Said unto Him." They discovered the devices of the devil and came with grief to tell the Lord about it and inquire into the cause. "Whence then hath it tares." Only good seed was sown, and we may well ask how have these tares come?

28. "An enemy hath done this." A plain answer to the great question concerning the origin of evil. God made men as He did angels, intelligent creatures, and consequently free, either to choose good or evil; but He implanted no evil in the human soul. An enemy, with man's concurrence, hath done this. Darnel in the church is properly hypocrites and wicked persons which Satan introduces into religious societies in order to destroy the work of God and thus further his own designs. "Gather them up." A rash zeal is as much to be feared as lax discipline.

29. "But He said, Nay." God's thoughts are not our thoughts; we oftentimes act very unwisely when we do not apply to Christ for direction. "Lest ye root up also the wheat." The visible church will include in it until the last day, many who are not true members. To separate them is not the part of man, but of the Judge.

30. "Let both grow together." Both will grow together, and it is God only who knoweth the hearts of men and would be able to separate the righteous from the unrighteous; and yet it is the duty of the church to try, and expel, unworthy members—those who are openly wicked, and not suffer them to build upon a false hope by allowing them to remain within its pales. Many texts prove this conclusively. "By their fruits ye shall know them." Matt. 7:20. Note from this also that God's church is a growing church. "Until the harvest." The harvest is the end of the world. V. 39. The judgment day; the time of summing up the accounts of the world. A final and complete separation shall certainly be made at that time. "I shall say to the reapers." The angels are the reapers (v. 39), but they are under the direction of Christ, into whose hands all things have been given. "In bundles." Some writers think that there is an intimation here that in eternity sinners will be put together "according to their sinful propensities." "To burn them." The wicked will be punished as surely as the righteous will be rewarded. The tares shall be cast into "a furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth." V. 42. The wicked will be destroyed, but not annihilated. "Gather the wheat." The righteous will be gathered from all quarters of the earth, from all classes and conditions. "Into My barn." Into heaven. What an assembly of saints this will be!

31. "A grain of mustard seed." One of the smallest of all seeds. This parable represents the progress which the Gospel would make. The beginnings would be small but it would increase, and its influence would become extensive and powerful. It also represents the growth of the grace of God in the heart.

32. "The least of all seeds." The kingdom of the Messiah made but a small appearance; Christ and His apostles, compared with the great and mighty of the world, were like a grain of mustard seed. They were the weak and foolish things that were despised and rejected of men. "When it is grown." There is life and power in the Gospel to sustain itself and make rapid advancement. The stone that Daniel saw is destined to fill the whole earth. "And becometh a tree." In that country the mustard grows much larger than in this, and sometimes springs up to the dimensions of a small tree. The birds lodged in its branches, and so the great Gospel tree will shelter all who come under its protection.

33. "Another parable." With a view still further to illustrate the progress of the Gospel in the world and of the grace of God in the soul. "Like unto leaven." Leaven is all pervading and powerful. Though silent and hidden, it soon affects the whole mass. So would divine truth be in its influence on individuals and communities. "Three measures." Intended to denote the large quantity which the leaven has to pervade. There is no doubt a reference here to the fact that the Gospel has power to transform the whole man—body, soul and spirit. "Of meal." The corn had been ground and prepared so the leaven could change to its own nature that with which it was mixed. In the same way there must be a preparation for Gospel truth.

Chinese Attack the British.

A large body of Chinese attacked the camp of the Boundary Commission and wounded Major Pearose and four members of the Chinese regiment. The latter, which was recruited in the vicinity of Wei-Hai-Wei and drilled by British officers, behaved very steadily. The attackers were repulsed with a loss of thirty killed. The outbreak is attributed to Chinese officials.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS

NO SO FREQUENT IN RECENT YEARS.

Travel on American Trains Safer Now Than Ever Before — Work of Guarding Against Accidents Is Being Diligently Followed Up.

There are 50,000 flagmen, switchmen and line watchmen employed on the railroads of the United States, and the duties which devolve upon them relate primarily to the security of passing trains. The use by them of lanterns at night and flags by day, while desirable in a small way as a measure of protection, especially at crossings, is by no means so important as the signal lights which are displayed from towers and which are regulated by telegraphic communication maintained along the line of track. Under the signal rules adopted by the American railroad association, the application of which is general not only throughout the United States, but in Mexico and Canada as well, a red light whenever displayed signifies danger and calls for a stop; a green light cautions and commands "go slowly;" white indicates safety and commands "Go ahead." A blue flag by day and a blue light by night displayed at one or both ends of an engine, car or train signifies that workmen are engaged on or about it. When thus protected it must not be disturbed. One effect of the more general use of uniform signals has been the steady reduction of the number of fatalities on American railroads, the total number of which is now considerably less than it was ten years ago, though in the meantime railroad travel has increased enormously. The total number of passengers carried on American railroads in a year is not far from 600,000,000, and the number of fatalities to passengers average less than 250, or less than one two-thousandth of 1 per cent. While the number of passengers carried is increasing, the number of accidents is diminishing in consequence of the fact that while some railroad accidents appear to be absolutely unavoidable, serious accidents entailing the wreckage of trains and wholesale disasters are very much less frequent than formerly. The adoption and maintenance of a complete system of railroad signals entails a considerable expense upon railroad companies, but it is much more than made up by the advantages attained, which include greater security in travel, a high rate of speed for passenger trains, a much diminished danger of track obstruction and a practical diminution in the number and success of suits brought for damages. The work of making travel safe on American railroads is going ahead even faster than is the work of railroad building, actively resumed since 1897.—New York Sun.

PAPA FROG AND THE TADPOLES

His Children Cling to His Back Till They Are Big Enough to Leave.

A male frog with little tapoles living on his back was discovered lately by Dr. August Brauer of Marburg, Germany. For a little fellow it has a pretty long name, but perhaps its paternal devotion has earned it the long Latin name, arthroleptis seychellensis boettger. It has been noticed before that in some species of frogs living in Venezuela and the island of Trinidad the male bears the young on its back, to which they hold by their mouths. But this new species is the first one on which so many as nine little ones were discovered, and besides they do not hold on by their mouths, but seem to be stuck to the papa frog's back and sides by some gummy substance which holds them in place until they are large enough to care for themselves. It is a wonderful device of nature, that the female sometimes deposits her eggs on the back of the male, where they hatch out, and the little tadpoles grow until they attain a certain size. Such is, of course, not the case with our common frogs, but in these rare species only lately found by naturalists is a strange reversal of what seems to us to be the usual law that the mother takes care of the young. In this species the eggs are not laid on the back of the male, but on the ground, and only after they are hatched do they take up their position on papa's back. And there they ride until they are big enough to walk around and look for their own food.

Wise Cat.

These are the three reflections of Theophile Gautier's cat when she first saw a parrot: "This is certainly a green chicken." was her first thought. Succeeding it, came the conclusion: "Chickens, even if green, are good to eat." Then she sprang upon the perch, and the parrot shouted at her in French. "Ah," thought pussy, "it can't be a chicken at all! It must be a gentleman!"

Seasoned conversationalists are careful not to put too much spice in their

MAKES HER SICK.

New Jersey Woman Who Is Strangely Affected by Light.

In a Spruce street boarding-house there is now living an elderly spinster who for thirty years has avoided the light. She is no misanthrope, no recluse, nor does her aversion to light arise from any constitutional defect. Of wide information, chatty and fond of company, her peculiar condition precludes enjoyment of society in circumstances making social intercourse most pleasant. In the evenings when the gas is lighted, she retires to a cloaked corner, and hidden under an umbrella especially constructed to ward off rays of light, she holds converse. Thus she sits for hours, like some seeress unseen by those in the same room, and not seeing those to whom she talks and charms with her fund of bright and interesting things. Not that her eyesight is affected—it is as good as that of any woman 60 years of age. She simply cannot bear the light to strike her. Diffused sunlight as a rule does not trouble her, but a tiny ray illuminating a near-by object upsets her physical system and is followed by an attack of nausea. The patient is Miss Ford of Moorestown, N. J., a descendant of the Fords in whose house Washington made his headquarters while in that part of New Jersey. She came here recently to be treated for her peculiar malady. The physicians who have her case in charge will not say whether her condition is pathologically natural or reflex. Her ailment has existed for thirty years. For all that time she has been unable to suffer the radiance of gaslight, and when electric light was introduced her retirement from its presence was rendered imperative. Its effect upon her nervous system is so baleful that she is made ill, as though some nauseating dose had been administered to her. So sensitive has Miss Ford become to the irritating effect of light that should a sun's ray invade her corner and flicker upon the hangings, or tint the window shade, she would be immediately thrown into a nervous spasm. The sun which brightens and cheers all the world is to her a dread visitor, whose benign sparks are malevolent messengers. The effulgence all nature glories in induces only abhorrence in her. When she drives out, except on cloudy days, the curtains of the carriage are drawn and draperies so arranged that there may be no invasion of distinct rays of light. The most peculiar fact connected with Miss Ford's unique condition is that it is not necessary for her to see the ray of light to be adversely affected. Its mere presence in her immediate vicinity, at her side or behind her back, renders her susceptible.—Philadelphia North American.

Printed the Wrong Portrait.

After Hon. Foster M. Voorhees was elected governor of New Jersey the usual portraits of him were published in the newspapers. They made an interesting variety. In one instance an enterprising journal drew upon its cabinet and used a cut of the president of a small western university, showing a young man with the hair carefully parted and curled, and with eye-glasses that stood prominently in the picture. He looked about 20 years of age and the face was smooth and smiling. The governor had a good laugh over this particular picture as well as over some of the other interesting variations of his countenance. He is not an old man by any means, being only 43, but he has the look of a serious student and man of affairs. His home is in Elizabeth, N. J.

No Smoking in Abyssinia.

Three travelers, one of whom is an American, were in Abyssinia recently. One afternoon after their midday coffee they lit cigars. Hardly had they done so when an official who was passing informed them through an interpreter that smoking was prohibited in that country, and that it would be well for them not to indulge in the practice in public. The travelers took the hint. The use of tobacco, they learned afterward had been prohibited in Abyssinia since the year 1642. At that time priests were in the habit of smoking in churches, and the main object of the law then passed was to stop this practice. After a few years, however, the law was made applicable to all classes of the people, and today strangers in Abyssinia are politely informed that if they want to smoke they must go where none of the natives can see them or can smell the seductive weed.

All over Japan you will see images of foxes—old foxes, with their noses chipped and their ears broken off; older foxes still, with a growth of moss on their backs; sly, alert, foxes, with noses perked smartly in the air; great foxes and little foxes, sages and clowns, all kinds and degrees—showing the prevalence of this belief in the land of the wistaria and the far, and also showing in what respect the fox is held, says a traveler. It is curious to note that in all countries the fox above all other animals has been considered to exert great influence and power. All nations have legends of which the cunning and intelligence of the fox is the theme.

Bicycle Polo.

Polo played with the regulation sticks, merely by the substitution of cycles for horses, is not a new game among riders, though it requires no small amount of skill. It is obvious that the later form of game is possibly only for expert wheelmen or wheelwomen. When the ball is struck, not with a stick, but always with the front wheel, it means that the wheel must be lifted clear of the ground to give it the necessary play and that is a feat beyond the average rider. The rules for the new game are the same as those of the stick polo, and the player must always, on penalty of a foul, keep his cycle to the left of an imaginary line drawn from the opponents' goal to the center of the ball—i. e., must keep the ball on his right hand side. Then, to make a sharp stroke, the front wheel is lifted, the left hand brought sharply back and the ball is struck with the rim and tire of the hinder part of the front wheel. It sounds like a perilous feat and is somewhat, though not more so than the game played with sticks. In practice for either falls are frequent and inevitable. The rule about keeping on one side of the ball is evidently framed in order to avoid as far as possible such disastrous collisions as would ensue from crossing right athwart a rider.

Nature's MOST Natural Remedy

Improved by Science to a PLEASANT, PERMANENT, POSITIVE CURE

For Coughs, Colds, and all Inflamed Surfaces of the Lungs and Bronchial Tubes.

Dr. BELL'S PINE-TAR-HONEY

The sore, weary cough-worn lungs are exhilarated, the microbe bearing mucus is cut out, the cause of that tickling is removed, and the inflamed membranes are healed and soothed so that there is no inclination to cough.

A COLD! A COUGH! CONSUMPTION

My little daughter has been subject to severe colds and croup, and often taken with violent coughing spells at night. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is the only preparation I have found that will relieve her. I think it is necessary in the household.—B. L. Jansen, Louisville, Ky.

I have been seriously affected for twenty-five years with a cough and pains in my side and breast that were causing me a miserable life. I spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and for medicine, but everything failed until I used Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. It beats the world, and has saved my life. I recommend Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey to everybody with weak lungs. It is a great success.—J. B. Bosnell, Grantsburg, Ill.

BEWARE!

In buying Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey you get as big a bottle and more doses for 25c than you do of any other, but the druggist's profit is less.

Therefore some druggists are persuading their customers to buy that which to them means greater profit. DON'T YOU DO IT. DEMAND

"Sweet Bells Jangled Out of Tune and Harsh."

Shakespeare's description fits thousands of women. They are cross, despondent, sickly, nervous—a burden to themselves and their families. Their sweet dispositions are gone, and they, like the bells, seem sadly out of tune. But there is a remedy. They can use

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

It brings health to the womanly organism, and health there means well poised nerves, calmness, strength. It restores womanly vigor and power. It tones up the nerves which suffering and disease have shattered. It is the most perfect remedy ever devised to restore weak women to perfect health, and to make them attractive and happy. $1.00 at all druggists.

The Imperial Gas Lamp

Covered by U. S. Patents.

Admittedly the BEST light on the market and the most economical.

The Imperial burns common stove gasoline and gives a 100 candle power light at a cost of one cent per day.

One Gallon will burn 60 hours.

The needle keeps the burner clean, so it will not clog, and the generating tube being in center of flame, insures a light that will not go out. There is no odor, no smoke and no flicker. The light can be raised or turned down just as with a gas jet or lamp. THE IMPERIAL is the most perfect light on the market and everything pertaining to it is the best to be had. IT WILL PAY TO INVESTIGATE.

If not sold in your town write us for catalogue.

A destructive fire here last Saturday afternoon did a great deal damage to the fine plant of the Marbury Lumber Company. The fire originated in one corner of the commissary, but from what cause is unknown. The commissary was destroyed, as well as the planing mill and several of the dwelling-houses close by, and some lumber. The amount of the loss we have not been able to learn. The intense heat prevented trains from passing through, and the consequence was the north bound accommodation was delayed an hour and a-half.

DISCIPLINE REMAINS RIGID.

Methodist Church Will Not Change Its Position Toward Worldly Pleasure.

The Methodist church will not, if the report of the committee at the Chicago convention is accepted, alter its position toward playing cards, dancing and certain other amusements. The amusement question is settled so far as the committee on the state of the church is concerned. That committee decided to recommend that the section on prohibited amusements be taken out and that a new section be inserted. The paragraph to be inserted is as follows:

"Our church has from the beginning of its history insisted that dancing, playing all games of chance, attending theatres, horse races, circuses, dancing parties and other amusements, which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus, are perilous to the spiritual life and influence of the members of our church and enervating to the spiritual power of the church in the great work of saving souls. The tendency in social circles toward dangerous amusements was never stronger than now, and we deem it wise to reaffirm our historic attitude upon this subject. This advice must not be interpreted as the waiving of the church's right to call to account any member who continues to indulge in those diversions, which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus."

STATE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MEETS

And Transacts Some Important Business—Murderers Expiate Their Crimes—Col. Gilchrist Dead. Brevities.

The state democratic executive committee at its meeting in Birmingham Friday elected a secretary to succeed N. L. Miller, resigned; passed upon several county contests, appointed a campaign committee and in conference with the democratic nominees for state offices took up other matters pertaining to the campaign.

Twenty-one members of the committee were present and all the democratic nominees except Judge W. H. Matthews, nominee for state auditor, who was detained at home by reason of illness.

The committee was called on to settle the question of the regular county committee for Lee county, and this was decided in favor of the committee selected at the county convention held on April 21.

The Morgan county contest was passed until June 8, on which date the committee will again meet in Birmingham.

Chairman Lowe announced the campaign committee, and John V. Smith, of Russell, was elected chairman.

John C. Pugh, of Birmingham, was elected secretary of the executive committee to succeed N. L. Miller, whose resignation was accepted.

Mr. Lowe stated that the committee at the last meeting directed him to appoint a campaign committee, of which he should be chairman, but he found that it would be impracticable for him to serve in that capacity and he, therefore, moved that John V. Smith, of Russell, be elected chairman of the committee.

Mr. Lowe appointed the following campaign committee, which he had been authorized to appoint:

F. L. Pettus, of Selma; T. D. Samford, of Opelika; John R. McCain, of Lineville; D. R. Burgess, of Mobile; E. W. Booker, of Speigner; Charles Henderson, of Troy; L. B. Musgrove, of Jasper; John J. Altman, of Birmingham; Wilson R. Brown, of Sheffield; Dan A. Greene, of Birmingham; James G. Moore, of Blocton; W. T. Sanders, of Athens; W. H. Thomas, of Montgomery.

Rosser's Appointment Urged.

Members of the Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia delegations and General Wheeler saw Postmaster General Smith Saturday and urged the appointment of R. J. Rosser, of Alabama, postoffice inspector at Havana, for postmaster at Havana.

The bill for a public building at Florence, Ala., passed the senate and is now before the house committee on public buildings and grounds, and is certain to be favorably reported thence. The cost of the building will be $70,000.

Col. Gilchrist Dead.

Colonel James G. Gilchrist, one of the most distinguished of Montgomery county's citizens, died at his home Friday. He was 86 years old, and his death was the result of infirmities of age. At the time of his death he was president of the board of revenue of Montgomery county, and he has served as a member of this board continuously for twenty-five years. He was also a member of the board of trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical college at Auburn.

Three Murderers Expiate Their Crimes.

At Eutaw, Beauty Ingram and Walter Gordon, two negroes, were hanged for the murder of Thomas Burton, at Clinton, March 31.

At Talladega, Friday, Albert Curry, colored, was hanged for one of the most heinous crimes in the history of Talladega county. The murderer decoyed Jas. P. Dobbins to the outskirts of the town and brutally murdered him.

Elected Five New Bishops.

The general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church in session at Columbus, Ohio, elected five new bishops, as follows:

M. M. Moore, D. D., Washington; Evans Tyree, D. D., Nashville; C. S. Smith, D. D., Nashville; C. L. Shaffer, D. D., Philadelphia; L. J. Coppen, D. D., Philadelphia. With the election of five additional bishops, the council now contains thirteen and all elected for life.

Child Burned to Death.

At Uniontown, while playing cooking with her little sister, Stella Cohen, the 7-year-old daughter of the late David Cohen, got too near the blaze, when her clothing caught fire and she was burned to death, despite the heroic efforts to save her. Mr. Cohen, an uncle of the unfortunate little girl, heard her screams and ran to her assistance, in company with Miss Fiebleman. They finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but too late to save the child.

To Choose Wheeler's Successor.

The democratic executive committee of the Eighth congressional district met Saturday in Decatur and called a convention for July 8 to nominate a candidate to fill the unexpired term of General Wheeler and also for the term of two years following. The candidates now announced are: Judge William Richardson of Madison, Hon. Jesse E. Brown of Jackson, Hon. W. H. Sawtelle of Colbert and Samuel Blackwell of Morgan.

Mrs. Street Burned to Death.

While Mrs. Sarah J. Street, of Selma, was burning up some old hen's nests in the yard Saturday, her dress caught fire, and she was so badly burned that she died a few hours later. Mrs. Street was the widow of the Rev. Thomas W. Street, a Methodist minister, and mother of Rev. W. M. Street, of Mt. Meigs. She was a highly esteemed lady and her death is greatly deplored.

Convention to Name Candidate.

Pursuant to a call of J. G. Marbury, chairman of the executive committee of the democratic party of St. Clair county, the committee met at Coal City on May 16 and called a convention to meet at Coal City on June 6 to nominate candidates for the various county offices, beat meetings to be held in each beat on June 2 to elect delegates to the county convention on the 6th.

PLAGUE ON OUR SHORES

Several Cases Have Been Reported in San Francisco.

SIX DEATHS IN THE CHINESE QUARTER

Rigorous Measures Taken to Prevent the Spread of the Dread Disease. Inoculating Chinese—No Living Cases at Present.

A special from San Francisco says: The board of health has adopted a resolution declaring that bubonic plague exists in San Francisco. The health authorities say that while there are no living cases here there have been six deaths during the past three months, and they have decided to take precautions against the development and spread of the disease.

The resolution, which was adopted reads as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this board that bubonic plague exists in the city and county of San Francisco and that all necessary steps already taken for the prevention of this spread be continued together with such additional measures as may be required."

Saturday morning a force of physicians went through Chinatown to treat Chinese with haffkine prophylactic as a preventive against the plague.

The members of the board of health say that there is absolutely no danger of the development or spread of the disease at San Francisco, but, at the same time, they do not propose to take chances and it is their duty to take precautions.

When it became known in Chinatown that the board of health had determined to inoculate the residents of the Chinese section, groups of Chinese gathered on every corner and denounced the action of the board as outrageous. Some of the more wealthy of the indignant Chinese hurried their families into hacks and other vehicles in the attempt to send them out of the district. Some succeeded in getting as far as the city limits, where they were stopped by the police. Others attempted to leave the city on trains.

Texas Quarantines.

A telegram was received at Austin, Tex., confirming the reports of the existence of the bubonic plague at San Francisco. Immediately upon receipt of the news, Dr. Blunt declared absolute quarantine against San Francisco and stationed inspectors at El Paso and Texarkana. No passengers will be admitted into the state from San Francisco.

THE CENSUS

...unt of the people in the ...states will begin in all parts ...ountry June 1, and end in ...s two weeks later and in the ...he country before the close ...month. The people are to be ...d at their places of residence. ...s many persons and families ...e away from their homes dur...une there is some danger that ...persons will not be counted. If ...are not counted, the locality in ...h they live will be misrepre...ed to that extent, and in some ...s this misrepresentation may be ...ugh to affect the representation ...Congress of the state from which ...y come. Local pride and state ...de, therefore, should influence all ...ch absentees to take reasonable ...cautions against being omitted ...om enumeration in their places of ...sidence. Such omissions are most ...kely to occur in the large cities ...here families close their homes and ...o elsewhere for the summer. The ...ccurrence of the Paris exposition ...is year is likely to increase the ...number absent from the country.

In all cases of contemplated absence the head of the family is requested by the Census Office to communicate with the supervisor of the district in which he lives. He is also requested to leave information regarding his answers to the questions which are to be asked with some responsible neighbor who will agree to see that it reaches the enumerator on his rounds. Such information might better be left as a memorandum in writing, as in that case it is less likely to be overlooked. The questions to which answers are desired apply primarily to the population, but also to all farms and manufacturing establishments. They are being published from time to time in the press of the country.

By taking this trouble the absent citizen will do justice to his locality and his state, and materially aid the census office in the performance of its duties.

The blank schedules to be used in the next census are now being distributed by the Census Office to the enumerators, who will start to work on June 1. The schedules contain questions which some persons may think prying, purposeless or excessive in number. But their number and character have been determined by Congress, not by the Census Office, and all of them have been asked in previous censuses. The only important change since 1890 is that some questions have been abandoned.

People are often offended at the question, "How old are you?" but are apt to wonder what use the Government can make of the replies. Taken as a whole the replies are as important as any class of information the Census Office collects. Age returns penetrate and elucidate every other branch of statistical knowledge. They show where child labor is prevalent, and what the proportion of persons able to support themselves is large or small. They reveal the great number of colored children and the short life of the negroes under present conditions. They make it possible to ascertain whether the average length of life is increasing or decreasing, how many men the nation has who are capable of bearing arms, and what the relative number of children is increasing or decreasing.

In the light of such [illegible] and only a few of the important questions have been touched upon, it may [illegible] public that no question has been ordered by congress [illegible] been asked by the census which, if properly and [illegible] answered, will not lead to [illegible] results regarding the American people.

The easiest and most effective method of purifying the blood and invigorating the system is to take DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for cleansing the liver and bowels. Campbelle Drug company.

The Montgomery Weekly Crop Bulletin of last Tuesday reports warm, generally dry and favorable weather prevailed, except unseasonable cool nights during the latter part of the week, which checked corn and cotton; the only rainfall was in scattered showers during the middle of the week, which benefitted all growing crops. Early corn and cotton continue in fair to good condition, though worms are damaging young corn in some localities, and the germination of late planted cotton has been retarded for lack of moisture, while lowland cotton is getting grassy; nearly all corn, except that on very low lands, has received a first plowing, some is being plowed a second time, and nearly all early cotton has been chopped out; replanting of corn and cotton, where necessary, is progressing rapidly; lowlands are getting hard, and a general rain would be beneficial to all crops.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale in my show case, said to me: I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore, and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smiling and informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by Clanton Drug Co., and D. I. Deramus, Verbena.

DISCIPLINE REMAINS RIGID.

Methodist Church Will Not Change Its Position Toward Worldly Pleasure.

The Methodist church will not, if the report of the committee at the Chicago convention is accepted, alter its position toward playing cards, dancing and certain other amusements. The amusement question is settled so far as the committee on the state of the church is concerned. That committee decided to recommend that the section on prohibited amusements be taken out and that a new section be inserted. The paragraph to be inserted is as follows:

"Our church has from the beginning of its history insisted that dancing, playing all games of chance, attending theatres, horse races, circuses, dancing parties and other amusements, which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus, are perilous to the spiritual life and influence of the members of our church and enervating to the spiritual power of the church in the great work of saving souls. The tendency in social circles toward dangerous amusements was never stronger than now, and we deem it wise to reaffirm our historic attitude upon this subject. This advice must not be interpreted as the waiving of the church's right to call to account any member who continues to indulge in those diversions, which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus."

STATE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MEETS

And Transacts Some Important Business—Murderers Explate Their Crimes—Col. Gilchrist Dead. Brevities.

The state democratic executive committee at its meeting in Birmingham Friday elected a secretary to succeed N. L. Miller, resigned; passed upon several county contests, appointed a campaign committee and in conference with the democratic nominees for state offices took up other matters pertaining to the campaign.

Twenty-one members of the committee were present and all the democratic nominees except Judge W. H. Matthews, nominee for state auditor, who was detained at home by reason of illness.

The committee was called on to settle the question of the regular county committee for Lee county, and this was decided in favor of the committee selected at the county convention held on April 21.

The Morgan county contest was passed until June 8, on which date the committee will again meet in Birmingham.

Chairman Lowe announced the campaign committee, and John V. Smith, of Russell, was elected chairman.

John C. Pugh, of Birmingham, was elected secretary of the executive committee to succeed N. L. Miller, whose resignation was accepted.

Mr. Lowe stated that the committee at the last meeting directed him to appoint a campaign committee, of which he should be chairman, but he found that it would be impracticable for him to serve in that capacity and he, therefore, moved that John V. Smith, of Russell, be elected chairman of the committee.

Mr. Lowe appointed the following campaign committee, which he had been authorized to appoint:

F. L. Pettus, of Selma; T. D. Samford, of Opelika; John R. McCain, of Lineville; D. R. Burgess, of Mobile; E. W. Booker, of Speigner; Charles Henderson, of Troy; L. B. Musgrove, of Jasper; John J. Altman, of Birmingham; Wilson R. Brown, of Sheffield; Dan A. Greene, of Birmingham; James G. Moore, of Blocton; W. T. Sanders, of Athens; W. H. Thomas, of Montgomery.

Rosser's Appointment Urged.

Members of the Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia delegations and General Wheeler saw Postmaster General Smith Saturday and urged the appointment of R. J. Rosser, of Alabama, postoffice inspector at Havana, for postmaster at Havana.

The bill for a public building at Florence, Ala., passed the senate and is now before the house committee on public buildings and grounds, and is certain to be favorably reported thence. The cost of the building will be $70,000.

Col. Gilchrist Dead.

Colonel James G. Gilchrist, one of the most distinguished of Montgomery county's citizens, died at his home Friday. He was 86 years old, andh is death was the result of infirmities of age. At the time of his death he was president of the board of revenue of Montgomery county, and he has served as a member of this board continuously for twenty-five years. He was also a member of the board of trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical college at Auburn.

Three Murderers Explate Their Crimes.

At Eutaw, Beauty Ingram and Walter Gordon, two negroes, were hanged for the murder of Thomas Burton, at Clinton, March 31.

At Talladega, Friday, Albert Curry, colored, was hanged for one of the most heinous crimes in the history of Talladega county. The murderer decoyed Jas. P. Dobbins to the outskirts of the town and brutally murdered him.

Elected Five New Bishops.

The general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church in session at Columbus, Ohio, elected five new bishops, as follows:

M. M. Moore, D. D., Washington; Evans Tyree, D. D., Nashville; C. S. Smith, D. D., Nashville; C. L. Shaffer, D. D., Philadelphia; L. J. Coppen, D. D., Philadelphia. With the election of five additional bishops, the council now contains thirteen and all elected for life.

Child Burned to Death.

At Uniontown, while playing cooking with her little sister, Stella Cohen, the 7-year-old daughter of the late David Cohen, got too near the blaze, when her clothing caught fire and she was burned to death, despite the heroic efforts to save her. Mr. Cohen, an uncle of the unfortunate little girl, heard her screams and ran to her assistance, in company with Miss Fiebleman. They finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but too late to save the child.

To Choose Wheeler's Successor.

The democratic executive committee of the Eighth congressional district met Saturday in Decatur and called a convention for July 3 to nominate a candidate to fill the unexpired term of General Wheeler and also for the term of two years following. The candidates now announced are: Judge William Richardson of Madison, Hon. Jesse E. Brown of Jackson, Hon. W. H. Sawtelle of Colbert and Samuel Blackwell of Morgan.

Mrs. Street Burned to Death.

While Mrs. Sarah J. Street, of Selma, was burning up some old hen's nests in the yard Saturday, her dress caught fire, and she was so badly burned that she died a few hours later. Mrs. Street was the widow of the Rev. Thomas W. Street, a Methodist minister, and mother of Rev. W. M. Street, of Mt. Meigs. She was a highly esteemed lady and her death is greatly deplored.

Convention to Name Candidate.

Pursuant to a call of J. G. Marbury, chairman of the executive committee of the democratic party of St. Clair county, the committee met at Coal City on May 16 and called a convention to meet at Coal City on June 6 to nominate candidates for the various county offices, beat meetings to be held in each beat on June 2 to elect delegates to the county convention on the 6th.

PLAGUE ON OUR SHORES

Several Cases Have Been Reported in San Francisco.

SIX DEATHS IN THE CHINESE QUARTER

Rigorous Measures Taken to Prevent the Spread of the Dread Disease. Inoculating Chinese—No Living Cases at Present.

A special from San Francisco says: The board of health has adopted a resolution declaring that bubonic plague exists in San Francisco. The health authorities say that while there are no living cases here there have been six deaths during the past three months, and they have decided to take precautions against the development and spread of the disease.

The resolution, which was adopted reads as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this board that bubonic plague exists in the city and county of San Francisco and that all necessary steps already taken for the prevention of this spread be continued together with such additional measures as may be required."

Saturday morning a force of physicians went through Chinatown to treat Chinese with haffkine prophylactic as a preventive against the plague.

The members of the board of health say that there is absolutely no danger of the development or spread of the disease at San Francisco, but, at the same time, they do not propose to take chances and it is their duty to take precautions.

When it became known in Chinatown that the board of health had determined to inoculate the residents of the Chinese section, groups of Chinese gathered on every corner and denounced the action of the board as outrageous. Some of the more wealthy of the indignant Chinese hurried their families into hacks and other vehicles in the attempt to send them out of the district. Some succeeded in getting as far as the city limits, where they were stopped by the police. Others attempted to leave the city on trains.

Texas Quarantines.

A telegram was received at Austin, Tex., confirming the reports of the existence of the bubonic plague at San Francisco. Immediately upon receipt of the news, Dr. Blunt declared absolute quarantine against San Francisco and stationed inspectors at El Paso and Texarkana. No passengers will be admitted into the state from San Francisco.

MAFEKING RELIEVED.

British Relief Column Enters the Suffering City.

It was officially announced at Pretoria Friday that when the laagers and forts around Mafeking had been severely bombarded, the siege was abandoned, a British force from the south taking possession of the place.

It is reported that 5,000 British troops have surrounded Christiania and Landroost and other officials have been taken prisoners.

Mysterious Murder in Memphis.

At an early hour Saturday morning the dead bodies of Henry Reichmann, of Memphis, and Mrs. Lilly Badakin, wife of a newspaper man of Forest City, Ark., were found in Memphis, Tenn. Reichmann had been shot three times, while the woman's body received one bullet. The affair is shrouded in mystery.

REEVES DISGORGES MONEY,

And Made a Confession, Too. Got It From Neely.

W. H. Reeves, deputy auditor of the island, made a confession and gave up $4,500 given to him by C. F. W. Neely, the arrested financia agent of posts, at Havana, to perform certain services the day he left.

General Wood and the postal inspectors refuse to disclose the nature of the confession, barely admitting that one has been made.

It is believed now that the whole story is known and that the amount of the defalcations will fall between $100,000 and $125,000.

Will Build Cotton Mill at Jacksonville.

George P. Ide of Jacksonville, is in Boston making the final arrangements for the building of a cotton mill at Jacksonville. The erection of the mill now seems assured and Mr. Ide's mission is to close up the matter. The mill will cost about $150,000, Boston parties furnishing most of the capital and Jacksonville the remainder. It will manufacture yarns and probably have a bleachery in connection with it.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS FOR JUNE 3.

Subject: The Twelve Sent Forth. Matt. ix., 35 to x., 8—Golden Text, Matt. x., 20—Memory Verses, ix., 36-38.—Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

35. "Jesus went about." This shows that Jesus was actively engaged in the work. "The gospel of the kingdom." He proclaimed the good news of His spiritual kingdom which He came to set up in the hearts of men. Paul says it consists of "righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." He told them of a kingdom of grace and glory now to be set up under the government of a Mediator. "And healing every sickness." To His preaching He joins all works of mercy and temporal assistance to the bodies of men. "Among the people." He taught not only in the wealthy cities, but in the poor villages and in the private houses, and wherever He found earnest hearers.

36. "When He saw the multitudes." The country was very densely populated at this time. This and the next two verses are an introduction to the account given in the following chapter. Several reasons led to His commissioning the twelve apostles and sending them out to preach. (1) The growing eagerness of the people to hear the new gospel. The demand could not be satisfied by one preacher. (2) The growing opposition of the Pharisees made apparent the necessity of not only appointing, but of training men to preach Christ's gospel. (3) It was because He pitied the multitude, who were like harassed and panting sheep without a shepherd, and like a harvest left unreaped for want of laborers. "With compassion." An emphatic word showing how Christ was moved in His great love for the people. "Because they fainted." Distressed and scattered. R. V. This refers to their spiritual condition rather than to their physical ailments. "As sheep." No creature is more apt to go astray than a sheep, and having gone astray none are more helpless. They are exposed to hunger, cold and ravenous beasts. Sinful souls are as lost sheep. "Having no shepherd." They had many teachers, but none who cared for their souls, and none who were able, if they had been willing, to give them such instruction as they needed. Their teachers, instead of serving God, served their own glory and gain.

37. "Harvest plenteous laborers few." There are multitudes to be won for the new kingdom—multitudes prepared to hear, for their spirits were broken under personal and national sorrow; but the number of right teachers was small.—Geikie. The Lord of the harvest was being deprived of His harvest for want of laborers to gather it in. What an accusation against the scribes and priests!

38. "Pray ye therefore." Successful laborers are obtained in answer to prayer. When things look discouraging we should pray more and fear less. "The Lord of the harvest." The great, divine Teacher. The one who is able to give a harvest of souls. "Send forth." Prepare and call many to preach the gospel. There is something greater than preaching and that is to make preachers. Those whom God sends forth succeed, those who send themselves forth, sooner or later fail. How shall we preach except we be sent? "Laborers." Jesus wants laborers; there are only a very few who really work. A careless, easy-going minister will always do actual harm.

1. "His twelve disciples." After spending the preceding night in prayer, the Lord called the disciples together and chose twelve, which suggests that He had in mind the twelve patriarchs, heads of the tribes of Israel. They were called together as disciples, but after receiving authority they became apostles. "He gave them power." Luke adds, "authority." All rightful authority is derived from Jesus Christ. All power is given unto Him, in heaven and in earth, and He alone can dispense power. "Against unclean spirits." "Over unclean spirits." R. V. The casting out of unclean spirits is here referred to as distinct from healing diseases. "And to heal." The design of the gospel was to conquer the devil and cure the world. The power and authority thus given them would enable them to command the attention and respect of even the scribes and Pharisees.

2. "Apostles." The only place in this gospel where the word is used. It means, to send forth. The names of the twelve apostles were: Simon, Peter, Andrew, James, John, Philip, Bartholomew (Nathanael), Thomas (Didymus), Matthew (Levi), James the son of Alphens (called also James the Less, or little, because he was small of stature), Jude (Judas, Lebbeus, Thaddeus. The brother of James the Less, and author of the epistle which bears his name), Simon the Canaanite (called also Simon Zelotes, or Simon the Zealot. Canaanite has no reference to Canaan, but is derived from the Hebrew kana, zeal, and was applied to Simon because of his great zeal in preaching the gospel of Christ), and Judas Iscariot.

5. "Sent forth." They were sent two by two (Mark 6:7) in different directions. They were not to go alone. Each must have a companion to give counsel and help to each other in difficulties, and to cheer each other on the way. They would thus reach different classes of minds, and accomplish more real work. Two are more than twice one. "Go not." Do not take any road leading to Gentile population. The time had not come for establishing missions to the Gentiles. A base of operations must be secured among the Jews. This limitation was confined to this mission. "Enter ye not." Salvation must first be offered to the Jews, and to have gone to the Samaritans at this time would have been a stumbling-block to the Jews.

6. "To the lost sheep." The Jewish church was the ancient fold of God, but the sheep had wandered away and were lost, and unless they were again found and brought back to God they would be lost eternally. "House of Israel." The Jews, descendants of Israel. He looked with compassion upon them because they had strayed into the paths of sin and error, and were in a wandering and dangerous condition. "The Gentiles also had been as lost sheep." 1 Pet., 2:25.

7. "Preach." They were to be itinerant preachers. "Kingdom of heaven is at hand." We should still make the kingdom of heaven the subject of our preaching, and tell the world that the kingdom has come. The King is now here, and salvation is offered freely to all who will repent.—Matt. 3; 2; 4:17.

8. "Raise the dead." This is wanting in many manuscripts, and is believed by several good authorities to be spurious, although retained in R. V. The first instance in which an apostle raised the dead is recorded in the books of Acts, 9:36-42. It seems very improbable that our Lord imparted at so early a period this highest of all forms of supernatural power. "Freely give." As you have received miraculous powers without paying for them, exert those powers without receiving compensation.

WHO ARE IN "WHO'S WHO?"

A Good Thing to Be Born an English Peer.

Nearly thirty years ago Dr. Galton, in his "Hereditary Genius," pointed out how rarely a man got into the dictionaries of contemporary biography before the age of 50, and his statement is true, even to the present day, says the Fortnightly Review; the mean age of the persons mentioned in "Who's Who" is no less than 55, even though several names are included of persons who have had greatness thrust upon them in the first decade of their lives. "It is better to be born lucky than rich," says the proverb, "but," adds a distinguished humorist, "if you can't be either, the next best thing is to be born a British peer," and this seems at any rate justified by the large amount of attention paid to the hereditary house and the baronetcy by "Who's Who," no less than 11 per cent of its entries being devoted to merely titular distinctions. If these had been omitted, the mean age of distinction would probably rise even higher than 55, and, at any rate, Dr. Galton's threshold limit of 50 for entry into the biographical dictionaries is thoroughly well justified. Now there are only about 4,000,000 Englishmen over 50 in the British empire and the proportion of those that reach eminence in the various collections I have mentioned would, consequently, be 2,664 per million for "Who's Who," 1,600 for the Dictionary of National Biography, and 1,332 for "The Men of the Time." This latter publication seems to have lowered its standard in the last thirty years, as Dr. Galton, in 1869, reckoned that 425 of every million Englishmen over 50 attained sufficient reputation to earn a place in that receptacle. It must, besides, be remembered that we have taken colonies into our calculation, and, as the colonial contingent is naturally small, this would tend to magnify the seeming increase of distinction in "Men of the Time."

PROFITING BY A PEST.

Australia Sells For Food the Rabbits She Cannot Exterminate.

Everybody has heard of the extraordinary ravages of the European rabbits that were introduced into Australia years ago. The animals were imported so that the British subjects who had removed to the antipodes might enjoy the sport of rabit hunting. They had more sport than they bargained for and the whole country regrets the days the little animal was introduced to Australian scenes. There are many millions of them now and the little nibblers eat the grass, destroy fields, orchards and gardens and are the great nuisance of the country. The rewards offered by the various colonies for some sure way of destroying the pest would make the fortune of the man who should discover the process. Today, however, the Australians appear to be a little more resigned under the infliction. The idea occurred to them, a while ago, that they might utilize the animal on a large scale as a commercial commodity. So they set to work to kill rabbits by the thousands, can the meat and send it to Europe in cold storage. Australian canned rabbit sells at a cheap price in the British markets and is beginning to be largely consumed by those who cannot afford very often to indulge in prime beef. Australia has found a new industry and who knows but some day, the rabbit may come to be regarded as one of the great resources of the continent?—New York Sun.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

BILE IN THE BLOOD

No matter how pleasant your surroundings, health, good health, is the foundation for enjoyment. Bowel trouble causes more aches and pains than all other diseases together, and when you get a good dose of bilious bile coursing through the blood life's a hell on earth. Millions of people are doctoring for chronic ailments that started with bad bowels, and they will never get better till the bowels are right. You know how it is—you neglect—get irregular—first suffer with a slight headache—bad taste in the mouth mornings, and general "all gone" feeling during the day—keep on going from bad to worse untill the suffering becomes awful, life loses its charms, and there is many a one that has been driven to suicidal relief. Educate your bowels with CASCARETS. Don't neglect the slightest irregularity. See that you have one natural, easy movement each day. CASCARETS tone the bowels—make them strong—and after you have used them once you will wonder why it is that you have ever been without them. You will find all your other disorders commence to get better at once, and soon you will be well by taking—

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the limit of my subscription and secure no renewal from me, consider it a notice of my death."

Price 25 cents per number, $2.50 a year.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR SHERIFF.

With due respect to all political parties I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Chilton county and respectfully solicit the votes of the people at the general election in August, 1900.

G. F. MARTIN,
better known as Frank Martin.

CONFEDERATE PENSION NOTICE

The Confederate Pension Board for Chilton county will meet at the court house in Clanton on Monday, the 4th day of June, 1900, to consider any application of disabled soldiers and the widows of deceased soldiers in the Confederate or State service that may be presented at that time.

It will be necessary for applicants to be present in person unless physically unable. This notice applies only to those who are not already drawing pensions.

ALL DAY SINGING.

The annual May singing was organized at Salem Baptist church, May 27, 1900. Services were opened with prayer by W. J. Armstrong. T. L. Robinson was elected chairman, and J. E. Goss secretary. The committee on arrangements were J. E. Goss, P. C. Dennis, Riley Robinson, D. S. Robinson and J. A. Cannon. W. H. Robinson and R. L. Grant were appointed to conduct the morning service with Miss Martha Pyron, Anna Robinson and Dora Robinson organists. Rev. W. J. Armstrong delivered an address on music speaking one hour, after which refreshments were served.

At 1:30 o'clock the singers returned to the house, and the committee arranged the program for the afternoon.

The following leaders were appointed: T. M. Pyron, O. Z. Robinson, Alfred Dupree, W. D. Driver and T. L. Robinson; organists, Misses Martha Pyron, Anna Robinson, Dora Dupree, Clara Dupree and Bertie Bland.

After a short talk by Bro. W. H. Robinson, and prayer by W. A. Goss, the singing adjourned to meet at nine o'clock, on the fourth Sunday in May, 1901.

It was by divine injunction that song service was first introduced auxiliary to the worship of God. Ever since the period when this command was given, God's people have considered it compulsory on their part to improve it as much as they were able to do. The people of Salem and surrounding communities met for this divine purpose, and the singing was a great success. Rev. W. J. Armstrong's address on music was a soul inspiring volume of truths, which seemed to be attended by divine inspiration, and was spoken with power. Every true heart was made to rejoice. It seemed that God opened the windows of heaven and poured out a blessing, more than there was room for some to contain. The house was full to overflowing, yet good order was maintained. There was a plentiful supply of dinner, and everything comfortable.

May God help us to fully realize the great significance of worshiping Him in song, and may the good work go on until we are permitted to meet again.

J. E. GOSS, Sec'y.

GRAND GIFT DISTRIBUTION.

A Forty-Cent Sugar Shell Free to Every Married Lady.

Editor Banner—We believe that the most effective advertising we can do is to get samples of our goods into the hands of the people. Therefore, we are sending an elegant sterling silver-plated sugar shell, such as we sell regularly at 40c each, to every married lady in the United States who writes for it. There is nothing to pay. The gift is absolute. You will confer a favor upon your lady readers by making this announcement in your paper. Each lady will send her name only, as this is too valuable a gift to send to persons who don't ask for it themselves. We give choice of any of our 40c designs, and will send illustrations from which selection may be made.

We regret the burning of Mr. Pardue's shop; he got his hand badly burned in trying to save his tools.

Mr. P. P. Crumpton, of Maplesville, must be a truthful man. In advertising his tobacco, he said he had tobacco 40c per pound, 44 plugs to the pound, 72 chews to the plug, 500 sugar to the chew. This is a fact, because I saw a Democrat take a chew of it and when he had got through with it his whiskers and shirt bosom looked like there might have been 1,000 sugar to the chew. Let's hear from Mr. P. P. again!

Of all the sights I ever saw, the ugliest sight was on last Sunday. A young man was sitting by his best girl with his jaw chock full of snuff, and when he got tickled the snuff and slobbers would run out at the northwest corner of his mouth. Young man, if you have not got any respect for yourself have some respect for your girl. BIG INK.

BLUE AND GRAY

Commingled on the Ground Once Rent With Strife.

On the very ground over which the old Fifth corps charged at Fredericksburg, Va., President McKinley, his cabinet and General Miles Friday witnessed the laying of a corner-stone in a shaft which will perpeturte in bronze and granite the heroism of the army of the Potomac. It was an impressive ceremony, and rendered the more so by the fact that among the hundreds who witnessed the event were noted leaders of both the federal and confederate forces.

The monument was the personal gift of General Dan Butterfield to the National Memorial association. General Butterfield was present, but owing to ill health the committal of the monument to the secretary of war was made by Colonel Hill, one of the veterans of the corps. The visit of the president to Fredericksburg was primarily in honor of the annual reunion of the army of the Potomac. The town was in gala dress, and turned out in mass to receive its distinguished visitors.

EMERGENCY BILL

For Rivers and Harbors Reported by Senate Committee.

The senate committee on commerce, through Senator McMillan, Friday reported the emergency river and harbor bill. The general appropriation made by the bill was increased from $200,000 to $250,000, and the following additions of harbors, rivers, etc., of which surveys are to be made were authorized:

Ouachita river, Arkansas, at Camden, with the view of improving the harbor; east bank of the Mississippi river from Hickman, Ky., to Slough Landing, Lake county, Tennessee, with a view to the construction of works to prevent overflows; continuing and completing the survey of the Ohio river for the purpose of locating locks and dams (general); Galveston bay, Texas, with a view to widening and extending, the house provision being only for deepening; Brazos river, Texas, from its mouth to the city of Waco.

TO SUPPRESS "BOXERS."

United States Government Takes a Hand in the Work.

The United States government has taken a hand in the suppression of the "Boxers" in China. Minister Conger has been instructed by the state department to inform the Chinese government that the government of the United States expects to stamp out promptly and thoroughly this society and to provide proper guarantees for the maintenance of peace and order and the protection of life and property of Americans in China, all now threatened by the operations of the "Boxers."

Mr. Conger is acting on parallel lines with the representatives of every European power at the Chinese court, but has not joined in any concert of action.

TO SETTLE IN THE SOUTH.

Efforts to Get Boers to Emigrate to the United States.

A movement is now on foot under the supervision of several of the large railroads of the south to induce the Boers to settle in certain sections of the south. The general prevalence of belief is that the war in the Transvaal can last but a little while longer has given an impetus to the project to encourage the settlement in some of the Southern States of those of the Boers who will not submit to reconstruction under the English dominion. It is reported in railroad circles that definite plans are being shaped to further the possible exodus of the Boers to this country.

Storms in Texas.

A heavy rain wind and electrical storm prevailed over Northern Texas Saturday. The rainfall reached three inches. The crops are badly injured. The federal building at Fort Worth was damaged by lightning. Electric wires burned out and the street car traffic was stopped.

In Throckmorton county the wind destroyed numerous farm buildings and injured the grain crops.

A new danger is added to folding beds. Recently a house in a Western city was entered by burglars, and a young man sleeping in a folding bed was chloroformed. Afterwards the burglars were captured, and admitted to the police that had the young man shown any sign of consciousness before the drug was administered, the bed would have been promptly shut up.

AN AWE-INSPIRING SIGHT

Total Eclipse of the Sun Viewed With Favorable Weather Conditions.

SOME IMPORTANT DISCOVERIES MADE

Observations at the Observatories Successful—Effect at Its Height was That of Deep Twilight—Stars Visible.

In every section of the southern states Monday over which the belt of totality of the sun's eclipse extended the weather was ideal for the observation of this remarkable phenomenon.

In the southern portion of Alabama there was some haziness, but other than this the astronomers and scientists who located their observatories in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana report that the weather could not have been more auspicious for the study of the sun's eclipse and to secure splendid photographs of the details attending the passage of the great orbs.

From the many stations of observation established by universities and scien ifi and private parties the reports indicate that the taking of scientific data was entirely successful and no incidents occurred to mar in the smallest degree the full benefit that was expected to be derived from the event by the scientists, many of whom made long journeys to view the eclipse for 85 seconds.

The two most notable features of the day was the discovery by Prof. Lord of the Ohio State university, who believes he obtained results that tend to prove that the mysterious matter which forms the corona is to be found also in the solar prominences and the existence of protuberances on the sun as reported by Prof Pickering of Harvard.

What constitutes the gaseous element surrounding the sun, however, has not been determined and if any astronomer has solved this problem he has not committed himself.

The United States naval observatory achieved splendid success at both Barnesville and Griffin. Following is part of a statement given out by Prof. Updegraf, who directed the work at the government station at Barnesville:

"The weather was very favorable, and the conditions good. Our programme was carried out without interruption, without accident or delay. We secured 20 protographs on the five cameras mounted on the polar axis and four photographs with the large photo-heliograph. The transparency of the sky was good and the steadiness of the air excellent. We feel as far as we can tell at this time that the observations were entirely successful."

The force of the word "totality" when applied to the temporary extinction of the sun's rays was fully appreciated. The eclipse came with startling precision, in spite of a miscalculation of seven seconds, and while the period of totality lasted, nature seemed to stand still, in awe, if not in fear, of the manifestation.

The first perception of something beyond the ordinary came to Barnesville and vicinity in the shape of a gray, pearly light that streamed down when the sun's sphere was half obscured, diminishing gradually as the crescent of the visible surface narrowed. The shadow bands, denoting the coming of the total eclipse, were clearly perceptible against a white surface in the increasing gloom for fully three minutes before the rays were entirely obscured. These shadow bands, strangely coming from the northwest, were watched with peculiar interest, and first were seen a series of small, wavy shadows falling against the white surface, quickly growing larger and more dense and coming in rapid succession, until, as the moment of totality arrived, a great wave of gloom, enveloping everything in nature, shot by the southeast.

It was noted by many that the birds in the trees, chirping merrily only a moment before ceased their singing. The intense stillness was broken at once by a breeze that seemed to spring up from nowhere and which none of the local weather prophets could explain. The time of darkness in which everything was obscured to such a degree that a man would fail to distinguish his friend across the street, seemed long to the ordinary observer, but to science, unreasonably short.

From all points comes the news of a perfect day for the eclipse with no cloud to obscure the phenomenon.

Generally speaking, the observations taken by the astronomers were confined to three separate lines of work:

The old method of telescopic observations; viewing of the eclipse with the naked eye, and the photographing of the phenomena of the eclipse. The path of totality today began in the Pacific ocean, just west of Mexico. It passed eastward across Mexico, and entering the United States near New Orleans, proceeded in a northeasterly direction until it left the continent close to Norfolk, Va. Then it crossed the Atlantic, touched Portugal and afterward passed across northern Africa, leaving the earth finally near the northern end of the Red sea.

In this country the cities of New Orleans, Mobile, Montgomery, Raleigh and Norfolk were in the totality path.

Besides these cities the path of darkness, including thirty other town which are large enough to have their names on the map. Few, if any, observatory parties were located at the large cities for the reason that they lacked the altitude, and an unobstructed view for any distance was not to be found. The higher altitude gave reasonable assurance also of clearer atmosphere, and at this season of year less clouds are generally found, especially in Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina.

While the eclipse was visible all over the country, it was only within a path of fifty-five miles in width, extending from New Orleans to Norfolk that the obscuration was complete. It will be readily seen, therefore, that a difference of five miles in this belt makes a difference of one-fifth in the matter of time in which the obscuration may be witnessed, and a position near the central line of totality increased in geometrical proportion to the stupendous grandeur of the phenomenon.

The United States government appropriated liberally for the great work, and observation parties were established at three places in the south and at Tripoli, in Africa, by the naval observatory. Professor Smithson J. Brown, United States astronomical director, is in charge of the naval parties in the south, which number sixty persons. Professor Brown's headquarters was at Barnesville, Ga. The preliminary work, such as selecting a site, erecting tents and installing the instruments, was in charge of Prof. Milton Updegraff.

At Union Springs, Ala., the solar eclipse was observed by a party of fourteen astronomers, using an outfit from the Allegheny observatory of Allegheny, Pa. The sky was clear, a slight haziness preventing in a slight degree a perfect vision of the corona. During the approach the astronomers succeeded in obtaining twenty-six photographs which are to be used in ascertaining the times of the approach. Fifty beautiful views were obtained during the totality.

The corona and chromosphere came out with great beauty, and although the sky was a little hazy around the sun, it is believed that a good extent of the corona has been secured on plates.

At Opelika, Ala., the eclipse was a sublime spectacle and the totality lasted nearly two minutes. The sky was cloudless. Thousands viewed the phenomenon through smoked or colored glasses. Chickens went to roost, and many persons were badly frightened. Numerous negroes and some whites thought judgment day had come.

At Montgomery the eclipse began at 6:30 and was very near totality at 7:36 central time. The effect was so near totality that the solar corona was visible to the naked eye. Several stars were seen. The daylight softly faded to nearly dusk-like darkness, and for a few seconds an almost entire silence prevailed.

Dewey's Claim Not Allowed.

The United States supreme court Monday, decided Admiral Dewey's bounty claim against the Admiral's contention. The effect is to deprive the Admiral and the men engaged with him at Manila of half the amount claimed by them.

Justice Harlan rendered the opinion of the court, which turned on whether the words "superiority" or "inferiority" in the statute had reference to support of the enemy's vessels by land batteries, mines and torpedoes.

The original claims of Admiral Dewey and his sailors was about $400,000. The court of claims reduced it to $200,000. That decision is sustained by the decision. The Admiral's personal claim is reduced from about $20,000 to $10,000.

COL. GARDIN OCCUPIED TOWN OF PALONG

Last Week's Operations Resulted in the Killing of Forty-six of the Enemy and the Taking of 180 Prisoners and 300 Guns.

Scouting, small engagements and the capture of arms and prisoners continue daily in northern Luzon. Last week's operations by the Ninth, Twelfth, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth and Thirty-sixth regiments resulted in the killing of forty-six of the enemy, the taking of 180 prisoners and the capture of 300 rifles and a quantity of ammunition.

Colonel Edward E. Gardin, with three companies of the Twenty-ninth regiment and blue jackets from the gunboat Helena, landed at Palong, Masbate island, under the enemy's fire, routed the insurgents, and, after an engagement lasting half an hour, occupied the town without casualties.

The insurgent commander, with twenty officers and 250 men, surrendered on May 20, giving up a hundred rifles. An impressive scene occurred on the plaza when the prisoners were disarmed and liberated. The islanders were found suffering from lack of food, owing to the blockade, and the American authorities are endeavoring to relieve them.

Peace reigns and no trouble is expected in Manila, although the city is crowded with people from the provinces, and were leaving the unprotected hamlets in order to avoid conscription, which the insurgent leaders are enforcing, as well as robbery and outrages at the hands of the insurgents and bandits.

APPALACHICOLA FIRE.

Three Business Blocks and Many Private Residences Destroyed.

Fire, which broke out in Appalachicola Saturday, destroyed the entire business portion of the city, including six business blocks, two hotels, three drug stores, bank, new $115,000 armory, theater, Grady's big general store, all steamboat wharves, custom house, four saloons and sixty other structures.

Not a store was left. Very little of the contents of the burned buildings was saved. The fire started on the river front. All the big lumber mills escaped. Loss, $500,000; insurance unknown. A brisk wind was blowing, and even had the fire department been a good one it is probable the flames could not have been stopped.

ALARMING CONDITIONS

Existing in the Cotton-Growing Sections of Texas.

J. G. Currie, a well-known cotton expert, of Galveston, Tex., said Saturday:

Our advices from southwest and middle Texas are very discouraging and in some sections of that territory distressing and alarming. The continued rains and consequent overflows have seriously interfered with planting and replanting and it is feared that a large area of the lower Brazos and Colorado bottoms cannot be put in this season. Labor in these sections is becoming a serious question. The experience of the disastrous floods of the last summer has so discouraged the negroes that they are unwilling to risk another crop and are seeking work in other places, abandoning the field work for railroad building and other sources of employment.

Primaries in Maryland.

Primaries were held Saturday in eleven counties of Maryland for the selection of delegates to county conventions, which will select delegates to the Maryland state democratic convention. While the majority of the delegations were uninstructed, the sentiment appears to be that the Bryanites have been defeated. Montgomery county instructed for Bryan, and Anne Arundel elected a full Bryan delegation. The remaining nine selected are either split or anti-Bryan delegations.

That this nation is to achieve industrial supremacy, though not without a struggle, is hardly open to doubt. Some years ago Mr. Gladstone, in urging a system of special training for English workmen, predicted the ultimate triumph of America in the great industrial conflict that is to mark the coming century; and in which, naturally, England, Germany and this country will be the leading competitors.

TO RETURN FLAGS

McKinley May Send the Confederate Battle Flags Home.

During the G. A. R. encampment in Chicago President McKinley may have the pleasure of returning to the southern states the confederate battle flags now in the war department. Prominent men of the G. A. R. have in hand a plan to secure the authorization of Congress for the return of these flags, and it is hoped both houses will pass the necessary joint resolution before adjournment. Stored in the attic of the war department are 400 or 500 of these confederate flags. Many of them are mere tatters. Not one but what is shot through many times. Only a few have proper staffs; these are old broken, patched, bullet-marked. Most of the ensigns are attached to common hickory poles cut in the woods by the soldiers.

MRS. DAVIS CANNOT ATTEND.

Too Ill To Be Present at the Louisville Reunion.

Judge H. W. Bruce, the chairman of the invitation committee of the Confederate reunion, has received the following letter from Mrs. Davis, widow of Jefferson Davis, who is now in New York:

Your kind invitation on the part of the United Confederate Veterans has been received, and I regret to say that my health is so uncertain that I cannot hope to have the pleasure of being with you, great as it would be to me. However, the date set for it has given me great comfort in the assurance it conveys that my husbands friends and comrades desire to hold him in affectionate and reverent memory. I wish with all my heart I could go to meet our friends, but at all events I send my loving sympathy and our two children will be present with you—my daughter, Mrs. I. A. Hayes, and my granddaughter, Miss Varina Hayes.

With affectionate message to our veterans, I am very cordially yours.

V. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

A Model City to Be Built.

C. A. Tripp, of Boston, general superintendent of the mammoth cotton mills now under course of construction, is in Jackson, Tenn. Mr. Tripp states that it is the intention of his company to establish an independent township in the immediate vicinity of their factory to be called after the founder, "Benis." Benis, as laid out, will be a model city, with wide streets, water works, fire department and public park with a large lake. Many of the houses are now in course of construction.

Constitutional Convention Assured.

Figures made up Saturday night on the returns from Thursday's election in Virginia, covering five-sixths of the cities and counties in the state, give a majority of 18,825 for calling a convention to frame a new constitution. The returns remaining to come in cannot possibly alter this result and the convention is assured.

To Abandon Politics.

A dispatch from Indianapolis says that it is stated there by an officer of a life insurance company that William S. Taylor, late governor of Kentucky, has decided to abandon politics, remove from Kentucky and accept the position of executive manager for the insurance company, with headquarters at Indianapolis.

Lady Commissioner.

Mrs. Chas. Henry Fischer, wife of President C. H. Fischer, of the Edgefield Manufacturing company, has been appointed by Governor W. B. McSweeney a lady commissioner from the State of South Carolina for the Paris exposition.

Will Raise a Fund of $1,000,000.

The general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church in session at Atlanta decided to raise a fund of $1,000,000, a twentieth century fund, with which to endow the educational institutions of the church. This decision was reached at the conclusion of a most enthusiastic session on the eve of the sine die adjournment and after a stirring address by retiring moderator J. F. Cannon, of St. Louis. The church is allowing five years to complete its work. A committee was appointed to take control of the fund.

Georgia Peach Crop.

The peach season is just opening in South Georgia. Tifton, the junction of the Plant system, and the Georgia Southern and Florida, made the first shipment to New York, on the 21st instant, and Sylvester, Ga., made the second shipment the next day. Reports from all over the fruit belt indicate that the peach crop will be very heavy and the fruit unusually fine. Georgia will market this year 2,700 carloads of peaches.
